Settlers From Over the Seas Brought With Them to Peterboro Only Their Trunks and Their Hopes—Half-Pay Officers Were Among the Number—Glass of Good Red-eye Passed for a Tip.

EARLY DAYS IN PETERBORO

(By F. H. Dobbin.)

Presently, and if action as now foreshadowed takes place, a general vote or plebiscite will be taken on the question as to the permanence of certain remedial legislation that has been in force for some time, relating to the sale and consumption of liquors. The several Acts passed by the Ontario Government, and such Dominion legislation as pertains to the matter, will come under review, and ultimately to the arbitrament of a public vote. The conditions that now apply to the restricted sale of liquors are fully known, as well as the penalties exacted for infractions of the laws. And knowing how thoroughly the sale in general to the public has been eliminated, it may be interesting to consider how far along the road to total abstinence we have travelled in the last seventy to eighty years, by turning back the clock and reviewing the conditions that existed about the years 1840 to 1860, and even before.

Pioneer Days.

In pioneer years the right to do many things was not questioned. Practices and habits were incidental to the time and to the mode of living and carving out an existence for the larger number of the people. Beginning in an absolutely new country and environment, everything had to be made or devised, except such matters as tableware, cottons, etc. Fuel, for instance, was abundant. Stoves, as we know them, were rare. Hence fireplaces were the rule for all household purposes. So in all things the utmost freedom was exercised, and this liberty manifested itself in the matter of spirituous liquors and use of the same. So that practices that we now look on as being repellant, and with aversion, were the rule and provoked little or no public censure. A part of the life and a part of the game of pioneer progress and settlement.

Half Pay Officers.

Outside of a scattering settlement in this district made by half-pay officers from the British forces under disbandment, the first five years after the first settlement saw no increase to the population. In 1826, came the immigration party conducted by Hon. Peter Robinson, under the auspices of the British Government. This enterprise brought to the site of the town and immediate vicinity over 2000 souls, men, women and children. The number was augmented by a further immigration in 1839, under the care of Capt. Chas Rubidge, while in the meantime many had come across in response to the entreaties of relatives, who having got on their feet, as to speak, found that life in the new country offered advantages for themselves and children not to be obtained in the Old Sod, as the British Islands were termed. And in addition enterprising men were coming in and assisting in building up the place and entering on business ventures. Note is retained of such, and may be referred to further on in this series of articles.

Real Red Eye.

But the outstanding fact remained that the bulk of the people crossing the ocean brought with them only their trunks and their hopes, and found here a larger liberty than they had ever enjoyed. And one feature of this extension of liberty was manifested in the consumption and use of strong drink. And if drink were accessible, it is fair to ask, first, what were the facilities which were provided.

Ample, indeed, and more than ample. In a locality that numbered not over 1800 of a population, and a district not any too well settled, were three breweries in active operation, and three distilleries. Afterwards a fourth brewery was carried on by Henry Calcutt, while the operations of two of the others had been discontinued.

The old stone building on Stewart street, on the brow of the hill, overlooking the area north to McDonnel street, was built as a distillery, and did a thriving trade. Afterwards it came to more commercial uses, and was for some years run by Messrs. Oglivie & Hood. It is possible, though not verified, that the firm carried on a distilling business in the building as well. A man named Pat Hammon came in from Cavan and made whiskey in the old stone building now occupied by Fitzgerald's coal and wood business, the building being put up for the purpose. A handbill issued by Hammon in the early forties extols the virtues of his manufacture and offers the "Best Home Distilled Upper Canada Whiskey, one shilling the gallon, three pence the quart." And he adds the qualifying statement, "Not a headache in a quart."

Big Chimney.

Opposite the office of the Matthews-Blackwell Co., (across the street and behind the houses) may be found the remains of the big chimney of the Boswell distillery and brewery, and which in times of high water in the river, was situated on an island. All whiskey was claimed as "good," whatever that meant. During the spring of the year the product of this distillery was sold in a small clapboard building adjoining the shops of the Peter Hamilton Company. This building was lately pulled down, but it had seen better and livelier days galore. With all this supply at hand there could be no stint of opportunity.

As in all comparatively young communities, much that was undertaken was carried out on the community plan. If a barn was to be raised, a field stoned, the crop to be cut with scythe or sickle, a field fenced, a bee was held and all turned in to work and help. So that the one accompaniment of all and almost every occasion was the invariable keg, jugs and bottles of whiskey.

Now it will not do to run away with the idea that such usages indicated a vicious trait on the part of this people. Not at all; in fact quite the contrary. It was only an act of common hospitality to offer drink and as a beverage. One could not help a man take a hog from under a gate—for all gates were hung high on account of the snow and all domestic animals roamed at large—without offering a glass of something. The man who drew in over the snow roads loads of hardwood to be piled in the yard for the following winter's burning, but expected and received the usual glass of liquor instead of a tip. Nearly every house, with the exception of those occupied by men of distinct temperance principles, kept whiskey and offered it in good faith and fellowship.

Three Fingers.

Even the depth of the liquor in the glass was taken as the measure of a man's liberality and good offices. Measured by the fingers, as clasped around the glass, two fingers was a very moderate allowance. Three fingers was ample, and over that measure it was considered not good manners to go. The recipient of the libation was expected to be equally on good behaviour and to make protest against quantity as the bottle gurgled its contents. And as explanatory of doings, from a raft of stories of the period, two may be related. A new man had come into the neighborhood, a Hibernian, and his general circumstances being under discussion in McKeller's store, one evening, Tammas McCrea undertook to "go an' speer him a bit," and to report. He did so and [illegible] his impressions, explaining that after passing the time of day and the usual observation on the weather, the new man asked McCrea if he "would take something," to which the visitor agreed. "An' when he began to pour, I said 'Tut, Tut, mon, you're givin' me a great plenty,' and he stoppit right there. An' that the kind o' man he is."

Cold Ears.

It was given on the authority of a resident about the old Blythe Mills settlement, that Sandy McNeish, but two winters out from home, suffered with cold ears. He bought him a cap with the old fashioned ear lugs, and wore the cap, the lugs turned down, with great acceptance. Coming into Nicholls & Hall's store on a bitter cold morning with the ear lugs up, a friend called attention to the fact, and in explanation McNeish said, "I were comin' down the road from the mill yesterday afternoon with Tammas Thomson, and he asked me to take a drink, and I did not hear him." It may be observed that McNeish decided to not take chances in the future.

Freed from Chronic Pains

To those who are afflicted with the agonies of a chronic aching back, loss of strength, weight and vigor, the case of Mr. P. Herbert of Plessisville will appeal with special significance.

Mr. Herbert had suffered with Kidney trouble for years and failed to find a prescription that would give him any relief. Finally he tried Gin Pills because he was impressed by the fact that Gin Pills contained the beneficial ingredient of Juniper without any Alcohol being added.

Note these extracts from his letters:

"I suffered from Kidney trouble for several years, and tried numerous remedies without finding any permanent relief. My case appeared chronic.

I knew that Juniper without alcohol was excellent for the Kidneys, so decided to try Gin Pills. One single pill gave me great relief, and since taking four boxes, I find myself completely cured. I am no longer bad-tempered, have increased in weight, and am strong and vigorous again."

Here is another case. Mrs. H. E. Gardner, of Richmond, Que., writes:

"My husband was taken with severe kidney trouble last winter, and could not work for some time. He heard of Gin Pills, and after taking one box was able to resume his work. Two boxes relieved the pain in his back, and to-day he is well and strong again."

Gin Pills help others—surely they will do the same for you. Try them. 50c a box everywhere.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"Maybe she did," she admitted. "since you are not interviewing me for print. But it's yet to be proved, and if she does get off, I don't fancy she'll lose many of her friends—she wouldn't anyhow, but then if she went up, they'd have so much further to call! As for wars," she continued with apparent irrelevance, "there's this much to be said: a lot of good men may get killed, but when you think of the thousands of detestable, tyrannical, stingy, boresome husbands—well, it is to be imagined that a few widows will manage to bear up. If women all over the world refuse to come forward in one grand concerted peace movement, perhaps we can guess the reason why."

None of these seditious arguments reached Mrs. Balfame's ears, but as her friends' protestations waxed, she inferred that their doubts kept pace with those of the public. But she was more deeply touched at this unshaken loyalty than she once would have believed possible. She had assumed they would drop off, as soon as the novelty of the affair had worn thin, but not a day passed without a visit from one of them, or offerings of flowers, fruit, books and bonbons. She knew that whatever their private beliefs, the best return she could make for their passionate loyalty was to maintain the calm and lofty attitude of a Mary Stuart or Marie Antoinette awaiting decapitation. She shed not a tear in their presence. Nor did she utter a protest. If she looked tired and worn, what more natural in an active women suddenly deprived of physical exercise (save in the jail yard at night), of sunlight, of freedom—to say nothing of mortification; she, Mrs. Balfame of Elsinore, shut up in a common jail on the vulgar charge of murder?

But in spite of the amiable devotion of her friends and their assurances that no jury alive would convict her, and in spite of her complete faith in Dwight Rush, the prospect of several months in jail was almost insupportable to Mrs. Balfame, and haunted by horrid fears. She made up her mind again and again not to read the newspapers, and she read them morning and night. She knew what this terrible intereat in her meant. Not a tafesman in the length and breadth of Brabant County who could swear truthfully that he had formed no opinion on the case. Other murder cases had been tossed aside after a few days' tepid sensation, unnoticed thereafter save perfunctorily. It was her unhappy fate to prove an irresistible magnet to that monster the Public and its keeper the Press. Her hatred of both took form at times in a manner that surprised herself. She sprang out of bed at night muttering curses and pulling at her long braids of hair to relieve the congestion in her brain. She tore up the newspapers and stamped on them. She beat the bars before her windows and shook them, the while aware that if the doors of the jail were left open and the guards slept, she would do nothing so foolish as to attempt an escape.

Sometimes she wondered, dull with reaction or quick with fear, if she were losing her reason; or if she was, after all, a mere female whose starved nerves were springing up in every part of her like poisonous weeds after a long drought. Well, if that were the case, her admiring friends should never be the wiser.

But there were other moods. As time wore on, she grew to be humbly grateful to these friends, a phenomenon more puzzling than her attacks of furious rebellion. Even Sam Cummack, possibly the only person who had sincerely loved the dead man and still stricken and indignant, but carefully manipulated by his wife, maintained a loud faith in her, and announced his intention to spend his last penny in bringing the real culprit to justice. Left to himself, he would in time no doubt have shared the opinion of the community, but his wife was a member of the grand army of diplomatists of the home. She was by no means sure of her sister-in-law's innocence, but she was determined that the family scandal should go no further than a trial, if Mr. Cummack's considerable influence on his fellow citizens could prevent it; and long practice upon the non-complex instrument in Mr. Cummack's head enabled her to strike whatever notes her will dictated. Mr. Cummack believed; and he not only convinced many of his wavering friends, but talked "both ways" to notable politicians in the late Mr. Balfame's party. Most of these gentlemen were convinced that "Mrs. B. done it," and were inclined to throw the weight of their influence against her if only to divert suspicion from themselves, several having experienced acute discomfort; but they agreed to "fix the jury" if Mr. Cummack and several other eminent citizens whom they inferred were "with him" would "come through in good shape." There the matter rested for the present.

Above all was Mrs. Balfame deeply, almost—but not quite—humbly grateful to Dwight Rush. Her interviews with him so far had been brief; later he would have to coach her, but at present his time was taken up with a thousand other aspects of the case, which promised to be a cause celebre. He made love to her no more, but not for an instant did she doubt his intense personal devotion. He had, after consultation with two eminent criminal lawyers whom he could trust, decided that she should deny in toto the Kraus-Appel testimony, and stick to her original story. After all, it was her word, the word of a lady of established position in her community and of stainless character, against that of a surly German servant and her friends, all of them seething with hatred for those that were openly opposed to the cause of the Fatherland. He knew that he could make them ridiculous on the witness stand and was determined to secure a wholly American jury.

It was some three weeks after Mrs. Balfame's arrest that another blow fell. Dr Anna's Cassie suddenly remembered that a fortnight or so before the murder Mrs. Balfame had called at the cottage one morning and asked permission to go into the living room and write a note to the doctor. A moment or two after she had shut herself in, Cassie had gone out to the porch with her broom, and as she wore felt slippers and the front door stood open, she had made no noise. It was quite by accident that she had glanced through the window, and there she had seen Mrs. Blfame standing on a chair before a little cupboard in the chimney placing a bottle carefully between two other bottles. She had fully intended to tell her mistress of this strange performance, but as the doctor those days came home for but a few hours' sleep/and too tired to be spoken to, not even taking her meals there, Cassie had postponed her little sensation and finally forgotten it.

When she did recall the incident under the pressure of the general obsession, she told it to a friend, who told it to another, who again imparted it, so that in due course it reached the ears of the alert Mr. Broderick. It was then he informed the public of the lost glass of lemonade and all the incidents pertaining there to that had come to his knowledge. Mrs. Balfame's slightly "absurd explanation" was emphasized.

Once more the police were "on the job." The restored bottle was analyzed and, ominously found to contain plain water. Every bottle in the house of Mrs. Balfame was carried to the chemist. Mrs. Balfame laughed grimly at these sturdy efforts, but she knew that the story diminished her chance of acquittal. The public now condemned her almost to a man. The evideuce would not be allowed in court,—Rush would see to that,—but every juror would have read it and formed his own opinion. Somewhat to her surprise Rush asked her for no explanation of this episode, and she thought it best not to volunteer one. To her other friends she dismissed the whole thing casually as a lie, no doubt inspired.

As the skies grew blacker, however, her courage mounted higher. Knitting calmed her nerves, and she had many long and lonely hours for meditation. Her friends kept her supplied with all the new novels, but her mind was more inclined to the war books, which she read seriously for the first time. on the whole, however, she preferred to knit for the wretched victims, and to think.

No one can suffer such a sudden and extreme change in his daily habits as a long sojourn in jail on the charge of murder without forming a new and possibly an astonished acquaintance with his inner self, and without undergoing what, superficially, appear to be strange changes, but are merely developments along new-laid tracks in sections of the brain hitherto regarded as waste lands.

Mrs. Belfame of Brabant County Jail was surprised to discover that she looked upon Mrs. Balfame of Elsinore as a person of small aims, and rather too smugly bourgeoise. The world of Elsinore!

And all those artificial interests and occupations! How bored she really must have been, playing with subjects that either should have interested her profoundly or not at all. And for what purpose? Merely to keep a step ahead of other women of greater wealth or possible ambitions. Her disappointment at not finding herself all-sufficient, as well as her new sense of gratitude, bred humility which in turn shed a warm rain upon a frozen and discouraged sense of humour. While giving her friends all credit for their noble loyalty, she was quite aware, that they were enjoying themselves solemnly and that no small proportion of their loyalty was inspired by gratitude. She recalled their composite expression in the hour of her arrest. They had fancied themselves deeply agitated, but as a matter of fact they were dilated with pride.

Why had she cared so much to lead these women in all things, to be Mrs. Balfame of Elsinore? To return to such an existence was unthinkable.

In spite of the fact that her own tragedy dwarfed somewhat her interest in the great war, she saw life in something like its true proportions; she knew that if acquitted she would be capable for the first time of a broad impersonal outlook and of really developing her intellect. With more than a remnant of the cold-blooded and inexorable will which had condemned David Balfame to death by the medium of Dr. Anna's secret poison, she seriously considered taking advantage of young Rush's infatuation, changing her notorious name for his, and receiving the protection that her awakened femininity craved. At other times she was equally convinced that she would marry no man again. She could live in Europe on her small income, travel, improve her mind. Europe would be vastly interesting after the war, if one avoided beggars and impromptu graveyards.

"I Wonder If It Would Help Me"

"NEARLY every place I go I hear someone talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. My friends advise me to try it, and yet I never have.

"I wonder why.

"Perhaps it is because I have suffered so much from nervous trouble and found so little benefit from the use of medicine.

"But they tell me that the Nerve Food is different. They say that it is not a mere relief from pain, but a restorative treatment, which will build up the depleted nerve cells and make me well and strong again.

"Goodness knows I have suffered enough from headaches, sleeplessness, hysteria and dread of the future. I want to get away from all this.

"Why cannot I enjoy life like other people do? Perhaps I have not tried to get well. Perhaps I have been discouraged, and thought there was no use trying.

"Well, I am going to begin trying right now, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will have a thorough test in my case.

"The future has been all black to me. I have thought at times that I would lose my mind. But while I have been suffering and worrying others have been cured, and I can now see my mistake.

"If Dr. Chase ever had a faithful patient I shall be one, and believe that his Nerve Food will do for me what it has done for so many thousands of others."

NEW YORK, May 17. —Octavius Morris, a retired Judge, one of the passengers on the transport Espagne when she docked Wednesday, who has been in Paris looking after his real state interests, brought back the most scathing criticism upon the American girl that has yet come out of France.

"I would warn the American people," he said, "to keep the girls at home. The actions of a great many of the American girls who have gone over have been no credit to themselves or to their country. They went over to exploit themselves, and they have done it. I am disgusted with the way many of these American girls have acted."

IN A NAVAL FIGHT

Vital Work is Done in the Control Room of the Vessel.

THE HEART OF THE WARSHIP

Through This Steel Cell, Deep Under the Deck, the Commander in the Conning Tower is in Touch With Every Person and Event on Board.

When a warship sails into action her heart pulses and throbs as eager for the fray as the hearts of any of her crew. Yes, a warship has a heart. The heart of a warship is the control room, deep down under the deck, situated aft, usually abaft the second funnel.

Even on big fighting ships the heart is small. Generally it is only ten feet by six, and is almost noise proof and eerily quiet. It is really a steel vault, entered by a door not unlike the door of a burglar proof safe.

From floor to ceiling the walls are lined with dials, wires, gauges, electric bells, speaking tubes, switches and a great amount of other apparatus which keeps the commander in constant touch with every corner of the ship. It is the most wonderful and the most fearful room on earth or sea.

It is a fortress within a fortress, a steel cell within the steel walls of the fighting engine.

To be in the control room during active service is to feel like being in a vault with the door locked on the outside. This little compartment which visitors seldom see, will keep alive as long as there is a living soul on board able to hear and answer a call.

It is through the control room that the commander issues his instructions, observes and notes how the battle is going, calls the gun crews from place to place, directs the engineers, steers the whole fabric and supervises everything. If a submarine is seen in any direction it is through the control room that it is reported.

A little bell rings, a voice far away speaks. "Submarine on the port bow, sir, two leagues off." In an instant the answer thrills the gun crews: "'Ware submarine on the port bow; enemy's craft. Ready!" The gunners have been ready for some time, and when the chief gunner has "laid" the gun to his satisfaction bang goes a message the enemy will not forget if it hits him.

If a gun has to cease fire the order comes through the control room. If the enemy lands a shell on deck or anywhere in the warship the doctors are notified that they are wanted at that spot almost as soon as the men have fallen. If the gun crew are dead it is from the heart of the ship that the order is given for fresh men to fill their places.

Though the captain himself is in the conning tower above, he knows through the officer in the control room just what has happened to his ship and the extent of the damage, and if the captain is killed in the conning tower or on the bridge the chief officer in the control room goes up at once to take his place.

There are generally about six men in this little throbbing heart of the battleship, including operators and junior officers.

The chief officer gives directions to the torpedo operators, the gunners, the searchlight manipulators and the officers in charge of the fighting masts, if such are part of the ship's equipment, But, besides all this, there are a thousand and one things to attend to during an engagement.

Every order has to be given at an instant's notice; given distinctly, firmly, without the slightest hesitation or flurry. It is only in the control room that one learns what the phrase "devotion to duty" really means.

Everything goes with automatic precision in the heart of a warship, and as it is the most vital spot on board special care is taken to preserve it from harm.

Think of the steady nerves required of those men, cooped up in this small room when the shells are flying around and the hull is being battered by the enemy's guns! A wrong signal might mean disaster, but the organization is so near perfection that mistakes are practically unknown.

There is no rest for the officers in the control room during a fight. They must stay at the ship's heart telegraphing and telephoning to every part of the vessel, without taking notice of the wreckage that is being heaped up on every hand. They know that when the men in turret No. 1 or turret No. 2 cease to reply to their signals something serious has happened.

They know that even when the conning tower has been smashed by shot and shell and the bridge has been swept away they must stick to their switches so long as there is an officer alive to direct operations. Not until the ship is blown up or rammed are they allowed to leave that little room, and then they go down with her.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A CRIPPLE FOR THREE YEARS

Helpless in Bed With Rheumatism Until He Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES".

MR. ALEXANDER MUNRO

R.R. No. 1, Lorne, Ont.

"For over three years, I was confined to bed with Rheumatism. During that time, I had treatment from a number of doctors, and tried nearly everything I saw advertised to cure Rheumatism, without receiving any benefit.

Finally, I decided to try 'Fruit-a-tives". Before I had used half a box, I noticed an improvement; the pain was not so severe, and the swelling started to go down.

I continued taking this fruit medicine, improving all the time, and now I can walk about two miles and do light chores about the place".

FIRE DESTROYS A BUSINESS BLOCK IN SOUTH PORCUPINE

(Canadian Press.)

COBALT, May 16.— Fire in South Porcupine yesterday afternoon almost wiped out a block bounded by Bruce, Golden and Bloor avenues. The post office, Todd's drug store and mining and timber grant offices were saved. The fire started in Dagenais' roominouse. Insurance on the lost property is seventeen thousand, and the loss probably is several times that figure.

Keep the Bowels Regular and You Won't Be Sick

If the bowels do not move regularly they will sooner or later become constipated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow the wrong action of this one of the most important organs of the body.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apts., Calgary, Alta., writes:—"I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

Price 25 cents a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Keeping Canada's Records

THE handling of public records of any kind, the arranging, storing and tabulating of them either for permanent reference or eventual destruction, is something of a fine art, and it certainly isn't stretching the point very far to say that it is an art which is pursued probably less than any other art in existence.

In the case of governments in general, it has been conspicuous by its absence, and in the case of the Canadian Government in particular, its tenancy has been shouted from the housetops.

It isn't as though there were no oracles in existence which could be consulted or systems which could be used as models, though to be sure the good ones could probably be numbered on the fingers of one hand —and never mind the thumb. Great commercial institutions, such as the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Toronto, under positive pressure have produced record storage warehouses just as perfect and automatic in their operation upon the document in its descent from the file to the furnace—or to be more correct nowadays the repulper—as are the processes upon a 15-inch gun in its journey from the Elswick ingot to the Queen Elizabeth. But Governments laboring under the confusing searchlights of divided public opinion are slow to move, slower to be convinced and positively slothful to take action, especially when under the old regime, or lack of it, there is always room for just one file more, so long as the door will shut. Departments have to be brought together in conference with a legion of special wants, choked and bursting record rooms have to be allowed to prove their case, plans have to be considered and properties perhaps acquired, and when at last the ground may have been cleared, the Government may go out of power, and the whole business be thrown into the melting pot again—and all the while the records are piling up and up, and a respite never comes.

It has been like this in Ottawa ever since the beginning of things. No systematic attempt to deal with Government records and separate the departmental chaff from the wheat has ever been made. When an enthusiastic Dominion archivist has gained permission to search for certain invaluable documents, a wise friend has been known to ask, "Where are you going to do the sorting?" and the very recollection of his tiny Archives building, already filled to bursting, and of the mountains of material awaiting his fiat, has been enough to make him clap metaphorical hands to his head and hurriedly think of something else. And so things have gone on until Canadian Government departments are one and all exuding records at every pore and vital state papers cheek by jowl with ancient pay sheets are hardly restrained from breaking down their prison doors and turning on their keepers with a clamor for better housing.

However, it is always the proverbial last straw which is too much for the camel's comfort and in the case of Canadian records the last straw has been the war, and action has become absolutely imperative to save the Government's reputation from the fate of the ship of the desert. From the war are coming, and the advanced guard is even now above the horizon, the personal and military and every other kind of records of half a million soldiers. Add to them the hospital, reconstruction, demobilization, pension, assigned pay and several other kinds of records. Add again the records of munitions, and all the other things from steamships to gas masks that supplied the half million soldiers, to say nothing of their allies, with the wherewithal to fight. On this pile several hundred thousand war trophies, from howitzers and airplanes to German proclamations and posters, and finally top up with the artistic war record of a hundred or more British and Canadian painters, and you may be able to get a faint grasp of the immensity of the material awaiting treatment and at present without premises or machinery of any kind.

So as coalition governments are in the habit of doing things that party ones set aside for others supposedly more necessary to their political stability, a Government commission was appointed the other day, to deal with the whole matter, a small commission of three with the possibility of additions later on. It consisted of Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce and chairman of the National Gallery trustees and many other things besides, Dr. Doughty, Dominion archivist, and Gen. Cruikshanks from the headquarters' staff of the Militia Department.

Sir Edmund Walker represented not only the voice which had cried in the documentary wilderness for the last ten years or more, and in the meantime had built a record warehouse, so perfect that its plans had been borrowed by Washington and used by them in their wisdom.

There is an immense amount of work to be done. There are plain factory buildings to be erected, hidden away perhaps behind an imposing front but capable of being added to indefinitely. There is a large and imposing addition to the existing Archives Building needed to house the regular increase in Government records which have inconveniently been increasing while kaisers have raged and autocracies imagined a vain thing. There is at least the first section of a permanent National Art Gallery to build to house the national art treasures which since the Parliament Building fire made them homeless by taking their galleries for the House of Commons, have been touring the country, the friends of every city but the capital.

It has been said that all the great acts of life are quickly brought before a drowning man. The same might be said of a candidate for office.

ENROLLED UNDER RED CROSS

Greek girls in the uniforms of American Red Cross nurses are now serving in the hospitals of Greece. These girls are part of a number from New England who, anxious to help their fellow countrymen, decided to become nursing aids, says the public information bureau, Washington. They enrolled in training courses in the Massachusetts General hospital and other Boston hospitals, where they soon became proficient in their work. Recently four of them, who had practically completed their courses, decided that they would like to go back to Greece with the American mission which was just then about to leave. Through the Greek legation they applied for permission to go with this mission as members of the American Red Cross.

Now they are not only serving their own people, but are also creating a feeling in Greece which cements the long friendship of the Greeks with America. Although no American troops have been landed on Greek soil, the people are nevertheless pleased with the sight of an American uniform, no matter what branch of the service it represents.

Another group of Greek girls in Boston is taking up courses at Simmons college in dietetics, domestic science and home aid. These girls also expect shortly to sail for Greece.

A Museum of Crime.

Professor Hans Gross of the University of Gratz, Austria, has the credit of establishing the first museum of criminology and a criminalistic laboratory, where the weapons, tools and other paraphernalia and materials used by criminals are assembled to assist in the analysis of the workings of criminal minds and a study of methods and systems for dealing with this large and dangerous class of every community. This museum was established in 1896, and since then other establishments of the same character have been organized.

One of the most important of these is the Society of Criminology and Social Defense in Paris, which has a membership of more than 200, including many prominent representatives of the law, the police and medical profession, and it was organized to concentrate and centralize the scattered efforts of individuals who were studying this disquieting social problem and to make the results of their work available for mutual information.

SEEKING SECRETS OF ARCTIC

Daring Feats That Have Been Undertaken by Both Roald Amundsen and Storker Storkerson.

Two Arctic explorers, Roald Amundsen, noted Norwegian, drifting in his icelocked boat eastward from the Atlantic, and Storker Storkerson, lieutenant of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Canadian explorer, floating westward from the Pacific on an ice pack, are both believed approaching the new Siberian islands, which jut out of the Arctic ocean off the mouth of the Lena river in Siberia. Authorities credited with knowing the Arctic currents believe the two will reach the islands early next year, the Washington Evening Star says.

No other explorers are now in the Arctic, and it is thought very likely that neither Amundsen nor Storkerson knows the other has the same goal in mind. They probably will not meet, for Storkerson is expected to arrive ahead of Amundsen and probably will land far west of Amundsen's course.

Amundsen, the discoverer of the south pole and navigator of the difficult Northwest passage, is on the first lap of a journey to the north pole. He expects to make the last lap by airplane. Storkerson is bound back in the general direction of civilization after spending several years in the Arctic. Both are seeking new lands and studying the currents and life of the northern ocean.

When Amundsen reaches the Siberian islands the current, it is believed, will turn and carry him north. He is expected to remain with the drift until it lands him on the immovable ice far up toward the pole. There, according to his plans, he will establish a base and attempt to fly the rest of the distance to the top of the globe.

Made Truck Driver Smile.

A Yankee truck driver's right forward wheel had just sunk with an air of finality into a half-filled shell hole on the road near Avocourt, and he was throwing over a terrific barrage of profanity when he suddenly stopped short and his jaw dropped.

Then it closed in a grin as broad as the Sacramento, from whose distant shore he had gone forth to war. He was contemplating the approach along the roadside of four stalwart and imposing officers of the famous Prussian guard. On their shoulders, as they marched along in the drizzling rain, was a stretcher, and on the stretcher lay a wounded doughboy smoking a cigarette.—Stars and Stripes.

Hereditary Hay Fever.

Dr. W. Scheppegrell, president of the American Hay Fever Prevention association, has recently made an analysis of 415 cases treated in the hay fever clinic of the Charity hospital at New Orleans and elsewhere in that city in order to determine the influence of heredity on this disease. He finds that in more than one-third of the cases the patients had a father, mother, brother or sister who was a victim of the disease. Probably the influence of heredity is even greater than indicated by these figures, as specific susceptibility may exist indefinitely without developing hay fever, by reason of insufficient exposure to the pollens that cause the malady. The question of the development of a natural immunity from contigued exposure to the specific pollens is, says Doctor Scheppegrell, a difficult one to settle, on account of the difficulty of eliminating the question of decreased exposure.—Scientific American.

Japan Larger Than Germany.

In the World's Work there is a chart which shows a comparison of Germany and the Japanese empire. Japan is the greater of the two both in territory and population. Germany's area (exclusive of colonies) is 208,780 square miles, while that of Japanese empire is 260,788 square miles. This includes the peninsula of Korea, which is a part of the Japanese nation, but it does not include Manchurian and other Asiatic territory in which Japan has secured ninety-nine-year leases of ports and railroads as well as business advantages of all sorts and mining rights. Germany's population at the beginning of the great war was about 67,000,000. There are now 71,000,000 people living under the Japanese flag, and there are also great numbers of them scattered over the islands of the Pacific and in foreign countries.

Material for Explosive.

As to the source of the toluol needed for explosives, it is pointed out that there has been recently a great increase in the number of by-product coke ovens in this country. However, says the Scientific American, if 20,000,000 tons of coke are made in these ovens during the present year we shall get from this source only 10,000,000 gallons of toluol, which is about one-fourth as much as the government estimated it would need for munitions. Another promising measure recently inaugurated is the stripping of city gas of this material, which can be spared without any serious detriment to the gas, and amounts to about .04 gallon for each 1,000 feet of gas. It is estimated that ten of the largest city gas plants of the country will yield about 10,000,000 gallons of toluol.

Talked Too Much.

Joe had been instructed that if he did not stop running away he could not go to the movies. Supposing the day's state was clean, Joe's mother was taking him to a show. As the two reached the door Joe said: "Just running to the bridge wasn't far, was it, mother?" Joe was turned homeward, and put to bed. Hearing the little fellow talking to himself a few moments later, mother eavesdropped: "There's one time, old man, you talked too much."

FARM LOANS for SOLDIERS

BUY VICTORY BONDS

The Soldier Settlement Act

Purpose

To assist ex-members of His Majesty's Forces who desire to make farming their permanent occupation, and who, it is considered, are qualified to make a success of the farming business.

Procedure

The returned soldier who seriously intends to adopt farming as his life work, and desires financial assistance to purchase land, live stock, and equipment, may receive full information and instructions how to proceed from the representative of the Soldier Settlement Board in the district in which he resides.

Financial Assistance Available

Loans may be granted qualified settlers, according to their needs, on the following basis—

(1) Up to $4,500 on the purchase of land for agricultural purposes or the discharge of encumbrances;

(2) Up to $2,000 on the purchase of live stock, implements, and other equipment;

(3) Up to $1,000 on the erection of buildings.

Interest at the rate of five per cent. will be charged.

Who Are "Qualified"

The qualifications of all applicants are investigated by an Agricultural Qualification Committee, composed of men of superior standing, who understand the farming business. All applicants are required to appear in person before the Committee in their district.

Military Service.—Any person who served with an honourable record:

(a) In the Canadian, Imperial, or British Colonial forces in an actual theatre of war, or (except in U.S. or Bermuda) outside of the country in which he enlisted;

(b) In the forces of any of His Majesty's Allies in an actual theatre of war, if he was a British subject [illegible] before the war;

(c) In the C.E.F. in Canada only, if he is in receipt of a pension for disability occasioned by such service.

These benefits are also granted to widows of such men.

Other Qualifications.—After an applicant's eligibility, from the standpoint of military service, is determined, the Committee will investigate his physical condition, general fitness, and agricultural experience. An applicant must satisfy the Committee that he is aware of the individual responsibility resting upon those who would engage in farming successfully, and that he has the required energy to carry on farming in a successful manner. A Qualification Certificate is issued to qualified applicants. Agricultural training is available for men who fail to receive a Qualification Certificate only through lack of sufficient practical farming experience.

All Qualified Men Assisted

The applicant, after securing a Qualification Certificate, may then apply to the Loan Advisory Committee for financial assistance. Should he desire to purchase land he may indicate the particular parcel of land which he desires to acquire. The Committee will appraise the land with regard to its agricultural possibilities, and if it is satisfactory and its value is in keeping with the soldier's ability to comply with the financial requirements of the Act, the land may be secured.

Equipment

The Loan Advisory Committee also determines the amount of loan to be granted to the soldier settler for the purchase of live stock and implements, and the erection of necessary buildings in keeping with the settler's absolute need. The Soldier Settlement Board has made arrangements to secure these needs for the settler at specially low prices.

Supervision

The Soldier Settlement Board has a staff of agricultural advisers, whose duties are to promote the prosperity of the soldier settler by timely advice and assistance. It is also enlisting the co-operation of experienced and successful farmers, located near at hand, who will direct and assist the settler to make a success of his undertaking.

Special Transportation Rates

The Railway Companies of Canada have offered special rates to soldier settlers who travel for any of the following purposes:

(a) First trip to appear before Qualification Committee, to work with farmer, to attend an agricultural school or to look for land;

(b) To return to his home for the purpose of transporting his family or goods to his farm.

The rate will be allowed on the production of a certificate issued by the Soldier Settlement Board.

LOCATION OF FARM BUILDINGS.

Location of farm buildings is of the greatest importance in saving time and labour. A different problem is present on different farms, so that it is impossible to lay down hard and fast rules for locating farm buildings. Local conditions, such as natural drainage or slope, will affect the location to a great extent. F. A. Meckel, of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture, gives the following suggestions for the location and arrangements for farm buildings:

1. The farmstead should be conveniently located with respect to the fields.
2. The farmstead should be near an improved road.
3. The barnyards and lots should be well drained, either by natural drainage or tiles.
4. Eave troughs emptying into drains or cisterns will eliminate much mud in barnyards.
5. A southern slope is to be desired.
6. A timber windbreak will prove valuable on the north and west of the farmstead.
7. The buildings should be grouped around a central courtyard.
8. The granary should be convenient to the barn and hog-houses.
9. A water supply must be available. Running water in house, barns and yard is a great convenience.
10. Barnyards should not face the house or road.
11. The barn and yards should be 150 to 200 feet from the house, and not in the direction of the prevailing winds.
12. The house should be set well back from the road to avoid the dust.
13. The house should command a view of the barn door, the front entrance from the door, and the central courtyard.

He Got the Apples.

"Once upon a time," began the teacher, "two little brothers started to Sunday school one Sunday morning. Their way led past a fine orchard, where the trees were bending down with ripe, luscious apples. One of the brothers proposed going into the orchard and getting some fruit, but the other refused and sped away, leaving his companion greedily devouring the apples.

"Now, it happened that the owner of the orchard saw them, and the next day rewarded the good boy who refused to steal his apples by giving him a shilling. He got a prize for his honesty, and what do you suppose the other boy got for his dishonesty?"

Where Presidents Name Governors.

Alexander Hamilton was defeated in his attempt to give the president of the United States the power to appoint the governors of the states. In Spanish-American countries his ideal is generally realized.

The president of Colombia appoints the governor of each department, and the governor appoints the prefects and mayors. The president of Peru appoints the prefects, these the sub-prefects, and the latter name the governors. Reports flow up this official staircase, and orders flow down, so that the whole administration dances to Lima's piping.

In Chile there is a complete chain from president through intendant, governor and subdelegate to inspector. There are municipal councils for cities, but nowhere is there a place for the county, as we know it, electing its own prosecutor, judge and sheriff.—Edward Alsworth Ross in Century Magazine.

The Bulbs Went Astray.

The growth of bulbs is an important industry to Holland, as from Haarlem the markets of the world obtain their supply.

It is told of Said Pasha, who had a great love for flowers, that he placed an order in Holland for a choice assortment of these bulbs, for which he paid $5,000. When the bulbs arrived his "secretary of the interior," who received them, not knowing of the bulb order, sidetracked them to the kitchen. Soon after their arrival the pasha was to give an important banquet, and his chief cook, wishing to serve an especial treat, grilled the new variety of onions and served them hot. Evidently as an article of food they did not prove a success since the only comment the recorder of the incident made of the result was that pasha's interest in gardening received a severe body blow.—National Geographic Magazine.

Gold Plated Doorknobs.

In some of the $25,000 a year flats on Fifth avenue, New York, the hardware is gold plated. Hinges, window brackets, fixtures, door handles, key plates are all treated with gold before being placed in position. All that is required to keep gold in fine condition is a light rubbing with a piece of dry leather. No polish is necessary, and the woodwork near this yellow hardware is never tarnished. Silver plating on white metal is used on the trim in the dining room. Nine coats of paint are spread on the walls of the dining rooms in these magnificent flats, the same care being used as with the panneling of a motorcar. The walls, instead of being highly glazed, have a soft, silky finish.—Pittsburgh Press.

Two of Them.

Miss Paull was one of the teachers at the mission Sunday school. One Sunday the subject of the lesson was "The Second Commandment," and Miss Paull began by asking little Adelbert Dugan the question:

"Now, Adelbert, have we any idols in this country?"

For a moment the boy hesitated and then replied:

"Yes, ma'am. Me dad's idle and me uncle too."—Household Journal.

On Tick.

Buying "on tick" is not new slang, but goes back to the seventeenth century. It is stated in a letter dated 1661, "The Mermaid tavern is lately broke, our ticks amounting to £1,500." And in another document a little later it is said, "Every one runs upon tick."

Placing the Blame.

"Young lady, that young man who comes to see you stays outrageously late."

"Well, it's your fault, papa."

"My fault?"

"Yes; mamma told him he need not go until you came."—Houston Post.

ALCOR, THE DOUBLE STAR.

Much Brighter Now Than It Was in the Tenth Century.

The two stars, Mizar and Alcor, form a double star system which can easily be perceived by the naked eye. This was not the case formerly, as the Arab used the resolution of the system into its two components as a test for good eyes.

It would seem, therefore, that this star has increased in brightness since the tenth century, a supposition which is supported by the fact that it is not mentioned by the ancients.

The history of this star was familiar to astronomers when it was found, in 1907, that Alcor is itself a double star. It is now discovered by Harlow Shapley that Alcor varies in brightness, the variations having a feeble amplitude and a short period. The spectrum type of Alcor, which is a star A5—that is to say, a white star with hydrogen predominating and the doubling of the lines—announces a variation of the Algol type, by eclipse rather than continuous variation.

It is supposed that there exists a couple of elliptic stars very close together and inclined on their orbit in such a way that the mutual eclipse is feeble or almost nothing, the variations of brightness resulting from their marked ellipticity. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SUGAR MAKES YOU GROW.

That, It Seems, Is Why Our Girls Are Becoming Taller.

English and American girls just reaching womanhood, and the next generation in its early teens, are unusually tall, standing a head or more above their mothers. This has been remarked on over and over again, and has been the subject of learned disquisitions. Yet no generally accepted cause for the fact has been given up to this time.

Now comes a London physician of note and says that it is simply a case of lengthened sweetness. By "sweetness" in this particular case the nature of the young ladies is not referred to, but their diet. In fact, statistics of recent years show that Americans and Britons of both sexes are increasing in height and weight. Why? The physician referred to says it is sugar.

Great Britain and America are the sugar eating nations of the world and have quadrupled their saccharine consumption in the last score of years.

This is now the best explanation of an accepted fact, and it will have to stand until a better one comes along.—London Tit-Bits.

Clearing the Atmosphere.

In his capacity of dramatic critic Mr. J. Comyns Carr, the author, wrote a notice of the play of "Charles I.," in which Irving played under the management of Mr. Bateman. His criticism deeply incensed the manager. In order perhaps to find the opportunity of informing the critic of his disapproval, the manager invited him to a supper at the Westminster club on the second or third night of the production. When he thought the fitting moment had arrived Mr. Bateman led the conversation to the point at issue and, emphatically banging the table with his fist, declared in the loudest of tones that he did not produce his plays at the Lyceum theater to please Mr. Comyns Carr. There was a moment's awkward silence, which Mr. Carr confesses he did not feel quite able to break, but which was released by a wit of the company with the happy retort, "Well, dear boy, then you can't be surprised if they don't please him."

When Coal Fires Were Barred.

Fires were at one time a great luxury in England, and even the right to use the fire had been bequeathed. Thus the will of one Richard Byrchett (1516) read:

"I will yt mayd Nell my wyfe shal have ye chamber she lyes in and lyberte at ye fyer in the house; all yese thynge shal she have so long as she ys wide."

Coal was first imported into London at the end of the thirteenth century, but the smoke produced by burning it in improperly constructed grates caused such a prejudice against it that in 1306 a law was passed making it a capital offense to burn coal in the city. The Tower records give details of a man's trial and execution for the offense.—London Graphic.

Food and the Human Body.

The chemical composition of the human body and of the food we take is quite similar. About twenty elements are found chiefly, with a trace of others. Oxygen, hydrogen, carbon, nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus and sulphur are the chief. Sixty per cent of our bodies is water, and probably a like percentage exists in our food. Mineral matter exists in our food and in our bodies to about 6 per cent of weight.—"Eating to Live."

Collars.

It seems that bluff King Henry VIII. was the first person who wore a collar in any way resembling those of the present day. An old historian writes of the monarch as the first English king that wore a band around his neck and that very plain and an inch or two in depth.

Boxwood.

One of the most expensive woods used regularly in an established industry in the United States is boxwood, the favorite material for wood engraving. It has been quoted at 4 cents a cubic inch and about $1,200 by the thousand board feet.

Bourgeois and Proletarian.

The word bourgeois is the old French word for a citizen of a bourg, or city; we have the same word in English as burgher, says the Youth's Companion. Originally it distinguished the town dweller from the noble who lived in his castle or the peasant who dwelt in the hamlet among the fields. Then, since the bourgeois was likely to be a tradesman or a craftsman the word came to have that meaning, too.

As a noun it described the thrifty, industrious member of the mercantile or manufacturing classes; as an adjective it described the qualities, the standards and the characteristics of those classes. In the most modern sense of all—that employed by the Socialist writers who take their cue from Karl Marx—the word is used to mean those who have accumulated some property, those who are in a position to employ other people and to pay them wages.

The word proletarian comes from the Latin word proles (offspring), and 2,000 years ago was used by the Romans to designate the less substantial and useful members of society, those who had nothing except their children to offer to the support of the state. The word also has taken on other shades of meaning until it has come to be applied to a member of the community who has no other capital than the strength of his hands; the laborer or workingman who lives, as it were, from hand to mouth, and who has no reserves to support him in time of need.

For Good Luck.

A newly married pair had escaped from their demonstrative friends and were on the way to the station, when the carriage stopped. The bridegroom looked out of the window impatiently. "What's the matter, driver?" he called. "The horse has cast a shoe, sir," was the reply. "Great Scott!" groaned the bridegroom, "even the horse!"

National Traits.

The Archbishop of Canterbury once described the characteristics of the English, the Welsh and the Scotch. "The Englishman," said the archbishop, "takes everywhere with him—his beer, his bath and his bible. The Scotchman keeps the Sabbath and everything else he can lay his hands on. The Welshman prays on his knees on Sunday and on his neighbors the rest of the week."

In Elizabeth's time a case of toothpicks made of wood was carried about by fine gentlemen. A more violent eccentricity of fashion is pointed at by Sir Thomas Overbury, who describes a courtier as walking in St. Paul's "with a picktooth in his hat, a cube cloak and a long stocking."

Maxwell—
A Car of Assured Reliability

THE reliability of every Maxwell is assured by the volume produced. One model quantity production involves the investment of millions of dollars in special machinery, plants, laboratories, etc., before a single car is produced.

And after production starts absolute accuracy in every part must be assured to prevent delays, wastage, hand-labor—things we can't afford.

This was our original plan and it has been consistently followed in producing the 300,000 Maxwells now on the roads of the world.

It is the reason why of Maxwell reliability—economy—uniformity.

INDIAN POETRY.

Important Collection Entitled "The Path on the Rainbow."

Mary Austin, the novelist, has been carefully studying the songs and chants of the North American Indians for several years, and she recently published an anthology of this primitive poetry, to which she gave the title "The Path on the Rainbow," which will interest everybody who has paid any attention to Indian lore. "The Path on the Rainbow" does not lend itself readily to review. One might go about the task in the thoroughly businesslike and justly academic manner adopted by Mary Austin in her introduction to the book. One might profess to discover, and, indeed, might discover the golden thread of development running through this extraordinarily primitive verse, and one might or might not arrive at the conclusion which Miss Austin arrives at that the "poetic art in America at the time it began to be overlaid by European culture had reached a mark close to that of the Greeks at the beginning of the Homeric era." On the other hand, one might end by questioning whether there were any standards by which this strange song-dance-verse could with justice be judged. As it appears before us in the cold black and white of a translation, at best, a sorry third of itself, whatever that self may be, it must be honestly confessed that much of it is frankly meaningless; and that much more of it is a simple repetition of simple statements of fact, without any effort to do more than to call up the picture which each reader has of these facts in his own chambers of imagery.

Some of it, however, and this renders the search for it so extraordinarily worth while, has all the attributes of true poetry.

My children, my children,
It is I who wear the morning star on my head;
I show it to my children,
Says the Father.

It is vers libre, of course, but vers libre of a very high order, and all may understand and appreciate it. Or again, take the first few lines of the poem entitled "The Wold Woman's Lullaby":

What shall I sing to thee, Babe on my back?
Song of the Eagle that mates with the storm!
Hi-i-ri-iki! Ri-eek!
The wild gale is weeping, driven before him
To his nest on the black lone mast of the night;
Swinging, swinging, far out, high out, over the sea!
Hi-i-ri-i-ki! Ri-eek!

It is instinct with the true poetic spirit, abundantly free, tremendously concentrated on the expression of one idea and universal in its appeal.

There is much more like it. And yet a careful study of the book must convince one that the ordinary man, trained in the literature of the West, is not fully equipped to appreciate Indian poetry. What the poems really expressed to the Indian, when to the words was added music, music calling up in every cadence a thousand recollections, and to the music the rhythmic motion of the dance, it is quite impossible for the reader to gather from the beautiful translations which the book presents him. "Verse is to the Red singer but a shorthand note to his emotions, a sentence or two, a phrase out of the heart of the situation. It is the inside song alone which is important. Says the medicine man, explaining these matters, 'You see, Injun man singin' an' cryin' while he sing. It ain't what he singin' make him cry; its what the song make him think, that's what he cryin' about.'" So remarks Miss Austin in the course of her introduction. As an explanation of Indian poetry it could not well be improved upon.

Anxious for Canadian Trade.

The economic commission has been holding a series of meetings with the Siberian Supply Company and the agents of the Canadian Government, and are endeavoring to reach an equitable basis for Siberian trade.

At a recent conference there were representatives present of co-operative organizations who expressed an eagerness to develop business relations with Canada owing to the similarity of climate and resources, and also because of successful co-operative movements among the farmers of the Dominion. Canada, furthermore, is without selfish aims. An unwillingness is expressed in the matter of trading through middlemen. Trade, if trade is to be had, is wanted direct. It is realized that it is impossible to develop trade right now owing to the transportation difficulties and the political instability of the country, but in the meantime people in Siberia are anxious to learn modern Canadian methods and are sending representatives to Canada shortly to study the methods.

Beaverbrook and Nebuchadnezzar.

Lord Beaverbrook has been troubled with his throat for a long time, but is now making satisfactory progress toward recovery. A recent despatch represents it as a distemper, which may have been caused originally "by putting a few blades of grass in the mouth when walking in the fields."

This reminds us that there was once a prize poem competition at Oxford, for which one of the aspirants chose "Nebuchadnezzar" as his subject, and he wrote that the monarch, when turned out to grass,

"Exclaimed as he ate the unwonted foods,
It may be wholesome, but it isn't good."

But Beaverbrook is neither Thames nor Cherwell, and so far as Oxford is concerned he can prove an alibi.

On some of the imported summer dresses made from thin materials narrow pleated ribbons have been used as trimming.

PROBLEM FOR ART EXPERTS

A heating apparatus powerful enough to force heat through a pile of sandbags 12 feet thick and to dry without scorching the wall behind is needed to preserve one of the world's masterpieces, "The Last Supper," of Leonardo da Vinci, which is painted on the wall of the Church of Santa Maria delle Grazie at Milan, Italy. The dampness which accumulates in the sand necessary as a protection from air raids is fast fading the colors of the picture, already damaged by time. The restoration necessary for Leonardo's picture is unsuited to the frescoes of Luini and other masters painted on the same wall. How to give each set of masterpieces the treatment required is the problem. So far the experts of the Italian ministry of the arts have been unable to find a solution.

Some way of handling bread in a sanitary manner apart from wrapping it may come out of the prospective conferences in Toronto between the bakers and the M.O.H. Dr. Hastings proposes that the drivers should use tongs to pick up the bread just like the ice man uses, but this idea is not looked on with any great favor by the bakers. OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

"A Letter To Mr. Somebody"

By LOUISE OLIVER

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Philip sat thoughtfully down on the fire step of the trench. The German musketry had ceased for the time and all was quiet along the line. Three of the men in his platoon had been wounded and taken back to the first-aid stations behind the lines. But he hadn't a scratch.

Beside him, crouching in a variety of attitudes, were five of the boys playing cards. Someone had produced a dog-eared, muddy pack, and now they were having a round of jackpots. The entire crowd had an aggregate of less than a dollar, all told.

"Come on in, Pearson, the betting's fine," called Dorgan. "Sky's the limit."

But Philip shook his head. "It hurts my finer feelings to see my fellow beings risking their immortal souls. I can't be a party to the outrage. Besides, I'm broke."

"Poor Phil!" Dorgan drew three cards. "Lonely again."

"Who's he got to be lonely for?" Kearney, new to the company, didn't know Phil's history.

"Nobody. That's the trouble. We cusses here think we're killed because we can't see our folks. But did you ever think what it meant not to have any folks to get homesick for? That's Phil's trouble. He just naturally hasn't got anybody. That's what he's thinking this minute. I'll bet a jitney. Never gets any mail—never hears from anyone. By George, here comes Bandy now with letters. Hurrah! The mail's in, Jimmy! All those for me, chaplain? Well, this is my day."

Philip sat stolidly on the fire step without moving. He knew the chaplain had no mail for him. All the other boys were busily tearing open letters and papers and hungrily devouring every word.

Then the chaplain stopped in front of him and put a hand on his shoulder. "My boy, I wonder if—" He put his other hand in his pocket and drew out a letter. "I don't approve of this—much. I don't have any idea what's inside, but I'm going to leave it with you."

Philip took the letter eagerly and scanned the address. It was written in a rather angular feminine hand on plain white paper and directed to:

MR. SOMEBODY,
American Expeditionary Forces,
France.

Puzzled, he slid his trench knife under the flap and drew out the closely written folded pages. The letter began: "Dear Mr. Somebody: Before you read my letter I'm going to ask whether or not you are getting mail from home and friends. If you are, will you please give this to someone who is not, for this is not your letter, then, but his. I am writing to a lonely man who has no one to care about him—not to you."

Philip paused. Strange that the chaplain had followed the directions so closely without divining the contents. He turned again to the letter. Surely the letter had reached its intended destination. Who else had a better right to it than he? Then suddenly a revulsion of feeling seized him. He didn't want sympathy, he didn't want to read a lot of Sunday school stuff about patiently bearing one's lot and being sustained by pride in what he was doing.

His eyes ran rebelliously over the next few words, then he read more eagerly, and before he knew it—but let us read the letter.

"First of all," it ran. "I'm going to wish a family onto you, Mr. Somebody—my family. And I'm going to tell you all about what we've been doing. Maybe you'll want to hear about them and maybe you won't, but I absolutely refuse to sympathize with your loneliness and write consoling things like that. And as I have to have something to put into a letter, you will just have to be patient. And I'm not going to introduce them. I will speak of them as though you'd known us all forever.

"To begin, Mr. Peabody finally came across and gave Dad the position as department head that he should have had years ago. Oh, you don't know what it meant to us! Or, I forgot, you do know, of course. When Dad came home that night and told us, Buddy stood right up in the middle of the dining-room table and started to recite Webster's oration, knocking over my vase of clove shrub, the first out of the garden, and ruining a bran clean tablecloth that had taken me forty-seven minutes to iron. But I was in a forgiving humor, of course, and merely kissed him and ordered him down. Lotty gave Dad a hug that nearly strangled him and marched right upstairs and returned with everyone—everyone—mind you, of her old dresses over her arm."

"'Now, Sis,' she demanded, 'can't I give these to the poor Harbisons right away, and get that pink-embroided voile and the Peter Tom suit tomorrow?'

I was ready to promise anything, my dear sir, but all the while I was thinking how fine it would be to have the money for the gas and milk and butcher and grocery man without Dad's having to sit up till midnight figuring how to make the money stretch.

"Well, that's that. Already Dad looks ten years younger, and last night when he was shaving I heard him whistling. Wasn't it wonderful!

"The Emerys next door are having their house painted with mahogany trimmings. It was a dear of a house before they bought it and looked so lovely white. But Mr. Emery had made a fortune in munitions and he's building a stone addition to it. Imagine! Some way I think houses are like people, don't you? I mean, they show what kind of people live in them. Our house looks like the home of poor genteel, as we're usually called. Vines and things growing up to hide places where we need a carpenter and painter. It's like shoe polish on an old pair of shoes. But I think if one's shoes are old, it's better to have them polished than not, don't you?

"But talking of the house and vines brings me to my hobby. My garden—I don't know whether you like flowers or not—but I just have to tell you about it. Just now I'm writing out here in an old green swing under a pink heaven of blossoms. The trees are all out and the birds are fairly bursting their little throats for joy.

"And the bed of white and red tulips over the fence is blooming so bravely—it is as good as a sermon on courage. And over by the shed—but of course you can't see the shed for the bushes. I'll just have to tell you it's there—the lilacs are coming out. Can't you smell that exquisite deliciousness away over there in your trench? Surely heaven will have hedges of lilacs. And the shrubs are out—the snowballs a lovely tender greenish white. How I wish you could see it, Mr. Somebody.

"And now, I'm going to tell you a secret. I hadn't intended to, but somehow I feel that you are sympathetic, that you'll understand.

"I have a soldier, a lonely soldier. He must be away over in France, and it is my fault he is lonely, for we quarreled and he went away, and now I can't find out where he is. So after all, this is his letter you are getting. Oh, I wish someone would write to him—for he is lonely, I know. He had nobody but me. And, oh, if I only knew, so I could ask him to forgive.

"This is all for this time, Mr. Somebody. If you like my letter and send me your name and address, I'll write again.

"Faithfully yours,
"Elisabeth Downing,
"Somerset, Mass."

This was Philip's answer:

"Dearest Little Betty.—Mr. Somebody got your letter, and what do you think? It was I. You see God must have guided it here. So you want me to forgive you, sweetheart. Dearest, I'm not fit to kiss the hem of your dainty little dress. I adore you and always will. But since I got your letter I determined to live and go back to you. Before, I resented every crack the other fellows got instead of me. There, the post's going out and I must send this, but I'll write every day. Good-bye, dearest girl.

FINDS CALL STIRS HIM UP

City Conductor's Call, "Let 'Em Off First!" Acts Like a Tonic on This Writer.

That day does not start right when I do not go to work by public conveyance. I can motor to work, or I can walk, as I sometimes do, and hear all the sounds incident to busy streets—the honking of horns, the whistles of the traffic policemen and the shouting of newsboys. These all help in getting me in key for the day's work, but they do not take the place of the conductor's plea to the clamorous crowds on the railway platforms, "Let 'em off first!"

The command is given in a tone of authority that forces the people to stand back. You meditate upon what would happen but for the trainman's solicitude for his passengers. The little blond stenographer who sat beside you would without doubt be carried to the next station, or maybe a dozen stations beyond, and, being late, be fired. You yourself, for that matter, might be whisked on past your station and fall into a passion that would cause your breakfast to sour and make you surly all day. And there is always tragedy in that frame of mind, since a man has to be placid these days or lose his nerves, his job, and everything.

"Let 'em off first!"—the command affects one in another way, too. It carries a suggestion that one waits to get off, and that suggestion presently works itself into a command to you to get off—a sort of challenge to stay on if you dare.

You battle the suggestion manfully from one station to another, until, by the time you reach your stop, your mind is keyed up to concert pitch; you are thoroughly awake, and attack your day's work with an energy that is unknown to the [illegible] this morning papers, is lost to what is going on around him.—T. C. O'Donnell in Cartoons Magazine.

Particularly Cruel Murder.

An atrocious murder took place the other night in the village Rajpuri in Gaikwar, India. It is reported that a married Mahomedan woman was ill for three days and her husband after obtaining all the available assistance without any effect sat by the side of his wife on the verandah when some unknown persons got over the boundary wall and one of them fired a gun toward the couple. The husband was shot in the chest and also on the eye and a bullet passed through the arm of his wife. Vigorous inquiry is proceeding but no trace of the culprits has yet been found nor the motive of the murder ascertained.

Gallipoli.

Gallipoli is the door through which in 1389 the Turks first entered into their European possessions. And the entrance came about in a surprising manner. In that year an earthquake shattered all the cities of Thrace and overthrew the walls of Gallipoli. The inhabitants fled, while the Turks, for whom earthquakes had no terror, crossed the Hellespont and marched upon the deserted city. Emperor Cantacusenus protested, but Sultan Orkhan calmly replied that "Providence had opened a way to his troops, and he could not disregard so clear an indication of divine interposition." Thus was taken the first plunge that kept the ever east bathed in blood for centuries.—London Standard.

Cornmeal For the Feet.

Men as well as women are finding cornmeal very beneficial to aching and sore feet. Simply soak the feet in warm water into which a handful of meal has been thrown, and the meal when rubbed over the feet opens up the pores in such a manner as to stop the very disagreeable annoyance of perspiring feet. It is far superior to salt baths for the feet.—Philadelphia North American.

ense. Even as late as 1858 the full license to sell whiskey and beer cost only $40.00, and this in a hotel. The saloons and other places came lower. Whiskey was sold by almost any one who wished so to do, and there was nothing of fines as a penalty. Where the Quaker Oats buildings now stand were two hotels, and another on the opposite side of the street. At either of these the traveller going out to the country could take something on this side of the river to keep the heat in and crossing the bridge find two places at which to have something further to keep the cold out. Between the town and Keene where five places where liquor could be had. Between here and Lakefield six opportunities to refresh, that last one being the old building, known even now as "Mrs. Phelan's." There were sixteen chances, good chances, too, of getting a drink between this town and Lindsay, with additional facilities if one took a round-about way. Dotted along the highway, the "toll-gate" road, were many places of refreshment, so that the traveller to Port Hope had more than the modern conveniences.

Black Horse Hotel.

Scattered throughout the borders of the town were many and numerous places to frequent. One of the most notorious was that now venerable rough-cast dwelling that rubs shoulders—or eaves—with the Creamery, on Aylmer street. At the time of and in its prime it was known as the "Black Horse Inn," kept by one McFadden. Another, the old Colborne Hotel, stood on the ground now covered by the tower of the City Clock. Bailey's Hotel, located about where the northern extension of the Cressman stores now stands, was a good second to the McFadden hostel.

Among the drinking places, and where liquor could be procured, was that of Mrs. Rosie O'Neill. Her place covered the ground that has been for the last few years the neatly kept lawn adjoining the Quaker Oats Company buildings. Mrs. O'Neill sold whiskey and also did a laundry business on the side, where the bachelor resident could get clean linen. Indeed the lady had a personal pride in her profession and said that woman's best gift to man was a clean shirt.

A Yoke.

To her credit be it said that never would she sell liquor to a man who showed at the time that he was the worse of it, as the phrase went, and it would be a brave man who would attempt to take it. One venturesome and thirsty intruder attempted to help himself. Mrs. O'Neill in her wrath snatched from the washtub the washboard in use, batted him over the head with the implement, and he came out of the door with the board clasped around his neck like a sort of ox yoke. He yelled for first aid, and found relief at the hands of George Allen, the local gunsmith, who turned the trick with a shears and saw.

Fair Day.

Incidental to the use of liquor and indeed to some extent provocative, was the Quarterly Fair Day. The first Tuesday in the months of January, April, July and October were sacredly set apart for commercial purposes. Anyone who had anything to sell brought it to the market square on such days. The occasion was a general clearing house for all sorts of produce and fixtures. From early morning to noon business thrived. The afternoon's trade held only those who had not made sales, and others who looked for bargains. The larger number of the men adjourned to the several hotels and places where their vehicles were installed, and consumed sundry and much.

Those were the days of almost tribal encounters, a sort of transplanting of the Irish Faction Fights to the soil of Canada. The Crowleys, and Bowies, and others, would flock in from Otonabee. By the same token the Montgomerys and Healeys would flock down from Bobcaygeon; from Ennismore and from Douro would come valiant contingents, and Rome howled.

Heavy Fighting.

The hotel yards were scenes of fierce fighting. Not entirely of encounters in which malice and revenge played the part of an incentive, but as a tourgvie force, or trials of strength. Then the renown and prestige of the neighborhood must be upheld. The casualties were numerous for the rules of combat were very liberally interpreted, and before hostilities closed at any particular fracas many men would be embroiled. Many a man made the journey home lying on the bottom of the waggon, a sight to look at and a warning to others. The police force of the town numbered one, the local baker, a man of rare discretion and fine judgment as to when to intrude the arm of the law. He never made himself or his office obnoxious.

Going into a George street store some years ago and climbing the stairs to the third story, was found, with its lettered face to the wall the sign that crossed the doors of the store in earlier days, the sign carrying the name of a man who did a grocery and liquor business, for the two were at one time combined. And it is related that he had a handy man named Ezra. At certain intervals, there would come certain days, and on such, looking out of the window, early in the morning, he would enquire of Ezra what the day was, and have the answer with commercial promptness, "Fair day." "So it is, Ezra; so it is. Deary me. Better put in another pail; it will not do to let the boys have it too strong to-day, Ezra."

In the Fifties.

Along in the fifties came a time when something had to be done. The law-abiding and temperate part of the community revolted. The lumber industries and mills were bringing in large numbers of men, thoroughly irresponsible so far as convivality was concerned. Altercations and fights between these men and townsmen were frequent. Many of the best of the citizenship of the town came together and decided to press for temperance and restriction of the traffic. Those were the days of John B. Gough, the stalwart disciple of temperance, and other advocates of a sane life. Societies were organized, the men coming together in the "Sons of Temperance;" even the boys were grouped in the "Band of Hope." The women of the churches were appealed to for aid and also organized. Meetings were held, a stirring propaganda put out and an endeavor made to have sales restricted under license. Lectures were given, appeals made and unusual vigilance manifested. It was a long and arduous fight. The opposition was well sustained but the good to be gained was so apparent that public opinion gradually made itself felt.

Employers of labour in mills, saw mills and factories came to see and admit the necessity for restriction. Gradually headway was made; year by year the evil lessened. The coming in of provincial laws and the insistence of higher license as a means of restriction mitigated a part of the traffic. The closing down of the local distilleries assisted in a large measure. In after years further effort was made in the passing of the Dunkin Act, a measure of extremely doubtful character in its provisions, and absence of direct control regulation.

Followed the Scott Act, also of questionable efficiency, but all making for the desired end. And while now we look abroad and see our city entirely freed from the drink traffic as a public licensed and commercial feature, we should remember with pride, gratitude nad thankfulness the valiant and heroic serive of such men as Philip Martyn, William McBurney, William John Mason, Robinson Rutherford, Thomas Benson, Walter Sheridan, and many others, who stood shoulder to shoulder and fought the good fight for temperance and a cleaner life. Their names and acts are only a memory to the oldest of our citizens, but their record should be an inspiration to the younger generation to take hold and lift in the public interest and to the betterment of the city in which they live, move and have their being.

LITTLE has been said by us about this record; and it was made back in the summer of 1917. It was not our policy to engage in speed contests, as we felt something more than speed was sought by the average buyer.

This record was 1898 miles in 24 hours—the farthest distance man has ever traveled on land, sea or air in twice-around-the-clock.

A notable car but a short time before had made the envious distance of 1819 miles in 24 hours on the same track.

Just about this time Chalmers engineers were satisfied they had developed two great devices in Hot Spot and Ram's-horn. They wanted to get a quick answer. They sought the laboratory of the racetrack, where in 24 hours the gruelling of 50,000 ordinary driving miles might be interpreted.

This remarkable test, as well as extended road tests, resulted in equipping Chalmers cars with Hot Spot and Ram's-horn; and now 12,000 persons driving the new Chalmers car will tell you they own one of the few great cars of the world.

Monthly Income Insurance

Is your wife an experienced financier? If not, take your insurance on the income plan.

Is your wife better at saving than at spending? If not, take income insurance.

When a man dies there are three deaths:—
The death of a husband.
The death of a father.
The death of the income.

If you should receive your salary for a whole year in one lump sum on January 1st, how much would you have left on July 1st?

If your insurance is paid in one sum how long will it last?

For husband and wife who have no dependents the life income contract on the endowment form is the best policy. At the end of twenty years the income will begin. It will sustain them both as long as they live, and will provide a life income for the survivor if one should die.

Weak, Nervous Children Quickly Gain Strength Under Following Plan

Nervousness, just like weakness, is a family predisposition. We inherit tendencies to disease just as we inherit physical resemblances. The strain of study, social duties, work at home — these all tend to make nervous troubles among children. No wonder that St. Vitus Dance, Epilepsy, and constant headaches have become alarmingly common. Pale, nervous, listless young people are met everywhere.

It is nothing short of criminal for parents to neglect signs of weakness in their children. By ignoring the slightest symptom of nervous or mental strain, you may condemn your child to life-long invalidism. If any member of your family complains of headaches, fear of going into dark places, give them that wonderful tonic, "Ferrozone." Strength of body and mind, hardy nerves, ability to study with comfort, all the attributes of health quickly follow the use of Ferrozone. It establishes strength, colour, endurance, vim—does this by filling the whole system with nourishment and tissue-forming materials.

It's because we know the enormous good that Ferrozone will do, because we are sure every child and even grown folks, will be permanently benefited, that we urged you to give it a trial. All dealers sell Ferrozone in 50c boxes, six for $2.50, or direct by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Voice of The People

Ottawa, Canada, 14th May, 1919.
Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—For over forty years clerical critics of a sort have been declaiming that Christian Science is neither Christian nor Science; so that, when the same accusation is made from a pulpit in Peterborough, it can lay no claim to originality. In fact, the epithets hurled at Christian Science from that pupit, such as "mental assassination," "intellectual bankruptcy," etc., are quite reminiscent of a pamphlet by a German in Chicago, who supplies innocent (?) clergymen with that sort of propaganda. Surely something more reasonable, temperate and sane should be heard from a professedly Christian minister. You advertised it as "a merciless attack."

Notwithstanding such attacks, Christian Science has gone on with its beneficent work of comforting, encouraging and healing the despondent, the needy, and the sick. The compassionate spirit in which its ministrations must be carried on mark it as Christian: And Christ Jesus commanded his followers to heal the sick. St. Paul bids us have the mind of Christ. (Phil. 2, 5.) Upon this mind, spirit, Christian Science builds, and is deduced logically from this divine principle. A faithful study and practice of Christian Science awakens the spiritual faculties of man, clarifies one's intellectual grasp, purifies thought and cultivates true Christian citizenship. In the same way it brings to its earnest students physical benefits, the natural result of humble communion with the Most High God. Any clergyman should be so busy in trying to achieve these same ends for his flock, that he would have neither inclination nor leisure to attack and to seek to devour the cherished religion of his fellow-man.—Yours sincerely,

George R. Lowe,
Christian Science Committee on Publication for Ontario.

TRIP TO AZORES

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 17. — Three American naval seaplanes, the N.C. 3, N.C. 1 and N.C. 4, which started just before sunset yesterday from Trepassey Bay, Nfld., in the first attempt ever made by men to cross the Atlantic ocean through the air, had at four o'clock this morning, Washington time, covered seven hundred miles, more than half the distance of the longest and most difficult leg of the trans-Atlantic flight from Newfoundland to Azores.

The three American navy seaplanes this morning were more than half of their flight from Trepassey Nfld., to Azores on their trans-Atlantic flight and were expected to reach Ponta Del Gado, Azores, by noon.

The Department's latest advices received at 4.30 a.m. showed they were 780 miles from Newfoundland.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 17. — Naval Seaplane N. C.—3 was one hundred miles from Corvo Island, at 5.54 o'clock this morning, Washington time, according to a despatch from the Azores.

The other planes were going strong in the wake of their leader. The average speed of the N. C.—3 was computed at more than 75 miles an hour.

The section of the harbor where the planes will be moored, has been cleared of all craft to permit a safe landing. Two destroyers are ready to assist the planes if they alight outside of the breakwater.

The city here is in gala dress for the expected event of the day, and crowds gathered on the waterfront shortly after daybreak. The weather was misty and visibility poor early this morning, but clearing weather was predicted for this afternoon, when the planes are due to arrive.

Remarkable Feat.

Almost the whole aerial voyage left Trepassey Bay, shortly after 6 o'clock last night, until they had passed Destroyer No. 13, more than 600 miles out, radio stations on this coast were able to trace their progress by intercepted radios. By this means the powerful government station at Bar Harbor, Maine, kept the Navy Department constantly informed regarding the expedition for more than eight hours. Although the radio apparatus on board the seaplanes was only designed for a radius of about 250 miles, the Maine station intercepted messages exchanged between the planes when they were more than 1200 miles distant.

This was declared by the expert radio officers at the department to be one of the most surprising features of the undertaking. When the flight was planned it was not expected that stations on this side would be able to hear Commander Tower's messages after his squadron was 200 miles at sea.

HAS ARRIVED.

(Canadian Press.

WASHINGTON May 17.—An eleven o'clock despatch says: United States' airplane N.C. 4 has arrived at Horta Island, Azores, in completion of the most difficult leg of her trans-Atlantic trip.

NEW FORD STARTERS

Duffus Garage have received from the Ford Motor Company one of the new Ford starters installed in a new Ford touring car, and we especially invite all those interested to call and have this new addition to the Ford car demonstrated to them.

This starter is manufactured by the Ford Motor Company and built into the Ford car. It turns the motor over at the rate of 440 revolutions and will do this continuously for ten minutes.

The equipment includes combination electric headlamps with dimmers, electric tail and side lamps and instrument board.

One feature of the equipment to be considered is that the engine runs on its own magneto. Therefore the work of the battery consists of driving the starting motor only, which is extremely easy on the battery and enables it to furnish exceptionally bright light. 20-116-1w-21

THE BONNER-WORTH FACTORY ON McDONNEL STREET

This is the largest textile mill in Canada employed exclusively in the manufacture of worsted yarns. It began operations in 1911 with 35 employees and 1,900 spindles and has expanded to 5,750 spindles, quadrupled its floor space and has 275 employees.

Wool From Far Distant Sheepfolds Is Spun On Bonner-Worth Machines

Flocks of Scotland, England, South Africa, Australia and South America Yield Fleece for the Worsted Yarns That Are Made Every Day in the Peterboro Factory—How Modern Industry Has Developed an Ancient Craft.

MECHANICAL DEVICES ALMOST HUMAN

Of the ancient arts that are perpetuated in modern history, none is more historic and essential to the needs of man than that of spinning. Its origin is unknown. Its beginnings antedate our civilisation and are obscured in the mists of antiquity. Of the elementary occupations in biblical times the spinning of wool was one of the most important. The book of Genesis tells us that Abel was a shepherd. In his declining years of prosperity Job's flock numbered 14,000 sheep, upon which the pastoral Bolsheviki, if there were such in those days, must have looked with envy and cupidity. It was to the shepherds of Judea keeping watch over their flocks by night that the heavenly host announced the birth of the Saviour. And as the raising of sheep and gathering of wool has always been an employment of men, so has spinning remained one of the tasks of women. "She layeth her hands to the spindle," said Solomon, praising the exemplary woman, even as our grandmothers in Ontario's primitive days were perhaps commended for their skill and industry at the old hand-made spinning wheels which a few families have preserved as heirlooms or given to public museums.

The glories of the civilisations of the east have long since disappeared into the dim past, and whatever developments they achieved in spinning were lost to our great-grandparents, for it was not until this age of machinery that the old cumbersome methods were supplanted by the wonder-working inventions that followed close upon the introduction of steam and electric power. But the periods of national progress and decay are traceable through all the centuries, and in the great textile factories that are now found in almost every country there are the rudiments of the craft of manufacturing wool into cloth, which was beyond doubt one of the leading occupations of Babylon and Nineveh, and of every age down to the present. It is interesting to notice, in passing, that the carpets of Bagdad are as famous in the commercial world even of to-day as they doubtless were in the years before Christ was born.

A Modern Factory.

Under the compelling spell such thoughts and imaginings weave, one is naturally curious to observe in operation a textile factory of the magnitude and modernness of the Bonner-Worth Company's establishment, and at the Examiner's request the management recently provided the desired opportunity.

The reality is a revelation of mechanical art, and quickly shatters any preconceived pictures of ancient forms and methods and dissipates likewise vague ideas that may have been gleaned of the industry from chance information. Complex machinery that represents the last word in efficiency soon dispels the hazy picturesque fancies and immediately seizes the attention of the visitor, moving him to wonder and admiration at a mechanical performance that closely approximates perfection. It is everyday routine to the employees with all the novelty worn off, and the chief interest sustained by the pay cheque it incidentally turns out once a week. Long banks of spindles whirr incessantly, clattering at a great speed, but with amazing economy of effort, anticipation of irregularities and withal a show of seeming affectation of facility and simplicity that invests the entire performance with a sense that is uncannily human. With the appearance of being at rest, so fast do they spin, the spindles go about their work steadily and exactly, attended by mechanical devices that respond to the least deviation from minutely adjusted and precisely limited paths. In fact, the machines seem sentient things, and in their flexibility of handling various qualities of wool and of making different sizes of yarn, in the exact mathematical adjustments that can be easily calculated and effected, in the general capacity of the machines and their productiveness may be summarised the salient features of the industry in its present highly developed stage.

Has 5,750 Spindles.

A textile mill is measured in spindles, hence the progress and expansion of the Bonner-Worth Company may be illustrated by the statement that the factory was opened in 1911 with 1,900 spindles, whereas to-day it counts 5,700. The original 35 employees have been multiplied, until they now number 275, and the enlarged factory itself has four times the floor space of the first building. It is, in fact, the largest textile plant in Canada devoted exclusively to the manufacture of worsted yarns. It is equipped with all the latest inventions known to the trade, its machinery is new and complete, the building is airy, profusely lighted and well ventilated, and behind the speeding spindles and the iron frames is a personal element that fuses the interests of the employers and employees, and creates a friendliness and confidence that is lacking in the average mill, that inspires reciprocal appreciation and sympathy, and that finally should be an assurance of continued growth. If in the industrial equation the human element has all too commonly been an unknown quantity, the Bonner-Worth factory stands out as an exception from the day the first "count" of yarn was made. This fact is so generally recognised throughout the city that it scarcely requires repetition but for the feeling that in the vast transition from the ancient prototypic processes some sharp impress and reflection of the personal element and of the unusual survives.

A Touch of Romance.

The commercial wool reaches the Bonner-Worth factory in coils called "tops," each weighing ten pounds. They come in car lots of forty tons. The wool has previously undergone a preliminary preparation, and unwinds easily from the centres of the tops in a thin white, fluffy ribbon that is about to be combed, drawn and

CONVENTION WILL COME TO PETERBORO

War Veterans Re-elect C. E. Jeakins to the Presidency—Other Business.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINDSOR, May 17.—Before the Ontario G.W.V.A. convention closed yesterday, Peterborough was unanimously chosen as the place of meeting next year. Equal pensions for officers and men of the rank and file were demanded in a resolution passed in the closing hours of the convention. That many men who served as privates made greater sacrifices than others ortunate enough to catch the eye of the government and gain commissions, was asserted by movers of the resolution, which even had the support of delegates who once wore the crown, the insignia of major's rank. The government will be requested to grant a minimum pension of $1,000 for total disability.

Scrap of Paper.

Delegates from Hamilton and other eastern centres, who were pledged to back the anti-prohibition resolution, will have little to report to their commands on this question, the Resolutions committee being successful in treating the resolution as a scrap of paper, without so much as being mildly censured in open convention, although the language used by some of the delegates during recesses could scarcely be called parliamentary.

President C. E. Jeakins, of Brantford, was re-elected by a huge majority, his only opponent, E. G. O'Flynn, of Belleville, receiving the votes of delegates representing 4,046 members of the Association, against 13,722 cast for the re-election of the President. W. E. Turley, secretary, was given another term by acclamation, the threatened opposition never once showing signs of materialising. H. Staunton, Peterborough, was elected a member of the Executive committee.

Riots Railroaded.

In connection with the Kinmel riots it was stated by several comrades that several Canadians have been since confined in the Tower of London.

The action in connection with the

Wood Prices Are Bound to Go Higher

Lay in Your Supply of Good, Clean Wood, Cut This Winter.

We beg to announce a slight change in our price list for the present week. We announced two weeks ago that existing prices could not continue, owing to increased costs of handling wood. This applies particularly to hardwood which we have been selling at ten dollars a cord, cut in stove lengths. This week this class of wood will be sold at ten dollars a cord, cutting extra. We are still selling slabs cut at four dollars a load and mixed wood at nine dollars a cord cut. Both of these grades have a good percentage of hardwood and are good buying at the prices quoted. This wood is not black with age, having been cut and piled in early part of the past winter. Call and inspect it and lay in your supply before prices go higher. Take the advice of one of the largest local coal and wood dealers who anticipates a worse fuel famine than ever next winter. Get your supply in early.

Our prices for this week are as follows:

Mixed wood—$9 a cord, cut.

Slabs—$4 a load, cut.

Peterborough Planing Mills wood yard, opposite the Braund Building, Charlotte street. Telephone 85. Call and inspect the wood. 6d-111

Board of Works Again Fails to Agree on Bridge Tenders

Voted on Nine Motions and All of Them Were Defeated—Committee Made No Progress and Appears to be Deadlocked—Three Contractors Considered Last Night.

FAIR WAGE CLAUSE REJECTED

The Board of Works made another unavailing effort last night to let the contract for the construction of the Hunter Street Bridge. Three times they voted on three different resolutions designating three contractors, and every one of the nine motions was defeated. Such is the unanimity with which the Board approaches the final act in the preliminary stage of this project. In fact it may be said that the Council, for every member is on the Board of Works, is deadlocked. Last night's shuffle was practically a repetition of Monday's inaction and postponment. It was even more hopeless, for on Monday night there was the excuse of investigating Mr. E. Conroy's relations with the city in connection with the Smith Street Bridge, the greater part of which he built. But last night the Board adjourned at eleven o'clock with the whole question high in the air and no definite proposal or understanding as to when the next session would be called. Ald. Phelan, who presided, remarked during one of numerous pauses that the continued delay in arriving at a decision was becoming a public joke, and his last word at adjournment was the suggestion that the Board would have to get together again to "thresh out this question."

As far as the verbal threshing goes the citizens are doubtless ready to admit that the Council has left nothing undone, and it seemed as if the impatience of the contractors and of the "man on the street" has infected some of the aldermen. With an expression that sounded like "that's pretty nearly enough for me," Ald. McIntyre realized that another fruitless meeting had been written into the minutes, and most of the Council seemed to be of the same mood.

Include Cost Plus Bids

Although the Board had previously committeed themselves to the lump sum tenders, Ald. Turner opened last night's discussion with a motion, seconded by Ald. Edgar, that cost plus tenders be also considered for the purpose of affording the committee the broadest grounds to work on. This motion carried.

Wanted Fair Wage Clause

Ald. Gainey and Garside then submitted a resolution that the fair wage clause be rewritten into the bridge specifications, rescinding Ald. Turner's motion last night, recommending that 40c an hour be paid to labourers and 60c to carpenters. Ald. Gainey pointed out that the lower scale had not affected any of the tenders, contrary to the expectations of the majority of the Council. This motion, however, was lost, only four labour aldermen supporting it.

The Canadian Engineering and Construction Company wrote that they were prepared to offer their lump sum tender of $276,860 on a cost plus basis, guaranteeing that the cost would not exceed that figure. Their fee was included at $26,000.

Note from Quaker Oats Company

Mr. Robert Stuart, of the Quaker Oats Company, Chicago, requested that before the Council decided to build the ramp as originally planned instead of the alternative elevated platform that had been proposed, that the representatives of the company be given the opportunity of an interview.

Separating the motions from the chaff of discussion, more or less relevant, Ald. Edgar first moved, seconded by Ald. Turner that the Russell-Townsend Company's cost plus tender of $226,000 be accepted. Only Mayor Duncan and Ald. Hamilton

LINDSAY HAS LOST ANOTHER INDUSTRY

LINDSAY, May 17.—One of the biggest swindles ever perpetrated on produce men and merchants was that staged during the past two and a half weeks by the S. W. Smith Wholesale Produce Co., of Lindsay, which firm while in business is purported to have done business amounting to $5,000 or $6,000.

It appears that a little over two weeks ago a man by the above name blew into town and opened up an office in the building formerly occupied by the Hydro-Electric Co. on William street south.

In Produce Business.

The office stationery bears the following wording: "S. W. Smith Wholesale Produce Co., Dealers in butter, eggs, hay, grain, and all kinds of poultry—Butter and eggs a specialty. Telephone No. 867."

A Busy Telephone.

The aforesaid Smith said he came from Fort William, and he immediately started into business, the telephone being the most important instrument used. As high as 71 long distance calls a day were put through, Mr. Smith buying a large quantities of goods from merchants and large produce firms throughout the country. Incidentally he communicated with some 246 produce dealers in this manner, and also circularised them, and incidentally also the telephone bill of $200 or $300 remains unpaid.

Produce Tumbled In.

In the course of a day or two produce was shipped in from all directions and the Express Companies had a busy time. It was conveyed to the office on William street, and almost immediately reshipped to Toronto, where it was sold to such firms as Marshalls Ltd., and also one or two shipments to W. S. Smith.

First Goods Paid For.

One or two firms got their money for the first shipments received, but in the majority of cases the firms are still waiting for payments on other shipments, and in the meantime Mr. Smith resold the goods to Toronto firms and received checks for the same. He made a specialty of butter and eggs.

Lost Heavily.

The Barrie Creamery Co., was one of the heaviest losers. They were paid $238.50 on the first shipment, but the second shipment valued at $1,148.80 still remains unpaid.

Mr. J. B. Brownscombe of Uxbridge, also sold considerable goods to the firm in Lindsay, but fortunately arrived in town yesterday morning and found that his last shipment was still here. This he sold to Flavelles Ltd.

A shipment on hand belonging to G. Love & Sons of Hoxton, was also sold this morning.

Left Town Hurriedly.

During the past two weeks, Mr. Smith paid frequent trips to Toronto, the last being on Monday. On Tuesday he telephoned to the Lindsay office, but he has not been heard of or seen locally since.

Warrant For Arrest.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Jos. Berenaky, of Stouffville, swore out a warrant for the arrest of Smith, before Police Magistrate Bradford, the charge being that Smith did obtain goods under false pretences, using a check for the same for which there were no funds in the bank, and knowing that the check would be dishonoured on presentation. Mr. Berenaky's check was for $337.20.

Marshalls Ltd. had paid Smith $500 on one occasion and $900 on another, and it is estimated that he got away with some $5,000.

A CREDITABLE STAND

The Ontario Great War Veterans in convention at Windsor, by their action in turning down what is termed the Calgary resolution, calling for a gratuity of $2000 for every Canadian soldier who reached France, $1500 for those who served in England, and $1000 for every man who was a member of the forces in Canada, have done the cause of their Association a great service. Public sympathy was not behind the Calgary proposal. Hardly a newspaper in the Dominion has spoken favourably of the plan, which has been generally condemned as unsound in principle and almost impossible from an economical stand point. Ontario's returned soldiers in voting over three to one against the proposal, have taken what the public generally will agree is the proper stand. The addresses of the many speakers who denounced the spirit of the resolution, were a rebuke to some of those people who pretend to believe that "the returned soldiers want everything in sight," as one Peterborough man was heard to express it the other day. The veterans, to quote one of the delegates to the Windsor convention, are not asking Canada for a living, but only for an opportunity to earn a living. Their objections to the Western claims for a large gratuity from the Government show that the G.W.V.A. in Ontario is not mercenary in spirit and possesses qualities that will make an Association a power for good in the province. It is safe to say that the organized body of returned soldiers in Ontario never stood higher in the public estimation than it does today.

THE WINNIPEG STRIKE

The industrial unrest in Canada grows from bad to worse. The vast strike in Winnipeg in which over thirty thousand people have left their employment, is the most widespread demonstration that this country has known. Because three firms refuse to recognize the principle of collective bargaining, the whole industrial life of the Western city is demoralized. Even the public servants have joined in the strike, the employees of the Health Department in the face of an epidemic of scarlet fever in one section of the city, going out with the others. That is the worst feature of the Winnipeg situation—that thousands of men whose own condition is not complained of and who have no particular grievance to adjust with their employers, should be led to stop the activities of a whole community, simply because of a quarrel between a few employers and their employees. Loyalty to fellow-workers may be a good thing but what can be said of the violation of obligations to the community?

The "One Big Union" principle, which has been attacked by every sound-minded and patriotic labour leader in the country is responsible for the Winnipeg crisis. And the advocates of the One Big Union are not far removed from the Bolsheviki of Russia, if, indeed, they are not worse. Their doctrine is destruction to the trades union system and is nothing more or less than a frank appeal for the establishment of a proletarian dictatorship.

The situation not only in Winnipeg, but everywhere in Canada is most critical. Where will it all end? Can the country expect to be led out of the difficulties by the present Government of Ottawa, which continues to waste time over non-essentials, while the Dominion is full of men without jobs and jobs without men and the conditions daily grow worse?

A CAUSE OF COMPLAINT

The decision to go outside of Peterborough to find a man to fill a vacancy on the local police force was no doubt accentuated by a desire to secure an experienced policeman who would add to the efficiency of the force. But the wisdom of the policy in view of the fact that there supply must be among the many Peterborough returned soldiers a man capable of filling the position, is open to question. Naturally the appointment of a Hamilton man to the local police department, under the circumstances has aroused a certain amount of complaint. Among many citizens there is a feeling that when the employment situation is in its present far from rosy condition in civic appointments the men who have fought overseas should be given the preference. Private firms have been asked to adopt that principle in taking on men. And if the manufacturers are being urged to employ returned soldiers, why should a diametrically opposite position be taken in connection with a civic department? This is the question that ex-service men in Peterborough are asking, and their objection to the appointment can be easily understood and sympathized with.

A desire to have a police force that shall be as efficient as possible is commendable but was it by any means certain that there was no one among Peterborough's returned soldiers with the qualities necessary for the position?

A LAST WORD

The drive on behalf of the Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, starts Monday morning. All preparations have been made, the canvassers are ready, the committee have done all the advance work that could be done and now the success or failure of the campaign depends upon the public. On the eve of the campaign the Examiner wishes once more to very heartily endorse the merit of the cause and to plead for a hearty and cordial response to the appeal. It is the first occasion upon which the people of Peterborough have been asked to directly assist the War Veterans; for the tag day campaigns that have been conducted here have been for relief work only and not for the general purposes of the organization.

The new G.W.V.A. Hall is a building that will be a credit to Peterborough and that will be a public testimonial to the gratitude of the citizens to the men from this city who fought overseas. The opportunity to help is one that should be welcomed by the public. It will surely not be said of Peterborough that the city utterly failed to appreciate the heroic self-sacrifice of her sons. Peterborough's record during the war is one upon which we might well be proud. Our record during the reconstruction period should be equally creditable. Failure of the campaign next week would be equivalent to a public confession that now that the war is over, the people of Peterborough care nothing for the welfare of the returned soldier, or what becomes of him. But there will be no failure if the spirit of the public matches up to that of the men whom the citizens are asked to help.

The resolution read: "That in all classes of riots taking place among our troops overseas there is a danger that soldiers accused of participating will not be adequately defended by counsel and that the circumstances leading to their being involved in such disturbance will not be properly brought before the tribunal, therefore be it resolved, all such trials shall be held in Canada and that counsel be retained by the G.W.V.A. to safeguard the interests of those who may be placed on trial as aforesaid."

No edge without stropping

Provide a barber with a number of the highest-priced razors obtainable and stipulate that he must use a new razor on every individual customer and he would refuse if he valued his trade.

Stropping, you see, is needful because it removes the roughness of the new blade and re-aligns the saw-like edge that shaving produces; because it keeps the blade free from rust; and because it is the only means that will provide you each morning with a keen edge for shaving.

You don't take the blade out to sharpen it; nor do you take the AutoStrop Razor apart to clean it. From first to last—stropping, shaving and cleaning—you never need to remove the blade from the razor.

You can get an AutoStrop Razor anywhere—razor, strop and 12 blades, complete, in attractive case, for $5.00.

THEATRICAL Notes

CYRIL MAUDE.

Mr. Cyril Maude and his supporting company under the direction of Charles Fronman, will appear at the Grand Theatre next Thursday evening in Mr. C. Haddon Chambers' comedy of modern English life entitled "The Saving Grace." Since his last appearance here in "Grumpy," Mr. Maude has made a tour of Australia and New Zealand, and at the conclusion of his present visit in America he will return to England with the expectation of remaining there permanently. It is probable, therefore, that his coming will afford the last opportunities that Peterborough playgoers will have of seeing this most distinguished of British actor-managers. "The Saving Grace" is said to be the finest work that has come from the pen of Mr. Chambers, who already has to his credit such great successes as "The Idler," "The Tyranny of Tears," and "Passers-By." Mr. Maude's company includes Miss Laura Hope Crews, Miss Charlotte Granville, Miss Annie Hughes, Miss Betty Murray, Mr. Edward Douglas and Mr. Stanley Harrison, all of whom are well and favourably known to playgoers.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Wm. H. Kibble's world's greatest production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will appear at The Grand Opera House on Friday, with a special school children's matinee at 3 p.m. Mr. Wm. H. Kibble has successfully solved the problem of combining the old and the new "Uncle Tom's Cabin" into a big spectacular play that leaves out nothing worth retaining of either the straight method or the circus method. All worthy features of the old landmarks are retained, while the thread of the story has been cleverly reconstructed, making it more coherent; this with the introduction of a host of high-class specialties thoroughly in keeping with the piece, goes far toward forming an evening's entertainment. It will be a real loss to miss witnessing. Over thirty people are with the company.

PETERBORO ENTHUSIASTIC OVER HEART-THROB PLAY, "TURN TO THE RIGHT."

This Delightful Comedy Will Last While Stagecraft Endures.

If the cumulative enthusiasm of the large numbers of enquiries at the Grand Opera House is to be accepted as an accurate index of popular feeling, Manager Harry S. Dahn made no mistake when he decided to bring the big New York comedy success, "Turn to the Right," back here again for a return engagement, for a big house is assured. The date of the engagement will be Saturday, May 24th, with a holiday matinee.

This really delightful comedy, with all its simplicity, its sheer human appeal, its rare uplift ment, its cleanliness and its direct address to the better qualities of every human heart, will improve on second acquaintance. It is a play that any person can see again and find much that was missed on a first visit.

A Play That Appeals.

"Turn to the Right" is not a great play in any sense of the word, nor is it very distinguished, but it has been argued successfully that it is a play nobody can see without feeling better for having seen it, and, to quote S. Morgan Powell, the dramatic critic of the Montreal Star, "of how many dramatic productions of the past decade could this be said in justification?"

Kindly Philosophy.

It isn't a pretentious play; it isn't high comedy, or great drama, or touched with satire or barbed with keen wit. It is just a plain, everyday story, told with saving grace of genial humor, illuminated with kindly philosophy and an unfailing sympathetic note.

If you don't think you like this sort of a play don't go to see "Turn to the Right."

If on the other hand you retain recollections of your youth which still have the power to move you, if you have known the beauty and the power of a mother's love, then be careful not to miss this play, and if you have seen it once, go back and see it again, for it will quicken memories that are perhaps sleeping, and in it you will (like Anaeus when he comes to earth) regain the youth that was, after all, the best time of your life.

"TEA FOR THREE."

After triumphantly successful engagements at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, and the Royal Alexandra, Toronto, Miss Elsa Ryan brings to the Grand one night only, Monday, May 26th, her latest offering, "Tea for Three," the comedy which has made all New York take notice in the last 12 months when it has been running at the Maxine Elliott Theatre. Smart, sprightly and diverting, "Tea for Three" contains line after line of epigrams that sparkle and snap like live wires and much witty repartee in addition to amusing and original situations. It has been called by many writers the best society comedy ever written by an American and its author placed on a par with George Bernard Shaw for the keenness of his philosophy and subtlety of his wit.

Miss Ryan, in a most interesting part as Doris, the young wife, around whom the story centres, has surpassed her already high standard as a comedienne, and in the more serious moments displays a versatility that makes her performance an unfailing source of pleasure. Her winsome personality is well suited to the new role and she presents a radiant appearance in the smart and beautiful gowns which the part requires. In this respect, varying exceedingly from the simple costumes of Annie, the little nurses' helper in "Out There" and Peg's shabby clothes. Assisting the star is that capable actor, Norman Hackett, Hayden Stevenson and others.

added their support. It is understood of course that only the narrow bridge was considered. The injunction bogey has scared most of the Council away from the wide bridge.

Ald. Taylor moved that the contract be let to the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company on their guaranteed bid of $276,860, but no one volunteered as a seconder.

Ald. McIntyre then proposed, with Ald. Garside seconding him, that Mr. Conroy's lump sum tender of $251,639.35 be accepted. Aldermen Phelan and Gainey voted with them. Thus the first round resulted in a draw.

The Second Ballot

The same motions were set up again with the same result. There was diverting interlude during which some of the aldermen wandered into the police station to see whether the night staff had brought in anything. Mr. Conroy was called in to answer Ald. Turner's criticism of the Smith Street Bridge.

Towards eleven o'clock the third vote was taken to relieve the monotony.

And the Third

Aldermen Turner, Edgar, Hamilton and Mayor Duncan were then to award the contract to the Russell-Townsend Company.

Mayor Duncan seconded Ald. Taylor's effort in behalf of the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company.

"I've got a seconder anyway this time," Ald. Taylor remarked, but that was all the support he did get.

Ald. McIntyre and Garside submitted their motion in favour of Mr. Conroy's tender, and once more they attracted only Aldermen Phelan and Gainey. So ended the third round, and Ald. Phelan distributed the "pass out" checks for the next session.

Wanted Cheque or Contract

Mr. Nevin, of the Russell-Townsend Company, like some of the contractors who have worn a path to Peterborough, during the last two months, knows the Council by their first names by this time and doubtless has made the acquaintance of the C.P.R. conductors.

He addressed the Board briefly last night stating that his firm had learned that the committee intended to make their decision and he wished to present final argument for their tender. Mr. Russell declined to alter his original cost plus bid. "He would not consider in these uncertain times the lump sum idea, but the company offered their large experience, plant and ability, assuring an honest, satisfactory job. Mr. Nevin felt confident that the bridge would not cost more than the estimated $228,600, but he could not guarantee it.

"The 'chief' told me to bring back the contract or our cheque tonight. If we don't get the contract, and you give us the cheque, we shall be glad to come in later on our original tender if you want us," he said.

Wouldn't Take a Chance

Ald. Turner said he couldn't understand why this company should refuse to make a lump sum bid.

"I had hoped that you would give us a lump sum bid tonight," Ald. Turner added.

"We don't want to leave any of our good money in that bridge," Mr. Nevin replied.

Ald. McIntyre—"You won't take any chance. You won't guarantee any figure."

Mr. Nevin—"The city is not running any chance. The only element of chance is whether or not we are capable and efficient enough to handle this job. We can say that two of the competitors for this contract are trying to get Mr. Townsend from us for the engineering work. We provide our plant, our experience and the ability of our staff."

Ald. Garside reminded Mr. Nevin of the threatened injunction.

Mr. Nevin—"I am willing to guarantee now that none of you men will lose one cent if this job is done by us on the cost plus basis."

Fees Guaranteed

After the first ballot, Ald. Phelan remarked that the cost plus figures were only estimates. Nothing was guaranteed.

"They guarantee their fees," said Ald. McIntyre. "One man wants $13,000 and another $28,900."

Ald. Phelan—"I can't vote for the cost plus. I don't think the people are behind us on that basis."

Ald. Morrison—"Where did we leave off at the last meeting?"

Ald. Phelan replied that the Board had adjourned to consider Mr. Conroy's offer to make any settlement to the city that might be agreed upon by his and the city's solicitors.

No Definite Report

City Solicitor Widdifield informed the committee that his predecessors, Mr. E. H. D. Hall and Mr. G. N. Gordon had with himself met Mr. R. R. Hall, representing Mr. Conroy, but no conclusion had been arrived at. The lawyers acting for the city were examining certain papers to find out what amount Mr. Conroy might be liable for. Mr. Conroy had asked that if he had to pay anything that the city's rights be surrendered to him in order that he could take action against Mr. Bogue.

Ald. Turner's Criticism

Referring to the Auburn dam, the Hydraulic Power dam and the Smith Street Bridge, built respectively by Clarke and Mond, John O'Toole and E. Conroy, Ald. Turner stated that the first two works were monuments to their contractors, but the Smith Street Bridge was a credit to nobody. There was a crack in one of the spans and it was only a matter of time until it would disintegrate and fall to pieces.

"I'd be afraid to let the contract to Mr. Conroy," Ald. Turner said.

"How about the Buckhorn dam," asked Ald. McIntyre, defending Mr. Conroy.

Ald. Phelan—"Mr. Conroy didn't build the railing of the Smith Street Bridge. That was done by the city and it is a poor piece of work."

Ald. Turner—"It might be asked, why is Mr. Weller, of Concrete Constructors, off the Welland Canal now. Is it to better himself or because he is getting old and falling behind? I don't want to do anybody an injustice, nor to build a bridge that would be a reproach to the Council."

Ald. Edgar spoke in favour of the Russell-Townsend Company and said he had heard them highly recommended. Their tender allowed a margin of $23,000 below the lowest lump sum bid. He believed the Board would be safe in accepting their tender.

Ald. McIntyre suggested that Ald. Edgar's informants or authorities should be named. "It is easy to make statements," he added.

Mr. Conroy Called

In fairness to Mr. Conroy he should be given a chance to reply to Ald. Turner, Ald. McIntyre stated, and Mr. Conroy was called by telephone.

Mr. Conroy said that Ald. Turner's statements were extreme. The crack he mentioned was due to the lack of expansion joints in the pier, and these joints were not called for in the specifications. The contractor, he added, was required to follow the specifications of the engineer.

Ald. Turner said he was simply considering the bridge contract from the standpoint of the ratepayers of whom Mr. Conroy himself was one. There was no animus in his criticism, he added, and he and Mr. Conroy would be as friendly as ever. Mr. Conroy reciprocated this expression, and after he departed the Board voted the third and last time and went home in the rain.

MANY SURPRISES REVEALED IN A TRIP AROUND THE PETERBORO SCHOOLS WITH SCHOOL NURSE

Some of the Conditions Which System Aims to Correct—Whole Family Uses One Toothbrush—Reasons for Sending Children Home With a Note and Prescription.

A TRIP WITH MISS MAYE JORY

Through the efforts of the School Nurse, Miss Maye Jory, standards of cleanliness, hitherto unknown, have been introduced into hundreds of homes in the city, and the results are plainly visible to any interested visitor making a round of the city schools. In her daily duties Miss Jory comes in touch with over four thousand children during the year in the six schools she visits, and obtains a pretty accurate idea of what the home conditions of each child are. The little and big children examined have no hesitation in most cases in telling a straightforward story of their home life and why conditions existing are not corrected.

In each day Miss Jory covers one school, and starting with the lower classes works up to the higher grades, carefully examining each of the little ones and each of the older ones reported by the teachers, who are ever ready to co-operate with the School Nurse, as being suspicious.

Thorough Examination.

The routine examination takes the form of a miniature clinic held in the cloakroom. Upon the nurse's appearance in the school room, a visible wave of activity passes over the class and any delinquent scholars hastily perform a previously forgotten toilet on their finger nails, which neglect they know will be immediately spotted by the nurse. Each examination, the nurse explained, means fewer who have to perform this duty, as they are gradually becoming used to doing it at home.

The Clinic.

The clinic opens by the teacher letting one child after another file into the cloakroom, where each is asked the same questions:

Have you a tooth brush of your own?

How often does your mother give you a bath?

Who dresses you in the morning?

Then follows a thorough examination of the child's hair. To each of the questions the child readily answers, and in some cases the nurse finds that a whole family, father, mother, and the children, uses one tooth brush. A bath a week is practically always the answer to the second question. "No, never on Sunday; always on Saturday night."

The operation most keenly objected to is the examination of the throat. The little ones are in some cases most averse to the insertion of the tongue depressor, and generally burst into tears and hide their faces in the nurse's lap. Only a practical demonstration upon some more willing victim who knows by experience that the tongue depressor holds no horrors, causes the little ones to reluctantly submit to the operation. The throat and mouth examination brings to light in many cases hitherto unsuspected cases of enlarged tonsils and a shocking neglect of teeth. Miss Jory said that no amount of advice seems to have any effect upon some mothers in causing them to have their little ones' teeth attended to, and regardless of her repeated warnings the six-year molars, which are permanent, are allowed to decay.

In this work, as well as in the medical work, she feels keenly the need of a doctor paid by the Board of Education to follow up her work, and tell the parents the work she advises absolutely must be done. The teacher as well as the nurse notices a remarkable improvement in the teeth and in the cleanliness of the pupils since a school nurse was appointed four years ago.

Worst Enemy.

One of the worst enemies the nurse has to combat with is head vermin. Realising that one case of an infested head means a whole room infected in no time, the nurse takes the utmost care that no case goes unnoticed and unreported. Directly a case is discovered, and many are, the child is despatched home with a note to his parents and a printed prescription upon how to remedy the condition. The pupil is then expected to remain at home until all signs of life in his head have disappeared.

Under the supervision of Miss Jory uncleanliness cannot prevail in a home from which a pupil comes to the city schools, and through the pupil's being educated into the ways of cleanliness, the parent comes to a realisation that such a condition must penetrate into the home or investigation will ensue, and the children will be made uncomfortable.

In all her work, the Nurse has enjoyed the hearty co-operation of Dr. C. H. Amys, Medical Officer of Health, who is ever ready to lend any assistance; but she still feels the need as before mentioned of a doctor paid to work with her.

Disclosures as to Living Conditions

Packing House Employees Prepare Evidence For Conciliation Board.

TORONTO, May 17.— Pathetic disclosures as to the conditions under which members of the Packing House Employees' Union are living are made in a series of replies which Louis Braithwaite, secretary of the unnion has received as a part of the material forming the men's case before the Board of Conciliation. These replies disclose the futility of many a breadwinner, single-handed, to combat against misery, his sole recourse being to enlist on his side the labour of his immature children. Case after case indicates that children of fourteen, fifteen and sixteen years of age, all of whom should be attending school, are forced to work to contribute their mite to the family treasury.

F. W. Woolworth Co. 40th Anniversary

The Fortieth Anniversary Sale of the F. W. Woolworth Company's 5c, 10c, and 15c stores in Canada and the United States marks one of the most remarkable successes of a wonderful buying organization The surprising feature about the Woolworth organisation is that, though it is composed of ten hundred and thirty-eight stores, each store is an individual unit conducting its own affairs in accordance with well worked out plans. As in the Peterborough store, so in all the others, each store is in charge of a manager, who worked up his own business from the bottom.

Mr. F. C. Hungerford, the recently appointed manager of the Peterborough store, has had a heavy week or month of it, preparing and planning for this 40th Anniversary, which has been in full swing all week.

Every day there has been enthusiastic crowds of shoppers in response to the well advertised specialties arranged for the occasion. The interior of the store has been put in gay attire with red and white bulletins and other decorations, and it is safe to say that the many cash girls must have had loaded cash registers to their credit to hand over at the close of each day.

Of the Canadian company's saleslaadies, 162 have been in the service for five years or more, 321 more than three years, 587 more than two years, 982 more than one year. In 1918 the Canadian company paid its employees $1,393,569.25. Every employee receives a cash Christmas bonus after being with Woolworths for one year. When a girl employee of three years' or more service leaves to get married she is given a substantial cash wedding present.

A very interesting and handsomely printed souvenir booklet of the Woolworth Co. was distributed free during this Anniversary Sale, a copy of which may be had on request.

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvelously beautiful hair, which, when loosened from its coils, falls to her knees. Moreover it is of soft, silky and fluffy texture and in colour a glorious, glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said:

"Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in colour, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different tonics, but they never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well-known physician. It is said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Compose and mixing with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals and applying to the scalp each night with the finger tips that new hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it and had my druggist mix 2 ounces of the Lavona de Compose with 6 oz. of Bay Rum and 1-8 dr. of Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. My how quickly my hair did grow. First the hair stopped falling, the itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet and, while, of course, I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it at least until my hair reaches the floor, I might have stopped and been perfectly satisfied at the end of three months. I think that any woman can get long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription as I have recommended it to several friends and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it."

Those who use it should be careful not to get it on the face or where the hair is not desired.

The Mothers' Pension Commission of Delaware, created two years ago, will receive a substantial increase for its work and also an enlarged contingent fund.

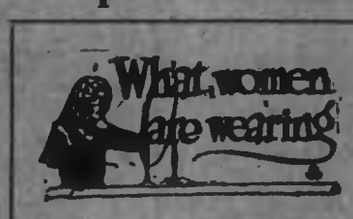
We Have Assembled A Wonderful Showing of New Tailleurs and Sport Suits

Suits of all Kinds, Chic and Smart for the Holiday Season

This has been an unprecedented suit season—with a variety of styles and designs heretofore unequalled. Russian blouse, box coats, and belted models; it is a matter of individual preference. One and all represent the season's most popular lines—the straight and slender silhouette. If you have waited until now to buy your suit, we can still offer you a varied and comprehensive array of styles, and the range of materials is just as extensive as we could possibly procure. We mention here, two very distinct models and invite you to come in and see the others.

Wool Jersey—of elegant quality, makes an extremely smart and serviceable Suit. This particular model comes in a deep purple shade. It is fashioned with the new Muffler Collar, that will pull through and fasten at the back. The collar, turn-back cuffs, and pocket trimmings are of Grey Jersey Cloth. Plain pocket trimmed Skirt, on corresponding lines. The price, $55.00.

Distinctively modish is a beautiful Suit of Poilus Blue Silk Tricolette. The Coat has a cuff bottom, button trimmed, and flat roll collar, running down to the cuff of Coat. It is fastened with a narrow sash belt over a dust colour Tricolette Vest. The price is $79.00.



It's a great suit season, with a toss-up between the box coat, the blouse suit and the belted models—all smart and becoming and everybody satisfied.

The Russian note is seen everywhere this season in the detail of design, bits of embroidery, and in the blouse line of many new frocks and gowns.

Flowers are blooming on women's hats—thanks to Peace, Paris and ye good old summer time.

What could be smarter on a well poised head than one of the new, little narrow brimmed low crowned hats with bandeau trimming of flowers in gay colorings.

With the whole stock in trade of blues predominating, it is to be expected that navy blue would be preferred.

Be not deceived by the short skirts that Paris insists on. New York has it's own way with skirts long and narrow. Some pleated models are shown for sport wear.

spun before it is delivered to the dye house, and finally returns to the basement for delivery as a finished yarn through the selfsame entrance it was received from the ends of the earth. That is no exaggeration. Its very truth may enlarge one's knowledge of geography, and in any event must emphasise the vast commonplaces of industry. The Bonner-Worth Company imports cape wools from South Africa, also Australian, New Zealand, South American, English and Scottish. Naturally, they vary in quality and length, depending upon their native climates. Thus the long, coarse-fibred wool is obtained from the sheep of cold countries, Scotland, particularly the north, for example, and shorter, fine varieties come from comparatively warm countries. Scottish wools enter into the manufacture of low-grade carpets, others provide the rough tweeds. The English, Australian, and Cape wools are used principally for hosiery, knited goods, and for the weaving of cloths.

It cannot fail to be an absorbing if profitless thought that all these grades and varieties of wool are assembled in the Bonner-Worth storerooms and shipped out as finished yarn to be made into socks and stockings, sweaters and "slip-ons," and also cloth for the garments of many of the men of women of this country and perhaps for some of those across the seas.

Combing and Drawing

The ribbon or rope of wool unwinding freely from the "top" is called the "sliver." It is first introduced to the "gill box" to be combed and slightly drawn. The sliver is originally more or less tangled and since its destiny is a fine yarn or thread it will be understood that the successive operations are all designed to straighten out the fibres, draw them parallel and elongate them so that they may be spun into a uniform thread.

The gill box's duty therefore is to attenuate and parallelize the wool fibres; its essential parts are a feed board, fluted feed rollers, a set of fine serried steel pins through which the sliver passes as through a comb, and drawing off rollers at the end. The feed rollers grasp the ribbon of wool and draw it through the many rows of steel combs. This sliver is usually a combination of the slivers from a number of tops, depending upon the quality of yarn to be made. Thus two or three grades of wool may be required to make a particular yarn. One gill box when observed was being fed from seven tops placed on the floor beneath the first rollers. The combing process is intricate enough in its way. The combs exert a pull upon the main sliver and the secondary rollers, set at a faster speed than the feed rollers which deliver it, increase the tension.

Slivers Are Attenuated.

Emerging from the gill box the original seven slivers which constitute this specimen batch of wool have lost their individual identities. They are now united in a combined sliver and delivered to the set of four or five drawing machines where they are submitted to different drafts and twists. The drawing process began with the gill box and continues throughout the set of machines, but the first elementary twist or spin begins in the first drawing machine where there is also a second combing. It may be sufficiently explanatory to state that one gill box supplies the entire set with slivers that are identical. The process throughout the drawing machines is simply one of continuous union and reduction of slivers for the purpose of drawing out the wool fibres to their full length and at the same time of combining them together for the purpose of making a thread of uniform size and strength.

The drawing method throughout the set is similar in action to that used on the gill box. The sliver or "ends" to be united are caught up between two rollers rotating at a fixed speed and are inserted between two others that are moving slightly faster. It will be evident that this exerts a pull upon the new sliver. The two sets of rollers can be exactly regulated, and are always separated by the length of a single wool fibre. This length is ascertained before the batch to be used for the certain shipment of yarn is started through the "set." In other words the operations are minutely exact. The reason for separating the two sets of rollers by the length of the wool fibre is to avoid any possibility of the sliver breaking. By this means the continuity of the sliver is assured. In passing it may be remarked that the simple fibres readily attach to one another. Under a microscope they present a serrated or rough surface which enables them to adhere or interlock to each other. Hence the drawing process is to elongate these fibres to their full extent and combine as many as possible of them into the thread that is finally desired.

1,344 Doublings in One Thread

In the first drawing machine two slivers or rather "ends," are united or doubled, drawn out and given an initial light twist. The resulting sliver may be thinner than either of its constituents. It is in turn wound on spindles and passed to a four-spindle machine where the doubling and drawing is continued. The next is a six and finally two eight-spindle machines. By this doubling and redoubling the slivers are made thoroughly uniform, are compacted and by the drawing and twisting are steadily reduced in size. In the set of drawing machines observed, the doublings of the slivers just mentioned were in the ratios of seven to one in the gill box, four to one, four to one, four to one and three to one in the successive drawing machines. There may be in some work another doubling in the "rover." Consider these ratios as fractions, multiply the numerators and the result is a total of 1,344 doublings. If the wool were loosely combined such an operation would be utterly impossible, but by the drawing process the slivers are compacted or condensed, and are ready for the next machine known as a "rover."

There are six sets in the Bonner-Worth Company's drawing room, each a formidable array of machines, capable of making six different qualities of yarn at the same time. When all are employed, they use from 5,000 to 6,000 pounds of yarn a day.

Reducing the Sliver

The "rovers" are machines independent of the drawing sets. There are thirty spindles on each, but only one or two ends are combined at this stage, depending upon the size of the thread that is required. The twist in this operation is so strong that the thread is almost completed. It is on the spinning, however, that the final operation is performed. The new cap spinning frames at the Bonner-Worth factory are 27 feet long and are composed of 160 spindles in two banks of 80 each. The spindles rotate at a speed of 6,000 revolutions a minute.

As stated above the "ends" from the rover are reduced almost to the required thread. In the final doubling the twist is so great that it takes a day and one-half for the average spinning frame spindle to unwind one of the bobbins from the "rover." And with that, the thread or "count," as it is technically called, is finished.

The Standard "Count"

The purpose or objective of all these operations was to make a yarn of certain size and weight, in other words a particular "count." Orders are received by the company for yarns of different counts, that is yarns of certain weight. Number one count is the standard, and of that size of yarn 570 yards weigh one pound. The yarn observed in the above operation was an 18-count, which means that 10,260 yards of it would weight one pound.

Other Machinery

Details of the automatic mechanism of the machinery are too intricate to explain, and yet it is in some of these details that the machines act as if they were endowed with sentiency.

In another department there is a two-ply twisting frame, the name of which is self-explanatory. There are 140 spindles to each frame which is the usual 27 feet in length. There is an automatic stop motion on each spindle which when one thread accidently breaks, immediately cuts the others, thus guaranteeing two plies throughout every inch of the yarn.

Another type of machine is the universal twister which makes a yarn or from two to six plies as required. It also presents a fine of 140 spindles, and makes domestic yarns which are wound into one ounce balls. When one of the single threads breaks, the spindle only stops, but the operator quickly rejoins the thread.

How Spinners Are Paid

On the fly spinning frames the entire 160 bobbins are "doffed" from their spindles by a simple and easy movement, and by a reverse turn empty bobbins replace them and immediately begin filling. The cap frames are automatically "self-doffed." A girl operator dumps her filled bobbins into a fiber can, and herself takes them to an automatic Toledo scale where a boy weighs and initials every weight check. She is paid on the basis one one hundred pounds, the price varying according to the "count."

The Reeling Department.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY'S WORK

DEPENDS UPON GOOD BLOOD TO NURISH THE BODY

Weak People Need a Tonic, One Which Acts Directly Upon the Blood and That Does Not Weaken the Body by Useless Purging.

There are thousands of people throughout Canada who are without ambition or strength to do their day's work, and who are always tired out, have but little appetite and a poor digestion. They cannot get a refreshing night's sleep and are subject to headaches, backaches and nervousness, because their blood is impure. To men and women in this condition Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give quick relief and permanent cure because of their direct action on the blood which they build up to its normal strength. As the blood becomes rich and red it strengthens the muscles, tones up the nerves, makes the stomach capable of digesting food, and repairs the wastes caused by worry or work. In a word, the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills means restoration to perfect health.

BLOOD TURNED TO WATER

Miss Jessie McLean, Trenton, N.S., says:—"I was as weak as it was possible for any one to be, and yet be able to go about. My blood seemed to have turned almost to water. I was pale, the least exertion would leave me breathless, and when I went up stairs I would have to stop and rest on the way. I often had severe headaches, and at times my heart would palpitate alarmingly. A good friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I have reason to be grateful that I took the advice. Soon after beginning the use of the Pills I began to get stronger, and by the time I had taken seven boxes I felt that I was again enjoying good health. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to weak girls and I shall always warmly recommend them."

RHEUMATIC PAINS

The sufferer from rheumatism who experiments with outward applications is only wasting valuable time and good money in depending upon such treatment, the trouble still remains, and is all the time becoming more firmly rooted—harder to cure when the proper treatment is applied. Treat this disease through the blood and you will soon be rid of the pains and tortures. As a cure for rheumatism Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are unequalled. They act directly on the impure, weak blood; they purify and strengthen it, and so root out the cause of rheumatism. Mr. D. Lewis, postmaster at Escuminac, N.B., says: "I was attacked with rheumatism, which settled in my elbow, shoulder and knee joints, and at times caused me great suffering. The trouble was particularly severe last spring and I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking the Pills for some time the rheumatic pains and stiffness in the joints disappeared and I have not had any return of the trouble."

A GOOD DIGESTION

Mrs. William Dale, Midland, Ont., says:—"I suffered for a long time from a severe form of indigestion, and had doctored so much without benefit that I had all but given up hope of getting better. Everything I ate caused me intense pain and some days I did not touch a thing but a cup of cold water, and even that distressed me. As a result I was very much run down, and slept so poorly that I dreaded night coming on. I was continually taking medicine, but was actually growing worse instead of better. Having often read the cures made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I finally decided to give them a trial. I have had great cause to bless this decision, for by the time I had used a couple of boxes there was no doubt the pills were helping me, and in less time than I had anticipated, the pills had cured me, and I was again enjoying not only good digestion, but better health in every way than before."

ALWAYS FEELS FIT

The wonderful success of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is due to the fact that they go right to the root of the disease in the blood, and by making the vital fluid rich and red strengthen every organ and every nerve, thus driving out disease and pain, and making weak, despondent people bright, active and strong. Mr. W. T. Johnson, one of the best known and most highly esteemed men in Lunenburg County, N.S., says:—"I am a Provincial Land Surveyor, and am exposed the greater part of the year to very hard work travelling through the forests by day and camping out by night, and I find the only thing that will keep me up to the mark is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I leave home for a trip in the woods I am as interested in having my supply of pills as provisions, and on such occasions I take them regularly. The result is I am always fit. I never take cold, and can digest all kinds of food such as we have to put up with hastily cooked in the woods. Having proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as a tonic and health builder, I am never without them and I lose no opportunity in recommending them to weak people I meet."

SKIN TROUBLE CURED

Mrs. W. Ritchie, Parkbeg, Sask., says:—"Two years ago I was attacked with eczema on my hands, I tried almost everything that was advised, but as the trouble was growing worse I consulted a doctor and took his treatment for some time with no better results. By this time my hands were a mass of sores and I began to despair of finding a cure. A friend strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. After using two boxes I could see an improvement and I got a further supply. I used altogether eight boxes, by which time every trace of the eczema had disappeared and there has been not a single symptom of the trouble since that time. I gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for troubles of this kind."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be kept in every home and their occasional use will keep the blood pure and ward off illness. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BOARD OF TRADE ACTIVITIES

Committee activities of the Board of Trade have quickly followed the unusually large general meeting on Friday evening of last week. The initial meetings of committees are being held for the purpose of organizing and discussing the field of work for each.

The committee on Industrial Welfare, composed of Messrs. E. F. Mason, Edgar Worth and John J. Hartley, has held two or three meetings. They have taken up the problem of the better feeling and an improved relationship between employee and the employer, with the object of enlisting the sympathetic and cordial support of all interests in making Peterborough a co-operative industrial center. President J. J. Turner in speaking of this matter said, "Much of the misunderstanding that has occurred is due to the fact that the get-together spirit has not been cultivated as much as the get-apart spirit, and everyone who is concerned in the upbuilding of the city knows that the latter is worse than useless, for it is often destructive."

The question of improved service between Peterborough and Toronto with special reference to the arrival of the C.P.R. local, has been taken up by the transportation committee, following the instruction of the general meeting of the Board. They have communicated with Canadian Pacific officials and have received assurance that the matter will be given immediate and favourable consideration.

The individual membership of the Board is steadily increasing, some twenty-five or more applications having been received since the first election of members on the 9th.

THE BEST-MEDICINE FOR LITTLE ONES

Thousands of mothers state positively that Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine they know of for little ones. Their experience has taught them that the Tablets always do just what is claimed for them and that they can be given with perfect safety to children of all ages. Concerning them Mrs. Joseph Therrien, St. Gabriel de Brandon, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I know of for little ones. I thought I would lose my baby before trying the Tablets, but they soon made him healthy and happy and now I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Ald. McIntyre Well Pleased With Result

When seen this morning, Ald. A. A. McIntyre expressed his pleasure at the action of the Great War Veterans at Windsor in selecting Peterboro for their 1920 Convention. While in Windsor a few days ago on city business Ald. McIntyre addressed the War Veterans in their convention hall and invited them to come to Peterboro next year.

Real Wonder-Worker For Wrinkled Faces

Those who have tried all sorts of so-called "wrinkle removers" in a vain effort to lose those unwelcome traces of age, illness or worry, can scarcely find words to express their delight with the wonderful saxolite formula, once they have given it a trial. The success of this method is due not alone to its marvelous effectiveness — upon the deepest lines and crowsfeet, as well as upon the very fine ones—but also to its surprisingly quick action and its entire harmlessness. Its simplicity is another commendable feature, for one need only dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel, and bathe the face in this solution. At once a remarkable transformation is beheld.

It is not only the effect on wrinkles and creases that is no noticeable, but facial contour is remarkably improved and the face looks much younger. One should be sure to ask the druggist for the powdered saxolite. The lotion, being so refreshing, is particularly grateful to tired faces.

Bread Lines Have Made Their Appearance in Winnipeg as a Result of the Strike

Grocery Stocks Have Been Depleted and Suffering and Want are Staring People in the Face—Lots of Activity for the Volunteer Firemen.

NO PROSPECTS OF SETTLEMENT

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, May 17. —The third day of the general strike in Greater Winnipeg opened to-day with lines of isolation drawn closer. Only Commercial Telegraph wires keep the outside world in touch with Winnipeg and enables Winnipeg to get occasional glimpses of what is going on in the great beyond. This opening may be closed by noon, and this city of a quarter of a million people, head of the great Canadian grain trade and the cattle market of the west, capital of the province of Manitoba, will be shut in. The future is dark and the situation precarious, as Mayor Gray states. More unions went out today and the strikers' ranks were further augmented. The bread line was longer today, but there is no actual suffering, except among infants requiring fresh milk.

(Special to Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, May 17. — On the strike vote taken by the pressmen, stereotypers and electrotypers a three quarter majority was secured. One newspaper manager said to-day that there was not one chance in a million that the papers would be allowed to operate until the strike is over. The printers were loyal to the end but the young blood in other unions prevailed.

A surprising feature of the strike is the practical endorsement of the soldiers, when at a mass meeting in the Board of Trade building they declined to disapprove by resolution of the Bolsheviki tactics now ruling. This has awakened the citizens to the gravity of the situation like nothing else has.

The policemen have stated that they will remain on duty so long as the soldiers are kept off the streets by the authorities. Whenever soldier rule begins in Winnipeg, the police will join the strikers.

A Little Fracas.

The Musicians' Union did not go out on strike, not being members of the Federation. Several went to the Labor Temple to find out their status. They were met by several strong minded Radicals outside the building, and in the melee which followed, clothes were torn off the players and the police stopped the trouble with difficulty. This indicates the sensitive temper of the strikers, which may break into more serious consequences at any time. It is expected that General Ketchen will be asked to take charge over Sunday, although the Mayor is anxious to keep the soldiers in the background as long as possible.

In the meantime there is a long bread line at the Canada Bread Company's place, and also at the other bakeries.

All the stores have been cleared out of flour and no deliveries are being made from the mills. Grocery stocks have been depleted and suffering and want are staring people in the face. No ice has been delivered.

Telegraphers Out.

With the going out of the telegraphers the Grain Exchange will be put out of business. Twenty million dollars worth of new buildings is being held up.

Last night one was forcibly reminded of war and its relation to social unrest by the appearance of so many men on the sidewalks wearing Veterans' buttons. The only excitement was occasioned by the frequency of the appearance of the fire department. Inquiry would have informed the curious that the men who had volunteered to fill the places of the men on strike were getting some training, but the inquirer would also have learned that there were more calls than practice calls for, and that the element that takes advantage of any unusual situation in a community was employing its time by giving the volunteers a little more practice than the chief had laid out for them.

"There is absolutely no change," said Secretary Robinson this morning —"all the Unions are standing firm. There has been no communication with the other side and theer is at present no prospect of any."

Mayor Gray is confident there will be no violence. "We may have to put on extra constables," he told the Fire Water and Light Committee, "but I think the Trade Organizations will do all in their power to see that the strikers do not commit damage."

S. O. S. CALL FOR MINISTER OF LABOR

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 17. — Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labour, has received a wire from Mayor Gray of Winnipeg, inviting him to come to the scene of the trouble. The Minister intimates that he is willing to go if the employers and the employed show any disposition to confer together in connection with the dispute, but hints that in the present condition of aloofness between the two it would be useless for him to go.

While the dispute at the outset was one which did not directly involve government utilities, such is not the case now; civil servants, railway employees, and telegraph employees are now participants in the strike so that the federal authorities are directly interested.

CITY HALL NEWS

Circus Coming

Robinson's Circus is billed for Peterboro on Tuesday, June 10.

On Romaine Street Sewer

The Romaine street sewer is being filled under the G.T.R. crossing by the non-union gang that has been putting in the Simcoe street surface drain. City Engineer Parsons expects the work to be completed in a day or two.

Arranged for Gravel

Ald. Phelan has arranged with Mr. H. Winch for this season's supply of gravel from the Chamberlen farm at 25c a load. The Board of Works considered the bargain a good one.

Bethune St. Bridge

Another bridge is itching to get into the Council limelight. It is the G.T.R. bridge on Bethune street. New Plans submitted by the company show that it will be built on piles instead of concrete. It threatens to disturb the grade at the Murray street crossing, and there are other objections the City Engineer observed in a "once over." The plans were referred to him last for a report.

Pte. Heber Rogers Is Expected To-day

Was A Prisoner of War in Germany Since Second Battle of Ypres.

Mr. R. B. Rogers received word yesterday that his son Pte. Heber S. Rogers, prisoner of war in Germany since the second battle of Ypres 1915, arrived in Canada by the Royal George and reported on Thursday at hospital in Kingston. He is expected to arrive in the city this afternoon.

Pte. Rogers' arrival in the city is on practically the 4th anniversary of the memorial service held in St. Luke's church in his memory when he had been unofficially reported dead.

He went overseas with Major George Bennet in September 1914, having enlisted when but nineteen years of age and was taken prisoner while seriously wounded holding his machine gun against the enemy in April 1915. After the unofficial report of his death, official notification of his being a prisoner of war came in May 1914. Before going overseas Pte. Rogers was a student at the Collegiate Insiitute.

PENSION INCREASE FOR WAR VETERANS

Government Has Been Considering Matter in Camera.

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 17. — While Sir Thomas White, the Acting Prime Minister, has declared that in view of the tremendous demands upon the treasury, it will be impossible for the Government to entertain the demands of the Calgary and other Great War Veterans' Associations, for a bonus of $2000 per head for members of the Canadian expeditionary force, it is more than probable that certain other demands of the Veterans generally will be conceded. For some time past the Pensions' Committee of the House has been considering, in camera, the question of increased pension allowance, and it has pretty well reached the conclusion that a substantial increase is justified.

The report of the committee will not be presented to the House until the end of the present week, and after that, even if parliament concurs in it, is is for the Government to act or not to act. The report, however, it is understood, will advocate an all-round increase of twenty per cent, in pensions. The committee, it is said, is unanimous in this opinion.

Pte. H. J. Feiley, 553 Romaine street.
Pte. H. R. White, 530 Aylmer.

Sig. F. Podger, 104 Aylmer street.
Sergt. E. B. Patterson.

PTE. HEBER ROGERS,

Who is expected to reach the city this afternoon. Pte. Rogers is a son of Mr. R. B. Rogers, "Beechwood" Farm.

PETERBORO GIRLS GO FRUIT FARMING

Two Registered at Labour Bureau During the Past Week.

Already the girls in the city are commencing to organise to return to fruit farming and the Labour Bureau registered two this week who are prepared to undertake the work. These will be referred to the proper authorities.

Since Saturday of last week 56 applications for work were received from men at the Employment Bureau—53 were placed and 59 vacancies were reported. One man was transferred to the West to work with a farming outfit. An unusual registration received was that from a civil engineer, a returned soldier, out of a position. As yet he has not been placed.

Pte. George Butcher Home This Morning

Was Taken Prisoner at Sanctuary Wood in 1916.

Pte. George Butcher, prisoner of war since 2nd June, 1916, when he was taken by the enemy at Sanctuary Wood, arrived in the city this morning at 8 o'clock.

Pte. Butcher went overseas with the 1st C. M. R., and after his capture was taken to Cologne Hospital, thence to Stendal Camp, and finally to Camp Wittenburg. In December of last year he was repatriated through Sweden and Denmark to England. Asked this morning what treatment he received, he confirmed all stories of previously returned prisoners.

GEE, I'M HAPPY MY CATARRH ALL GONE

Suffered Like a Boob For Years—Got Relief in Ten Minutes.

Catarrhozone Did Cure

That's the way hundreds of the boys around town are talking since Catarrhozone got into the drug stores. Nothing on earth like Catarrhozone to really cure Catarrh, Colds or Bronchitis.

"Catarrhozone"— it isn't a drug — it's a healing vapour full of pine essences and healing balsams. It spreads over the surfaces that are weak and sore from coughing. Every spot that is congested is healed—irritation is soothed away, phlegm and secretions are cleaned out, and all symptoms of cold and Catarrh are cured. Nothing so quick, so sure, so pleasant as Catarrhozone. Beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhozone. All dealers sell Catarrhozone, large size which lasts two months price $1.00; small size 50c.; sample size 25c.

Considerable controversy has been caused in England by the action of the Women's International League in sending a half million rubber nipples to Germany for German babies.

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Doesn't hurt a bit and costs only few cents

Magic! Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the corn off with the fingers. Truly! No humbug!

Try Freezone. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents; sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain soreness or irritation. Freezone is the discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius.

THE RED ARMY CLAIMS A VICTORY OVER ROUMANIA

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 17.—A Vienna despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says that, according to Hungarian official agency reports, M. Grandy Brothers Have Sold Several Fine Young Horses

Their Stock Being Rapidly Picked Up—Are Important Clydesdale Breeders.

Mr. R. C. Grandy, of the firm of Grandy Bros., has recently sold to W. F. Batty, of Brooklyn, Ont., a show filly, "Heather Princess," sired by their good breeding horse, Prince Palatine (7807).

This filly has great size and shows remarkable quality and won first at Guelph Winter Fair last December as a foal in a class of 10 entries. Mr. Batty purposes to show this filly at the big fairs next fall and winter. This filly's dam, "Heather Bell," won first at Toronto and Guelph in the fall and winter of 1917-18, and her foal of 1917 did likewise.

Mr. Grandy also sold at an earlier date to A. C. Chapman, Orono, Ont., another filly, "Princess Patricia," also by the same sire and from his silver cup mare, "Fancy." This filly, like the other, is a good size and has the best of feet and ankles and has won first at Oshawa, Whitby, Bowmanville and Orono.

Grandy Bros. still have "Prince Palatine." He has been continually producing colts of a high calibre, many of them having won prizes at our best fairs, such as Guelph, Toronto, Ottawa, Lindsay, Millbrook, Peterborough and others, and parties wishing to breed this kind of colts would do well to communicate with Grandy Bros.

GUN CLUB SCORES FOR LAST NIGHT

Six Lakefield Members Were on Hand—Belleville Represented.

The Peterborough Gun Club had a very enthusiastic shoot in the rain last night, and, under the conditions, the scores turned in were very good.

The Lakefield members, to the number of six, were on hand, and, although the game is new to them, they are making excellent progress.

Mr. Mott, of the Belleville Gun Club, was on hand and the boys were pleased to see him.

Mr. A. Tivey, who is the oldest trapshooter in the city, was a spectator, but did not shoot owing to the heavy rain.

The executive of the club are very much pleased with the way the gunners are attending the shoots, and feel sure this will be a banner season.

Below are the scores:

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

SAY BACKACHE IS A SIGN YOU HAVE BEEN EATING TOO MUCH MEAT, WHICH FORMS URIC ACID

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a wellknown authority Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

viaduct is a place of comparative calm. The whirr of the spinning bobbins and spindles is missing. In this department the yarn that is to be dyed is unreeled from the bobbins and wound into hanks. A feature of the reelers is a system of gearing by which an entire machine stops with its forty hanks when each of them weighs exactly four ounces. Since they are all reeled uniformly the hanks are of the same set weight.

Of the domestic yarns used in socks, pull-over sweaters and for other articles there are three grades, one, two, and three, with the latter the highest. It may be of interest to the many Red Cross workers and other friends and relatives of the soldiers, to know that the most of the yarn they bought was the "Bonworth" brand No. 1 in khaki or grey. In a few months these yarns will be balled instead of being made up in hanks. Two new qualities of fringing yarn will be introduced to the retail trade shortly by the Bonner-Worth company. They will be known as "Electra" and "Superb" brands.

The Dye House

The dyeing department is a study in itself and by no means the least interesting unit of the Bonner-Worth plant.

There are big hot water vats in which the yarn is scoured to remove the oil. It is then thoroughly rinsed and dyed, rinsed again and finally dried, unless there are other special treatments in store for it.

There are five big kettles in the dyeing room. They are of the size dgr's used in the fairy tale stories, and their capacities range from 150 to 650 pounds. The hanks are stretched taut on triangular frames and immersed in the dyes. In this department the rainbow's colours are put to rout. Between 45 and 50 different shades are used and the preparation of the dyes is an art in itself. Not only are all the familiar colours used, but there are many new and brilliant hues such as peacock green, turquoise blue, rose and tan, to mention some of the most popular this season. It should have been mentioned that the yarn undergoes several bleachings on its way to the final finished state. There are peroxide bleaching vats and following that a sulphur bleach which gives a creamy white appearance to the wool in contrast to the faint bluish effect in the white yarn that has been double bleached.

From the dye vats the hanks of yarn are placed in a "hydro-extractor," a big machine that works on the principle of a cream separator, and by a whirling centrifugal motion, extracts the water almost to the last drop, and to evaporate those drops the yarn is slightly stretched on frames and wheeled into ovens where dry heat from steam coils is blown upon the hanks by electric fans. It is an indirect, circular breeze as hot as a sirocco and in about an hour the yarn is ready for the wrapping department and final export.

The Dining Room

On the south end of the north building the company has converted a large room into a dining room. The ceiling is high, and numerous windows make it an airy and cheerful place with a pleasant prospect upon the creek and the cedars nearby. Its furnishings include a lunch counter with coffee urn, hot water for tea, chocolate, and in summer soft drinks. There are sixteen white topped tables, each accommodating five persons. The chairs are comfortable and the impression this dining room leaves is one of rest and coolness. During the lunch hour a white-coated attendant is at the service of the girls to whom tea and coffee is provided without charge.

This summer the company purposes erecting tables beneath the cedars north of the buildings, where the girls may take their dinners.

Making Grey Yarns

The mixing of black and white yarns in different proportions to secure different shades of grey is an interesting operation. The process is similar to that in the drawing department. Black and white slivers are passed through a gill box and through a set of machines becoming gradually combined as the slivers are doubled and gradually combined. Ten per cent. of black and 90 per cent. of white produce silver, 20 per cent of black and 80 per cent. of white makes a grey yarn, 40 per cent. of black and 60 per cent. of white is called Oxford and 60 per cent. of black and 40 per cent. of white, a dark Oxford.

Other Conditions

As already stated the departments are flooded with light and at every machine there is a window which in summer particularly carries the light particles of fluff to the ventilators. The air is completely changed every two minutes in all seasons. Each girl has a locker for her wraps and hat, and the lavatory accommodation exceeds the requirements of the Factories Act. During the winter the temperature is maintained at approximately 72 degrees which has been found most advantageous for spinning.

The management has endeavoured to anticipate the desires of its employees in providing the best working conditions.

For more than a year the factory has been running on a 50 hour week, which is only two hours more than the 8-hour day proposed by the Peace Conference. Improvements have been carried out steadily and with the purpose of ascertaining the employees' desires. Other changes may be affected when the management learns what will be most appreciated. The friendly spirit that prevails is illustrated by the fact that the management and the department heads, in fact all the men employees address each other by their first names. To the men, Mr. J. W. Worth, is "Joe," and Mr. Edgar Worth, is "Edgar!" There is no aloofness, and the spirit that has been thus engendered has expressed itself not only in the close co-operation in the company's interests and in the welfare of the staff, but also in public movements such as the subscriptions to the Victory Loans, the funds for the soldiers, and in similar enterprises in which the Bonner-Worth people made a splendid showing. A contributing factor to this mutual understanding is the experience of the management before coming to Peterborough. They have both identified themselves with public affairs in this city. Mr. Edgar Worth served two years in the city council as an alderman from the west ward, and made a good impression. It may be said of him as of few of the aldermen in recent years, that he parted company with his personality as Mr. Worth when entering a committee room or the council chamber, and succeeded in viewing the city's business in a detached way that was broad and helpful.

Mr. J. W. Worth is a member of the Board of Education, has taken a lead in trying to secure the bathing facilities Peterborough should have had years ago, and is actively promoting the work of the Playgrounds Association.

Mr. Walter Worth who recently returned from nearly three years in France and England, having been wounded at the front, is just getting back into the harness of industry again.

Business Expansion

Because of tariff uncertainties and the report of the sweeping changes, the company decided some time ago that it was inadvisable to begin the construction of a large weaving mill which they had planned for this year. They have not scrapped the idea entirely, but until there is more assurance of stable conditions in the tariff this building will simply remain a prospect.

At the present, however, the annex building is being enlarged to double its present size to provide more accommodation for expanding departments. Some of the yarn now spinning is for knitting and weaving companies who have received large orders for cloth, underwear and socks for Roumania, a further evidence of the far and wide distribution of the finished product of the wools the Bonner-Worth company collects from the ends of the earth.

Officers of the Company

The officers of the Bonner-Worth Company are:

Mr. Isaac Bonner, president.
Mr. Robinson, of Hamilton, vice-president.
Mr. Edgar Worth, secretary.
Mr. J. W. Worth, factory superintendent.

Mr. Bonner is also general manager of Penmans Limited. Messrs. Edgar and J. W. Worth were superintendents in the worsted plant of Penmans Limited before coming to Peterborough. They have both identified themselves with public affairs in this city. Mr. Edgar Worth served two years in the city council as an alderman from the west ward, and made a good impression. It may be said of him as of few of the aldermen in recent years, that he parted company with his personality as Mr. Worth when entering a committee room or the council chamber, and succeeded in viewing the city's business in a detached way that was broad and helpful.

I Am Public Opinion

All men fear me!

I declare that our returned soldiers shall not have to beg for that which should be freely given to them.

If you have the money and do not give, you will create a no-man's land for yourself.

I will judge you not by an allegiance expressed in mere words.

I will judge you not by your mad cheers as our boys marched away to whatever fate may have had in store for them.

I will judge you not by the warmth of the tears you shed over the lists of the dead and the injured that came to us from time to time.

I will judge you not by your uncovered head and solemn mein as our maimed in battle returned to our shores for loving care.

But, as wise as I am just, I will judge you by the material aid you give to the fighting men who have faced death that you may live and move and have your being in a world made safe.

I warn you, don't talk sentimental patriotism when the money you can spare is not going to help our returned soldiers.

I am Public Opinion!

As I judge, all men stand or fall!

IN MEMORIAM.

McRAE.—At the family residence, in Montreal, on April 17th, 1919, Elizabeth Reid, wife of F. A. McRae, and mother of Mrs. J. Arthur Robinson, King street, Peterborough.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of Bert N. Harper, son of John Harper, North Monaghan, who passed away May 17th, 1918.

Another loved one called away
Into the great unknown;
The summons came, he must obey,
For life was not his own.
And in the business of this life
He was upright and true,
Avoiding every cause of strife,
He helped the needy, too.
With every ill, life still held claims,
He battled hard to stay,
But while upheld in loving arms,
He swiftly passed away.
Oh dear one who has passed away
Our hearts are filled with pain;
But in that land that knows no fear
We hope to meet again.

We softly smoothed his dark brown hair,
Arranged his snowy bed with care,
Placed in the narrow cot his form once strong and gay,
And bore him softly, silently away
With aching hearts and tears of bitter woe,
Unto his resting place, where all one day must go.

Parents dear, mourn not for him,
To God his spirit pure returned,
Lord teach us from our hearts to say,
Thy will on earth be done.
We wanted so to keep him here,
For he to us was very dear,
But Jesus said it could not be—
He wanted him to dwell on high,
God knows how much we miss him,
He knows the tears we shed,
And whispers "hush," he only sleeps,
Your loved one is not dead.

—From a Loving Friend.

WAITS 6 YEARS FOR FORTUNE; IS TOLD ESTATE IS INSOLVENT

Is, in a Class With David Kidd Byrne

NEW YORK. — Townsend P. Smith, of No. 3,668 Olinville avenue, the Bronx, waited six years to share in what he believed was an ample fortune left by his grandmother, Mrs. Emma Louise Pinkney. His patience was rewarded this week, with the knowledge that she died insolvent.

The grandson who appeared before Surrogate Cohalan, wanted to know why his uncle, Cornelius S. Pinkney, a lawyer, with offices in the Woolworth Building and living at No. 716 Madison avenue, delayed filing an accounting of the estate.

Through his counsel, Mr. Pinkney explained that he with other members of the family, believed their mother had left more than $300,000 in a safe deposite box. But when the box was opened to their great astonishment it produced only a promissory note for $5,000.

Mr. Pinkney explained the family deferred filing an accounting because they did not want it known their mother had died a bankrupt. However, the grandson thought it strange that Mr. Pinkney had permitted his bond of $50,000 as administrator to remain effective when there was no estate to administer, and Surrogate Cohalan directed the son to render an accounting within twenty days.

BENEFIT CONCERT FOR THE LABOURERS

A concert in aid of striking labourers will be held in Victoria Hall on Tuesday May 27th under the auspices of the Trades and Labour Council. These men have no fund to depend upon as have most of the Unions, and it is felt that they deserve the support they will soon need. Two thousand tickets have been ordered, some of the best talent in the city has already been offered, and the concert begins already to look like a success.

DANCE WILL BE BIG FEATURE

The dance and at home to be given on Friday night next, May 23rd, in the new G. W. V. A. Hall, by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Great War Veterans, will be one of the big events of next week. The new hall has the finest floor in the city. Good music will be provided and the dance promises to be a great success.

DENIES PRE-NATAL INFLUENCE ON CHILD

BALTIMORE, —"There is absolutely no such thing in the science of medicine as prenatal influence. All those women with babies showing strawberry marks on their cheeks because the price of out-of-season strawberries was quoted to the mothers before the child's birth or those babies show tiny mice on their bodies because a mouse once frightened mother must look elsewhere for their explanation," said Dr. J. Whitridge Williams in the second of his lectures on Motherhood in McCoy Hall.

Dr. Williams explained the theory of heredity. He also explained why the theory of inheritance of acquired characteristics was untrue. He said that recently the question had been asked him may times, "Would a man who had lost a leg or an arm have a legless or armless baby?" As an experiment dogs have had their tails cut off for generations, but without fail puppies with beautiful natural tails have been born. The two points which Dr. Williams wished to impress on his audience were that there is absolutely no truth in the doctrine of prenatal influence, and in the few cases of birth of monstrosities there is absolutely nothing that the mother could not have done to so prevent it.

THE WOES OF A PUBLISHER OF A SMALL TOWN DAILY

The Small Town Newspaper Office is as Public as the Union Depot or Court House.

It a man can maintain a calm, unruffled front while working in the office of a small town daily newspaper he can be placid and serene anywhere. That is the final and crucial test. I have seen many strong men reduced to physical wrecks under the strain.

The small town newspaper office is as public as the union depot or courthouse. People take a short cut through it when they are going to the city jail. They use it as a rest room. They go there to trade watches and eat sandwiches.

Knew Everybody.

The editor of a metropolitan newspaper may have a private office, where he may sit in glossy majesty, knowing he is secure from intrusion; but the editor of the small town paper must keep close to the great common people. If he locks his office door somebody will pry it open with a crowbar. He must do his work in the fierce light that beats up a thingumbob. He must know Tom, Dick or Harry by their respective names, and pretend to be overjoyed when they butt in just when he is the throes of an epoch-making editorial. All his subscribers feel that they have a vested right in the building and all its appurtenances and appendages, and they camp around on his chairs and [illegible] his stationery, and sample his cigars, and pocket the exchanges, and put their feet on his typewriter, and refuse to believe for a minute that he has anything important to do.

The Big Egg.

The editor stays a very heavy editorial on the political situation, and gets about two lines written, when a subscriber comes in with a squash of an abnormal size, he leaves, and expects a three-column notice. The never-failing indignant subscriber comes along a few minutes later, explaining that he has just been arrested for speeding, when he is going only six miles an hour, and he wants a ringing editorial touching the arrogant inefficiency of the police. Then there are local statistics, and real estate boosters, and silly-tongued strangers, and all sorts and conditions of men, and this thing keeps up all day and every day. If the editor is calm and serene, he smiles like [illegible] and seems to be [illegible] to be a fool, and if he [illegible] to whip the chief of police, and then we see him in a padded cell.—Exchange.

PRESENTATION TO PTE. G. A. MOUNCEY

Roseneath Soldier Welcomed Home by Members of Church.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Mouncey, Roseneath, a short while ago, when their son, Corporal G. A. Mouncey, was the recipient of an address and presentation by the members of the congregation of the Roseneath Presbyterian Church.

Corporal Mouncey enlisted with the Cobourg Heavy Battery when only 15 years and 10 months old, and was overseas four years and eight months, coming through unscathed.

Dear George: We, the congregation of the Roseneath Presbyterian church, comprising the Minister, the Session, Board of Managers, Sunday School, Choir, members and adherents, and friends, are met here in the hospitable home of your parents to pay to you our tribute of esteem and honor.

In the first place we desire to thank our Heavenly Father for His preservation and tender care over you during your long absence from us. We feel His guiding hand has led you; His protecting arm has protected you, and His banner of love has been over you throughout your sojourn from amongst us.

In honouring you to-night, we honour ourselves for you, by your devotion to duty in answering your country's call, in the hour of dire need, and danger, and your calmness and heroism in the discharge of your duties amidst the greatest conceivable dangers, has brought honour and distinction in our midst, as well as to yourself.

You left us just a mere lad in your teens in the fall of 1914. You were the first in this vicinity to respond to your country's call.

You were among the first of the brave Canadian boys to meet the onslaught of the cruel Hun, and you too stuck manly and heroically to your arduous task until the Hun was brought to his knees, and until Kaiserism, Prussian militarism, and German kultur, were banished forever from every free thinking and free loving people.

During your absence we have missed you, our thoughts would often take us in our imagination to the blood-stained fields of far-off France and Flanders, where we know you were upholding the splendid name our Canadian boys won, and so richly deserved there. The names of Ypers, Langemarche, St. Julian, Sanctuary-Wood, Hill 70, Vimy Ridge, Passchendale, Cambrai, are only a few of the many names that are imperishably written by the blood of Canada's best and noblest sons.

You are safely home. We reverently thank God, but you bring with you the scars of war be well as honors won in the war for your brave[illegible]

COULD NOT SLEEP

When the system receives a shock of any kind, the heart becomes weakened, the nerves unstrung, the appetite poor, faint and weak feelings come over you, you can't sleep at night, and you wonder if life is worth living.

To all those who suffer from nervous shock we would recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as the best remedy to tone up the entire system and strengthen the weakened organs.

Mrs. J. J. Bunyan, Pilot Butte, Sask., writes:—"I have used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills after having suffered from a terrible shock to my whole system. I was so utterly weak, and nervous I could not sleep at night, and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling all over.

I had hot flushes and fainting spells. When I was on the second box of your Heart and Nerve Pills, I began to feel that they were doing me good, so I kept on until I had used six boxes, when I felt like a different person.

I am never without them in the house, and highly recommend them to all who suffer with their heart."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE WAR VETERANS' DRIVE

When the canvassers begin their work in the War Veteran's drive next week there are several questions that they will, no doubt, have put to them and it is well to clear up these matters and give the public the information that they are entitled to in regard to the Association:

Q.—What are the objects of the Association?

A.—Aims and objects of the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada:

(a) To perpetuate the close and kindly ties of mutual service in the great war, the recollections and associations of that experience, and to maintain proper standards of dignity and honour between all returned soldiers.

(b) To preserve the memory and records of those who suffered and died for the nation. To see to the erection of monuments to their valour; the provision of suitable burial places; and the establishment of an annual memorial day.

(c) To ensure that proper provision is made for the due care of the sick, wounded and needy among those who have served; including reasonable pensions, employment for such as are capable, soldiers' homes, medical care and equitable provision for dependent families of enlisted men.

(d) To constantly inculcate loyalty to Canada and the Empire and unstinted service in their interests.

(e) To guard carefully the good name, interests and the standing of our comrades still overseas, and to which they should be entitled upon their return.

(f) To impress upon its members, that they are to continue in their services to Canada as citizens, the same spirit of sacrifice and loyalty which they have shown to Canada and the Empire as soldiers and to remain as members of the Association, non-sectarian and non-partisan.

(g) To establish, maintain and operate clubs, club-rooms, hospitals, employment and information bureaus, industrial and other schools and institutions, libraries and establishments for the benefit, promotion and advancement generally of the interests of soldiers, and to furnish, stock and equip the same in such manner as the Association may determine.

Q.—What protection has the public in dealing with the Association?

A.—The G.W.V.A. are incorporated by and subject to the Company's Act of the Dominion Parliament. They are compelled to make periodical returns to the Government for all their transactions, and are subject to audit by the Government. The real property that may by law be held or acquired by any local branch is held by a Board of Trustees, duly appointed and they are subject to Section 69-A of the Company's Act. The real property of a branch shall, through its Trustees, be liable only for the debt of any other branch or Provincial and Dominion commands.

Q.—What is to become of the building in a few years from now when the present members have passed away?

A.—Attention is drawn to the fact that the large proportion of the Veterans of this war are young men who are now returning. The greater number are between 18 and 25 years of age. It will be 35 or 40 years before the disposal of these rooms will have to take place. In the United States the Veterans of the Civil War of 1860 still have their quarters and they are used. The members' wives, daughters, sisters and other fellows' sisters are already affiliated with us in the Ladies' Auxiliary. Steps are now being taken that in the near future our sons will be organized into an adjunct of the Association. This junior association will keep alive the spirit of the boys of 1914-19, which will be a benefit to themselves and the country at large. When the present Veterans' days of activity are over there will be a large amount of relief to carry on, and it is our sons and our young boys of to-day who will have to take the burden of this care, and this clubhouse will always be headquarters for work of this nature and for communial work for all classes in the city.

The agreement between the Great War Veterans and the city reads, that if the Association should become defunct they, the Association, would refund back to the city the amount of the grant. This gives the city a hold on the Association when the disposal of the assets takes place some 40 or 50 years hence.

As stated in a previous answer, the Association is incorporated and works under a Dominion charter. The members could not distribute the assets among themselves, and when the day comes when their work is over, there, no doubt, will be Dominion Acts of Parliament to deal with this sub[illegible]

Q.—Why should the returned soldiers have a home of their own?

A.—Returned soldiers feel that they ought to have a place where they can get together and discuss affairs which are of vital intcrest to themselves, and consider ways and means for the betterment of themselves in particular and the country in general. There is also the spirit of comradeship which has been so grafted into them by the mud, noise and cooties of Flanders, that they feel entitled to continue this comardeship without the three inconveniences mentioned.

Q.—Will not the club rooms develop into an organized band of grouchers?

A.—As in the army life, the Veterans recognize no creed, race, or affiliation, excepting that of good citizenship to Canada. Bolshevism has been condemned by the G.W.V.A. from coast to coast. The red flag will never fly as long as the Great War Veterans' Association exists. Already in this city a contemplated riot in which there might have been ten times the amount of damage done than the amount of the grant asked for, was stopped by the G.W.V.A. and the officials of the Association volunteered to the police, the assistance of a large body of veterans o quell any such work. This illustrates the law abiding spirit that is in the Association.

But although she was deeply interested in herself, and gratified that she possessed real courage, and that it had come through the fire tempered and hardened, there were moments, particularly in the night, and if the profound stillness were rent with the shrieks of drunken maniacs, when she was terribly frightened; and in spite of the American tradition which has set at liberty so many guilty women, she would stare at the awful vision of the electric chair and herself strapped in it.

CHAPTER XXV

Rush wheeled and looked sharply behind him. For several weeks he had experienced the recurrent sensation of being followed, but until to-night he had been too absorbed to give a vague suspicion definite form. He stood still, and was immediately aware that somebody else had halted, after withdrawing into the shade of one of the trees that lined Atlantic Avenue. He approached this figure swiftly, but almost at his first step it detached itself and strolled forward. Rush saw that it was a woman, and then recognized Miss Sarah Austin of the New York Evening News. He recalled that she had approached him several times with the request for an interview with Mrs. Balfame; and that she had taxed his politeness by trying to draw him into a discussion of the case.

"Oh, good evening," he said grimly. "I turned back because it occurred to me that I was being followed."

"I was following you," Miss Austin retorted coolly. "I saw you turn into the Avenue two blocks up, and tried to overtake you—I don't like to be out so late alone, especially in this haunted village. The knowledge that everybody in it is thinking of that murder nearly all the time has a curious psychological effect. Won't you walk as far as Alys Cramley's with me?"

"Certainly!" Rush, wondering if all women were liars, fell into step.

"I've been given a roving commission in the Balfame case," continued Miss Austin in her impersonal businesslike manner, which combined with her youth and good looks, had surprised guarded facts from men as wary as Rush. "Not to hunt for additional evidence, of course, but stuff for good stories. I've had a number of dandy interviews with prominent Elsinore women, as you may have seen if you condescend to glance at the Woman's Page. Isn't it wonderful how they stand by her?"

"Why not? They believe her to be innocent, as of course she is."

"How automatically you said that! I wonder if you really believe it—unless, of course, you know who did do it. But in that case you would produce the real culprit. What a tangle it is! A lawyer has to believe in his client's innocence, I suppose, unless he's quite an uncommon jury actor. I don't know what to believe, myself. But of one thing I am convinced: Alys Crumley knows something—something positive."

Rush, who had paid little attention to her chatter, which he rightly assumed to be a mere verbal process of "leading up," turned to her sharply.

"What do you mean by that?"

"That she knows something. She's over on the News now, understudying the fashion editor before taking charge, and we lunch together nearly every day. She's so changed from what she was a year ago, when she was the life of the crowd—so naive in her eagerness to become a real metropolitan, and yet so quick and keen she had us all on our mettle. Great girl, Alys! At first, when I met her here again, I attributed the change to the same old reason—a man. I still believe she has had some heart-racking experience, but there's something else—I didn't notice it so much that first day—but since—well, she's carrying a mental burden of some sort. Alys has a damask cheek, as you may have noticed, but nowadays there's a worm in the bud. And those olive eyes of hers have a way of leaving you suddenly and travelling a thousand miles with an expression that isn't just blank. They will look as grimly determined as if she were about to turn her conscience loose, and in a moment this will relax into an expression of curious irresolution—for her. Alys always knows pretty well what she wants. So, as this mystery must be in her consciousness pretty well all the time, when she is at home, at least, I feel sure she knows something but is of two minds about telling it to the police."

"Have you any object in telling me this? I thought you modern women who have deserted the nurse home for the working world of men prided yourselves upon a new code of loyalty to one another."

"That's a nasty one! I'm not disloyal to Alys. Others have noticed that there's something big and grim on her mind, as well as I. Jim Broderick is always after her to open up. I have a very distinct reason for telling you. I have tried to get a word with you for some time."

"Have you been following me? Were—were—you in Brooklyn yesterday?"

"Yes, to both questions." Her voice shook, but her eyes challenged him imperiously; they were under the bright lights of Main Street. "I'll tell you what I believe Alys knows: that you killed David Balfame; and she can't make up her mind to betray you even to liberate an innocent woman."

He was taken unaware, but she could detect no relaxation in his strong face; on the contrary, it set more grimly.

"And what are you up to?" he asked.

"I know of no one so convinced of Mrs. Balfame's guilt as Broderick."

"That's all right, but a man with as keen as scent as that is likely to find the real trail any minute."

"And you believe I did it?"

"I think there are reasons for believing it."

"I won't ask you for them. It doesn't matter, particularly. What interests me is to know whether you believe that if I had committed the crime of murder I would let a woman suffer in my stead."

Miss Austin cerebrated.

"No," she admitted unwillingly, you don't strike one as that sort. But then you might argue that she is reasonably sure of acquittal and you would have scant hope of escaping the chair."

Rush laughed aloud. It was a harsh sound, but there was no nervousness in it, and he continued to look interrogatively at Miss Austin. He had barely noticed her before, but he observed that she was a handsome girl with a clean-cut honest face, a bright detecting eye, and the slim well-set-up figure of an athletic boy. Her peculiar type of good looks was displayed to its best advantage by the smartly tailored suit.

"You hardly look the sort to run a man down" he murmured, and this time he smiled.

"One gets mighty keen on the chase in this business." They turned into the deep shade of Elsinore Avenue, and she stood still and lowered her voice. "If you would tell me," she said, "I'd swear never to betray you."

"Then why ask me to confess?"

"Oh—it sounds rather banal—but I want to write fiction, big fiction, and I want to come up against the big tragedies and secrets of the human soul. If you would tell me the whole story, exactly how you have felt at every stage and phase before and since, I feel almost sure that I could write as big a book as Dostoiewsky's "Crime and Punishment"—not half so long, of course. If we learn from other nations, we can teach them a thing or two in return. You may ask what you are to expect in return for a dangerous confidence. I not only never would betray you, but I'd make it my study to divert suspicion from pointing your way. I could do it, too. You are safe as far as Alys is concerned. The secret is oppressing her terribly, and she's driven by the fear that her conscience will suddenly revolt and force her to speak out—particularly if Mrs. Balfame broke down in jail, to say nothing of a possible conviction—but that I believe anything short of conviction would open her lips. You are the last person on earth she would hand over to the law; it seems odd to me you can't realise that for yourself."

"Realize what?"

"Oh, I've no patience with you! I never did share the platitudinous belief in propinquity. Why, Alys has turned half the heads in Park Row. Even the austere city editor is beginning to hover. How any man could pass a live wire like Alys Crumley by—and distractingly pretty—for a woman old enough to be her mother!"

He caught his breath.

"What do you mean by that?"

"Mrs. Balfame."

"And yet you accuse me of letting her lie in prison bearing the burden of my crime?"

MRS. LANE TESTIFIES SHE WAS OFFERED $20,000 FOR DIVORCE

NEW YORK.— That Mrs. Victoria A. McKenzie, seventy-nine years old, offered her $20,000 if she would obtain a divorce, was the testimony in the Supreme Court of Mrs. Richard H. Lane at the trial of her husband on an indictment charging him with defrauding Mrs. McKenzie out of $8,500 through alleged investment in patent rights. Mrs. Lane was being cross-examined by Alexander I. Rorke, Assistant District Attorney.

"I had been suspicious for a long time," she said, "when I found out they had gone to Luray Vavern, Va., and to Washington, D.C., together. I went to Mrs. McKenzie and asked her about it. She swore it was it true. Later my husband admitted he was with Mrs. McKenzie on the trip.

"Did Mrs. McKenzie ever try to separate you from your husband?" asked the Assistant District Attorney.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Lane. "Two weeks after Richard and I had separated she came to me and told me that I ought to get a divorce. She offered me $20,000 if I'd get a divorce. She promised I would never want for anything during my lifetime."

Knight of the Lone Star.

If a place name is often crystallized history how much more a nickname! Witness the flowery synonym for Texas, which orators mouth as the Lone Star State. To most minds this symbolizes concretely the fact that the state was first an independent nation. Behind the fact is this story, vouched for by tradition more or less authentic. At the outset, after achieving independence, Texas lacked pretty well everything but men. The leaders knew state papers required a great seal to validate them, and in default of anything better they improvised one from a coat button which happened to bear a single star. A document so sealed fell under the eye of an imaginative journalist. He straightway exploited "The Lone Star Republic" in print so fervid as to persuade Texas here was the device most apposite for her seal and her flag.—New York Press.

Mother Brook.

After nearly three centuries of usefulness Mother brook, the first canal dug in this country, still finds itself utilized to some extent, though the requirements which brought it about have long since passed. Its construction was undertaken and completed by the hardy citizens of Dedham, Mass., in 1639, to provide water for mill purposes. The artificial waterway was constructed to connect the Charles river with East brook, covering a distance of about a mile. It was a great undertaking for those days, when every foot had to be excavated laboriously by hand, but the work was carried out with the usual determination marking the settlers of the day. The canal winds round the highlands of the town, and, on both sides, extending almost to its border, may be seen well kept gardens.—Exchange.

Poetry of Words.

When I feel inclined to read poetry I take down my dictionary. The poetry of words is quite as beautiful as that of sentences. The author may arrange the gems effectively, but their shape and luster have been given by the attrition of ages. Bring me the finest simile from the whole range of imaginative writing and I will show you a single word which conveys a more profound, a more accurate and a more eloquent analogy.—Holmes.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

In Tidy Lane

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"I like it already!" exclaimed Alice, as her eager city-tired eyes grasped the vision of Tidy lane with its row of small cottages neatly lining the street. "Isn't it good to get a sniff of country air?"

"Glorious! We both need a change from city dust. I get so sick of the office every day and a cooped-in flat every night. I hope the cottage is possible—it will be so disappointing after coming way out here in Long Island," Helen Randolf absorbed deeply the freshness of the avenue of shady trees. She was tired, frightfully tired of the strain of her editorial duties on one of the big magazines.

"Yes, I hope so, but the cottage itself doesn't amount to much. I can make anything in the way of a shack comfortable for us two so long as there are a few walls and a roof."

Both girls were eagerly scanning the small houses in search of No. 9.

"Number nine must be the black sheep that has wandered from the fold," laughed Alice. "The tidiest part of Tidy lane doesn't seem to have any number nine. Oh! could that darling one over there possibly be it?"

The advertisement for the small cottage in Tidy lane had read "Secluded but not isolated."

Number nine certainly was isolated. It had rambled off the other houses in the lane and found for itself a seclusion that made the hearts of the two tired city girls jump with sheer joy. Number nine lay in the heart of a small grove of pine trees and had settled itself down there for all the world like a bit of the landscape that had been created, not built.

"It's too good to be true," Helen said as they made their way back to the city to pack up and take the first train they could manage back to Tidy lane. "I love the way it's gone off by itself and nestled in those smelly, healthy pine trees."

"And I shall have a few chickens in that little coop, and you will come home tired every evening from the office and I will be waiting for you with good things to eat." Alice was delighted to the extent of a child over a big blue-eyed doll.

"I hope you won't be lonesome all day, dear. You know it will be a change for you from seeing so many people in the city."

"I couldn't be lonesome if I tried in that cute little cottage and Tidy lane villagers to study."

So it was that the two fast friends found themselves happily ensconced in number nine out in sunny, fragrant Long Island.

Daily Helen Randolf took the train to the city and the editorial chair she was filling while the editor was away fighting for Uncle Sam. And each day Alice Winter fitted more joyfully into the small cottage with its quaint surroundings. The furnishings had been a bit cold, but they were so no longer. The garden had been a trifle lacking in color, but a few geraniums and sweet peas cheered it all up.

The owner of the small cottage had gone with the American expeditionary force to France. Alice realized that he could not object to the few shrubs with which she had ornamented the garden.

"I hope he will come back to his cozy nest," she said by way of a little prayer for the soldier's safety.

"You mustn't hurt your back digging so much," admonished Helen often when some new shrub greeted her upon her return from the city. "You are not accustomed to that kind of work."

"My digging," she cried gaily the next evening when she returned, "has unearthed quite a story. Look here!" She held up a metal tin box. "I started to dig my arrives. hydrangea this afternoon during a prowling round for a soft spot depends finding one I came upon is guaranteed some child's pirate box. buried serious to bury them as children." sported with the girls were both interested and "Child nothing!" exclaimed "It's full to the gaff of manuscript. Short stories. And look at the note that was on top!"

Helen took the quite newly typed note and read its contents. "Farewell to fame. Mother raised her boy to be a soldier—not a genius." The note was signed "Philip Cheyne" and contained no more information. The many rejection slips from all the New York magazines, however, told all the tale that was necessary.

"Poor kid," laughed Helen, her editorial brain busy with the contents of the stories. She was skimming them swiftly with the trained mind of a reader. "Geewsy," she said lovingly to Alice, "I suppose you hadn't even looked at these stories."

"I wouldn't know a good story from a bad one if I got your whole big salary for it," laughed Alice. "Are they all so bad as that?" she inquired sadly gazing at the number of rejection slips.

"They're pretty bad," commented Helen, "except the plots, and they are rather unusual. But Philip Cheyne knows no more about the feminine nature than you do about stories. His women are appalling. They never lived and never could live. Her voice trailed off in the maize of critical reading the absorbed her. "You know," she said finally when Alice called her into the small, flowery, dining room and sat her down at the dainty table, "I could make a lot of those stories into strong fiction by a few touches. The magazine is sadly in need of new brains just now. I've a mind to whip them in shape and bring out Philip Cheyne as a writer."

"Oh, Helen! Wouldn't that be great? I just wish I weren't so stupid and could help you."

"You can help by being just your sweet, lovable feminine little self. I can put you right into those stories. You are the type that's needed here. So you see, dearie, you will be the means of many big checks going into that tin box for Philip Cheyne when he returns from the war."

A little silence fell on the two enthusiastic girls.

Each felt the sinister chill of those three words, "when he returns."

A month or two passed happily and healthily by. Helen Randolf took a tremendous amount of pleasure in whipping the strangely acquired stories of Philip Cheyne into shape and as each was finished giving it a place on the pages of the big successful magazine. They turned out even better than she had anticipated. She was more than proud of her new writer and prominence was given them. The illustrations were delightful.

The checks paid for those stories were so big that one would have paid the rent of No. 9 Tidy lane for some six months. Instead of paying for anything each check was placed carefully in the tin box that Alice had dug up while planting the hydrangeas.

The girls had been in the wonderful straying cottage of Tidy lane some seven months and five of Philip Cheyne's stories had been published.

Then, by telegram, came the all-too-sudden news that Cheyne had been brought home, a wounded soldier, to recuperate in his Long Island cottage.

Helen and Alice were grateful that he had at least returned alive. They could not help a regret or two at leaving the little village to which they had both become attached.

A tiny cottage that had not strayed from the fold but remained in the tidy row was happily vacant.

"Do you think we could furnish it—and when Arthur and I are married," suggested Helen, "we could keep it for a week-end cottage?"

"Great!" agreed Alice, "I just hate to leave Tidy lane and go back to the stuffy city."

So together they refreshed No. 9 with sweet-smelling flowers, left everything attractive for the home coming of its soldier owner and moved to No. 7.

"I wish we could peek through the window and watch him open that box," pined Alice, as with four large checks topping it they closed the box and left it conspicuously on the center table. Beside it were the four magazines open to display the stories by Philip Cheyne.

"Lordy, Lordy!" exclaimed that young man when, battered as to body but cheery as to spirits, he arrived in No. 9. "some good fairies have been fluttering about my dump." He hadn't known just how good it would be to get back home. In his heart he longed for the one being that makes a home home, and knew that he was going on a still hunt for that one person. He had been single long enough and now that he had been humanized by the war and its tragedies he realized the need of companionship.

He was so amazed at the seeming miracle of his stories that he sat down and read every word of them before an hour had passed. He grinned at the sight of his own name in print and was delighted beyond belief. The checks, too, were immensely gratifying, but somehow the queerness of fate held him in silent thought. Of course he was determined to unearth the good fairy just as his tin box had been unearthed.

It would not be difficult, for he had the editor of the magazine to consult. Cheyne also knew that he was going to be able now to produce more and better stories. Many big things had come to him out there in No Man's Land.

Thus it was that he stopped one evening at 7 Tidy lane, and having stopped lingered.

Helen always said she saw the way the wind blew that very first day, and not long afterward Alice moved into the little cottage that had struggled from the fold and became its mistress and Helen and Arthur were married the week-ending in No. 7.

BE SUSPICIOUS OF TENDER GUMS

Be suspicious of any tenderness or bleeding of the gums. This is usually the first stage of Pyorrhea—an insidious disease of the gums that destroys the teeth and undermines bodily health.

Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame, then shrink, thus exposing the unenameled tooth-base to the ravages of decay. Tiny openings in the gums form gateways for disease germs to enter the system. Medical science has traced many ills to these infecting germs in the gums weakened by Pyorrhea.

They are now known to be a frequent cause of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism and other serious conditions.

So watch carefully for that first tenderness or bleeding of the gums. Try Forhan's immediately. It positively prevents Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) if used in time and used consistently.

And in preventing Pyorrhea—it guards against other ills.

Forhan's (For the Gums) cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

JAMES KNEW IT WAS COMING

Boy, Contrary to All Precedent, Is Pleased With His Mother to Administer the "Dose."

James, his mother called him, but he preferred the name of Jimmie, by which the neighborhood knew him. He also preferred rough-and-tumble clothes to starchy clean apparel—the movies to Sunday school—and almost anything to grade school, although he had given it only a few weeks' trial, the Kansas City Star says.

While his father is overseas with a government permit to hunt the Hun, the mother adds to the family income by working in an office close to home. James had made it a custom to meet his mother at the closing hour and accompany her home.

Early one morning James started for school dressed in a clean new suit. That evening an almost unrecognizable six-year-old youngster awaited his mother at the office. Immediately upon her appearance he stepped forth with the explanation, forestalling anything that might be said or done on her part. "I didn't go to school. I went riding with the coal man. I 'spect you're going to whip me." Placing a smudgy hand upon his mother's arm, he continued: "Come on, let's hurry home and get it over with."

Helping Food Administrator.

One industrious war-gardener is pictured as working busily and reflecting on the virtue of raising his own food supply.

"If everybody grew his own vegetables and ate less meat," he soliloquized, "we'd put old Bill on the bum in a hurry. This is tough work, but I'll stick to it if it kills me. I'm with Hoover on this."

At this point a fine assortment of earthworms was unearthed. The digger's reflections immediately shifted to a shady stream and the final scene shows him happily fishing.

"Oh, well," he reflects to soothe his conscience, "vegetables or fish; it's all the same to Mr. Hoover."—War-Garden Guyed.

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. H. Bridges, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I was rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past 40 years, and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE RACES OF EUROPE.

Quarrelsome Families Now Attending Peace Conference.

The American National Geographic Society, in a news bulletin, gives a general survey of the chief racial groups of Europe, an understanding of which is necessary in order to follow intelligently the peace parleys now taking place in Paris. This bulletin is based upon a communication from Dr. Edwin A. Grosvenor. It says:

"The number of distinct human groups or races is variously estimated from the three, Japhetic, Semitic and Hamitic of the Bible, or the three, Caucasian, Mongol and Negro, of Cuvier, to the 11 of Pickering and the sixteen of Desmoulins. The estimate in 1781 by Dr. Blumenbach, the father of anthropology, has best withstood the attacks of time. He finds five races—Caucasian, Mongolian, Ethiopian, American and Malay.

"Two main divisions are at once recognized among the Caucasians, designated as the Indo-European or Japhetic and the Syro-Arab or Semitic. Indo-European indicates the belief that Europeans came from the basin of the Indus. Syro-Arab means originating in Syria and Arabia.

"The Indo-European includes eight branches or groups. These are: In Asia, the Aryas or Hindus of India, the Persians and the Armenians, the last two being often termed Iranians from the great plateau of Iran where they had their origin; in Europe, the Greeks, Latins, Celts, Teutons, or Germans, and Slavs.

"Common usage treats these groups as races, so properly we speak of the Celtic race or the Slavic race or of the races of Europe. Because of the intimate relations of the Greeks and Latins and the cognate nearness of their languages, the two are denoted as of the Greco-Latin race. German and Teuton are interchangeable, being synonymous terms.

"The great majority of the peoples who have invaded Europe and whose descendants are now settled there belong to the Indo-European family. In addition, about 30,000,000 persons, or one-fifteenth of the inhabitants of Europe, are Finno-Ugrians and Turks, members of the Ural-Altaic branch of the Mongolian family. All the rest, except the Jews, Maltese and Saracens (Syro-Arab) and possibly, except the Basques, are of Indo-European stock.

"Ural-Altaian comprehends peoples found between the Altai and Ural mountains. Finno-Ugrian is specific of a western group of Ural-Altaians. The term is derived from Finn and Ugra, the region on both sides of the Urals.

"The various routes of migration into Europe, the later wanderings of the immigrants, and their constant relocations, may be directly traced to geographic causes, of which the mountain system, the rivers and plains had a determinative part. The backbone and dominant factor of the continent is the Alps.

"In the Alps are the fountain heads of the Rhone, Rhine and Po, and in the outspurs rise the Loire, Seine, Meuse, Elbe, Oder, Vistula and Danube. These rivers have each limited or determined the wanderings of peoples, the march of armies, and the boundaries of states. The Danube was a natural and inevitable westward roadway of pastoral peoples from Asia.

"A line drawn from the mouth of the Pruth to the mouth of the Niemen, and thence prolonged through the Baltic and Gulf of Bothnia to the sources of the Torne Elf in Scandinavia, gives an approximation of real or historic Europe's eastern frontier and extent. West of that line and north of the Alpine system, an enormous plain, broken only by the watersheds of its rivers, extends to the North Sea.

"When the Christian era began, all that plain was covered by forests except the marshlands in the east. That plain, as well as Scandinavia, peopled almost wholly by Teutons, was sometimes called Germania. East of that line was another still more enormous plain, Sarmatia, the home of the Slavs, a race almost unknown. The Alps, northern Italy, a part of Spain, France and the British Islands were inhabited by Celts. The centres of the Greco-Latins were Greece and Italy.

"Thus, at the time of Christ the Alps are the signpost of Europe, roughly pointing out where the races are to be found: north of the Alps, the Teutons; south of the Alps, the Greco-Latins; in the Alps and to the west, the Celts; far east of the Alps, little affected by them, and therefore little influenced by Europe and of as little influence in it, the Slavs and the Finno-Ugrians."

Tough Old Vessels.

If the life of the old man-of-war was longer than that of the present Dreadnought the old merchantmen lived longer still. The Lively, for instance, when wrecked at Cromer in 1826 had been afloat two years over a century. The Liberty, too, built at Whitby in 1790, was in regular use till 1850, and the Betsy Caine, which began life as a frigate and ended as a collier, went down in her one hundred and thirty-seventh year. And in 1902, according to a daily paper, the Anita, then trading between Spain and America, dated from the days of Columbus.—London Sun.

How Can I Save--- With Profit?

Many wage-earners are asking themselves this question.

They do not want to put a quarter in the bank at a time, and before they know it, it is gone for trifles.

The Government has provided a simple plan to enable you to save that quarter in such a way that it will earn you more money.

Twenty-five cents buys a Thrift Stamp. Sixteen Thrift Stamps become a War Savings Stamp, for which the Government will pay you $5.00 in 1924.

In May W.S.S. Cost $4.24

In June W.S.S. Cost $4.23

If you lend the Government your savings in this way, you can make your money earn over 4½% compound interest as often as you save $4.00 odd. That is more than Savings Banks pay you.

This is not only easy and profitable investment, but patriotic investment, because the Government needs money for the heavy financing of the reconstruction period.

WORLD'S GREAT NEED OF TIN

War Has Diminished Supply of Indispensable Metal, and So Immensely Increased Its Cost.

Probably no market has been more vitally affected by the war and less subject to control than the tin market. It is not really an American industry, for an insignificant amount of tin is produced in the United States as compared with the total consumed. This country is almost absolutely dependent on foreign sources for its supplies. But the metal is a vital necessity at all times and in many directions. It is particularly a war metal in that its use is essential in producing tinplate for food and other containers and for bearings for machinery.

In no other metal has such complete chaos developed as in tin as a result of war conditions. It is the only metal which is exempt from price fixing by our own government, because about 99 per cent of our consumption comes from foreign countries, where its production and sale are controlled by foreign interests. Only its distribution here has been regulated as a war measure.

One of the largest importers has recently said that it would probably be a long time before 60-cent tin would again be seen. Before the war the metal was selling at a little over 30 cents a pound in New York. It has advanced by leaps and bounds until a month ago the New York price was nominal at over $1 a pound, with the future shipments from the east up to 95 cents—both unheard of heights. This has been caused by the fact that the world's output of tin has not been enough. In fact, statistics show that in recent years this has been at about a standstill.

FORTUNE VANISHED IN NIGHT

American Citizen Tells of His Experience in Mexico, Well Called Land of Revolutions.

The experiences of an American citizen in revolution-racked Mexico, in which between two suns he fell from a position of wealth and affluence to poverty, are told by W. A. King, importer of snakes and wild animals from that cactus country. Widely known as the "Snake King," he makes his headquarters in Brownsville, Tex., where he is prominent in Masonic circles. He was in Washington a few days ago on business with the federal government.

"I lived for a nuber of years in Mexico," he said, "and am one of the Americans who can really appreciate the genuine freedom of our nation. I had a unique experience there just before Pershing invaded that country on his hunt for Villa.

"I was in that section dominated by the Villa bandits and anarchists. I had in my personal possession more than 300,000 of the Villa pesos, and from the point of view of the Mexicans that sum of money made me a millionaire of influence.

"I went to bed one night with my wealth strapped around me in a money belt. I awakened the next morning and found that a military and political break had taken place between Villa and Carranza and I was a pauper.

"The 300,000 in pesos were worthless. I did not have the price of a cup of coffee."

THIS WEAK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness."—Mrs. J. WORTHLESS, 2642 North Taylor St., Philadelphia Pa.

The majority of mothers nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthless.

DAUGHTER ALWAYS TIRED

Mother Says Vinol Built Her Up and Completely Restored Her Health.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N.Y.— "My daughter is a milliner and she got into a run-down condition, pale and had no appetite. After other medicines failed to help her, Vinol gave her a good appetite, built her up and completely restored her health."—Mrs. H. Ott.

The reason Vinol was so successful in this case is because it contains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, the very elements needed to build up a weakened, run-down system, and create strength.

Blind Potters.

The new "lighthouse" at Sayres, where the famous potteries of the French government are situated, is expected to prove one of the most useful methods of re-educating the blinded soldiers. Making pottery is one of the occupations in which the blind may become adept, and, although the Sevres lighthouse has been in existence only a short while, eight blinded men have already been graduated from the modeling class into the government shops. The French government has apportioned some land to the committee on the grounds of the Sevres potteries, on which it is about to build a training school for blind potters, who will be graduated from there to other factories.

"I'd Hate to See You Fight."

Sergeant R. F. Eddy, Sixteenth engineers, said in a letter received by his father, Frank M. Eddy, that a football game between the engineers and the medical corps, recently played in France, was one of the wickedest he had ever witnessed. Both sides were out for blood, and the fact that no one was injured he attributed to the hardened condition of the players, seasoned by many months of severe training.

About five thousand French soldiers witnessed the game, and afterward one Poilu said to Sergeant Eddy: "If that is what you Yankees call play, I'd hate to see you fight."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Gas Saved.

The results of daylight saving are shown in figures collected by the gas company at Washington, D.C., that the people of the district saved $60,000 in gas bills. Basing estimates on these figures, it is considered that the conservation of gas throughout the United States will amount to a saving of $2,000,000. In the matter of gas and electricity the saving was no less than 10 per cent. of the money formerly spent for them.

CONQUERED THE ALPS.

A French and Swiss Military Feat in the Fifteenth Century.

There is something indicrous in the contrast between the lumbering artillery with which Charles VIII. of France crossed the Alps in the summer of 1494 and the big guns of today that are rapidly transported by railway from one point to another. Count Louis de la Tremoille won great favor in the eyes of the king by his success in conveying over the precipitous slopes of the Appennines the train of fourteen French cannon, each of which was usually drawn by thirty-five horses.

When the French commanders were facing their dilemma the Swiss came to their rescue. These mercenaries, by plundering a captured town in violation of the king's command, had fallen into disfavor. Being anxious to reinstate themselves in their employer's good graces, they proposed to harness themselves to the guns and to drag them over the mountain. The king promptly accepted their offer.

The master gunner, Jean de la Grange, arranged the technicalities of the undertaking, but La Tremoille supervised its execution. And to him was chiefly due the perfect success of this enterprise—the transport of fourteen enormous cannon over a pathless and precipitous mountain in the scorching July sun.

To prepare a way for the guns, says Winifred Stephens in her book, "The La Tremoille Family," trees had to be cut down, rocks exploded and the ground leveled. In all these works Count Louis personally took part. Clad only in doublet and hose, he worked in harness side by side with the Swiss and with his own hands bore over the mountains helmets full of heavy cannon balls. All the while, with characteristic French patience and cheerfulness, he was encouraging the soldiers by offering rewards to those who should first drag their gun to the summit and providing drink with which to quench the men's parching thirst. Thus encouraged by their heroic captain and inspired by the martial music of trumpet, fife and drum, inciting one another to new efforts by those curious cries that their descendants even today call over the Alpine valleys, the Swiss at length succeeded in dragging all the fourteen cannon up to the top of the mountain.

Then came the descent, which was even more difficult than the ascent had been, for the guns were allowed to go down by their own weight, and the Swiss, roped to the backs of them to steady their descent, were in danger of being carried away by the momentum of the artillery. To La Tremoille's carefulness it was mainly due that not one life was lost during this dangerous business. At the end of two days the count, burned by the sun till he resembled a blackamoor, triumphantly told the king that his artillery train had crossed the mountain and lay safe on the bowlder strewn bank of the river Tare.

A Whist Story.

When Lord Thanet was imprisoned in the Tower of London for the O'Connor riot three of his friends, the Duke of Bedford, the Duke of Laval and Captain Smith, were admitted to play whist with him and remain till the lock up hour of 11. Early in the sitting Captain Smith fell back in a fit of apoplexy, and one of the party rose to call for help. "Stop!" cried another. "We shall be turned out if you make a noise. Let our friend alone until 11. We can play dummy, and he'll be none the worse, for I can read death in his face."

Eyeglass Insurance.

At the club I accidentally knocked off a man's eyeglasses, which splintered on falling. The man replied to my apologies, "Never mind, old chap, they're insured." He gets a new pair for nothing and his policy costs him 1s. 6d. a year. If it is possible to insure against twins and triplets, poor potato crops and the loss of one's keys, why not against the smashing of spectacles and eyeglasses?—London Mirror.

The Ostrich's Legs.

Although the ostrich has powerful legs and can kick like a mule, his limbs are very brittle and are easily broken. He has two toes on each foot, one being armed with a horny nail, which he uses as his principal weapon of warfare. When an unarmed man is attacked by one of these birds the chances are very much against the man unless he can climb a tree or jump over a five foot wall.

Density of the Earth.

The best determinations as to the density of the earth result in 5.69—that is, it is five and two-thirds times more dense than if composed of water. Granite has a density of 26; therefore the interior of the earth must contain enormous quantities of metals to bring its density as a whole up to 5.66.

NOISE OF STREET CARS UPSET HIM

Couldn't Drink Coffee Without Spilling It From Cup—Like New Man After Taking Tanlac.

"I feel like a different man altogether since I have been taking Tanlac," said John Mulcahey, a well known railroad man who lives at 809 Lydia Ave., Kansas City, Mo., the other day.

"I have been trying for the last twenty years to get rid of indigestion and sour stomach," he continued, "and I failed utterly until I got hold of Tanlac. This trouble had about gotten the best of me, too, for I was so weak and run-down that I could walk hardly any distance without stopping once in awhile to rest. Everything I ate disagreed with me and caused gas to form on my stomach. I also suffered a great deal from nervousness, which finally got so bad that I couldn't drink a glass of water or a cup of coffee without spilling some of it. I never slept very well, and even the sound of the street cars passing at night would upset me and keep me awake. To tell you the honest truth, I was so weak and run-down that life was beginning to be a burden to me.

"I knew a lot of people who had been benefitted by taking Tanlac, so I thought I would try it myself. I just want to say right here that of all the medicine I have taken for last twenty years, Tanlac beats them all. I have taken four bottles so far, and I don't know what it is to have indigestion or sour stomach now, or to be bothered with gas on my stomach after eating. My nerves are as steady as they were, and never bother me the least bit, and I sleep eight or nine hours every night and don't wake up once. Why I can get out and walk forty or fifty blocks now and it doesn't tire me any more than walking one block before I took Tanlac. As a matter of fact, Tanlac has made a new man of me, and I am more than glad to recommend it to everybody.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE.

Don't Be Hasty in Judging by It, Lest You Be Deceived.

Bret Harte wrote in one of his stories that you couldn't judge anything by the appearance of his characters. The biggest scamp had a baby face, the bravest man in camp was the smallest, the surest shot had but three fingers and the best dressed was the worst gambler in the state.

The same rule often proves out in real life. Nobody would more dry philosophical books than England's prime philosopher, Francis Bacon. But one day while ill and without committing any works of [illegible] he dictated a volume of jokes which is still the best collection [illegible] in London.

When Stephen Crane wrote his "Red Badge of Courage" [illegible] soldiers thought the author must have gone through the war. Just [illegible], Crane had scarcely [illegible] and he was not [illegible] matter. [illegible] to order [illegible] find [illegible] had them [illegible] making trouble [illegible] for the [illegible] expected to [illegible] street [illegible] to Mr. [illegible]. As they stepped [illegible] the prey bully was knocked [illegible] Knew of the other's fistic [illegible] Ropes, then champion amateur [illegible] weight boxer of America.

I heard Bob Burdette, the funny magazine how the soldiers laughed at a young [illegible] of a cavalry officer until they saw him just once leading a charge. Then they knew it was General Custer, and they laughed no more.

So you cannot always tell what is in a man's head or his fist by his peasant appearance or by his previous work.—Philadelphia Ledger.

HE SIMPLY FORGOT.

The Hurried Married Man Didn't Think, but His Wife Did.

He really meant to kiss his wife this morning as he left the house to go to work.

But he forgot. He was thinking of the cares of the shop, of the thousand and one matters which concern him in the big world with which he wrestles for a living for her and the kids.

Anyhow, he said to himself afterward, what's a kiss? It oughtn't to take such a mere formality to convince of his love and trust the woman he has made the mistress of his home, the mother of his children. Pshaw! The chances are she never noticed the omission. So why should he worry?

But back home a woman wept—wept not because she doubted her husband's constancy, not because she felt that he wouldn't prove big and true and fine in an emergency, but because, womanlike, shut within home's four walls, doomed to another day of petty routine, much of it to be endured all alone, she wanted that kiss as a token and a memory—wanted it as proof that not in her case could the poet write:

He's just, you see, 'cause he married me
Goodby, my lover, goodby.

Now if you, Mr. Man, made such a break as that this morning, do you know what you ought to do?

Go home tonight with a present in each hand and plant two kisses where one grew before.—New Orleans States.

Belgian Hedges.

In Belgium there are no stone or hawthorn hedges like those in England. Instead of being inclosed by a hedge the fields are raised up by fairly high earth banks and the roads are cut out of them, as it were, so that when you are walking in the country you are down in a sort of valley with low green banks on either side of you.

The things that are chiefly cultivated in Belgium are the beet root—for making the cheaper kind of sugar, you know—and you can see field upon field of their red-green leaves stretching on either side of you as you walk along. Flax is also much grown over there, and in summer time the fields are a pretty sight when the pale blue flax blossoms are out in full bloom. Belgian asparagus is also renowned all over Europe. It has white instead of purple-green tips.—London Mail.

Downing Street.

The apartment at 10 Downing street, London, England, where the meetings of the British Cabinet are held, is a solid and plainly furnished room, 50 feet long and 20 feet wide, fitted with double doors, through which no sound can reach the keenest listening ears.

Fasting and Health.

"The practice of fasting," states a medical man, "is, when wisely followed, most beneficial. I am convinced that many people never feel the sensation of natural hunger. All they have is a morbid craving for food which comes of habit rather than from any actual need felt by the stomach. Natural hunger stimulates the palate and is felt in the mouth as well as in the internal organs. It makes the plainest food seem delicious. Some unfortunate people suffer, it is true, from insufficient food, but not so many as those whose ills arise from overnutrition, their digestions being continually over strained. A habit of judicious fasting would do wonders for them. The system would recover its lost tone, and—in the case of mental workers—the brain would work with an ease and lightness that would surprise them, for the brain is one of the chief sufferers from the practice of overeating."

Her Amendment.

Little Lena had been given a short poem to commit to memory by her teacher. In it these lines occurred, "Sail on, ye mariners, the night is gone." Later when requested to repeat the poem she rendered the lines mentioned thus, "Sail on, ye married men, the night is gone."—Chicago News.

Hawker Unofficially Reported Within 500 Miles of the Coast of Ireland

Sopwith Biplane Left St. John's at 1.55 Sunday Afternoon on Perilous Journey to Britain and Expects to Make Trip in Twenty Hours.

LATE DESPATCHES

(Canadian Press.)

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 19. — No word regarding progress of the trans-Atlantic flight of Harry G. Hakwer, Australian aviator, and Commander MacKenzie Grieve, in their Sopwith plane, had been received here up to 7.30 a.m. (six a.m. New York time) to-day.

HAS BEEN SIGHTED?

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 19.—Harry G. Hawker in his airplane has been sighted off Ireland, according to an unofficial report by American navy here.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 19. — The Sopwith Airplane Company have received a report that Hawker was 500 miles off the Irish coast at 3 p.m.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 18.—Harry G. Hawker, Australian aviator, and Commander MacKenzie Grieve, his navigator, are winging their way across the Atlantic to-night on the most perilous airplane flight in history.

They took the air at 5.55 to-day, Greenwich time (1.55 p.m. New York time), and expect to reach the Irish coast in twenty hours unless some accident forces them to plunge into the sea.

When the Sopwith biplane passed from view beyond the hills to the north-east, headed for the open sea, it left behind with shattered hopes, Hawker's English rival, Frederick P. Raynham, who had hoped to be first across in a Martinsyde plane to win glory and the $50,000 prize of The London Daily Mail.

Broke Axle of Machine.

Raynham was tuning up the engine of his machine when Hawker flashed over the Englishman's airdrome, droping as he went the under-carriage of his Southwith to lighten the load he must carry. Raynham and his navigator, Chas. W. F. Morgan, realized then that the Australian was on his way. Instantly they determined to follow him, for all their preparations had been made weeks ago, but misfortune intervened.

As the Martinsyde "taxied" along the uneven surface of the runway, preparatory to the take-off, a rear axle broke under its heavy load, and the machine ploughed into the ground. Pilot and navigator were jammed in the wreckage, but apparently neither were seriously hurt.

Got Well on Way.

While Raynham's injuries were being treated Hawker was well on his way. Sunday sight-seers listlessly watching what they supposed was to be a trial flight of the Sopwith, were amazed when they saw the under-carriage drop like a plum near the Martinsyde airdrome. They knew it meant Hawker had determined to tarry no longer for it left

NAVAL SEAPLANE IS STILL MISSING

Fog and Heavy Winds Handicap the Searchers.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 19. — Although it was said it was possible London might get the news first, the Navy Department early to-day had not been informed as to the unofficially reported rescue of the crew of Seaplane N. C.—3, as told in a news despatch from London. No news from the N.C.—3, missing since early on Saturday morning, has been received, when Commander J. H. Towers reported the plane was then off her course about 300 miles from her destination.

More than a score of naval vessels which have been sweeping the seas since a short time after the N. C.—3 became lost, kept up their search throughout the night. High seas and foggy weather around the Azores have handicapped the patrol work, and increased the difficulty for the ability of any seaplanes to remain afloat.

HORTA, Azores, May 19, 10.30 a.m. —Rear Admiral Plunkett of the Cruiser Rochester, at Lisbon, has sent word here suggesting that the seaplane N.C.—4 join in the search this morning for the missing N.C.—3. This suggestion is believed here to be impracticable, because the searching seaplane would be forced back by the heavy head winds.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 19. — The lost naval seaplane N. C.—3, commanded by Commander Towers, lost in mid-Atlantic since 5.15 Saturday morning was to-day reported to the Navy Department proceeding toward Ponta Del Gada, under her own power, seven miles from land.

The N.C.—4 plans to start for Ponta Del Gada as soon as the weather permits.

At 2.30 p.m. local time the weather indicated showers. The plan is to go direct to Lisbon from Ponta Del Gada. The aviators also desired to make the flight during the daylight hours, which would be impossible if they started from Horta.

ILLICIT FISHING IN CLOSED SEASON

Rice Lake Lunge Are Brought into Peterboro in Large Quantities.

Illegal traffic in Rice Lake fish is reported to have reached proportions exceeding any other closed season. Rumors of this contravention of the Fish and Game law have been heard repeatedly and from such reliable sources that they seem to be beyond question of doubt. One man stated that he had heard of one instance in which an auto load of fish was brought to the city recently. This informant named the man who had "run in" this load of maskinonge, and while this was the largest quantity he had heard of, he admitted that the infractions of the law were frequent. Reports of this nature have been frequent of late, and assuming that the inspectors are as active as possible it is evident that their number should be increased during the closed spawning season.

Lunge caught now are of prime flavour and for that reason are particularly desirable, but the closed season has been fixed to protect their spawn and by reproduction to maintain the supply of game fish. Rice Lake is more plentifully stocked than most of the waters in this district, and sportsmen are threatened at the illicit practices that can have only one result of gradually reducing the supply until Rice Lake will cease to offer any attractions to sportsmen who are content to wait until the open season arrives. Men who can get away only during the midsummer months realize that their catches and their sport depends upon the protection that is guaranteed by the closed season and the game law. The authorities should seriously attempt to prevent the reported wholesale defiance of the law, and the citizens as a whole should demand that Rice Lake shall not be stripped of game fish by illegal netting and spearing when the lunge are easily caught and their spawn unhatched.

.....Thief River Falls, Minn., is about 4s miles over the Boundary line and 145 miles south of Winnipeg. It is the nearest point at which it was possible to file a despatch of the Winnipeg situation. The place is the most important lumber manufacturing centre of Northern Minnesota, and is supported by many industries. It holds to-day a relative position to the lumber business in Minnesota as Ottawa to Ottawa Valley twenty years ago. It has extensive water power, and is one of the best lighted and most modern of Northern Minnesota's prosperous towns and cities.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, Minn., May 19.—"I don't know exactly where Thief River Falls is, except that it is somewhere down in Minnesota. I came into it late at night, and I don't know why they call it Thief, nor have I seen the river; but the inhabitants assure me it is here.

"There was one alternative to coming down here to Thief River Falls. This alternative was proposed on Sunday afternoon in Winnipeg by Rev. Wm. Ivens, who is also head of the Press Committee of Strikers. I called to see him on Sunday afternoon in the Labour Temple. As you turned off Main Street to the side street on which the Temple is situated, it looked as if you would run right into Bicycle Week. There were hundreds and hundreds of bicycles, some with men standing astride them, others laid against trees and buildings in great quantities. In front of the Labour Temple was a great concourse of men, with quite a number of women mingled in the crowd.

Although I couldn't say they were in the majority, there were certainly lots of men there whose original native tongue was not English. You could tell that by their casual conversation as you passed by. Inside the building was a great crowd which almost entirely blocked all the corridors and halls. The latest edition of the Labour papers asks the question:

"How does the idea of using the new Parliament Buildings as a Labour Temple strike you?"

"Whatever one may think of this suggestion, it is obvious that the building is not large enough for such an emergency as this. I found Ivens inside the room, surrounded by many comrades, talking and working. I had seen him earlier in the week, when he was giving evidence before the Industrial Relations Commission. I had also had a chat with him then. Neither his evidence nor talk was ultra radical than much of it we had heard in other Western centres, although it was radical enough at that. Now he was busy working, writing, writing on innumerable sheets of paper.

His fair-haired head was bent down over his task. At all events he has black, bushy eyebrows such as are pictured on ultra modern Egyptian. "Yes, I'll be glad to have a little chat with you," said Ivens. "But I'm writing to-morrow's papers, and there's lots to write about. I have two linotype machines running now. Of course, you knew that all the dailies were stopped."

COPY HAD TO HAVE "O.K." OF STRIKE COMMITTEE.

"Have you anything you would like to say to the people in the East?" I asked.

"How could you get it out of here if I did give it to you?" he parried. "And I confessed I did not know. 'I think I can arrange a way,' said Ivens, 'on certain conditions. No press matter can go out of Winnipeg unless it has my O.K., as head of the Press Committee. None has gone out yet. I haven't ever written any myself for outside, but I will whenever I get time. I think I can arrange for you to wire six hundred words daily to your papers, under your signature, but with my O.K., provided that the copy is read and passed by the Strike Committee, and provided that you wire it also to the New York 'Call,' a Labour paper in Butte, Montana, and probably a Labour paper in Toronto, too. That's the only way you can wire the stuff out of Winnipeg. Of course, if you can get it out yourself by some other city all right, but that's the only method from here.' I asked for time to consider the matter, and said I would see him probably the next day.

"I didn't reach Winnipeg until noon on Sunday, and went again before dinner. It wasn't a very long visit, therefore, but it was strenuous while it lasted. First I got a short bite of lunch at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, which only a few days ago I had stayed in the same place and had eaten various meals to the accompaniment of much service and considerable music.

HOTEL RESTAURANTS OPEN AT INTERVALS.

"On Sunday, however, dining had been turned into an improvised cafeteria. Knives, forks, and spoons were wrapped up in a paper napkin and arrived with the tray. You walked along the buffet table and helped your-

SMITH KNEW WHEN TO LEAVE TOWN

Paid for Board and Lodgings, Also for Office Rent in Advance—Had Young Man With Him.

LINDSAY, May 19.—Checks issued by S. W. Smith, as the head of the S. W. Smith Wholesale Produce Co., of Lindsay, are still coming in marked "no funds in the bank."

S. W. Smith, however, is nowhere to be found. The police have the matter in hand and have communicated with outside towns and cities, giving a description of the produce dealer who is wanted by many firms in the Midland district.

Was a Bachelor.

Smith passed himself off as a bachelor, and while in town stopped at the home of Mrs. Tremeer Cambridge street, north, where he paid for his room and board in advance. He was accompanied by another young man, presumed to be his son, as they looked very much alike.

When asked what his business was he stated that he bought produce for himself and that he expected to be in Lindsay all summer.

Bought Egg Boxes

It is understood that Smith had bought a number of egg boxes from a local firm, probably to the extent of $100, and these are still to be paid for.

"Keep Neat Books"

When issuing instructions to his bookkeeper he asked her to be particularly careful in keeping the books neat, and in order so that the auditors would find everything all o.k. when he had them audited.

Rent in Advance

Rent for the suite of offices on William street north, was paid for in advance to Mr. J. M. Knowlson, owner of the property.

Knew When to Get Out

Citizens have made the remark that Smith knew just when to get out of town, and out of business. He managed to meet a few bills for produce with a small account which he placed in the bank, but got out when he had been paid for the goods he had sold. He left town about the time when sight drafts were beginning to come in from all directions.

If a man were hurt every time he is scared he would never live to the three-score-and-ten limit.

NAVAL SEAPLANE IS STILL MISSING

Fog and Heavy Winds Handicap the Searchers.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 19. — Although it was said it was possible London might get the news first, the Navy Department early to-day had not been informed as to the unofficially reported rescue of the crew of Seaplane N. C.—3, as told in a news despatch from London. No news from the N.C.—3, missing since early on Saturday morning, has been received, when Commander J. H. Towers reported the plane was then off her course about 300 miles from her destination.

More than a score of naval vessels which have been sweeping the seas since a short time after the N. C.—3 became lost, kept up their search throughout the night. High seas and foggy weather around the Azores have handicapped the patrol work, and increased the difficulty for the ability of any seaplanes to remain afloat.

HORTA, Azores, May 19, 10.30 a.m. —Rear Admiral Plunkett of the Cruiser Rochester, at Lisbon, has sent word here suggesting that the seaplane N.C.—4 join in the search this morning for the missing N.C.—3. This suggestion is believed here to be impracticable, because the searching seaplane would be forced back by the heavy head winds.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 19. — The lost naval seaplane N. C.—3, commanded by Commander Towers, lost in mid-Atlantic since 5.15 Saturday morning was to-day reported to the Navy Department proceeding toward Ponta Del Gada, under her own power, seven miles from land.

The N.C.—4 plans to start for Ponta Del Gada as soon as the weather permits.

At 2.30 p.m. local time the weather indicated showers. The plan is to go direct to Lisbon from Ponta Del Gada. The aviators also desired to make the flight during the daylight hours, which would be impossible if they started from Horta.

"Have you anything you would like to say to the people in the East" I asked.

"How could you get it out of here if I did give it to you?" he parried. "And I confessed I did not know. 'I think I can arrange a way,' said Ivens, 'on certain conditions. No press matter can go out of Winnipeg unless it has my O.K., as head of the Press Committee. None has gone out yet. I haven't ever written any myself for outside, but I will whenever I get time. I think I can arrange for you to wire six hundred words daily to your papers, under your signature, but with my O.K., provided that the copy is read and passed by the Strike Committee, and provided that you wire it also to the New York 'Call,' a Labour paper in Butte, Montana, and probably a Labour paper in Toronto, too. That's the only way you can wire the stuff out of Winnipeg. Of course, if you can get it out yourself by some other city all right, but that's the only method from here.' I asked for time to consider the matter, and said I would see him probably the next day.

"I didn't reach Winnipeg until noon on Sunday, and went again before dinner. It wasn't a very long visit, therefore, but it was strenuous while it lasted. First I got a short bite of lunch at the Royal Alexandra Hotel, which only a few days ago I had stayed in the same place and had eaten various meals to the accompaniment of much service and considerable music.

SMITH KNEW WHEN TO LEAVE TOWN

Paid for Board and Lodgings, Also for Office Rent in Advance—Had Young Man With Him.

LINDSAY, May 19.—Checks issued by S. W. Smith, as the head of the S. W. Smith Wholesale Produce Co., of Lindsay, are still coming in marked "no funds in the bank."

S. W. Smith, however, is nowhere to be found. The police have the matter in hand and have communicated with outside towns and cities, giving a description of the produce dealer who is wanted by many firms in the Midland district.

Was a Bachelor.

Smith passed himself off as a bachelor, and while in town stopped at the home of Mrs. Tremeer Cambridge street, north, where he paid for his room and board in advance. He was accompanied by another young man, presumed to be his son, as they looked very much alike.

When asked what his business was he stated that he bought produce for himself and that he expected to be in Lindsay all summer.

Bought Egg Boxes

It is understood that Smith had bought a number of egg boxes from a local firm, probably to the extent of $100, and these are still to be paid for.

"Keep Next Door"

When issuing instructions to his bookkeeper he asked her to be particularly careful in keeping the books neat, and in order so that the auditors would find everything all o.k. when he had them audited.

Rent in Advance

Rent for the suite of offices on William street north, was paid for in advance to Mr. J. M. Knowlson, owner of the property.

Knew When to Get Out

Citizens have made the remark that Smith knew just when to get out of town, and out of business. He managed to meet a few bills for produce with a small account which he placed in the bank, but got out when he had been paid for the goods he had sold. He left town about the time when sight drafts were beginning to come in from all directions.

If a man were hurt every time he is scared he would never live to the three-score-and-ten limit.

Letters Showing the Attitude Taken by His Worship the Mayor, the Bishop of Peterborough, and the Ministerial Association Towards the Proposed Drive for Funds for New Quarters for The Great War Veterans Association.

HIS WORSHIP MAYOR DUNCAN.

Peterborough, April 24th, 1919.

R. E. Layfield, Esq.,
Secretary Joint Drive Committee,
Great War Veterans' Association,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—

I understand that you are preparing to appeal to the citizens for subscriptions to furnish funds to complete the remodelling of your building for the purposes of your Association and its members.

Permit me to wish you success in this campaign. The men who gave their services overseas, and who made the sacrifices to preserve the rights and liberties of their country and of the world, have claims upon those whose freedom and rights they protected, and I am certain the citizens would like to see your building properly remodelled and sufficiently furnished for their accommodation and comfort.

I hope that you will be very successful in your campaign.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. H. DUNCAN,
Mayor.

HIS LORDSHIP BISHOP O'BRIEN,
Bishop of Peterborough.

Bishop's House, Peterborough, April 22, 1919.

Capt. R. E. Layfield,
City.

My Dear Capt. Layfield,—

I am in sympathy with the Great War Veterans in their desire to have a home and headquarters of their own, and I am confident that our citizens will generously support the efforts of the Veterans in this regard. Under God we owe them the splendid victory for which we prayed and for which we are most grateful.

The opening of the Great War Veterans' Club and the assistance we are asked for in the coming drive will serve as an occasion of showing our appreciation for the services of the men who have done so much to merit our gratitude. I wish the campaign every success.

I am, very sincerely yours,
M. J. O'BRIEN.

THE MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

Peterborough, Ont., May 14th, 1919.

Capt. R. E. Layfield,
Great War Veterans' Association,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—

The Ministerial Association of Peterborough wishes to say a word which they hope will be helpful to the Great War Veterans' Association.

We are absolutely united in gratefully acknowledging our debt to those who have so bravely fought for us and for our country and have wrested from a mighty foe a glorious victory, and that at a cost to themselves that we can never measure. For this reason we heartily commend to all whom we may influence in this city and country any enterprise of this Association that would make for the greatest welfare and comfort of themselves and families.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, MAY 19TH, 1919.

RETURNED SOLDIERS' WEEK

This is the week of the returned soldier not only will it be marked by the opening of the new Great War Veterans Hall on Murray street to-night and by a series of entertainments and athletic events throughout the week, but it will also be featured by the $15,000 drive on behalf of the G.W.V.A.

Important as are all the other big events of the week the campaign should be the crowning feature. It furnishes the test of the gratitude of the citizens of Peterboro. If the answer to the appeal is a triumphal rolling up of the amount aimed at the veterans will be given concrete evidence that their fellow citizens realize the service that Peterboro's soldiers have done. On the other hand an unsuccessful campaign will cause the returned men to wonder if all the suffering and hardships they went through over there have been unnoticed by the people who remained at home.

The newspapers of the city have laid the matter squarely before the people. The cause has been endorsed not only by the patriotic citizens who constitute the civilian committee for the drive but by many other residents as well. There is little more that can be said than to once more bespeak on behalf of the canvassers whose is the task of going from house to house on behalf of the drive a cordial welcome and a generous contribution.

PETERBORO AS IT WAS

The many readers of the Examiner who have expressed their delight at the series of articles on old days in Peterboro written for this paper by Mr. F. H. Dobbin will be glad to know that Mr Dobbin has promised to furnish further pen pictures of the conditions when Peterboro was a mere hamlet. Much of the information that is given in these brightly written articles has never before been published; it represents many years of collecting material by Mr. Dobbin who has gathered his informaton from many different sources and who has carefully preserved it with a view of writing the stories of the early history of the city that are appearing in the Examiner each Saturday. Mr. Dobbin's rich fund of material and the breezy humour that characterizes his writing makes these sketches of absorbing interest not only to the old residents of Peterboro who may be able to recall some of the incidents but to the new generation to whom the story of Peterboro has been more or less of a blank. It is over a hundred years ago since the first settler arrived on the site of the present city and there is a fascination about the early development of Peterboro and the condition that pertained in the middle of the last century that cause Mr. Dobbin's articles to be eagerly read. The Examiner is glad to have had an opportunity of providing them for the benefit of its readers.

A SERIOUS MATTER

The warning letter which appears elsewhere into-day's issue should be read carefully by the citizens in general and by the members of the city council particularly. The aldermen have been so completely muddled over the Hunter Street Bridge question that other matters seem to have been neglected. The problem of sewage disposal, however, cannot much longer be allowed into the back-ground. It is a matter of the greatest importance; one that should have been dealt with decisively and settled years ago. As the open letter reminds the people of Peterboro the pollution of the water of the Otonabee river by city sewage has gone on year after year contrary to the Public Health Act. In spite of the knowledge that the day was coming when this dumping of sewage into the river would have to stop, City Council after City Council has continued to build more sewers to further pollute the stream. The facts that th law was being violated that the members of the Council were personally liable for the money that was expended in constructing a sewer system with an outlet into the Otonabee that the townships through which that river runs are liable at any time to issue an injunction to restrain the corporation of Peterboro from further pollution of the river, have been ignored by the aldermen.

That this state of affairs cannot much longer be permitted to exist, is indisputable. What do the City Council propose to do? Are they going to keep on quarreling over the bridge question until the necessary legal steps are taken to prevent the sewage from the city being dumped into the Otonabee. The warning from North Monaghan threatens action at once if the city rulers do not immediately proceed to deal with the question. Are the citizens to prepare to use cesspool and earth closets? The inconvenience and expense to say nothing of the unsanitary features of the primitive method that will have to be adopted if the council continues the question make it imperative that the aldermen met this question at once.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

As soon as the Bell Telephone Company obtained permission to increase its rates to customers it issued $4,500,000 new stock at par to its shareholders. As the stock is now selling at $130 this is a present of $30 a share, or $1,350,000, to its shareholders at the expense of telephone users.—Toronto Globe.

The sale of Bell Telephone stock to present owners at par when it is selling for 130 in the open market is an outrageous piece of melon-cutting, coming as it does immediately after the increase of rates authorized by the Railway Board. The stock should have been sold by auction or tender to the highest bidder.—Toronto Globe.

HAWKER UNOFFICIALLY REPORTED WITHIN 500 MILES OF IRISH COAST

him without landing equipment, but lightened his craft for its hazardous voyage.

If the daring Australian wins his gamble with death it will bring him first honours in the non-stop transatlantic race, undying fame and a rich prize. He decided to risk everything, when he heard of the arrival of the United States navy's seaplane N. C.-4 at Horta, and reiterated his statement that he would "beat the Yankees across," although the venture of the navy aircraft has no bearing on The Daily Mail contest, nor did they attempt a non-stop flight.

Little Chance If Mishap.

The intrepid youths who drove their planes out over the eastern horizon today in an attempt to win for Britain and for themselves the glory of the first transatlantic air flight left the ground with doubtful chances of survival should their venture meet with mishap in mid-ocean.

Harry G. Hawker and Lieutenant-Commander Mackenzie Grieve, his skipper, who were encased in full length, non-sinkable suits, had a degree of assurance in an ingeniously-built boat, shaped so as to form the rear hood of their fuselage, and proved by experiment to possess considerable seaworthiness and outfitted with provisions and signalling devices.

No Pontoons.

Unlike the huge craft with which American naval crews hope to fly to Europe, the plane which soared out over the Atlantic to-day was an overland craft— nothing more. It has no pontoons to keep it afloat, or permit towing in case of accident. It is a small biplane of the scout type, Hawker's Sopwith having a wing spread of 46 feet, with a length over all of 31 feet. The Sopwith is rated at 360 horsepower and the Martinsyde at 375.

Hawker's craft, rated at 100 miles an hour, was expected to attain 105 miles with its undercarriage abandoned by an automatic releasing arrangement.

For communication with ships at sea, the machine carries a wireless of limited range, having both sending and receiving apparatus.

The aviators, contenders for The London Daily Mail's $50,000 prize for the first transatlantic flight completed in 72 hours, announced before the start their intention to land at Brookland's airdrome, near London. Hawker's navigator expected to fly eastward about 600 miles and turn into the transatlantic shipping lane.

At Height of 8,000 Feet.

The navigators declared they would depend upon their sextants and compasses for bearings, together with specially drawn tables for calculations. Heading east through the night, they expected to meet the sun on its westward way at a time to give them a good horizon and opportunity for figuring out their position. During the night, they said, they would "shoot the stars," and from their observations calculate position, while the sun would be their guide by day. Both pilots expected to fly at an average altitude of 8,000 feet, though the atmospheric conditions would vary this plan.

Faded From View.

Flying straight, without swerving a hair from the chosen course, the little plane faded rapidly from view. In five minutes it had dwindled to a speck in the sky, and in six minutes it was out to sight behind the hills.

Hawker's start was made in face of weather conditions which he characterized as "not yet favourable —but possible." He and his navigator gravely considered the hazards of the attempt, and decided to stake everything on an effort to "beat the Americans."

Overnight reports to the emetedrological station had showed increased atmospheric pressures, smoother seas and fair barometer conditions. Although winds and pressures were not all they had hoped for, Hawker and Grieve ordered their hand satchels packed and made ready for the start.

Weight of Importance.

Hawker considered weights as of utmost importance. Lifting Mackenzie Grieve's bag he found it heavy, and inquired solicitously if he couldn't "dispense with pyjamas" on the trip. When asked if he thought he would have a chance to sleep during the voyage, Hawker replied:

"We'll have a long sleep coming at the end of it."

It was 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Greenwich time, when Hawker ordered his Sopwith plane trundled out of its hangar for a ground, and wind test. Over in the Quidi Vidi field at the other end of the city Raynham had found cross-winds sweeping over his Martinsyde "take off" grounds.

Hawker tried out the Sopwith for a minute or two and called conditions for a start "good enough." Grieve agreed. The plane was then given a final inspection.

Took the Air.

At 5.51, Greenwich time, the Sopwith was ready.

At 5.55 sharp Hawker gave the word and the ground crew "let go." The little plane jerked forward, then moved steadily over the uneven ground.

Hawker gathered speed rapidly as he bowled over the turf, rocking heavily. At 200 yards he was going fairly well, but sawying badly. A hummock "lifted" him at 300 yards, and with a last lurch the Sopwith took the air.

From the instant it "set sail" directly northwest, winging higher and higher. When the under carriage was dropped the little group of spectators cried out:

"She's off!"

Raynham at Quidi Vidi heard the roar of the Sopwith engine as the plane rose well into the air. He ordered the Martinsyde made ready at once, and went into hasty consultation with his navigator, Morgan.

Taxying For Start.

Within an hour the Martinsyde was "taxying" for a start, with Raynham at the control, bumping heavily and rocking from side to side over the rough ground. Suddenly a rear axle buckled and the machine crashed on its side, ploughing into the earth. Raynham and Morgan were lifted out of the wreckage streaming with blood. Too heavy cargo was said to have caused the collapse of the Martinsyde's under carriage. It was trying to carry 308 gallons of gasoline.

THEATRICAL Notes

MR. MAUDE TALKS OF AUDIENCES.

At the Grand Thursday Evening.

"The American audience," says Mr. Cyril Maude, the noted English actor, who appears this season in "The Saving Grace," is more attentive and restrains its coughing much more carefully than does the London audience. The Londoners express their feelings the more markedly, I should say, as the play goes on, but the American audience applauds with the hands more vigorously than the Londoners do at the ends of acts. In my country the greatest applause is reserved for the end of the play, while here, you express your sentiments most loudly after the penultimate act. The Americans seem, from their conversation between acts, to be far the more vivacious of the two audiences. In London great excitement among the lower orders is often expressed by cat-calls and stamping of the feet, which I have very seldom heard over here.

I do not find much difference between the Londoner and the American as regards taking up the points in a play quickly. I think a great many of our smarter folk at home are very much inclined to talk loudly during the play—a distressing fault I have not noticed here. Your audiences here look more as if they had come to the theatre with a mind made up to enjoy themselves to the full, whereas ours often arrive looking bored at the idea of even having to see a play, a state from which it is a great delight to do one's best to rouse them.

"The first night in London is an utter terror to the actor, and even more so to the actor-manager for the audience, if it doesn't like the play, shows its disapproval in a very unpleasant fashion. Loud 'boo' or 'hoot' coming from the gallery and pit, is the most terrible sound an actor can hear. I cannot think that hell itself can be much worse than one of our theatres on a first night when, say, there has been a rag all day, the play possibly not being particularly brilliant, and perhaps one of the actors ill or nervous, throwing the whole play out of gear. The failure is dismal, and with this terrible 'boos,' or rather 'oos'—because as a matter of fact a so-called 'boo' is usually an 'oo,' which is just as bad if not worse.

"Of course a Dublin audience is often the most annoying, especially when it behaves as it did once when a fat old friend of mine played Mephistopheles, and owing to his enormous girth he stuck in the trap leading to the infernal regions. 'Hurrah boys—Hell's full!'—shouted one of our gallery boys at once.

CYRIL MAUDE.
In "The Saving Grace," Grand Thursday Evening.

I should say that an English audience on the whole displays all its feelings more vividly than an American audience does.

On the other hand, there is a great feeling of genuine kindness and appreciative generous feeling about an American audience, and a keen perception of every possible point in the play, and any English actor who does not love to act before an American audience must indeed be an ungrateful person and hard to please. As for me, bless 'em—I love 'em, and shall hate to leave them at the end of the present season.

UNCLE TOMS' CABIN.

In many respects Wm. H. Kibble's Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the most important of the season's productions. In the first place it serves to exploit the masterpieces of two of Europe's noted artists, i.e., Ralph Brunt's elaborate painting entitled "The Celestial City," and Hartz Verlon's picture of the New Orleans slave mart, and secondly it has brought back into prominence the memories of that grand old lady, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and serves to reveal the beautiful lessons really to be learned by careful attention. Second to the Holy Book does Uncle Tom's Cabin rank as a sacred instructor. The pulpit has endorsed it as a moral teacher worthy of mankind's support, while the Board of Education in many of the large cities has encouraged scholars in witnessing the worthy dramatization of the story that was instrumental in making our country religious, free and happy, like a poorly composed book, there are many versions of Uncle Tom's Cabin now being forced upon the public under embossed covering, which are detrimental to the greatest degree. They are usually short-lived, for the people of to-day are not to be hoodwinked as easily as those of not so many years ago. It is a known fact that Mr. Wm. H. Kibble possesses the original version of Mrs. Stowe's story and that it has been unanimously accepted by the press, pulpit and public of America and England. The Kibble revival will be brought to the Grand Friday evening. Special school children's matinee at 3 p.m.

The version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which Wm. H. Kibble's company will present at the Grand on Friday evening is as superior, when compared with others, as a rose to a weed. The production is in size a whale beside a minnow.

SPECIAL HOLIDAY ATTRACTION.

"Turn to the Right," Saturday, Matinee and Evening.

Winchell Smith, master stage craftsman, must have borne in mind the old dramatic adage, "Send your audience home laughing," when he put the finishing touch to "Turn To the Right," for by the simplest of tricks the final curtain of that most successful of comedies is invariably rewarded with a storm of laughter and applause. The scene of the last act is the peach orchard of the Bascom farm at night. The dear old Mrs. Bascom has just waved good-bye to her son and his young bride, who are to motor off to their own little cottage that can be seen on the hill top in the distance. The curtain is about to descend and there is no one in the audience whose eyes are not dimmed with tears of joy and sympathy at the happy ending of all the Bascom troubles, when slowly ascending the distant hill, is seen the bridal car, it's headlight piercing the gloom of the night. The car stops in front of the tiny cottage. It is too distant to see the young couple descend but as the car proceeds on its way and the lights of the cottage flush up there is no one in the audience who is not positive he has actually seen the bride and groom enter their new home. Then the lights are lowered and a single light in an upper window flashes for a moment and then a falling shade bring darkness again and the big curtain descends amid storms of laughter and applause.

"Turn to the Right" comes to the Grand Saturday, matinee and evening.

TEA FOR THREE

A lively interest is manifested in the announcement that Miss Elsa Ryan, whose splendid acting of the stellar roles in "Out There", the British recruiting play, and in "Peg O' My Heart", won for her a large and loyal following in Toronto and other Canadian cities, comes to Grand, Monday, May 26th in "Tea for Three," the comedy by Roi Cooper Megrue which is described as one of the most delightful dramatic novelties the present season has produced. The program heralds the comedy as "an angle on the triangle"—but an angle viewed from an entirely new and unique perspective. The average conventional triangular play is a thing to be shunned, but in "Tea for Three" a happy combination of a delicate problem, a sympathetic understanding of everyday human faults and an abundant supply of hearty and wholesome fun has been effected. From a literary standpoint, this latest work of Roi Cooper Megrue has been compared favorably to the writing of that master craftsman, George Bernard Shaw. It is said that Mr. Megrue has supplied "Tea for Three" with enough witty dialogue to savor a half dozen plays, and there is not a dull moment a stale bit of humor in the entire three acts. A charming, well-balanced interpretation of a part calling for varied emotional demonstration is given by Miss Ryan who appears a vision of radiant loveliness in modishly effective feminine fripperies. Capable assistance is rendered the star by Norman Hackett, Hayden Stevenson and others. The production and scenic effects will be presented here exactly as shown at the Maxine Elliott Theatre, New York, where the comedy is enjoying a run totalling at the present time 12 months. Selwyn and Company are the producers.

DOGS WERE BIG FACTORS IN WAR

WASHINGTON, D.C.—"Add dogs to any list of the potent factors in winning the war!" counsels a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"Heroic deeds of the Red Cross dogs have been widely celebrated, and justly so," the bulletin continues. "But not only did the dog figure gloriously as a messenger of mercy in the war, but did his bit nobly in many other ways.

"It is said that there were about ten thousand dogs employed at the battle front at the time of the signing of the armistice. They ranged from Alaskan malamute to St. Bernard and from Scotch collie to fox-terrier. Many of them were placed on the regimental rosters like soldiers. In the trenches they shared all the perils and hardships of the soldiers themselves, and drew their turns in the rest camps in the same fashion. But they were always ready to go back, and it is not recorded that a single one of them ever failed when it came to going 'over the top.'

"Mounting guard at a listening post for long hours at a stretch, ignoring danger with all the stolidness of a stoic, yet alert every moment, he played a heroic role. Full many a time it was the keen ear of a collie that first caught the sound of the approaching raiding party. And did he bark? How natural it would have been for him to do so. But no, a bark or a growl might have told the raiders they were discovered, and thus have prevented the animal's own forces from giving the foe a counter-surprise. So he wagged his tail nervously—a canine adaptation of the wig-wag system which his master interpreted and acted upon, to the discomfiture of the enemy.

"Often whole companies were saved because the dog could reach farther into the distance with his senses than could the soldiers themselves.

"It was found that many dogs would do patrol and scout duty with any detachment. But there was another type of dog worker needed in the trenches—the liaison dog, trained to seek his master whenever turned loose. Amid exploding shells, through veritable fields of hell, he would crawl and creep, with only one thought—to reach his master. Nor would he stop until the object of his search was attained. Many a message of prime importance he thus bore from one part of the field to another and naught but death or overcoming wound could turn him aside.

"But the work of the dogs was not limited to the front. Where the motor lorry was helpless, the horse stood powerless to aid, or man himself found conditions where even the iron muscle and the indomitable will that is born of the frenzy of patriotism could not conquer, here came the sled dog to the rescue.

"Alaska and Labrador furnished the motive power for the sledges that kept the men in their mountain pinnacle trenches in the high Alps provisioned and munitioned in the dead of winter. In four days, after a heavy snowfall, one kennel of sled dogs moved more than forty tons of food and other supplies from the valley below to the front lines on the mountain above.

"In the Vosges Mountains more than a thousand Alaskan dogs helped to hold the Hun during the last year of the war."

EXAMINER'S CORRESPONDENT TRAVELS INTO THE UNITED STATES

...ll to a piece of fish, bread and butter, lettuce salad, apricot pie, and tea. ...here were no alternative conditions, but the quantity was ample. We were ...d to believe that we couldn't eat at all in a Winnipeg public place without ...e Union label, but the hotel restaurant was allowed to be open for one ...our periods exclusively for the guests of the hotels. Immediately after ...uncheon I was able, fortunately, to hire a motor car, and lived in it for ...the next few hours. The lack of telephone service, as well as of all street ...cars, interfered with a person's mobility, unless he was lucky enough to pick ...up a car. 'As we sped up Main Street, which looked very wide and very ...empty, except for the people on the sidewalks, we noticeed an occasional ...restaurant open, with the printed notice in the window saying: "Open by ...permit of Strike Committee." I drove to the house of a friend in Fort ...Rouge to ask the news. I wanted particularly to see the son. 'He's up- ...stairs asleep,' said the father. 'He was out all night at the Fire Hall as ...a volunteer.' The father himself had been at a meeting in the Fire Station ...in the morning, at which the Citizens' District Committee was being ...formed, with representatives from each city block. Similar organisations, ...he said, were in process of formation all over the town. They were to ...work in conjunction with the military authorities to help in the preservation ...of order in case of any trouble. This man said the only disturbance he ...had heard of so far was at a bread company's plant, where a lot of bread ...had been burned by a crowd, and what hadn't been burned had been spoiled ...by water. Some time afterwards I met another friend, a military man, who ...drove around with me on various journeys.

BULLET PASSED THROUGH WINDOW OF MILITARY CAR.

"As we passed the City Hall there was quite a crowd of men outside, ...but not as many as a week ago. The Salvation Army was singing placidly ...in the Square, undisturbed by any turn of events. I tried to go into the ...City Hall, but the main doors were locked. I entered finally by the side ...entrance, but wandered up and down deserted corridors. 'You didn't ex- ...pect to find anyone there, did you?' asked a military man, sarcastically. ...'That isn't the seat of city government any longer. You will find it at the ...Labour Temple. Nothing can be done here without the permit of the ...Strike Committee. The municipal government has abdicated entirely.' ...This man said he had just heard of two acts of wantonness, and both had ...occurred with military cars. A bullet had whizzed through the window of ...one car bearing a staff officer. A heavy iron bolt had been thrown through ...another. Orders had been issued to take off all 'O.H.M.S.' signs from army ...automobiles. This officer said that three battalions were being recruited ...with soldiers and civilians—the 80th, the 43rd, and the 100th. These pre- ...cautions were merely in case disturbances occurred. Personally he hoped ...there would not be any trouble. I asked him about the attitude of the sol- ...diers to strikers. He said he thought on the whole it was sympathetic, and ...would remain so as long as the strikers remained orderly. The soldiers ...were determined, however, to take a hand in the suppression of any violence ...from any quarter whatsoever. The decision of the mass meeting of veterans ...is reported by the 'Western Labour News' as follows:

"That this meeting declares its full sympathy with the purposes of the ...present strike to meet the general condition of the people, and pledges ...itself to use every legitimate means to preserve law and order, and that after ...the strike is settled, labour and returned soldiers get together and discuss ...the deportation of enemy aliens.'

"This is said to have been substituted for a longer resolution prepared ...by the Executive and defeated at the meeting. It did state that by far the ...largest number of returned soldier citizens were drawn from the ranks of ...labour, with whose legitimate demands they were in complete sympathy. ...But it emphasised what it called the insidious campaign inaugurated amongst ...certain sections of labour and of returned citizens to spread propaganda ...of the most virulent and disloyal type with the avowed object of causing ...unrest, and instigating revolution. Especially in the absence of regular news ...channels there were all sorts of rumours rife in Winnipeg, some of a most ...disquieting nature, but no confirmation of any of them was available.

ORDERLY STRIKE

"One of the wildest was that May- ...or Grey was to be deported and a ...full-fledged Soviet Government insti- ...tuted. As it is, however, the Labour ...press admits that any activities that ...are being carried on, including the ...policing of streets, are being done ...under strike permits.' As for the ...maintenance of order, Labour lead- ...ers and their press are certainly keen ...for it. 'The most orderly strike on ...record,' says one of the headlines, ...and the Strike Committee, it says, re- ...minised that to win the strike it was ...necessary to preserve the 'maximum ...of order so as not to play into the ...hands of our opponents.' To judge ...from numerous expressions of opin- ...ion, what the general public of Win- ...nipeg resents is what they consider ...the dictatorial attitude of the Strike ...Committee. More than one person ...to whom I spoke sighed for an Ole ...Hanson of Seattle, but others seemed ...to fear all provocative measures, ...even of speech, and were praying for ...peace. It is felt here by a lot of the ...people who are not necessarily in ...sympathy with the strikers, and who ...feel keenly the inconvenience of the ...tie-up, that the employers have chos- ...en bad ground on which to fight ...these people, and they are many. It ...is incredible that a general strike at ...this time of day should be fought ...on the issue of the recognition of the ...Union. It reveals, they say, in the ...minds of the employers the backwrad ...or at least stationary look that is ...difficult to understand. Anyone ...studying labour conditions and lab- ...our throughout the world over knows ...that, compared with many doctrines ...and movements prevalent to-day, ...Trade Unionism is a conservative ...force. Trade Unionism is fighting ...much more radical and extreme ...forces, and from this point of view it ...seems strange that employers should ...not encourage unions and their re- ...cognition rather than oppose them.

WHITLEY SCHEME.

"In Great Britain the whole Whit- ...ley scheme of co-operation between ...employers and employed is based on ...labour organised in Trade Unions, and ...the plan operates only through the ...recognised medial of Trade Unions ...on one hand and employers' associa- ...tions on the other. If an industry is ...not organised in this way, the Whit- ...ley plan does not apply, and some ...preliminary, preparatory method is ...adopted. During the recent tour of ...the Industrial Relations Commission ...in the West, interesting views of ...unionism were brought out. A good ...many employers, although not object- ...ing to unions, did refuse to recognise ...them or to deal with their officials. ...In Victoria there was a case of an ...employer who admitted he had ...thrown into the basket a letter from ...a business agent of a Union asking ...for a conference on wages and hours ...for his men, and making certain de- ...mands. There appeared to be resent- ...ment on both sides—by the employer ...because the outside business agent ...had tried to 'interfere with his ...affairs,' and the Union men because ...the Union's communication had been ...ignored. In Vancouver, in the midst ...of a critical, indeed dangerous, situ- ...ation, almost the only ray of light ...was the evidence of conditions. In ...the Coughlan Shipbuilding Yards, ...there had been boycotting labour ...trouble there, but the company finally ...agreed not only to recognise the un- ...ion, but to make the establishment a ...'closed shop.' Mr. Coughlan himself ...testified before the Commission, and ...said that he had found it much more ...satisfactory to deal direct with the ...Union, and that the change had prov- ...ed to be beneficial. As one result of ...the policy, an Efficiency Committee ...had been organised, consisting of ...three Union men and three represen- ...tatives of the company. It was too ...soon yet to estimate its final success, ...but both Mr. Coughlan and one of ...the employees' representatives de- ...clared their belief in the plan, and ...already perceived benefits and better ...spirit of amity. Two out of three of ...the men's representatives were Soci- ...alists, but on committee they dealt ...with practical matters from the stand- ...point of Trades Unionists, and did ...not insist on an immediate and un- ...compromising move towards actual ...Socialism.

A PREFERENCE.

"Several other employers in various ...cities decided their preference to deal ...with recognised representatives of ...Trades Unions, saying that they here- ...by secured more unity of decision ...than they could by dealing with re- ...presentatives of unorganised or dis- ...sipated groups. One of the argu- ...ments freely used by employers here, ...both a week ago and now when the ...strike is a reality, is that the whole ...movement is engineered by the One ...Big Union, and this tie-up is a great ...throw of dice by new forces and an ...effort to establish their supremacy in ...a drastic and dramatic fashion. These ...employers say that the One Big ...Union is a sinister power that must ...be crushed and that the fight may as ...well come now as later. It may be ...admitted at once that the One Big ...Union is powerful in Winnipeg, al- ...though not as powerful as in Van- ...couver, and that its programme and ...aims are ultra radical. Whatever ...may be the place of the One Big ...Union in the Winnipeg situation, it ...does look as if labour forces, whether ...dominiated or orthodox Trades Un- ...ionism or by the new powers did ...plant themselves on favourable fight- ...ing ground. The 'recognition' issue ...is a conservative, not an ultra radi- ...cal one, involving the recognition of ...what is comparatively conservative ...and stable force. On such an issue ...the original strikers were sure to get ...the support of moderate labour opin- ...ion, and the extent of the general ...strike shows that they have secured ...such backing.

RADICAL TENDENCIES.

"Close observers believe it quite ...likely that the One Big Union and all ...radical tendencies will be greatly ...strengthened in the present crisis for ...workers having seen that employers ...will not recognise even Trades Un- ...ionism, will be tempted to enlarge ...their demands and extend the orbit ...of their radicalism. This probably ...accounts partly for some of the more ...drastic manifestations at present. ...There are employers who say that ...the Metal Trades Federation is prac- ...tically the One Big Union in itself, ...and that therefore in refusing to re- ...cognise it, they were attacking the ...One Big Union. Although the Metal ...Trades Council outwardly does bend ...in the direction of industrial union- ...ism, there is a real distinction. It is ...a Federation of Trades Unions en- ...gaged in metal trades, but the im- ...portant point is that it is a combina- ...tion. The One Big Union and all in- ...dustrial unionism is not built on a ...federal plan, but is a closely knit ...centralisation, with certain decentral- ...isation features allowed within it. ...Some of the leading craft unionists ...opposed to the industrial unions not ...only tolerate federations of unions, ...but encourage them as an effective ...offset to the One Big Union. The ...Metal Trades Council, therefore, is ...not looked upon as part of the One ...Big Union, although under the pre- ...sent crisis it may develop into some ...such thing. Among other rumours is ...one to the effect that the Railway ...Brotherhoods will be out in a day or ...two, completing the Winnipeg isol- ...ation.

Not Sympathetic.

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, May 19.—Local labour leaders are far from sympathetic to the action which has been taken in Winnipeg by labour organizations to enforce their demands, and term the movement as one of a revolutionary nature which will react on the Unions themselves, and consequently on the members of the various trades. Mr. John T. Foster, President of the Montreal Trades and Labour Council, and other labour leaders from various parts of Canada who are in conference here today, said that the situation in the west is materially embarrassing. The committee which is conducting negotiations here on behalf of the 35,000 shop workers in all the railways of Canada. "The movement in Winnipeg,' said Mr. Foster, and his words are endorsed by others present, "is a disruption movement, those taking part in it showing that they have no respect for agreements entered into their behalf. It is plainly an element wanting to get away from the ranks of International organized labour and to force its demands by revolutionary nature."

At the present time negotiations are being conducted here for all the employees of the railway shops of Canada, for 18,000 marine workers in the shipbuilding plants and marine engineering shops, 200 telegraphers and many other branches of trade and industry, and the labour leaders cannot expect these negotiations to be carried to a successful issue, if one section of organized labour plainly indicates that it cannot be controlled and will not live up its agreements.

According to some labour leaders who are here from the west, the serious situation in Winnipeg has been caused by those behind the "One Big Union" idea.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, via New York, May 19. —President Baker of the Brandon Trades Council, announced at the union headquarters here that a general strike would be declared to-morrow at Brandon. The strike presumably will be in sympathy with the general strike in progress here.

The situation here to-day was practically unchanged.

The seat of the so-called Soviet Government is in the Labor Temple, just a short distance from the City Hall. It is stated that two city aldermen will be members of the Soviet Government. A citizens' committee of one thousand is also working, presumably to offset agitations of the Soviet.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, May 19. — Word was received by the Minister of Labor from Winnipeg to-day that the city is still quiet. The threatened clash between the authorities and the strikers which was foreshadowed in a message received at the department last night, did not materialize. The Cabinet Council will hold a meeting at noon, when the situation will be discussed. Senator Robertson would not say whether the government had any proposition for settlement.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, May 19. — Special despatches received here to-day by a roundabout routes from Winnipeg, declare that three thousand strikers met on Saturday night and practically declared a "Soviet Government" to administer affairs in that city. This new government, says the special correspondent, was instituted without formality on Saturday night, and is now practically in control.

The leading spirit in it seems to be Rev. Wm. Ivens, a former Methodist clergyman, and now the editor of the Labor News. It is stated that Editor Ivens is generally recognized as the brain centre of the present movement. He declared that all cities of Canada would shortly be regulated by the new form of government.

OAK HALL, 409-11 GEORGE STREET

LETTER FROM MR. JUSTICE HODGINS

To the Examiner:

Sir,—The Vestry of St. James' Cathedral has made a momentous offer to put at the disposal of Toronto Diocese a Cathedral with all its endowments and staff. I do not think that the Diocese can afford to ignore it and I write, though reluctantly, to draw attention to it.

Naturally, affection for our Bishop makes any one reluctant to raise a controversy in the matter, but the present situation weighs so heavily upon him and upon the Diocese and creates an impalpable but very real hindrance to the whole-hearted devotion which he might command, that I am convinced that perhaps good may come out of a frank discussion of what may be lost by inaction.

I remember the old disagreement between the St. James' authorities and the late Archbishop Sweatman, which resulted in the foundation of St. Alban's.

When our present Bishop succeeded to the See, I took the earliest opportunity of suggesting a conference so as ultimately to bring about the establishment of St. James' as the real Cathedral of the Diocese. In the discussion which took place in the Synod, there was a moment when what seemed to be the wish of the majority in favour of the project was suddenly checked by the statement of the Bishop that the completion of the St. Alban's establishment was to him in the nature of a vow undertaken in affectionate remembrance of his predecessor to aid whom in the work he had devoted so much of his energy, and by his request for support from his clergy.

This totally unexpected and novel attitude had its effect on the division which followed, as many of the Clergy voted for what seemed to them to have become a personal issue rather than a Diocesan question. Hence the unfortunate situation which I have described.

To my mind it is one thing to become bound by a personal determination which is limited to individual effort or restraint, but quite another to enter into a solmen compact which may place a large number of members of the Diocese in a position where they must, against their own inclinations, support a scheme they consider the reverse of prudent, or else oppose either actively or positively the head of their church.

Is there no way in which advantage can be taken of the present offer, leaving St. Alban's to await action at a future time when the pressing questions demanding present activity will have been solved?

The matter is now in such a position that, whether it is discussed or not, St. James' Cathedral with its important endowments and its commanding position, will inevitably be forced to determine its own future.

It is a down town church, with an equipment and resources fitting it to be, with a Cathedral staff, a great centre for the religious and ecclesiastical life of the Diocese. If denied this outlet, it will no doubt choose to become a great factor in social service in its many aspects. Its vestry recognizes that conditions have changed so that its role as a purely parish church is greatly altered. In a few years its debt will be entirely paid off and its endowments freed from obligation. It cannot sit down idly, holding services and doing little else. It must find scope for its energies and if it is not to assume leadership in Diocesan activities, there is a wide field of Christian social endeavour open to it.

Indeed, its problem will be that of all our down town churhces, but it will press upon St. James' Cathedral with peculiar emphasis when it finds itself with a free income and little opportunity for its use.

Yours, etc.,
FRANK E. HODGINS.

PRESENTATION TO MR. CHAS. PARSONS

Has Been Superintendent of George Street Sunday School for Two Years.

At the opening of the George Street Methodist Sunday School yesterday afternoon an illuminated address, expressing the appreciation of the Sunday School for his value as a leader in the School and as a worker and friend was presented to Mr. C. C. Parsons, who has been Superintendent for the past two years. The address was read by Mr. J. Mayneord, the Secretary and signed by Rev. A. J. Thomas, pastor Messrs. J. E. Middleton and George Robertson Associate Superintendent and J. Mayneord on behalf of the school.

Presentation on Friday.

On Friday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Renwick, Mr. Parsons was presented with a handsome set of thermos bottles by the choir with which he has been associated for a number of years. An address read by Miss MacKay accompanied the gift.

ELDERS ORDAINED IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Ceremony Was Conducted by the Rev. Robert Pogue.

At the morning service at St. Paul's Presbyterian church six newly-elected elders, Messrs. Frank Ellis, W. J. Kirk, William S. Hill, Herbert W. Middleton, Robert Stuart and Bert Lockington were ordained and inducted into Eldership by the pastor, Rev. Robert Pogue.

Mr Pogue took for his text, Titus, 1:5, "For this cause I left thee in Crete, that thou should set in order the things that are wanting and ordain elders in every city that I have appointed thee." He pointed out that the rulings of eldership was an institution of the Old Testament church and was continued in the New Testament.

Democratic Organization.

"Presbyterianism," he said, "is a truly democratic organization. What is done by the representatives is done by the people. It is so in civic and national affairs. In a democratic government the members of parliament are representatives of the people, and so when anything is done by the elders it may truly be said to have been done by the church. The elder himself is a member of the church. He must be elected by the suffrages of his brethren and he must be solemnly inducted to office in the presence of the church."

In speaking of the qualifications of elders the pastor spoke emphatically upon the importance of character. Not only character but reputed character. An elder must be a good man and must be known to be a good man. He must stand well in the esteem of his neighbours.

Advanced and Inducted.

At the close of the sermon the pastor called the newly elected elders to the front of the church, and after putting to them the prescribed questions, duly ordained and inducted them into the sacred office of eldership.

Summary of Resolution Passsed at the War Veterans' Convention

Want Men Who Claimed Exemption as Farmers Compelled to Stay on Farms and Not Seek Positions in the City.

Here are some of the resolutions endorsed by the Ontario Provincial Convention of the G. W. V. A. at its final session:

That all conscientious objectors and defaulters under the Military Service Act be disfranchised (unanimous.)

That as a land settlement scheme is too narrow, the Government be memorialized to assist soldiers in a similar way to re-establish themselves in their own occupation whatever their profession or business might be in order that a man might be assisted irrespective of his business.

That two returned soldiers be appointed members of the Civil Service Commission.

That returned men in the civil service who suffer a recurrence of their disability be given a reasonable leave of absence with pay, provided they do not draw pay at the same time from the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

That the Government be memorialised to make it illegal for landlords to discriminate against prospective tenants because of the fact that there were children in the tenant's family.

That all comrades who turned in their uniforms under the former regulations be re-issued with uniforms in order to be able to use them at future parades.

That the convention protest against any prohibition of the manufacture of oleomargarine. (Unanimous.)

That all men who claimed exemptions as farmers be compelled to stay on the farms and not be allowed to come into the cities and occupy positions to which returned soldiers are entitled.

That in accordance with the president's address, the Divine Being be recognized in some concrete form by the constitution, and that every meeting of the G.W.V.A. be henceforth opened with prayer.

That free patents be granted to all men on homesteads previous to the war who were not at that time behind in their homestead obligations and left their land to enlist.

That the maximum penalty be imposed upon those who wear the returned soldier's service button without authority.

That the export of bacon, eggs, butter and cheese be prohibited until it can be shown that the domestic market is being adequately served.

Declare Feeding Russia Won't End Country's Unrest

Officials Predict Prolonging of Trouble If Soviets Have Voice in Final Distribution.

PARIS, Tuesday.—Feeding the Russian population is no solution of the Russian question, it is declared in a memorandum sent to the Peace Conference by Prince Lvoff, Sergius Saronoff and President Tschaikowsky, of the North Russian Government, concerning the proposal to feed soviet Russia through neutral countries on condition that the Bolsheviki cease hostilities. The memorandum says:

"The Allies wish to assist the Russian people and to reduce starvation brought by Bolshevik regime. This cannot fail to awake deep feelings of gratitude. It is not merely a deed of humanity but also a manifestation of the solidarity of peoples.

"Nevertheless, the signers of this declaration consider that the realization of this generous thought will have a contrary result unless efficient measures are taken to prevent Bolsheviki authorities from interfering with the revictualling of Russia. To bring failure to this deed of humanity would be of use only to the protectors of the Bolshevik regime and would help to prolong their domination.

"The task which the Russian national movement must fulfil is to liberate Russia from the yoke of those who have reduced her to her present state of impotence and to the necessity of relying upon foreign countries for her food. The feeding of the famished population is no solution of the Russian question.

"Consequently, the struggle to liberate Russia from her oppressors and to give Russia a government of her own choosing cannot be stopped for any reason whatever. The signers of this declaration wish to state that Russia will pay for the food provided for her, but they hope that the Allies will refuse to give the Bolshevik usurpers the right to dispose of Russia's patrimony."

Stupid persons are seldom dissatisfied with themselves.

WORKMEN MANAGE MAGYAR FACTORIES

With Peasants, They Object to Application of Confiscation Principle to Own Belongings.

BUDAPEST, undated, via London.—If you will imagine a tragedy written by Gilbert and Sullivan you will have a good idea of the conditions that prevail here.

Externally the city in the bright spring sunshine has rather a "Sunday-fied" air, with most of the shops shut, and there is no traffic, except electric street cars, horse cabs, and automobiles confiscated by the Government and now flying red flags. The sidewalks are crowded with unexpectedly well-dressed people, and the cafes are doing a great business in imitation coffee, as the sale of intoxicants is now prohibited.

Everywhere there are red flags, and there are huge red flags on the former royal palace and the Government buildings, with only an occasional black flag for variety. My hotel is crowded, especially at mealtimes, with people who seem to find no difficulty in paying for the very exiguous meals that are supplied, and talk and laugh in what seems to be a creditable imitation of the normal. Yet none of them has any property at all, and no one has any income above $125 a month, for everything has been confiscated by the Soviet, and the former owners are only allowed to draw one-tenth of their income up to the maximum of 2,000 crowns, now worth nominally that amount, although really worth practically nothing.

Similarly all shops and businesses have been confiscated, and a few are managed for the Soviet by a committee of former employes. Thus my hotel is now managed by a former waiter, assistant porter, and chambermaid, and, I must add, not well managed.

Nevertheless, this confiscation is not universal, for the new authorities found a not unnatural reluctance on the part of the working class to part with their savings, while the peasants welcomed the confiscation of great estates only in the belief that they would be divided up among them, and are not at all willing to give up their own possessions.

THE BUILDING FUND OF THE GREAT WAR VETERANS

A series of probable questions and the answers to them which gives the information the public should have when asked for contributions to the Great War Veterans' Building Fund:

Q.—In the present unrest in the country, due to a "bit of strat" between Capital and Labour, are the veterans officially acting as "strike breakers" as some state, or "labour leaders" as others state, according to individual opinions?

A.—Veterans as an organization, require of their members, no obligation in regard to any decided affiliation as long as it does not interfere with law and order, and loyalty to the Crown. Every member is entitled to be union or non-union, just as they please, and the Association takes no official stand either one way or the other in regard to any political, industrial or religious questions.

Q.—Do all returned men belong to the G.W.V.A.?

A.—At the present time in Peterborough, between 80 and 85 per cent. of all soldiers who have returned have joined this branch. The objections of the other small percentages are varied by point of view of individuals. As we are only human we cannot hope to have an organization which will entirely escape criticism. The Association and its benefits are waiting for those boys when they change their minds and decide to become members, which we believe most of them will. We need them and they can help us correct any defects that may exist, and we also feel that they need us and will do so more in the future. A cordial invitation is issued to every one of our comrades to join with us.

Q.—My sister's husband knows a man who says he heard of some who went in the army who were really as great slackers as the defaulters who took to the woods to escape the draft?

A.—Yes, in that church over there, there are few members who have not received communion in years, but I happen to know that the main body of the congregation are a mighty fine lot of people.

Q.—It is stated that a number of members of the G.W.V.A. are not veterans?

A.—In the true sense of the word, every member of the G.W.V.A. have donned the khaki and taken the oath of allegiance and sworn to serve His Majesty in any capacity he might be called on. This the members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force have done and no person in the world can question whether or not it could have been done better.

Q.—What, the veterans after money again; it was only a week or so ago that, on my way to market, I was pestered by veterans and their women folk to buy tags?

A.—Yes, quite true, but on that occasion (the annual tag for relief) they were selling tags, not for their own benefit, but the proceeds were to be entirely used for the purpose of relief, cases of need among ex-soldiers and their dependents. This is really an extension of the municipal relief fund and other charitable work. We, the ex-soldiers, feel that the "ting of charity is taken out when the benefits to the widow and orphans are administered by comrades of their late husbands or fathers, or by our Women's Auxiliary. We are also in a position to detect and absolutely cure deception when it is taking place. We protect the citizens and will not allow our members to unnecessarily become charges on the public. We have ways and means to discipline men that the public could never deal with. Fortunately, there are very, very few cases of this in our good city of Peterborough.

Q.—Don't you consider that you are putting on just a bit too much side? The money you are putting into that building seems a lot for a club-house?

A.—Not when you consider that it is to be more than a mere club-house. It is also a business institution, it is not only for recreation but to carry on business for between 2,000 and 3,000 returned soldiers who have gone from this district. Peterborough will be a District Centre for three or four surrounding counties, or what might be called East Centre Ontario. From the first of the year until the present date we have settled between $15,000 and $20,000 in claims for pensions, gratuities, law suits and other matters. This building will also be a monument to Canada's soldiers, or that part of them that Peterborough sent to the front. Names and deeds forgotten elsewhere will be remembered and discussed there. It will also be one of the city's points of interest, and all citizens will feel a just pride when pointing out to the visitors "our boys' club-house." The rooms will always be open to returned men from other cities when here for a short time or passing through the city, and if these men are in temporary financial difficulty, their needs are attended to and they are sent on rejoicing. We felt that to attempt anything less than we are putting through would not be appropriate to the city of Peterborough or ourselves. Indeed we have been criticized by many outside our own membership for not going further than our present objective.

Q.—What place in the city does the G.W.V.A. take as an Association?

A.—The G.W.V.A. are affiliated with the Board of Trade. We work with the closest friendship with the Y.M.C.A., T.A.S., Trades and Labour Board and every association that has for its object the betterment of our city. Our relation with the City Council and other public bodies are of the best. We have received letters of encouragement and best wishes from His Worship Mayor Duncan, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, the Ministerial Association, and a number of social and benefit societies. This would indicate that we have the sympathy of the vast majority of Peterborough people.

Hawker and Grieve, in their eleventh-hour effort to wrest transatlantic flight honours from the United States naval planes, are flying over a course all their own, figured out last night and this morning with the one object in mind of "how to head off the Americans."

Prepare For Flight.

As soon as they had finished breakfast this morning Hawker and Grieve hurried to the offices of the Royal Air Force meteorologists. Finding conditions improved a little, though not as favourable as they would have demanded had not the Americans been well started on their passage, they went direct to the Mount Pearl plateau, where the Sopwith was waiting in the aerodrome, and began preparations for the flight.

They were wholly calm at the start. Methodically, and without the slightest trace of nervousness, they climbed aboard their small craft and set to work dispassionately. Hawker's confidence in his navigator and his engine was absolute, he said, quietly.

After a preliminary spin of the motor Hawker opened his throttle to the full, and the ground crew was forced to call for help to hold the plane in place. Hawker throttled "down" again, said a few final words, and then gave the word to knock out the supporting blocks from beneath the craft as he opened wide the throttle.

Challenge to Rival.

Hawker followed his announced intention when he dropped the under-carriage of his plane. Some persons thought the act was intended as a challenge to his rival, Raynham, and quoted almost the last words of Hawker before the started: "How about old 'Innisdes?' Tell Raynham I'll greet him at Brooklands, England."

The wireless sent word of Raynham's mishap to Hawker and Grieve after they had put to sea. Opinion here is that one result of the message will be the cutting down of Hawker's speed, as the Sopwith will not be forced to racing speed now that its rival has been eliminated from the overseas contest.

At the start the sun was only a little over two hours beyond the meridian. The flying adventurers had its aid in navigating for four or five hours as the sped eastward. After that they plunged into darkness over the ocean, with the prospect of starlight and moonlight to break the monotony of sky and sea at night and to serve as navigation guides.

Important Changes.

The Sopwith machine made several important changes during the past week. The four-bladed propeller, originally affixed, was removed, and a two-bladed instrument substituted, partly because Pilot Hawker believed the strain of the four-bladed propeller was too great for the engine, and partly to lessen the chances of trouble when landing in the British Isles. Hawker proposes to drop her wheels off the coast and, therefore, when landing, must risk crashing to the ground. Small steel rails or skids have been provided to help to lessen the danger in such case, through the agency of which, if favourable conditions are met, the machine may glide along the ground and thus come to a stop. But with a four-bladed propeller revolving, the difficulty of the machine reaching a standstill without the propellers causing damage would be very great. The substituting of the two-bladed propeller lessens this materially.

The Martinsyde machine carries only a two-bladed propeller, and will also bring her wheels across the Atlantic, consequently her two-bladed propeller was not fixed with the same object, but from the outset Pilot Raynham considered this propeller preferable to the other, because of the lesser strain in a long-continued flight.

No Sending Wireless.

Neither machines carries sending wireless, both relying on the sight of ships and on getting their position from them to correct their reckoning. Both airplane crews garbed themselves warmly with jerseys and mufflers before leaving the hotel, and aceried full supplies of food for three days.

ADVOCATED APPEAL OF WAR VETERANS

In the three Catholic churches of the city yesterday the Great War Veterans' campaign for funds this week to defray the cost of their new club house on Murray street was recommended to the people who were urged to contribute to the extent of their means. It was stated that the gratitude which the people felt toward the Veterans should be expressed not only in words of sympathy but also by assisting them substantially in order that their campaign should be a success.

WOMEN'S PATRIOTIC LEAGUE MEETING

Officers Elected for the Year—The Various Reports.

The Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham held their annual meeting at the home of the President, Mrs. R. H. Parsons. The attendance was not large, but what the meeting lacked in numbers was made up by the enthusiastic and sincere desire on the part of those present to continue the activities of this society in any patriotic work that may be needed during this reconstruction period in our city.

Annual reports were presented by the treasurer, secretary, convenor of Sock committee, Mrs. A. Wright, convenor of one-cent-a-day collections, Mrs. G. L. Hay.

The treasurer's report showed that this had proved to the League's best year, financially. The officers for the coming year are:

President—mrs. R. H. Parsons.
First Vice-Pres.—Mrs. J. Butcher.
Second Vice-Pres.—Mrs. A. A. Fowler.
Treasurer—Mrs. T .H. Glover.
Corr.-Sec.—Miss A. Erskine.
Rec.-Sec.—Miss Isabella Morgan.

Mrs. C. H. Moore, Mrs. J. M. Gemmell and Mrs. G. McCartney were appointed a committee to get information re the proposed baby clinic and report at the next business meeting.

Mrs. R. H. Parsons was elected to represent Ashburnham at the Women Voters' League recently formed in the city.

Mrs. J. M. Gemmell, Mrs. G. L. Hay and Mrs. R. H. Parsons were appointed a committee to see what could be done towards having a proper swimming pool in Ashburnham.

NEW FORD STARTERS

Dudfus Garage have received from the Ford Motor Company one of the new Ford starters installed in a new Ford touring car, and we especially invite all those interested to call and have this new addition to the Ford car demonstrated to them.

This starter is manufactured by the Ford Motor Company and built into the Ford car. It turns the motor over at the rate of 440 revolutions per minute, and will do this continuously for ten minutes.

The equipment includes combination electric headlamps with dimmers, electric tail and side lamps and instrument board.

One feature of the equipment to be considered is that the engine runs on its own magneto. Therefore the work of the battery consists of driving the starting motor only, which is extremely easy on the battery and enables it to furnish exceptionally bright light. 21-116-1w-21

CHILDREN'S MAY DAY FESTIVAL

Don't fail to hear the children's concert on May 30-31 in the Collegiate Institute, demonstrating the year's work in music taught in the Public schools of the city. In addition there will be drills, exercises, etc. This is the first opportunity that Peterborough citizens have been given to see what is being accomplished along these lines in our schools.

The festival represents a faithful year's work on the part of the school staff and pupils, under the able direction of Miss M. R. Rannie, music supervisor.

VETERANS TO MEET THE PACKERS

The next game in the City League will be played to-morrow evening at 6:30 o'clock at Riverside Park when the Great War Veterans will clash with Matthews-Blackwell. The Vets will have a much stronger team in action than on Saturday as they expect to have Harold Morrow and "Chucky" Callaghan in line. The latter only returned from overseas on Saturday. Wade and Lebarr will be the battery and it is likely that Close and Lefave will be on the firing line for the Packers. There is great interest in the City League this season and there will be a big crowd out to-morrow night. Orientals and De Laval play on Thursday night.

Actor's Wife Gets $25,000 Verdict in Alienation Action

Miss Goldstein's Letters Read to Jury Before Mrs. Spears Wins Case.

NEW YORK.—Even the love of a matinee idol has an intrinsic value which a jury before Justice Giegerich, in the Supreme Court, appraised at $25,000. That was the amount awarded to Mrs. Anna H. Spears, who sued Miss Frances Goldstein, a music teacher, alleging alienation of the affections of her husband, Frederick Harvey Spears, an actor.

Only ten minutes and one ballot was required for the jurors to agree upon a verdict, after hearing the reading of letters written by Miss Goldstein. They spoke of a symphony in her soul, although there was a vagrant mention of spaghetti and cheese in those love missives.

One letter addressed to "My Heart's Darling read:

"I have just played Mendelssohn's symphony. If I could fly to you I would, and I wish my letters would only fly to you. Darling, don't laugh. I am making spaghetti. It is so delicious. Sweetheart, I wish you were here with me. You would love it because it is highly seasoned and we have lots of cheese. Really, dear, does that make your mouth water.

"Oh, sweetheart, how beautiful that Italian symphony is. The first thing I do when I awake is run down into the parlour and play it in the morning. It is so plaintive, so pathetic and so simple.

Orientals and Packers Win the Opening Games in City League

War Veterans Beaten by Manager Solomon's Team by 6 to 0, While De Laval Lost to Matthews-Blackwell by 10 to 5—Good Ball Played Under Adverse Weather Conditions.

OPENING CEREMONIES

The cold breezes and threatening skies of Saturday afternoon failed to prevent the City Baseball League from getting away to a very successful start. A big crowd of fans defied the weather conditions, and the lid was pried off with proper eclat, the Great War Veterans Band and His Worship Mayor Duncan playing a prominent part in the opening ceremonies.

Mayor Duncan opened the proceedings with a brief address in which he prophesied a very successful baseball season, and then he pitched the first ball with Mr. Gordon Matthews, President of the League, as batter. His Worship had plenty of stuff on the ball and the League president failed to connect.

The Orientals and Matthews-Blackwell teams were the day's winners, the former beating the War Veterans by 6 to 0, and the Packers triumphing over the De Laval outfit by 10 to 5. Both games were seven innings affairs and the quality of ball displayed was surprisingly good considering the bad weather and the fact that none of the teams are yet in shape. With a little warmth in the air and a few changes in the lineup, there promises to be a rattling good race for the League honours, and the fans are looking forward to a great season in the city organization. Incidentally the games revealed the fact that there is plenty of material for a fast team for the Central Ontario League, which opens on Saturday with Peterboro playing in Oshawa.

Alex. Kay umpired both games satisfactorily.

Orientals Won.

Jake Solomon's Orientals had little difficulty in annexing the first game. With the veteran Kirn twirling in mid-season form and allowing only two hits, and with his team mates supporting him with errorless ball, the Over-the-Top boys had very few opportunities to score. The Orientals trotted out a snappy team. Soden handled Kirn's delivery in faultless style and the infield took care of everything that came their way, with Collins and Cherrett both contributing neat fielding plays. The outfield had nothing to do.

The War Veterans have no need to be dismayed at the result of their first game. Manager LeBarr has some very promising material and the team will improve with practice, while reinforcements are arriving home on every boat. Of the team which represented the G.W.V.A. on Saturday, every player except Field was overseas last year. The second baseman did his bit in France as well, but was back home in time to play ball last year. Alan Wade pitched good ball for the Vets. Of the eight singles registered against him, two or three were scratchy, and he was not hit hard at any stage. His support was wobbly, however, and in addition to the actual errors there were several dumb plays that gave the Orientals an opening to score. The team was handicapped because of the fact that Carney, who started in to do the catching, had a sore arm, and could not throw to the bases. LeBarr took his place half way through and the team did better afterwards.

The War Veterans opened up well when Long led off with a clean single to right but Field popped an easy one to Cherrett and Collins made a fine catch of Anderson's fly in short right field, doubling Long at first.

After Cherrett had grounded out in the Orientals' half McCarney walked and stole second. Phelan rolled one to Deannard, who threw high to first, McCarney scoring and Phelan going to third.

Kenneally beat out a hit to second, sending Phelan to third. Heenan hit a slow one to Anderson and was safe when the short stop vainly tried to nail Phelan at the plate. The throw was a little wide and Kenneally attempted to score on the play, but was tagged out by Carney as he slid into the plate. Murray retired the side with a pop fly which Wade nailed.

With one out in Veterans' half of the second, Hargrove walked and stole second but was stranded when McGrath rolled to Kirn and Johnston was called out on strikes.

In their half the Orientals added another. Kirn opened with a clean single to centre, and stole second, going to third on a wild pitch. Collins' single scored Kirn. Collins stole second, and Cherrett was passed, but McCarney and Phelan were easy on infield flies.

The Veterans went out in order in the third, but Manager Solomon's gang sent their stock up two notches higher. Kenneally drew a pass and stole second and third. Heenan flied out to Deannard. Murray walked. On a double steal Murray reached second, and Kenneally scored. Kirn fanned but Soden singled to right, scoring Murray. Collins singled to centre, and Soden was out at the plate, Hargrove to Wade to Carney, when he tried to score on the play.

With two out in the Veterans' fourth Deannard and Hargrove both were given free transportation, but Soden's nice catch of McGrath's high foul killed their chance to score.

The Orientals also drew a blank although Cherrett started with a clean single. He was out stealing, sliding over the bag, and McCarney and Phelan both were easy on infield plays.

It was one, two, three in the Veterans' half of the fifth, and their opponents also failed to score.

In the sixth Long opened for the Veterans with a clean single over second, and stole the middle sack, but Field fanned, Anderson grounded to Murray and Deannard missed three.

Manager Solomon's outfit got another in their half. Soden was safe on Deannard's fumble, and stole second and third, while Collins was fanned. Cherrett laid down a neat bunt to score Soden and was easily safe himself.

The Orientals' short stop stole second but was doubled up when McCarney lifted a fly to Hargrove.

A pretty catch of Hargrove's fine drive followed by a neat play on McGrath's grounder, were fielding features contributed by Cherrett in the Veterans' last innings. Johnston, the third man up, rolled to Phelan and the game was over.

An Exciting Game.

Matthews-Blackwell and DeLaval had an exciting battle in the second game. Although the Packers won 10 to 5, DeLaval gave them a hard fight until the sixth, but faded badly then, and Matthews came from behind and won out by scoring six s in the last two innings.

The game introduced two new pitchers. The M.-B.'s had Staples, a lanky left hander from Bethany on the firing line for them. He put by well for a couple of innings but in the fourth and fifth the Separator gang chased four runs over the rubber, and Staples, out of the game, George Close finishing in good style. Bert Prest, who pitched in the Lindsay city league last year, did the heaving for De Laval and showed considerable stuff. He only allowed six hits but his control was bad, and seven of the Packers got on the sacks through bases on balls or being hit.

Matthews-Blackwell, who are under the management of Dan McCabe this season, showed a snappy team. Butcher and Hagerman, absent from City League circles for four years, while the big game was on "over there," were in the line up, while Holyman, another overseas man, made a good impression at short stop.

The De Laval team is a big improvement over last year's team, and will have to be counted on when they get in shape. They have a nice infield, Cavanah at third base being a valuable addition, while Rose, although he dropped an easy throw on Saturday, is one of the neatest fielders in the city, and should be a tower of strength to the Separators. Young Bergoine, of last year's Orientals, caught well and came through with two clean singles.

Matthews-Blackwell got two very cheap runs in the first. After Shaughnessy had grounded to Cavanah, Butcher was passed. Holyman hit one into Prest's hands and the pitcher dropped the ball, and then threw wildly to second base, everybody being safe. Fitzgerald dropped Hagerman's hard smash to right, and the bases were full. Lowe hit to Prest who nailed Butcher at the plate. Cunningham also rolled a grounder to Prest, and the side should have been retired without a score, but Rose muffed the toss to first and both Holyman and Hagerman scored. Coursey fanned, and ended the innings.

The De Lavals got one back in their half. Dugan walked and stole second and third. Bergoine fanned. Rose hit one to Holyman, who made a pretty stop and threw to get the runner at first, Dugan scoring. Fitzgerald singled to left, but Prest was easy on a bouncer to Hagerman.

There was no scoring in the second but the Packers scored again in the third.

Prest hit both Hagerman and Lowe and after Cunningham had died on a pop-fly, Coursey was also clicked by the ball, filling the bases. Lefave's slow one in front of the plate scored Hagerman while the batter was safe. He was doubled up a minute later on Staples' pop fly to Prest.

The Separator gang failed to score, although Campbell was safe on an error, and after Dugan had fanned, Bergoine singled to centre. Lowe got the next two on high flies.

Matthews made it 4 to 1 in their half of the fourth. With one down Butcher walked, stole second, and went to third on a passed ball, and scored on a wild pitch.

De Laval closed the gap in their portion of the innings. With one gone, Cavanah walked and went to second on a balk. Galbraith hit to Holyman, who lost the roller, and Cavanah scored. Galbraith stole second and third. Lipsett fanned but when Campbell rolled a slow one past the box Staples threw wild to first and Galbraith scored. Holyman's nice catch of Dugan's drive ended the excitement.

In the fifth Matthews went out in order but De Laval came right back with two more runs and took the lead. Bergoine slammed a pretty single to left centre to start with, and stole second. Rose was thrown out by Butcher; Bergoine stole third and scored on Fitzgerald's clean single to left. Fits. went to second when Lowe failed to grab Holyman's throw to catch the base runner napping. Prest hit to Butcher who tried for Fitzgerald at third but the runner was safe. Cavanah's sacrifice fly sent Fitzgerald in with the run that put DeLaval ahead, for a moment. Prest died stealing.

Manager McCabe decided that it was time for a change and close batted for Staples at teh beginning of the sixth. He fanned. Shaughnessy was time for a change and Close batfirst and stole second. Butcher walked, and so did Holyman, filling the bases. Hagerman's infield out to Rose scored "Shag," and Lowe's double back of third sent Butcher and Holyman home. Galbraith's miss of Cunningham's fly and Coursey's single counted for another run, before Lefave's foul fly to Bergoine ended the innings.

In DeLavel's half, Galbraith singled to left but was nailed by a pretty throw from Cunningham, when he tried to stretch it into a double. Lipsett walked and died stealing, and Campbell missed three.

The winners put the game on ice in the last innings when after two were out, Butcher got a life on Bullied's muff. Holyman walked and a wild pitch and Hagerman's single sent two more runs over.

Dugan drew a pass to open the DeLaval's seventh but was caught stealing and was hurt in the play. Bergoine grounded to Lowe, and Rose hit over Cunningham's head in left for two passes, and Fitzgerald was hit, but Prest's bout was a tap to Close, who easily threw him out.

OBITUARY

MRS. R. W. GRUBBE.

The death occurred early this morning of Mrs. R. W. Grubbe, 47 McDonnel Street.

Ada Louise Haselwood Grubbe was the third daughter of the late William and Maria Haselwood Wrighton, who came to Peterborough in 1840, when so many other English families came. Her father for a time owned a plantation in Demerara, British Guiana, later coming to Peterborough, and became Clerk of the Peace and Deputy Clerk of the Crown. Here she was born and christened at St. John's Church, Peterborough, her sponsors that day being her aunt, Mrs. Frederick Ferguson, Catharine Parr Traill, of Lakefield, and Wilson Seymour Conger, M.P., Sheriff of Peterborough. Until her father's death, her people lived in what was known as "The Haunted House," now standing near the Oval at East Nicholls Park. On her mother's side she was a great-granddaughter of the Baron de Coden of France and a cousin to the great Charles Kingsley and a double cousin of his brother, Henry Kingsley, who had married her cousin and his. Shortly after her coming-out party, which the late Judge Dennistoun gave for her at Inverlea House, Inverlea Park, she married Robert William Grubbe, second son of Captain William Henry Grubbe, of the Honourable East India Company Artillery, and grandson of Captain John Grubbe, of "Horsendon Manor," Buckinghamshire, England. She was married by the Rev. D. J. MacDonnell, and from that day became a member of the Church of Scotland, and was a member of St. Paul's, Peterborough.

Fourteen years ago she met with a severe accident, and since that day has been a great sufferer, but it was not until shortly before Easter that she became dangerously ill. For a time she rallied, and every hope of her recovery was given, but a change came last Thursday, and she gradually faded and slept peacefully away early on Monday morning. Her whole life was given in thinking of others, and until the end she thought only of those about her.

Besides her husband, she leaves two sons, Eustace Haselwood Grubbe, of Vancouver, B.C., and Harry Haviland Grubbe, of Toronto.

The funeral, which will be private, will be on Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

MRS. SARAH JAMES.

The death occurred at 12.30 this morning at her residence, 505 Sherbrooke Street, of Mrs. Sarah James, 76 years of age. Her husband, the late Mr. Charles James, predeceased her three years ago. Two daughters, Mrs. A. H. Webb and Mrs. William Evans, of Sherbrooke Street, survive, also three nephews of this city, Mr. William James, Mr. Charles Mills, and Mr. Arthur Mills.

Forty-six years ago last Tuesday (6th May) Mr. and Mrs. James landed in Canada from England. Mrs. James was born in Oxfordshire, England.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, 505 Sherbrooke Street, on Wednesday, at three p.m. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. F. C. Mallott will officiate.

MISS MARY MONTGOMERY.

The death occurred on Saturday, aged 64 years, of Miss Mary Montgomery, at her residence, 210 London Street. Miss Montgomery was born in Smith Township.

The funeral took place this afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. Robert Pogue, of St. Paul's Church, officiating.

MR. TIMOTHY MURPHY.

The death occurred after a short illness of pneumonia, at St. Joseph's Hospital, yesterday morning of Mr. Timothy Murphy, 68 years of age. Mr. Murphy was a lifelong resident of Ennismore, having been born there. He is survived by his wife and sons, Fred of Niagara Falls, N.Y., Vincent of Ennismore, Henry of Saskatchewan, Mrs. James Holland of Ennismore, and Frank at home.

Funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Martin's Church and Cemetery, Ennismore.

LITTLE GIRL WANDERED AWAY FROM HOME

A very small girl about four years of age was brought to the police station this afternoon by Mrs. John Turner, Water street, who found the girl wandering around the street in front of the market place. She seemed entirely unabashed by the uniform or her surroundings and played contentedly with the key ring containing scores of nondescript keys without an owner. Asked her name she at first did not know but finally said Teeny Mac. She said her father lived near the C.P.R. station but didn't know what his name was.

Mr. David McIntosh a returned soldier residing a Charlotte and Stewart streets called for hegirl about two o'clock and she immediately recognized her father.

Topeka, Kan., has a Deputy United States Marshal, Miss Grace Roller.

WILL REPEAL PROHIBITION

The American "Dove of Peace" Would Raise Restrictions on Wine and Beer.

MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Wilson, in his message to Congress today, recommended the repeal of the war-time prohibition law, so far as it applies to wine and beer only. It was announced definitely that the rail systems and telegraph and telephone lines would be returned to private ownership. The President also urged a revision of war taxes and outlined generally the programme respecting labour. These were the "high spots" of the President's message cabled from Paris.

Besides that, he again urged the enactment of woman suffrage constitutional amendment, and recommended that tariff laws be supplied with teeth to protect American industry against foreign attack. He spoke of legislation to facilitate American enterprise through the expansion of shipping and backed Secretary of Interior Lane's programme for land for returning soldiers.

Of the Paris peace conference and the League of Nations the President merely said it would be premature to discuss them or express a judgment. The recommendation for the repeal of the wartime prohibition and for the return of rail and wire systems, while not unexpected by some, contained the greatest element of surprise and provoked the most widespread comment if many tasks set before Congress by the President.

BANK MANAGER SHOT TO-DAY

Two Robbers Attempt to Rob the Bank of Nova Scotia at Agincourt—One Robber is Wounded.

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 20. — R. T. Laing, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia branch at Agincourt, was shot and wounded when two robbers held up the place at noon to-day. One of the robbers was shot and wounded seriously. The other escaped in a high powered motor car. Two men entered the bank. Both of them pulled guns and leaped over the counter, and when the manager reached for his revolver he fired. Mr. Laing however was able to fire in return, and the robber dropped. The other man then rushed from the building.

Mr. Laing is shot in the lower part of the body, but it is reported that he is not seriously hurt. The robber was unconscious and apparently badly injured.

Agincourt is a village in Scarborough township, on the C. P. R. about 14 miles north east of Toronto.

MAIL FOR WEST

The Postal Department announces that paper and parcel mail may again be accepted for points west of Winnipeg but not for Winnipeg city.

NEW FORD STARTERS

Duffus Garage have received from the Ford Motor Company one of the new Ford starters installed in a new Ford touring car, and we especially invite all those interested to call and have this new addition to the Ford car demonstrated to them.

This starter is manufactured by the Ford Motor Company and built into the Ford car. It turns the motor over at the rate of 440 revolutions per minute, and will do this continuously for ten minutes.

The equipment includes combination electric headlamps with dimmers, electric tail and side lamps and instrument board.

One feature of the equipment to be considered is that the engine runs on its own magneto. Therefore the work of the battery consists of driving the starting motor only, which is extremely easy on the battery and enables it to furnish exceptionally bright light. 2d-116-Tw-Tf

Citizens Committee Threaten to Adopt Strong Measures to End Winnipeg Strike

No Action is Being Taken by Mayor or Other Constituted Authority to Start Something—Despatches via Thief River Falls.

TRAINMEN AFFECTED

Copyright in Canada, 1919.
(Special Despatch by J. J. Conklin)

WINNIPEG, MAN., May 20, via Thief River Falls, Minn. — Settlement of the general strike is looking better at present, as far as the official announcements made on the part on the Citizens' Committee of two hundred, but the public in the know, do not take much stock in the forecast; they are not impressed by additions to the ranks of the union men from sources unexpected.

Yesterday the Canadian National Railways had difficulty in getting out their trains, as the trainmen in the unions connected with the railways, voted to go on strike at an hour to be fixed by the Strike Committee. As it was some of the trainmen failed to turn up yesterday morning, and the branch trains did not go out.

Canadian Pacific Railway members of the O.R.T., did not vote yesterday but are doing so to-day, and despite the predictions that they would not leave made by the old time members, there is every indication that they will also go out and that it will extend over the entire system, west and east.

There is a better feeling in the local government circles. One minister said that the general Strike Committee is now willing to take up all disputes with a view to negotiating for settlement, and leave the question of unionizing the three shops of machine workers, the Vulcan, the Manitoba Iron, and Dominion Bridge, out of the issue for the time being. This is a surprising concession.

Strong Action.

The Citizens' Committee of 200 have informed inquirers that there will be some strong action to end the strike on Tuesday. What it is could not be learned, but if it is to operate the street cars, the feeling of insecurity will increase for something like that is like flaunting a red rag to the strikers. It would inflame them.

It is stated that an effort will be made to operate the public utilities, but the manager of the street railway, Mr. McClymont, is opposed to such a course as being very unwise.

Many of the citizens are complaining that no action is being taken by the Mayor or other constituted authority to start something with a view to asserting the city's authority but with 35,000 strikers walking around and determined to see that they win out, and these include all the husky dare-devils in town, with the soldiers (by their vote and actions in sympathy with the Strike Committe's action) he is a bold spirit indeed who would in the slightest way take any step outside of dealing directly with the general Strike Committee.

Former Attorney-General Hudson has suggested to Premier Norris, if things get much worse and more hopeless than it looks at present, the best thing to do is to cancel the charter of the city and run Winnipeg as part of the Province of Manitoba.

Mayor Grey's Statement.

Mayor Grey has issued the following statement, which some citizens do not think is strong enough to meet the situation:

"In view of the fact that the papers of the city are not being published, and the people of the city have no means of getting information of the development of the great struggle now going on in Winnipeg (a struggle the result of which is affecting the lives of the great body of people who have had no responsibility in causing the condition) I deem it a duty I owe them as Chief Magistrate of the city to speak to them by the only means at my disposal.

"Notwithstanding all efforts made by myself, Premier Norris, and other representative bodies, no settlement has yet been arrived at, but avenues towards that end are still hopeful. I sincerely believe that both sides of this conference have earnestly tried to keep law and order.

"I wish to state that water, milk, a general food supply, fire and police protection will be supplied to the citizens of Winnipeg. Some anxiety may be entertained that we are securing these rights at the present time by suffrage of some other authority than the constituted authority of the city government. To understand this apparently untoward condition, complete explanation of every phase of the situation would be necessary, and space will not permit. Let me make this absolutely clear, however, that if food supplies, and the protection of life and property are not maintained, I shall take what steps may be necessary to secure them, and maintain the authority of the government as it is established by the vote of the people.

"I am doing my best to try and clear up this most difficult situation, without violence on our streets, to reach some solution that will re-establish normal conditions and at the same time preserve our British

BIG CONCERT TO-NIGHT IN NEW G.W.V.A. HALL

To-night's big feature in connection with Returned Soldiers' Week is the concert arranged by Capt. Maurice H. Park, which will be held in the new G.W.V.A. Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock. The event gives the people who have not already inspected the new building an opportunity to do so, a chance to help along the good work of the Great War Veterans and at the same time to hear one of the most enjoyable concerts of the season. Capt. and Mrs. Park, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. King, Mr. Douglas Carlisle, Bandmaster Hughes, and other well-known artists are all to take part, and the published programme indicates a rare musical treat for those who attend. Tickets have been selling briskly for this big event, and the public would be advised in going early.

This space should be watched each night for announcements of the activities of G.W.V.A. week.

BRIDGE DEADLOCK AND HOW ALDERMEN MAY OVERCOME IT

May Be Re-groupings When the Board of Works Takes Up the Question Again.

If the Board of Works hopes to arrive at a decision in the letting of the Hunter street bridge contract it is obvious that some of the members must relinquish their preferences and combine with one or other of the groups that are apparently determined to stand by their first choice and decisions.

At Friday night's meeting three contractors were supported as follows:

Ed. Conroy by Aldermen McIntyre, Garside, Phelan and Gainey.

The Russell-Townsend Company by Mayor Duncan, Aldermen Turner, Hamilton and Edgar.

The Canadian Engineering and Construction Company—Aldermen Taylor, Hamilton and Turner and Mayor Duncan.

The last mentioned contractor had been supported solely by Ald. Taylor, but finally three other members joined him, leaving Ald. Edgar standing firmly by the Russell-Townsend Company.

Ald. Morrison has not yet declared himself, probably preferring to wait until the Board was in closer agreement, or simply to take plenty of time in coming to a decision.

If the contract is to be let to the Russell-Townsend Company its original four supporters must be joined by Aldermen Morrison and Taylor, thus making a majority of six to four. The comment may be ventured that Ald. Taylor has stood out for the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company and it is unlikely that he will transfer his allegiance to the Russell firm.

If the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company are the final choice, Ald. Edgar and Ald. Morrison must vote with Ald. Taylor, Hamilton and Turner and Mayor Duncan.

The local contractor, Ed. Conroy, has a staunch following of four, Aldermen McIntyre, Gainey, Garside and Phelan. If Ald. Morrison joins this group and Ald. Edgar links up with Ald. Taylor the committee will be evenly divided, and progress will not lie in that way.

Should it become a question of Mr. Conroy or the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company there have been intimations that some of the aldermen will support their fellow citizen. But the outcome is wholly a matter of conjecture from this range, and anything may happen at the next meeting of the Board.

May will soon be in its last week, and the Board has accomplished a modicum of progress on an undertaking that was to have been one of the features of spring employment. Although the public and most of the Council are weary of discussion, there is still considerable interest surrounding the last act in this serio-comic serial.

APPEAL OF AUBURN MILLS SUSTAINED

The Auburn Woollen Company's appeal against Chief Justice Falconbridge's decision given at Peterboro on Feb. 19th, 1919 awarding John Meharry judgment in his action for the execution of an agreement in which he purchased certain gravel lots at Auburn from the company, has been successful.

The judgment of the appeal court announced yesterday who that the Auburn Woollen Company's appeal is allowed, Chief Justice Falconbridge's judgment is reversed and the action dismissed, all with costs. The company are ordered to repay $700 to Mr. Meharry, subject to having a lien on it for their costs of the action and of the appeal. Mr. Straughn Johnston K.C. and Mr. J. E. L. VOCATIONAL STUDY IS TO BE EXTENDED

Opportunity for Soldiers Who Enlisted Under Eighteen Years of Age.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 20.— An Order-in-Council has been passed by the government extending vocational training to returned soldiers who enlisted under the age of eighteen years. The full details of the scheme are at present being worked out, but returned men who come under this new provision of the retraining scheme may now lodge their claim to a six months' course at the vocational training branches of the offices of the Department of Soldiers' Re-establishment.

Up to the present, vocational training has been given only to men who have been discharged from the army in a condition which precludes them from pursuing the trade or calling they followed before enlistment. The idea has been to fit them for another calling which will be more suited to their more or less incapacitated condition. The men, however, who are eligible under the extension of the scheme will be allowed to take the course even if they are discharged as fit as when they joined up.

Sir James Lougheed, head of the department, told the Examiner correspondent that every case would have to come up for consideration before the claimant was admitted to the courses. It is felt that a boy whose parents are sufficiently well to do to see that he is placed in a position to compete with his fellows should not be re-educated at the expense of the government. There are other phases of the matter to be worked out.

INSIDE INFORMATION

The Washington Post prints to-day the following jingle, written by Geo. M. Cohan, especially for Margaret Anglin, who will open the famous $13,000,000 Salvation Army drive at Washington. Miss Anglin starts a limited Canadian tour on Monday next, May 26th, at Hamilton, playing Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston en route to Ottawa, the city of her birth. At that time her father, the Hon. Timothy Warren Anglin, was speaker of the Dominion House of Commons, her mother was visiting in the House of Parliament, the stork arrived unexpectedly, giving Miss Anglin the distinction of having been born in the speaker's chamber.

Miss Anglin received her early education in a convent school and, having achieved success as an amateur reader, decided on a professional career. She was only seventeen, but overcame the objections of the family and entered a school of elocution in New York City. The late Charles Frohman engaged her shortly afterward and she leaped to distinction almost immediately.

"Billeted," an English comedy of love and life, her present vehicle is without doubt the greatest success this distinguished artist has ever had in light comedy; the play ran upwards of a year at the Royalty Theatre, London, played by Miss Anglin all last season in New York, and during the present season she enjoyed long engagements at Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco in a coast to coast tour. (Hadalmost overlooked the Jingle.)

Salvation Army Appeal by Geo. M. Cohan, written for Margaret Anglin.

Since the war has been won it's the truth
Every noble American youth
That's returned overseas
Has got down on his knees
And has prayed for Evangeline Booth.

Thirteen million dough boys in a row
Ate thirteen million doughnuts if it's so
It took a lot of dough to make 'em
And a dollar each to make 'em
So it's up to us to give 'em back the dough.

HAWKER IS MISSING

Opinion in Admiralty Circles is That Hawker Came to Grief Soon After He Started.

SEARCH CONTINUES

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 20. — All reports that Aviator Harry Hawker and Lt.-Commander MacKenzie Grieve have been sighted off the coast of Ireland or that their airplane in which they made an attempt to fly across the Atlantic, had fallen into the sea off the estuary of the River Shannon, are unconfirmed this morning.

The only exact news received here from the daring fliers is that they left St. John's on Sunday. In view of the Admiralty's statement that reports current yesterday afternoon and last night were unreliable, and because of the obscurity surrounding the source of these reports, they are now regarded as negligible.

The opinion held in Admiralty circles is that Hawker came to grief soon after he started. It is pointed out that the aviator almost certainly would have sent a farewell message before getting out of radio range, had an accident not befallen in the meantime.

In the House of Commons last night Josiah C. Wedgewood and other members, severely criticized the Government for omitting to provide means for assisting Hawker in his flight across the Atlantic. Capt. Elliott declared that the country would hold the government lamentably remiss and desperately careless of the honor of the country, "and the life of a gallant gentleman."

Weather Bad.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 20. — The weather is so bad off the coast of Ireland, that the airplanes ordered by the air ministry to search for aviator Harry G. Hawker's machine, are unable to fly. There are strong southeast winds and rain and fog at intervals.

All communication centres in London are silent as to the news from Hawker and Lieut. Commander Grieve. Even the rumours which prevailed yesterday and last night have died out.

SEAPLANE ARRIVES.

(Canadian Press.)

HORTA, May 20. — Seaplane N. C.—4 started for Ponta Del Gada, another point in the Azores, at 12.40 p.m. to-day. Greenwich meridian time. The weather was clear and the wind favorable.

A later despatch says: Naval seaplane N.C.—4 arrived at Ponta Del Gada from Horta, at 10.24 a.m. Washington time.

SPECIAL HOLIDAY ATTRACTION

All the world loves a lover—and a reformed crook. The drama tells it so and "Turn to the Right" is one of the most recent plays that proves it at the Grand Opera Saturday matinee and evening.

Winchell Smith's comedy isn't merely a tale of thieves who "go straight"; it is also a "mother" play, and therefore its appeal is two-fold. It is one of those plays of wholesome, homely humor and tender sentiment that steals its way into the sympathies and nestles close to the heart. And this is because of the sweet-faced, gentle mother. In real life a man would probably look askance at a reformed pickpocket who was about to marry his sister, but in the play Mother Bascom convinces all that her influence is lasting and the reformation permanent.

Th story of Mother Bascom's wayward son, Joe, and his two crook pals, who are attracted to the straight road by the fragrance of a pot of peach jam, and whose arrival is barely in time to save the mother from being turned out of her home, has lost none of its charm.

Great War Veterans' New Hall Was Formally Opened

Splendid Building is Presented to Association by Mayor Duncan on Behalf of Citizens — Splendid Address By Provincial Secretary W. E. Turley—A Feature of the Occasion.

AN HISTORIC OCCASION

The formal opening of the new G.W.V.A. Hall last evening not only gave the citizens of Peterborough a splendid opportunity to inspect the magnificent quarters that have been provided for the local returned soldiers, but also to hear a remarkably eloquent exposition of the aims and objects of the Great War Veterans' Association by Mr. W. E. Turley, of Toronto, who is the Provincial Secretary of the Association, and whose address was an outstanding feature of the evening.

The opening ceremonies were commenced by a parade of Veterans and Boy Scouts, headed by G.W.V.A. band. Through a misunderstanding on the part of many of the returned men the turnout for this event was unusually small and this was the one disappointing feature of the evenning.

A platform had been erected on the lawn at the east side of the new hall and from this the addresses were made, with Capt. R. E. Layfield, secretary of the Joint committee, acting as chairman.

The Hall Presented.

On behalf of the citizens Mayor Duncan formally presented the new building to the Veterans. In doing so he first congratulated the members of the G.W.V.A. upon the transformation they had effected in the re-altering of the building. He had been surprised and delighted by the work that had been accomplished and His Worship congratulated Mr. Layfield, who had been the architect, and Mr. Harold Graham, the contractor, on what had been accomplished.

"I ask the citizens," said Mayor Duncan, "to contribute liberally to the Veterans' fund. Everyone should be glad to give something to this cause. These men have done their bit and deserve all we can do for them."

His Worship in reply to the date and gentlemanly way in which requests by the G.W.V.A. had been made to the City Council and said that it had been a pleasure for the Council to give them a grant towards the construction of their building. He then formally presented the Hall to the Veterans.

Mayor Duncan then read an announcement from the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club that that organization had presented the G.W.V.A. with a fully equipped soda fountain for the canteen in the new building.

CAPT. MORRISON ACCEPTS.

"Our Worship the Mayor, and citizens of Peterborough, it is with mingled feelings of pleasure and gratitude," said Capt. A. S. Morrison, President of the Peterborough branch, "that we accept these magnificent club rooms, which you on the behalf of the citizens have so kindly presented us to-night. It is a pleasure to know that we have been constantly in your minds during those long and terrible years of strife and bloodshed, and now that the war is ended and peace once more restored on this earth, your thoughts naturally go out to the men of this city who left their homes, family and social ties, determined to win or die, in order that you and yours might be protected from this terrible brute force called, "Kultur." I feel it is needless for me to tell you how our boys behaved and the name they created for Canada which will live forever in the annals of the world, of which you have been kept well informed through the medium of the Press, how they risked their lives in hell every moment of the day in order that the home and honours of their beloved country and empire might be saved.

Alas! Very many of our comrades will never return to their loved ones. Amidst the poppy field of France and Flanders they are quietly sleeping, awaiting the day when we shall all be called together again to meet the Great Commander of the Universe.

Survivors Gratified.

The survivors who are present with us to-night, and others who are still to come home in the near future, are gratified to know that you wish us to have these Club rooms, as a meeting place in order to talk over old scenes of conflict and be enabled to carry out the aims and objects of the Association to which we belong. With that end in view you have been pleased as citizens and friends to finance our beautiful club rooms and which have now been declared open to the public for their criticism. Permit me, therefore to give you a short sketch of this branch: It was organized in March, 1917, by fourteen returned comrades and called "Returned Soldiers' Club" Among its officers were Comrades Muir and Cooper, and as this was the first branch of the Great War Veterans in Canada, consequently the above named comrades can proudly call themselves the Fathers of the Branch, which to-day has a membership of over 600 members.

Great Progress Made.

The following year great progress was made by President H. Staunton and all the officers connected with him, starting with a membership of 40 and ending with over 300 members. The

FIRE DESTROYED A LAKEFIELD HOME

Mr. William Yelland of Peterboro Was Among the Losers.

LAKEFIELD, May 20. — The fire alarm bell in Lakefield awoke the villagers at 4 o'clock this morning, and the fire was discovered at the house of Mr. Arthur Payne at the corner of Clementi and William Sts., near the entrance of the Exhibition grounds.

Mrs. Payne was awakened by the noise of the advancing flames, and had barely time to escape with her four children, all in night attire.

Everything was completely destroyed or lost—clothing, money, food, furniture, house and stable, except one chair.

The flames spread to an adjacent vacant house, the property of Mr. William Yelland of Peterboro, and this was also burned to the ground.

There was no insurance on Mr. Payne's property and it is not known if Mr. Yelland's house was insured.

The Origin.

The origin of the conflagration is not known, but it is thought that a heap of rubbish that Mrs. Payne burned the evening before had not been completly extinguished, and that the east wind blowing last night fanned the few live embers into flames which crossed the short intervening space to the stable, which was burned first.

The east wind carried the embers over the houses of Mr. James Spencer and Mr. Fred Norish, and for a time they were in danger.

A Sad Feature.

A sad feature of the case is that Mr. Payne, who is running an engine at the camp of Mr. Nixon near Sudbury, is in the hospital there with pneumonia.

Veterans Secured Over Three Thousand Dollars yesterday

Yesterday's canvass netted the veterans over three thousand dollars in their campaign to collect fifteen thousand dollars with which to furnish and equip new quarters. Some of the canvassers are advised that the husband or relative of the party canvassed will subscribe when the collectors call at the factories. It is not the intention of the collectors to visit the factories except the De Laval For this reason those intending to assist this worthy cause are asked to state their intention and the amount when the collectors call at their homes.

Two Robbers Attempt to Rob the Bank of Nova Scotia at Agincourt—One Robber is Wounded.

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 20. — R. T. Laing, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia branch at Agincourt, was shot and wounded when two robbers held up the place at noon to-day. One of the robbers was shot and wounded seriously. The other escaped in a high powered motor car. Two men entered the bank. Both of them pulled guns and leaped over the counter, and when the manager reached for his revolver he fired. Mr. Laing however was able to fire in return, and the robber dropped. The other man then rushed from the building.

Mr. Laing is shot in the lower part of the body, but it is reported that he is not seriously hurt. The robber was unconscious and apparently badly injured.

Agincourt is a village in Scarborough township, on the C. P. R. about 14 miles north east of Toronto.

MAIL FOR WEST

The Postal Department announces that paper and parcel mail may again be accepted for points west of Winnipeg but not for Winnipeg city.

NEW FORD STARTERS

Duffus Garage have received from the Ford Motor Company one of the new Ford starters installed in a new Ford touring car, and we especially invite all those interested to call and have this new addition to the Ford car demonstrated to them.

This starter is manufactured by the Ford Motor Company and built into the Ford car. It turns the motor over at the rate of 440 revolutions per minute, and will do this continuously for ten minutes.

The equipment includes combination electric headlamps with dimmers, electric tail and side lamps and instrument board.

One feature of the equipment to be considered is that the engine runs on its own magneto. Therefore the work of the battery consists of driving the starting motor only, which is extremely easy on the battery and enables it to furnish exceptionally bright light. 2d-116-1w-tf

Citizens Committee Threaten to Adopt Strong Measures to End Winnipeg Strike

No Action is Being Taken by Mayor or Other Constituted Authority to Start Something—Despatches via Thief River Falls.

TRAINMEN AFFECTED

Copyright in Canada, 1919.
(Special Despatch by J. J. Conklin)

WINNIPEG, MAN., May 20, via Thief River Falls, Minn. — Settlement of the general strike is looking better at present, as far as the official announcements made on the part on the Citizens' Committee of two hundred, but the public in the know, do not take much stock in the forecast; they are not impressed by additions to the ranks of the union men from sources unexpected.

Yesterday the Canadian National Railways had difficulty in getting out their trains, as the trainmen in the unions connected with the railways, voted to go on strike at an hour to be fixed by the Strike Committee. As it was some of the trainmen failed to turn up yesterday morning, and the branch trains did not go out.

Canadian Pacific Railway members of the O.R.T., did not vote yesterday but are doing so to-day, and despite the predictions that they would not leave made by the old time members, there is every indication that they will also go out and that it will extend over the entire system, west and east.

There is a better feeling in the local government circles. One minister said that the general Strike Committee is now willing to take up all disputes with a view to negotiating for settlement, and leave the question of unionizing the three shops of machine workers, the Vulcan, the Manitoba Iron, and Dominion Bridge, out of the issue for the time being. This is a surprising concession.

Strong Action.

The Citizens' Committee of 200 have informed inquirers that there will be some strong action to end the strike on Tuesday. What it is could not be learned, but if it is to operate the street cars, the feeling of insecurity will increase for anything like that is like flaunting a red rag to the strikers. It would inflame them.

It is stated that an effort will be made to operate the public utilities, but the manager of the street railway, Mr. McClymont, is opposed to such a course as being very unwise.

Many of the citizens are complaining that no action is being taken by the Mayor or other constituted authority to start something with a view to asserting the city's authority but with 35,000 strikers walking around and determined to see that they win out, and these include all the husky dare-devils in town, with the soldiers (by their vote and actions in sympathy with the Strike Committe's action) he is a bold spirit indeed who would in the slightest way take any step outside of dealing directly with the general Strike Committee.

Former Attorney-General Hudson has suggested to Premier Norris, if things get much worse and more hopeless than it looks at present, the best thing to do is to cancel the charter of the city and run Winnipeg as part of the Province of Manitoba.

Mayor Grey's Statement.

Mayor Grey has issued the following statement, which some citizens do not think is strong enough to meet the situation:

"In view of the fact that the papers of the city are not being published, and the people of the city have no means of getting information of the development of the great struggle now going on in Winnipeg (a struggle the result of which is affecting the lives of the great body of people who have had no responsibility in causing the condition) I deem it a duty I owe them as Chief Magistrate of the city to speak to them by the only means at my disposal.

"Notwithstanding all efforts made by myself, Premier Norris, and other representative bodies, no settlement has yet been arrived at, but avenues towards that end are still hopeful. I sincerely believe that both sides of this conference have earnestly tried to keep law and order.

"I wish to state that water, milk, a general food supply, fire and police protection will be supplied to the citizens of Winnipeg. Some anxiety may be entertained that we are securing these rights at the present time by suffrage of some other authority than the constituted authority of the city government. To understand this apparently untoward condition, complete explanation of every phase of the situation would be necessary, and space will not permit. Let me make this absolutely clear, however, that if food supplies, and the protection of life and property are not maintained, I shall take what steps may be necessary to secure them, and maintain the authority of the government as it is established by the vote of the people.

"I am doing my best to try and clear up this most difficult situation, without violence on our streets, to reach some solution that will reestablish normal conditions and at the same time preserve our British

BIG CONCERT TO-NIGHT IN NEW G.W.V.A. HALL

To-night's big feature in connection with Returned Soldiers' Week is the concert arranged by Capt. Maurice H. Park, which will be held in the new G.W.V.A. Hall, commencing at 8 o'clock. The event gives the people who have not already inspected the new building an opportunity to do so, a chance to help along the good work of the Great War Veterans and at the same time to hear one of the most enjoyable concerts of the season. Capt. and Mrs. Park, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. King, Mr. Douglas Carlisle, Bandmaster Hughes, and other well-known artists are all to take part, and the published programme indicates a rare musical treat for those who attend. Tickets have been selling briskly for this big event, and the public would be advised in going early.

This space should be watched each night for announcements of the activities of G.W.V.A. week.

BRIDGE DEADLOCK AND HOW ALDERMEN MAY OVERCOME IT

May Be Re-groupings When the Board of Works Takes Up the Question Again.

If the Board of Works hopes to arrive at a decision in the letting of the Hunter street bridge contract it is obvious that some of the members must relinquish their preferences and combine with one or other of the groups that are apparently determined to stand by their first choice and decisions.

At Friday night's meeting three contractors were supported as follows:

Ed. Conroy by Aldermen McIntyre, Garside, Phelan and Gainey.

The Canadian Engineering and Construction Company—Aldermen Taylor, Hamilton and Turner and Mayor Duncan.

The last mentioned contractor had been supported solely by Ald. Taylor, but finally three other members joined him, leaving Ald. Edgar standing firmly by the Russell-Townsend Company.

Ald. Morrison has not yet declared himself, probably preferring to wait until the Board was in closer agreement, or simply to take plenty of time in coming to a decision.

If the contract is to be let to the Russell-Townsend Company its original four supporters must be joined by Aldermen Morrison and Taylor, thus making a majority of six to four. The comment may be ventured that Ald. Taylor has stood out for the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company and it is unlikely that he will transfer his allegiance to the Russell firm.

If the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company are the final choice, Ald. Edgar and Ald. Morrison must vote with Ald. Taylor, Hamilton and Turner and Mayor Duncan.

The local contractor, Ed. Conroy, has a staunch following of four, Aldermen McIntyre, Gainey, Garside and Phelan. If Ald. Morrison joins this group and Ald. Edgar links up with Ald. Taylor the committee will be evenly divided, and progress will not lie in that way.

Should it become a question of Mr. Conroy or the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company there have been intimations that some of the aldermen will support their fellow citizen. But the outcome is wholly a matter of conjecture from this range, and anything may happen at the next meeting of the Board.

May will soon be in its last week, and the Board has accomplished a modicum of progress on an undertaking that was to have been one of the features of spring employment. Although the public and most of the Council are weary of discussion, there is still considerable interest surrounding the last act in this serio-comic serial.

APPEAL OF AUBURN MILLS SUSTAINED

The Auburn Woollen Company's appeal against Chief Justice Falconbridge's decision given at Peterboro on Feb. 19th., 1919 awarding John Meharry judgment in his action for the execution of an agreement in which he purchased certain gravel lots at Auburn from the company, has been successful.

The judgment of the appeal court announced yesterday was that the Auburn Woollen Company's appeal is allowed, Chief Justice Falconbridge's judgment is reversed and the action dismissed, all with costs. The company are ordered to repay $700 to Mr. Meharry, subject to having a lien on it for their costs of the action and of the appeal. Mr. Straughn Johnston K.C. and Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill for the Auburn Woollen Company and R. R. Hall and J. F. P. Birnie for Mr. Meharry.

VOCATIONAL STUDY IS TO BE EXTENDED

Opportunity for Soldiers Who Enlisted Under Eighteen Years of Age.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 20.— An Order-in-Council has been passed by the government extending vocational training to returned soldiers who enlisted under the age of eighteen years. The full details of the scheme are at present being worked out, but returned men who come under this new provision of the retraining scheme may now lodge their claim to a six months' course at the vocational training branches of the offices of the Department of Soldiers' Re-establishment.

Up to the present, vocational training has been given only to men who have been discharged from the army in a condition which precludes them from pursuing the trade or calling they followed before enlistment. The idea has been to fit them for another calling which will be more suited to their more or less incapacitated condition. The men, however, who are eligible under the extension of the scheme will be allowed to take the course even if they are discharged as fit as when they joined up.

Sir James Lougheed, head of the department, told the Examiner correspondent that every case would have to come up for consideration before the claimant was admitted to the courses. It is felt that a boy whose parents are sufficiently well to do to see that he is placed in a position to compete with his fellows should not be re-educated at the expense of the government. There are other phases of the matter to be worked out.

INSIDE INFORMATION

The Washington Post prints to-day the following jingle, written by Geo. M. Cohan, especially for Margaret Anglin, who will open the famous $13,000,000 Salvation Army drive at Washington. Miss Anglin starts a limited Canadian tour on Monday next, May 26th, at Hamilton, playing Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston en route to Ottawa, the city of her birth. At that time her father, the Hon. Timothy Warren Anglin, was speaker of the Dominion House of Commons, her mother was visiting in the House of Parliament, the stork arrived unexpectedly, giving Miss Anglin the distinction of having been born in the speaker's chamber.

Miss Anglin received her early education in a convent school and, having achieved success as an amateur reader, decided on a professional career. She was only seventeen, but overcame the objections of the family and entered a school of elocution in New York City. The late Charles Frohman engaged her shortly afterward and she leaped to distinction almost immediately.

"Billeted,' an English comedy of love and life, her present vehicle, is without doubt the greatest success this distinguished artist has ever had in light comedy; the play ran upwards of a year at the Royalty Theatre, London, played by Miss Anglin all last season in New York, and during the present season she enjoyed long engagements at Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco in a coast to coast tour. (Hadalmost overlooked the Jingle.)

Salvation Army Appeal by Geo. M. Cohan, written for Margaret Anglin.

Since the war has been won it's the truth
Every noble American youth
That's returned overseas
Has got down on his knees
And has prayed for Evangeline Booth.

Thirteen million dough boys in a row
Ate thirteen million doughnuts if it's so
It took a lot of dough to make 'em
And a dollar each to make 'em
So it's up to us to give 'em back the dough.

HAWKER IS MISSING

Opinion in Admiralty Circles is That Hawker Came to Grief Soon After He Started.

SEARCH CONTINUES

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 20. — All reports that Aviator Harry Hawker and Lt.-Commander MacKenzie Grieve have been sighted off the coast of Ireland or that their airplane in which they made an attempt to fly across the Atlantic, had fallen into the sea off the estuary of the River Shannon, are unconfirmed this morning.

The only exact news received here from the daring fliers is that they left St. John's on Sunday. In view of the Admiralty's statement that reports current yesterday afternoon and last night were unreliable, and because of the obscurity surrounding the source of these reports, they are now regarded as negligible.

The opinion held in Admiralty circles is that Hawker came to grief soon after he started. It is pointed out that the aviator almost certainly would have sent a farewell message before getting out of radio range, had an accident not befallen in the meantime.

In the House of Commons last night Josiah C. Wedgewood and other members, severely criticized the Government for omitting to provide means for assisting Hawker in his flight across the Atlantic. Capt. Elliott declared that the country would hold the government lamentably remiss and desperately careless of the honor of the country, "and the life of a gallant gentleman."

Weather Bad.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, May 20. — The weather is so bad off the coast of Ireland, that the airplanes ordered by the air ministry to search for aviator Harry G. Hawker's machine, are unable to fly. There are strong southeast winds and rain and fog at intervals.

All communication centres in London are silent as to the news from Hawker and Lieut. Commander Grieve. Even the rumours which prevailed yesterday and last night have died out.

SEAPLANE ARRIVES.

(Canadian Press.)

HORTA, May 20. — Seaplane N. C.—4 started for Ponta Del Gada, another point in the Azores, at 12.40 p.m. to-day, Greenwich meridian time. The weather was clear and the wind favorable.

A later despatch says: Naval seaplane N.C—4 arrived at Ponta Del Gada from Horta, at 10.24 a.m. Washington time.

SPECIAL HOLIDAY ATTRACTION

All the world loves a lover—and a reformed crook. The drama tells it so and "Turn to the Right" is one of the most recent plays that proves it at the Grand Opera Saturday matinee and evening.

Winchell Smith's comedy isn't merely a tale of thieves who "go straight"; it is also a "mother" play, and therefore its appeal is two-fold. It is one of those plays of wholesome, homely humor and tender sentiment that steals its way into the sympathies and nestles close to the heart. And this is because of the sweet-faced, gentle mother. In real life a man would probably look askance at a reformed pickpocket who was about to marry his sister, but in the play Mother Bascom convinces all that her influence is lasting and the reformation permanent.

The story of Mother Bascom's wayward son, Joe, and his two crook pals, who are attracted to the straight road by the fragrance of a pot of peach jam, and whose arrival is barely in time to save the mother from being turned out of her home, has lost none of its charm.

Great War Veterans' New Hall Was Formally Opened

Splendid Building is Presented to Association by Mayor Duncan on Behalf of Citizens — Splendid Address By Provincial Secretary W. E. Turley—A Feature of the Occasion.

AN HISTORIC OCCASION

The formal opening of the new G.W.V.A. Hall last evening not only gave the citizens of Peterborough a splendid opportunity to inspect the magnificent quarters that have been provided for the local returned soldiers, but also to hear a remarkably eloquent exposition of the aims and objects of the Great War Veterans' Association by Mr. W. E. Turley, of Toronto, who is the Provincial Secretary of the Association, and whose address was an outstanding feature of the evening.

The opening ceremonies were commenced by a parade of Veterans and Boy Scouts, headed by G.W.V.A. band. Through a misunderstanding on the part of many of the returned men the turnout for this event was unusually small and this was the one disappointing feature of the evenning.

A platform had been erected on the lawn at the east side of the new hall and from this the addresses were made, with Capt. R. E. Layfield, secretary of the Joint committee, acting as chairman.

The Hall Presented.

On behalf of the citizens Mayor Duncan formally presented the new building to the Veterans. In doing so he first congratulated the members of the G.W.V.A. upon the transformation they had effected in the re-altering of the building. He had been surprised and delighted by the work that had been accomplished and His Worship congratulated Mr. Layfield, who had been the architect, and Mr. Harold Graham, the contractor, on what had been accomplished.

"I ask the citizens," said Mayor Duncan, "to contribute liberally to the Veterans' fund. Everyone should be glad to give something to this cause. These men have done their bit and deserve all we can do for them."

His Worship referred to the fair and gentlemanly way in which requests by the G.W.V.A. had been made to the City Council and said that it had been a pleasure for the Council to give them a grant towards the construction of their building. He then formally presented the Hall to the Veterans.

Mayor Duncan then read an announcement from the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club that that organization had presented the G.W.V.A. with a fully equipped soda fountain for the canteen in the new building.

CAPT. MORRISON ACCEPTS.

"Our Worship the Mayor, and citizens of Peterborough, it is with mingled feelings of pleasure and gratitude," said Capt. A. S. Morrison, President of the Peterborough branch, "that we accept these magnificent club rooms, which you on the behalf of the citizens have so kindly presented us to-night. It is a pleasure to know that we have been constantly in your minds during those long and terrible years of strife and bloodshed, and now that the war is ended and peace once more restored on this earth, your thoughts naturally go out to the men of this city who left their homes, family and social ties, determined to win or die, in order that you and yours might be protected from this terrible brute force called, "Kultur." I feel it is needless for me to tell you how our boys behaved and the name they created for Canada which will live forever in the annals of the world, of which you have been kept well informed through the medium of the Press, how they risked their lives in hell every moment of the day in order that the home and honours of their beloved country and empire might be saved.

Alas! Very many of our comrades will never return to their loved ones. Amidst the poppy field of France and Flanders they are quietly sleeping, awaiting the day when we shall all be called together again to meet the Great Commander of the Universe.

Survivors Gratified.

The survivors who are present with us to-night, and others who are still to come home in the near future, are gratified to know that you wish us to have these Club rooms, as a meeting place in order to talk over old scenes of conflict and be enabled to carry out the aims and objects of the Association to which we belong. With that end in view you have been pleased as citizens and friends to finance our beautiful club rooms and which have now been declared open to the public for their criticism. Permit me, therefore to give you a short sketch of this branch: It was organized in March, 1917, by fourteen returned comrades and called "Returned Soldiers' Club" Among its officers were Comrades Muir and Cooper, and as this was the first branch of the Great War Veterans in Canada, consequently the above named comrades can proudly call themselves the Fathers of the Branch, which to-day has a membership of over 600 members.

Great Progress Made.

The following year great progress was made by President H. Staunton and all the officers connected with him, starting with a membership of 60 and ending with over 300 members. The

FIRE DESTROYED A LAKEFIELD HOME

Mr. William Yelland of Peterboro Was Among the Losers.

LAKEFIELD, May 20. — The fire alarm bell in Lakefield awoke the villagers at 4 o'clock this morning, and the fire was discovered at the house of Mr. Arthur Payne at the corner of Clementi and William Sts., near the entrance of the Exhibition grounds.

Mrs. Payne was awakened by the noise of the advancing flames, and had barely time to escape with her four children, all in night attire.

Everything was completely destroyed or lost—clothing, money, food, furniture, house and stable, except one chair.

The flames spread to an adjacent vacant house, the property of Mr. William Yelland of Peterboro, and this was also burned to the ground. There was no insurance on Mr. Payne's property and it is not known if Mr. Yelland's house was insured.

The Origin.

The origin of the conflagration is not known, but it is thought that a heap of rubbish that Mrs. Payne burned the evening before had not been completly extinguished, and that the east wind blowing last night fanned the few live embers into flames which crossed the short intervening space to the stable, which was burned first.

The east wind carried the embers over the houses of Mr. James Spencer and Mr. Fred Norish, and for a time they were in danger.

A Sad Feature.

A sad feature of the case is that Mr. Payne, who is running an engine at the camp of Mr. Nixon near Sudbury, is in the hospital there with pneumonia.

COLLECTORS WILL NOT CALL AT FACTORIES

Veterans Secured Over Three Thousand Dollars yesterday

Yesterday's canvass netted the veterans over three thousand dollars in their campaign to collect fifteen thousand dollars with which to furnish and equip new quarters. Some of the canvassers are advised that the husband or relative of the party canvassed will subscribe when the collectors call at the factories. It is not the intention of the collectors to visit the factories except the De Laval For this reason those intending to assist this worthy cause are asked to state their intention and the amount when the collectors call at their homes.

PETERBORO MEN ON THE WAY HOME

Pte. Bowler, Sergt. Boswell and Pte. Gallagher arrived in Portland on May 17th by the steamship Essequibo.

On May the 19th Pte. W. J. Donnell, 184 Brock street arrived in Halifax on the Scandanavian.

CONDITIONS ARE MADE PUBLIC

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, May 20th. — The Central Strike Committee of Organized Labour in Winnipeg made public this afternoon in a letter to Mayor Charles F. Gray, the terms upon which it will consider a settlement of the general strike. Recognition of all unions involved and reinstatement of all employees on strike, are asked. The announcement does not specifically refer to wages and hours.

K. OF C. NOTICE.

REGULAR MEETING THIS EVENING, MAY 20TH, AT EIGHT O'CLOCK SHARP.

L.

Evening Examiner

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, MAY 20TH, 1919.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

The announcement that, commencing on June 1st the C.P.R. evening train for Peterborough will leave Toronto at 5.10 p.m., reaching Peterborough at 8.10 a.m., is a concrete proof of the usefulness of the Board of Trade. The welcome change in this service is the direct result of the efforts of a committee of the local Board who have succeeded in impressing upon the C.P.R. authorities the desirability of an improvement over the present hours. For some time this train has been reaching Peterborough at 9.23 p.m., a most inconvenient hour, not only because of the late arrival of the Toronto papers, but because it made it impossible to reach Peterborough in time for meetings and other evening engagements. The advantages of the train arriving here shortly after 8 o'clock are readily apparent, and many citizens will have reason to thank the Board of Trade for taking up this important matter and for so quickly carrying it through to a successful conclusion. The result justifies the ever-increasing confidence in the Board and in its possibilities.

GOVERNMENT MUST ACT.

It is announced this morning that Senator Robertson, Minister of Labour, and Hon. Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, have left for Winnipeg in an effort to restore normal conditions in that strike-stricken city. The decision of the Government to take some action in this matter has been delayed far too long. The Federal leaders have ignored the industrial upheaval—they have either failed to realize the seriousness of the situation in Canada or have deliberately evaded the issue. The appointment of a commission to study industrial relations is a poor substitute for the effective action that is needed to handle the present situation. The issue is not a local one, confined merely to Winnipeg; labour troubles are fast developing on similar lines in other western cities, and Toronto is threatened with a general strike. The result is that the problem has become a national one, and the Government is called upon to meet the crisis. Lloyd George showed what can be done by a courageous statesman. Some of his methods in dealing with such issues are badly needed in Canada at the present moment. The Ministers who have gone to Winnipeg may not be able to accomplish much there, but at least they can furnish their government with a diagnosis of the situation upon which a policy can be based. The spread of the social revolution must be cut short and Ottawa will have to furnish the means of checking this dangerous movement.

LIQUIDATE THE DEBT

The hundreds of citizens who attended the opening of the new G.W.V.A. here last night and who listened to the exposition of the aims and objects of the Veterans' Association are to-day strongly supporting the campaign. The building was admired by all who had the opportunity last night to inspect the premises and it was recognized that such an institution would prove a decided asset to the city. It is a structure of which the citizens should well feel proud. It will be their privilege during the present week to help to bear the expense of providing this splendid building for Peterboro's returned soldiers. The citizens who were called upon by the canvassers yesterday in the main received them cordially and contributed willingly. If the same spirit is shown by those who have not yet been canvassed there is no question as to the success of the drive. Returned soldiers' week has started out under most encouraging auspices and the people who have not yet had a chance of subscribing can play a big part in the success of the campaign by contributing generously when the collectors call upon them. The drive is for a big cause and it should be completed in a big way by our citizens. This week must see our debt to the laddies who fought and won liquidated in so far as it can be by monetary gifts.

LOSES GAMBLE WITH DEATH?

Harry Hawker, the Australian aviator, and his companion, Commander Mackenzie Grieve, have apparently lost in their great gamble with death. Since the intrepid pair started on their perilous air journey across the Atlantic, the most hazardous aeroplane adventure in the world's history, no authentic tidings have come. There were rumours yesterday of Hawker's machine being sighted off the coast of Ireland and later reports that he fallen into the sea within one hundred miles of his destination, but there was evidently no foundation to these stories, and the lack of official news leaves little hope. There seems no doubt that the daring aviators have plunged into the sea—they had only enough gasoline for at most a twenty-four hour flight—and the world is anxiously waiting for further news in the hope, faint as it is, that the two brave spirits have been able to keep afloat in the tiny boat they carried with their machine, until they are rescued.

The flight of the American naval planes to the Azores, remarkable as it was, fades into insignificance when compared with the exploit upon which Hawker and his companion embarked on Sunday. The United States' flyers were protected by the whole resources of the American navy. American destroyers, cruisers and supply ships bridged the Atlantic and reduced the danger to the aviators to a minimum. They were flying in huge seaplanes which, in the advent of a forced landing, could float on the surface of the sea, and after making repairs, could take to the air again.

Hawker and Grieve had no safeguards. Their machine, a small Sopwith aeroplane, would soon sink if it dropped into the sea, and once down there was no possibility of another flight. Except that the few steamers in the trans-Atlantic route were instructed by wireless to look out for the Australian flyer, there was absolutely no assistance, and but a fighting chance of a rescue.

The regret of the people of Canada at the failure to complete the flight has disappeared in the general sorrow over the very strong probability that the two aviators have sacrificed their lives in an effort to win for the British Empire the glory of the first non-stop flight across the Atlantic.

BOWLERS OPENED SEASON LAST NIGHT

Many New Players Will Participate In The Season's Activities.

The formal opening of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club was held last evening. The Bowling Club promises to enjoy a very progressive season this year, as not only a large representation of the members of former years attended, but a number of new members turned out for the opening games.

The proposed schedule was not carried out, but a double and a rink game were played. In the double T. C. Elliott played against Walter Oke, and in the rink game George Cairns against J. H. Cedric, a new member, who moved to the city recently from Belleville, and is looked upon as a distinct acquisition to the club.

Expect Big Turnout.

On the 24th of May the bowlers expect a big turnout, and President and Vice-President games will be played.

TWO MILE BICYCLE RACE FOR THE 24TH

The bicycle dealers have put up a silver cup for a bicycle race between the five different makes of machines represented in this city, the race to be run off on the 24th of May at the G. W. V. A. Sports.

This race promises some excitement, as each dealer is after the first prize.

Boys, take notice: The bicycle dealers have arranged to take any entries for any bicycle or athletic event for next Saturday. Don't fail to give in an entry.

LABOURERS' STRIKE MAY BE SETTLED

Council Will Likely Recognize The Wage Rate of 45c.

The settlement of the city labourers' strike, the resumption of work and the restoration of harmony were reported this morning to be probable results from a meeting of the Council or Board of Works which Mayor Duncan this morning promised representatives of the Labourers' Union he would call in a few days. It is understood that members of the Council including Mayor Duncan realize that nothing is to be gained by reducing the labourers' wage from 45 to 40 cents an hour on the prospective bridge work, and for sewer work the Union's rate will be recognized. This is the report in Labour circles and it is likely that the question will be reconsidered at a meeting called for Wednesday night.

Uncle Tom's Cabin at the Grand Friday

At the Grand Opera House, Friday matinee and evening the beautiful and realistic picture which has made Wm. H. Kibble's production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" world-famous are the little cabin of Uncle Tom, at old Southern Road, Skinner's Tavern, the ice-gorged Ohio River by moonlight, the grand old home of Phineas Friend the wild rocky pass in Southern Ohio, St. Claire's home, showing a tropical garden with its fragrant magnolia and orange trees among which nestles the typical Southern plantation residence, the home of Eva; corridor at St. Claire's, the great New Orleans levee and slave mart, a moss-covered road near Legree's, a street in New Orleans, Legree's plantation on the Red River with the cotton in full bloom, and the transformation entitled "The Celestial City." Wm. H. Kibble's version involves thirty important characters and is told in four acts and twenty-eight scenes. Negroes are carried to fill out the pictures and introduce their plantation pastime. The engagement will open Special Children's matinee at 3 p.m.

GETTING READY FOR ANOTHER FLIGHT

Two More Airmen Prepare For Perilous Crossing.

(Canadian Press.)

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 20.—With the result of Hawker's endeavours in doubt, plans for another perspective race began to develop to-day similar to that for which Hawker and Frederick P. Raynham were lined up here longer than a month. Alcott and Brown, with a Vimy bombing plane, which is due to arrive here to-morrow, announced that his flight for Ireland would be undertaken with the coming of the next full moon. Alcott to-day wired to Vice-Admiral Kerr at Harbour Grace, for permission to use the flying field of the Handley-Page plane, now assembling there for a "take-off." Alcott said he would flight from St. Johns to Harbour Grace and there would start with a full load in his trans-Atlantic journey. The Handley-Page will be ready at the am., time in the opinion of Admiral Kerr and the race for what may still prove to be the first crossing is expected to result. Meanwhile the $50,000 prize offered by the London Daily Mail apparently is still open to competition.

Over One Hundred Dogs Without Tags

Mr. James Gates, Official D. C., Is on Duty.

The citizens still seem to be forgetful that they are liable to a fine for not procuring a 1919 dog tag. Only 378 have been issued this year up to the present, which means that about 150 are yet to be procured, not counting the increase in the canine population during the past year. The police have complete records of all dogs in the city, whether imported into the city since last year or not, and they intend to issue summonses shortly if the matter is not attended to. Mr. James Gates, Official D. C., is also on duty.

BIG PROGRAMME BY THE "Y" BOYS

The programme to be given by the Y. M. C. A. boys under the direction of Messrs. Asa Huycke and G. H. Roper in the G. W. V. A. Hall tomorrow night in aid of the Veterans' Building Fund promises to be a most enjoyable one. The features of the recent successful minstrel show and circus will be given and the entertainment should be one of the best of the kind that has been given here for some time. There will undoubtedly be a large crowd out, as both the Y minstrels and the Y circus scored big successes.

The prices are remarkably low, the values marvellous, and these are both emphasized by the timeliness of the Sale, for there are many months ahead to wear them. Suits for street. Suits for dressy occasions, all tailored to a high perfection and made of beautiful light-weight materials. The assortment includes the assured fashionable shades for Summer.

The Smartest Dresses $14.50 to $34.00

No matter where you expect to spend the Summer you must have one or two good Dresses. These smart Dresses are examples of "style and quality at moderate cost," and include many style newnesses adapted for special wear the coming weeks. Here are Taffetas, Georgettes, Charmeuse Satins, Crepe de Chines, and fine Voiles. You will be delighted when you see these To-morrow.

New Coats $24 to $39

Summer Hats $5 to $15

We have somewhat outstripped Summer fashion, for just as the styles highest in favour make themselves known in New York and other fashion centres, we display them right here in our own Millinery Department. Here are smart new Hats of Leghorn, White Milan Hats, beautiful Panamas, and many new becoming Hairbraid Hats.

Blouses, from $1.89 to $8

Never have Blouses been lovelier, perhaps because the Skirts they are supposed to top off are so unusually beautiful. You will admire them more when, for instance, you see the new tailored Crepe de Chine Blouses with fine embroidery and rows of tucks and buttons. Various styles of collars and sleeves; or the new Smocks in their beautiful colours.

Separate Skirts $5.90 to $14

You will find Plaid Skirts and Stripes and new Serges and Gabardines and Taffetas. All very handsome and in such rich colours and such rich materials that a woman need wear hardly anything else but a Skirt of this type and a Georgette Blouse to be as smartly gowned as she cares to be. The Drive Is On

YOUR CHANCE TO HELP IS AT HAND

VETERAN'S DRIVE GIVES AN OPPORTUNITY OF SHOWING GRATITUDE TO THE MEN WHO FOUGHT

This week will be Peterborough's Returned Soldiers' Week.

There has been arranged a programme of activities that extends from Monday until Saturday night.

These all promise to be successful.

But the success of the big event of the week depends upon the people generally.

By "big event" is meant the drive for $15,000 to render the splendid G.W.V.A. Hall free from debt.

You have perhaps given liberally through the war.

Just now you may be feeling "a little fed up," to use army slang.

But don't you think that in the long years of the war the men you are asked to help this week were "fed up" too?

Do you imagine the sacrifice you have made in contributing to patriotic movements can compare with that made by them?

Do you think $15,000 could compensate the soldiers for the suffering and horror they have gone through in the past four years and a half?

The Veterans are asking their fellow-citizens to give them this splendid building free of debt so that they can have a place in which to meet and to carry on their work.

They will undertake to maintain the building after that.

What they need is a fair start.

They ask the people to see that they are not handicapped on the go-in.

Canvassers will call at every home in Peterborough if possible.

The majority of these collectors will be in uniform. They will be men who have served.

They deserve well at the hands of their fellow-citizens.

They should be given a cordial reception.

Their mission is not exactly a pleasant one, but they have undertaken it as a duty in the same spirit in which they tackled the "big job" over there.

Their task should be made easy by the citizens generally.

The purpose of the campaign has been laid before the public with sufficient clearness to prevent any misunderstanding.

By this time the people of Peterborough have surely decided upon their course and will be prepared to help the drive on to success.

A cash donation is always preferable, but a pledge to pay will be gladly received.

Give freely and cheerfully—if it had not been for the boys you are now asked to help and their comrades you might not have had very much at this time to give anybody.

RESULTS OF PETERBORO MOTOR SHOW EXCEEDINGLY GRATIFYING

Advisory Board Met Last Evening —The Treasurers Report— Surplus Amounted to $1,325.69.

The Advisory Board of the Peterborough Red Cross was a very pleased body of men after they had heard the report of the treasurer, Mr. E. J. H. Vanstone, last evening, which showed a surplus of $1,325.69 in the bank as a result of the motor show conducted by the Peterborough Health Association.

Mr. George McDonald, chairman, and the following gentlemen were present: Messrs. E. J. H. Vanstone, G. O. Cameron, R. H. Turner, R. M. Glover, J. W. Fraser, Father Phelan, Roland Denne, Robert Cotton, W. R. Breyfogle, A. L. Killaly, and G. H. Thompson.

On motion, the treasurer's report was adopted, and a resolution passed authorising the transfer of the funds to Mr. W. H. Dunsford, treasurer of the Health Association.

The results of the motor show were exceedingly gratifying, and exceeded the surplus of last year by $111.60.

Rev. Father Phelan was present representing the Health Association and heartily thanked the committee on the results attained. He complimented the organisation on the work they had done in connection with previous campaigns for the Red Cross and other patriotic objects, and he knew that the prayers and good wishes of those who would be helped as a result of this effort would be unstintedly given.

After a short discussion, it was decided that the organisation would be continued for an indefinite period and could be used to advantage in similar or other campaigns for the public good.

The following is the treasurer's report:

Peterborough Motor Show.

To the Chairman and Executive Committee of the Peterborough Motor Show.

I beg to submit herewith my report as treasurer of the Peterborough Motor Show for 1919.

I take pleasure in drawing your attention to the surplus of $1,325.69, which is $111.60 greater than the surplus for the previous year, which amounted to $1,214.09.

I would like to make a few comparisons which should prove of interest to the Executive Committee. The receipts for the show for 1919 were $2,106.14, as against $1,801.95 for the previous year, an increase of $304.19.

Last year (1918) an auto was donated by Mr. Roland Wilson and was raffled, and produced a revenue for the show of $292.50. In spite of this amount, which was really found money, the surplus for 1919, as stated above, is $111.60 greater than for 1919.

The expenses for 1919 are greater than for 1918—$780.45 as against $597.36 for 1918, an increase of $183.09.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. J. H. Vanstone, Treas.

PUBLIC CARD OF THANKS.

To the Citizens of Peterborough, the Patriotic Organisations, artistes, and all those who in any way assisted in the operation, entertainment, and support of the Peterborough Motor Show, we desire to extend our most earnest thanks.

The Peterborough Health Association, for which the affair was conducted, will, as a result, be enabled to carry on their labour of love with a greater degree of effectiveness, and that the work of that organisation is deeply appreciated by the public of Peterborough is evidenced by the magnificent co-operation and support given to the Motor Show to make it the tremendous success it was.

Again extending our warmest thanks for your splendid support, we beg to remain,

Yours, with hearty appreciation on behalf of the Advisory Board of the Peterborough Red Cross,

G. H. Thompson, Geo. McDonald,
Secy. Chairman.

Have Your Eyes Examined

In the past people hesitated about wearing Glasses. To-day people are beginning to find out that when Glasses are needed they improve one's sight, health, and efficiency. No one can tell whether his eyesight is good or not until he has had his Eyes examined. You may, unknowingly, be seeing only half as well as you should. There is one sure way to know. Have your Eyes examined. If Glasses are not needed we will tell you so, and make no charge for the advice.

ALL WELCOME MEN OF 21ST BATTALION

Council's Reception Committee Will Participate With Returned Soldiers.

Ald. Turner was authorized by the reception Committee last night to operate with the returned men of the 21st Battalion in their preparations for a welcome to the local men who are now on their way home with the old unit.

Mayor Duncan remarked that he was sorry all returning men were not met at the station. He realized that it was quite impossible, but pointed out that sometimes they come in small parties. On Saturday evening some arrived, and fortunately the Mayor and three or four members of the Council had been notified by Kingston and were waiting at the station to greet them.

Mayor Duncan and Ald. Turner were appointed to prepare the plans for a public celebration of the signing of peace and to join with the Ministerial Association in the arrangement for a Thanksgiving service.

WILL NOT APPEAL LENNOX DECISION

Aldermen Might be Held Liable for Sewer Case Costs.

City Solicitor Widdifield advised the Legal Committee last night not to appeal Judge Lennox's decision in the case of Hatton vs. Peterboro, in which His Lordship quashed the Council's bylaw authorizing the construction of a sewer on McDonnel street, from its present terminus at the Bonner-Worth factory to the Monaghan Road. The Judge had found it a fact that the motive for the building of this sewer was a desire to benefit Mount St. Joseph and not to remove sanitary conditions existing within the city.

Mr. Widdifield stated that the time for the appeal expired on May 24th, and asked the council for instructions if they decided to take further action.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Garside, that no action be taken.

Would Make Aldermen Pay.

The City Solicitor said he had asked Mr. Hatton to assent to extending the appeal interim, but the latter had refused, adding that if the Council proceeded further with the case he would bring an action as a citizen to make the Aldermen personally pay the costs of the former action, which under the Judgment the city has to pay. Mr. Widdifield said he expected Mr. Hall's costs, as solicitor for Mr. Hatton, to amount to $500 or $700.

SPECIAL SERVICE HELD IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, LAKEFIELD

War Veterans Paraded to Church — Rev. J. L. Taylor Gave Splendid Address.

LAKEFIELD, May 20.—A unique and impressive service was held in St. John's Church on Sunday evening, in honour of the returned men of the village and in memory of the fallen heroes.

A printed form of service was distributed among the pews, which included the special psalms, lessons and two appropriate hymns, written for such occasions.

The parade was an impressive one, consisting of the Girl Guides with their flag, under Capt. (Mrs.) Osborne; the Veterans, under Capt. Marling; the High School cadets, under Capt. Edward Bailey; and the Wolf Cubs with their flag, under Miss Hilliard, cub mistress. The church was crowded with people who came to worship God and thank Him for the safe return of so many men and to join in a solemn memorial to those who will not return.

The rector, Rev. J. Lintopp Taylor, gave a splendid address, welcoming back the veterans who have returned to Lakefield. He spoke of our victory as given by God and not won by man with force of arms. Speaking last year to a returned soldier in Banff, he was told of the appalling danger when the Germans in 1914 made their onslaught on Paris. Two more hours and they would have broken through the thin red line (now a khaki line) and have gained their objective. The figures in our glorious history have been God fearing men who put their trust in Providence. Havelock never went into battle without spending some time in prayer. General Gordon, that gallant soldier, who in battle was only armed with a walking stick, lived close to God and prayed constantly. The great Nelson, the greatest perhaps of all our heroes, spent the quarter of an hour before he went to the quarter deck for the last time in prayer. Admiral Beatty said that the British people would only win the victory on their knees. General Haig and General French were men who daily passed some time in prayer to God and the great Marshal Foch, generalissimo of all the allied armies, was often to be found on his knees in some little church behind the lines.

These returned men had fought a good fight and some had received decorations from our most gracious King, and now that they have returned, we are proud to make them welcome.

In welcoming home the returned men we also have a thought for those who are not coming home again. "No man liveth unto himself and no man dieth unto himself," and while the so-called loss of life was fearfully heavy, those lives were not lost which were given up in that great cause for freedom and right. One soldier has been honoured by a tablet placed in his memory in this Church to which he belonged.

Last year we read of retreat after retreat until it seemed as though all must be lost, then by the grace of God the retreat was halted and the advance began and never ceased until the armistice was signed. It was so on many fronts, retreat and defeat at times, but the final victory was always ours.

Then there were those who waited and watched with the bull dog perseverance on the North Sea waiting for the foe that was afraid to come out and face them.

The Battle Cry

Our good gracious King said he trusted in God and relied upon his people.

But this is not the end of war and of fighting, as long as sin is in the world, so long will there be war. The battle cry will sound again for the foe we have defeated will recover himself and thirsting for vengeance will again plunge the world into war. Not in our time, but in some future generation. France, who sacrificed most of all the twenty-two nations allied against the Powers of Darkness, fought with a keen desire for revenge for the wrongs of 1870.

Twice in the Bible are men of war referred to. Once, when Saul tried to persuade David not to go out against Goliath, saying that he (Goliath) had been a man of war all his life. Again when the men of war were ranged up against our Lord at his trial.

St. Paul urges us to "fight the good fight," and speaks of life as a conflict—a battle to be fought against sin.

In closing we honour all our men who have served and would have served if they could have done so, in the cause of right and justice, in the name of and for the sake of our Lord and Saviour, the captain of our salvation.

At the close of the sermon a memorial hymn was sung by the choir and congregation.

The Music

The National Anthem was sung before the benediction was pronounced and immediately afterwards the choir rendered Gounod's anthem, "Praise ye the Lord." Mesdames Strickland and Britton and Miss Strickland accompanying the organ and choir on their violins. These ladies played throughout the musical part of the service. After the anthem there followed a short organ and violin recital concluding with, "Oh, Canada."

After the congregation had left the church, the veterans, cadets, Girl Guides and Cubs, formed up in the street, and Rev. A. W. Mackenzie led their hearty cheers for the returned soldiers. Then the procession reformed and marched down the street as follows:—The Girl Guides, the Wolf Cubs, the Cadets and the Veterans, led by Captains Marling and Finnemore.

In this little band were two of the original Princess Pats, who belonged to that pioneer of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, viz.: Capt Finnemore and Sergt. Stenner.

THE VAUDEVILLE AT THE GRAND

Good Bill for First Three Days of This Week.

An unusually fine programme was presented at the Grand last evening including three first-class acts of vaudeville. Geraldine Farrar, the wonderful American prima donna is starred in "The Turn of the Wheel." The story opens in Monte Carlo where Stanfield Grey loses everything on the roulette wheel. He is restrained from committing suicide by Rosalie Dean (Geraldine Farrar) also an American. Later two detectives arrest Grey for the murder of his divorced wife in a New York apartment. He is taken to United States and refuses to plead. Rosalie engages counsel for him but he withholds the facts and the counsel quits the case in disgust. At the home of Stanfield's brother, Rosalie meets a ne'er-do-well who lives only to dance and drink. Entering her home one afternoon Rosalie overhears the ne'er-do-well talking to Frank Grey's (Stanfield's brother) wife. She makes an appointment with the ne'er-do-well, gets him drunk and elicits some very important facts. Through a trick she later gets the same "gentleman" and Frank Grey's wife together and dopes them with "fixed" wine after which they are carried by two detectives to the scene of the murder and placed in the same chair. Rosalie hides behind a curtain and watches the effect when they awake. Becoming terrified the pair attempt to escape but Rosalie reveals herself and accuses Mrs. Grey of the murder. Becoming terrified at such an accusation, she denies it but says:—

"He did it," pointing at her companion.

"I didn't. It was an accident," was his half-drunken reply, and the whole sordid story is revealed. It further transpires after Stanfield has been released that he refused to plead because he knew of the presence of his brother's wife in the apartment the night of his divorced wife's murder. The story ends in the usual nuptial romance.

Bissett and Scott, simultaneous dancers were greatly appreciated by the audience.

"Breaking it Gently" in two acts by Allan and Betty Leiber creates many laughs and the predicament of the husband when he returns from a six month's trip to Russia is certainly humorous but the whole tale is more funny.

The headline attraction was La Rose and Lane the latter, a social gentleman entering after a night out, in his hand he carries a red lantern which he tells a girl (whom he at first mistook for his wife) he has picked up near a big hole. It nearly fell in when he rescued it. He was the best imitation of a drunk seen at the Grand for some time and his songs sung in the same spirit have a laugh in every line.

main features of this year's work were establishing an annual tag day and church parade in commemoration of the second battle of Ypres. Also a day set aside for the decoration of graves of our departed comrades. Also the formation of the G. W. V. A. band which, under the excellent leadership of Comrade W. Hughes, has been brought to such a high state of efficiency it has been considered one of the best bands of Canada, having a membership of over forty bandsmen. The most outstanding feature of the year was the formation of the Ladies' Auxiliary which, under the guiding hand of Mrs. Col. Mills, Mrs. Morris and others, has a membership of over a hundred members. Their duties are very many, one of their principal duties being to relieve the sick and needy. To them the credit is also largely due to the furnishing of our former rooms. They are considered the strong right arm of the Association.

This year the branch, under its officers and a very strong executive, are continuing the good work of its predecessors. Our membership since the first of the year has increased from 300 to over 600 members and we truly claim to say that over 95 p.c. of returned men have joined this Association. In addition we are now the district headquarters of Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton counties, and have recently formed branches at Lakefield, Havelock and Norwood of this county. But the main feature of this year's work was the erection of our club rooms. This is being accomplished by the comrades of this branch. The plans and all work is being done by returned men, which shows what can be accomplished when everyone puts their shoulder to the wheel and pulls in the right direction. Although everyone has worked very hard, still I feel I cannot pass over the services of Comrade R. Layfield without mentioning the fact that he was largely responsible for the drawing up of the plans of the building, and his work stands out very prominently during the erection of the above named building. Now before closing my remarks I wish to draw your attention to the finances of this building, as we are in need of $15,000. Every home and industry during this present week will be canvassed by a committee in order to secure the amount stated. When they call upon you, kindly receive them and give a good donation so that the desired amount may be obtained. I feel quite certain you do not want these men who have sacrificed so much for you to go into this building with a mortgage over their heads."

SECRETARY TURLEY.

A newspaper report can hardly do justice to the eloquent address given by Provincial Secretary Turley, who is not only an orator but an elocutionist, featuring his speech by several telling recitations that drove home home his remarks in impressive fashion. If every citizen of Peterborough could have heard Mr. Turley last night it is safe to say that the objective the Great War Veterans are aiming at would be easily and quickly reached.

In eloquent language, every word of which was stamped by sincerity and conviction, the Provincial Secretary told the interesting story of the inception and growth of the Great War Veterans' Association. He related the first steps, the formation of returned soldiers' organizations in different cities, of which Peterborough was one, and finally the merging of these clubs into the present Association, which had grown from that first small meeting representing some 4,000 returned men, into a body with already 323 branches and a membership of over 100,000, all united for the good of Canada.

To illustrate the necessity for such an organization, Mr. Turley reminded his audience that the gratitude of a nation towards its fighting men had usually been short-lived, and in this connection he told in vivid language of the fate of the few survivors of the charge of the Light Brigade, and recited with telling effect Rudyard Kipling's bitter denunciation of the shameful neglect by the people of England of the men who had made that immortal charge. It was to prevent the possibility of any Canadian poet ever having an opportunity of writing such verses about the people of the Dominion that the Great War Veterans' Association had been formed.

Mr. Turley dealt briefly with the reforms that the G.W.V.A. had been able to accomplish. He told of the change in the pension regulations which they had secured by their representations, of the abolition of the old system of classification of disabilities, of the obtaining of pensions for children, of the securing of the post discharge pay and of many other important benefits that were for the good of the widows and orphans of the men who had fallen and the welfare of those who had fought and suffered.

Of the Association's work on behalf of Canada generally, Mr. Turley pointed with pride to the Government Housing scheme for which the Great War Veterans were directly responsible. He referred to the absolute necessity that existed in many Canadian cities for more houses. None had been built during the war and the result was that the men who were now coming back, many of them bringing English brides, had the greatest difficulty in finding homes. The G.W.V.A. had so strongly represented the need of government action that both the Ontario and Dominion governments had been stirred to action, and government aid for providing housing accommodation had been made a reality. If the people of Peterborough were not getting the advantage of this plan, the remedy lay in electing men to municipal office that would see that this assistance was taken advantage of.

No Bolshevism.

In the course of his address Mr. Turley emphatically declared there were no Bolsheviks among the Great War Veterans. He told his audience that the men who had fought the Prussian autocracy overseas were prepared if necessary to fight the Bolshevik autocracy over here and would use the same weapon upon the latter as they had upon the Germans. There had better be no Red Flag waving where the War Veterans were, the Provincial Secretary declared and the tone of his remarks left no doubt as to his sincere belief that the Veterans would be as quick to resent the appearance of a disloyal movement in Canada as they were to offer themselves to protect the Dominion against the Huns.

The Veterans, whether Canadian-born or British-born, loved Canada, he said, more than ever now. The Englishman while he looked upon the old country as a son did his mother, looked upon Canada as a bridegroom did his bride. They were glad to get back to this country and the spirit that had been engendered during the comradeship of the war would be a most valuable asset in the development of Canada.

In conclusion Mr. Turley urged upon his hearers to do everything in their power for the Veterans, who will be the best citizens of the Dominion, he said.

The Great War Veterans' Band was in attendance and played a number of enjoyable selections during the programme.

ELSIE RYAN IN "TEA FOR THREE"

From out of the Ryal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, comes to Grand Opera, Monday, May 26th., what promises to be the theatrical event of the season combining as it does a play still in the bloom and freshness of its first season, a star than whom there is none more popular or attractive on the stage today and a supporting company of stellar rank.

"Tea for Three", the comedy by Roi Cooper Megrue, still playing to capacity audiences at a New York theatre, Miss Elsa Ryan, seen in this vicinity in "Out There" and "Peg O' My Heart" and Norman Hackett, Hayden Stevenson and others are the ingredients which go to insure local theatregoers an evening of delightful entertainment. The play concerns a charming society wife of a steady, successful business man, the husband himself and a butterfly-like bachelor friend who admits that his "flitting and flattering" is due to his need for solace and diversion from the pangs of unrequited love. He is quite certain that he would have made Doris (Miss Ryan) a better husband than the man she did marry but since the Fates decreed she was not to be his wife, he can see no reason why they should not enjoy a beautiful platonic friendship. Doris would not be human if this unusual devotion has failed to touch her, so between them they contrive a plan which nearly wrecks their young careers before it finished with them. Beautiful stage settings are provided by Selwyn and Company.

SAY PEACE TERMS ARE UNACCEPTABLE

(Canadian Press.)

COPENHAGEN, May 20.—The conference of German political leaders and German peace delegates at the Spa on Sunday agreed that the peace terms were unacceptable, according to a German semi-official statement and that Germany will leave no stone unturned in an attempt "to find a practical basis of peace which takes into account our opponents' justifiable demands and those capable of being born and carried out by the German people."

WEEKLY SHOOT THURSDAY EVENING

One of The Events Will Be a Blind Handicap—The Lakefield Members.

The Peterboro Gun Club will hold their weekly shoot on Thursday evening, May 22, at 6:15 instead of Friday on account of the holiday coming on the 24th. All the members and local trapshooters are invited to be on hand as there will be the regular shoot and a Blind Handicap, the latter will be a decided novelty and will create a lot of fun for the shooters. Mr. Ed. Wright, the local tobacconist has kindly donated a box of cigars for the first prize in this event.

The Lakefield members of the Local Gun Club have become greatly enthused over this sport and the little village at the north promises to turn out some crack trap-shooters. Any gunner interested will be quite welcome at the grounds Thursday evening.

The world will never be as bad as some people think it is, nor as good as they think it ought to be.

GUNNER V. E. BULLOCK ARRIVED HOME AFTER A QUICK PASSAGE

Gunner V. E. Bullock, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bullock, "Strathearn Farm", arrived home from overseas on Monday last. He has been on active service for the last two years with a 92 heavy howitzer battery. He reports a fine trip home on the R. M. S. Maurentania and had his discharge in Kingston, just seven days after leaving Southampton, England.

SEMI-READY SHOP TALK:

"What shall it profit a man if he saves $5 on a suit and only gets 30 cents worth of satisfaction?

"From the ancient to the modern metaphor is as far-fetched a jump as from ye tailor of ye olden time to the Semi-ready physique type system.

"Even our Special Orders—custom-made from the cloth to the last stitch—are tailored by team experts—each man doing that part in which long practice has given him speed and efficiency.

"A Special Order—it's made at the shop in four days—and delivered at our store by fast express."

Citizens Committee Threaten to Adopt institutions."

"I want to appeal to you to exercise patience and calmness. The future destiny of not only Winnipeg, but the whole of Canada, may depend on the wisdom of our citizens and the government in this grave crisis. Support constituted authority with your trust, your confidence and, if necessary, your all, and pray that the Great Master may direct them in honor and wisdom."

Citizens Moving Out.

The thinking public only hope that the mayor has not left it too late before asserting his authority, for even now the unions are boasting of their superiority over all governments affecting the situation, and Rev. Wm. Ivens, the brains of the movement, makes no bones about it, as he claims to be the only authority with power to do things in Winnipeg. Altogether Winnipeg is not a desirable place to live in, and the exodus of people to Ontario and the United States is assuming large proportions.

To-night Mayor Grant said to a deputation of large property owners: "Citizens need not worry; the situation is well in hand. Two hundred Mounted Police are in the barracks at the Exhibition grounds. There are 50 more mounted rifles at Fort Osborne barracks."

Soldiers are returning to the city every day, but after getting their discharge decline to accept the proferred offer given to each one to reenlist, having had enough of war for a time.

If the trains are all stopped by to-night the government will have difficulty in moving troops into the city for the protection of property.

Restaurants which had been opened by reason of the Strike Committee closed and took the strike permit cards out of their windows.

Theatres have similar cards, and these may also close down as no business is being done.

Gasoline is running short and soon all automobiles will be off the streets.

The only remaining supply is at Elmwood suburb, where 150,000 gallons was reduced to 50,000 gallons over Sunday. There is some anxiety as to how much the city has in store for the fire apparatus, which is operated by gasoline entirely.

Cars Destroyed.

A fire in the Canadian Northern yards yesterday destroyed three cars of oil and gasoline.

Rev. Wm. Ivens, editor of the Labor News, and the moving spirit in speaking at the Labor Church, said: "Shop men in all railways of Winnipeg and district, members of International Unions, met on Saturday, and sent an ultimatum to Charles Dickie, the Secretary, that if matters of wages and hours were not settled by Tuesday, May 20th, they would call for a strike on the three systems throughout the whole of Canada."

R. B. Russell, of the Central Strike Committee, and secretary of the Machinists, announced to-day: "The engineers, firemen, switchmen and all trainmen of Government Railways, Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific, have taken a vote which was unanimous. They are ready now to strike at the call of the Central Strike Committee. The Canadian Pacific men of the same committee are now voting on the same issue."

LATE STRIKE NEWS.

(Canadian Press.)

2 O'Clock Despatch.

THIEF RIVER, MINN., May 19. — (Delayed.) — The outlook for the settlement of the general strike in Winnipeg to-night is not good. The signs are ominous. The trainmen are voting and will probably tie up the whole of Western Canada, west of Fort William. The shopmen of all the railway shops are also likely to strike. This will mean no wires, no newspapers, no trains, no mails, in or out of Winnipeg.

All the wholesale houses and many of the retail stores are closed, or will shortly close. Bread and milk are still being delivered regularly to homes, but the restaurants and many of the hotels are closed. Water, gas and electric light are still available.

Trains that are still running out of Winnipeg are crowded with people for the east and south, and many others are arranging to get out of the city as quickly as possible.

It is stated that the Citizens' Committee wired Ontario not to send any representatives here, hoping to settle the strike themselves. According to other stories returned soldiers in reserve have declined to rejoin their regiments, although called upon to do so.

OAK HALL, 409-11 GEORGE STREET

War Veterans' New Hall Etc.

The New Quarters.

The new quarters of the Great War Veterans present an outstanding example of what a complete transformation may be wrought in a building. From the rather sombre looking old Murray street Baptist church, the building has been changed into a very handsome club house, attractively finished inside and out.

The entrance, with its two staircases branching to right and left leading to the main hall is large and roomy, and like the rest of the building, well lighted. On the floor of the entrance, the secretary, Mr. S. Whatley, has his office, in a bright, cheerful room on the left hand side, and off this room a vault has been built. On the right hand of the building a well-finished canteen, with facilities for soft drinks, is nearing completion. At the back a room with two shower baths and lockers has been installed. Occupying the centre of this floor is the pool and billiard room. They are large, airy quarters fifty-three by forty feet, finished like the rest of the building, with splendid maple floors. Off this at the back is a comfortable card and reading room, which will comfortably accommodate at least one hundred men.

Main Floor.

The main floor, the second story of the building, is practically devoted to the main hall, which occupies a space forty by sixty-eight feet. This room is well finished, and no detail has been overlooked in making it perfect. The doors, polished like glass, are of the best grade of clear maple and wainscotting of oak is run about the room to a height of three feet. The walls are harmoniously finished in buff tints. The ceiling is a handsome metallic affair and the room is adequately lighted with splendid brass drop lights.

For the same floor with the main hall the Ladies' Auxiliary has been provided with splendid quarters. These are situated at the back and include a kitchen with all up-to-date fixtures, an L-shaped meeting room, a toilet room and a store room.

The Top Floor.

The top floor is new and consists of a huge gymnasium, forty by sixty-eight feet in dimension, a sun room at the back and a larger one forty-two by twenty feet at the front. From east of these a splendid view of the town and surrounding country is commanded.

The Contractor.

Mr. Harold Graham, the contractor, is well satisfied by the splendid results of his endeavours which he undertook on plans drawn up by Mr. A. E. Layfield. All the work on the entire building was done by returned soldiers.

Janitor's Quarters.

The janitor has been provided with splendid quarters at the rear of the building in a remodelled cottage. The heating of the new quarters is by means of hot air from two furnaces.

CYRIL MAUDE IN THE SAVING GRACE

At the Grand Opera House Thursday evening occurs a theatrical event far removed from the ordinary in the estimation of playgoers, for Cyril Maude, most distinguished of the English players visiting us, making his first appearance here since his memorable engagement in the "delightful "Grumpy", in a new comedy by C. Haddon Chambers called "The Saving Grace."

Mr. Chambers is said to have supplied the eminent English actor with one of the best roles he has ever portrayed, and one in which he has ample opportunities for the display of all those exquisite and deft methods of light comedy to which he owes a great share of his fame. Throughout the comedy there runs a most appealing love story. The Charles Frohman Company, under the management of which Mr. Maude appears, has surrounded the actor with a most distinguished company. The principal feminine role is portrayed by Miss Laura Hope Crews, a charming and most capable actress with a personal following here. Miss Betty Murray, agreeably recalled for a most pleasing performance with Mr. Maude in "Grumpy" is as happily cast in "The Saving Grace". Other characters are in the capable hands of Annie Hughes, Charlotte Granville, Edward Douglas and Stanley Harrison. Needless to say, the comedy has been produced with all the customary Frohman good taste and distinction.

SLICE OF STREET FOR GREEN ESTATE

While Mayor Duncan was felicitating the Veterans upon the opening of their new Club House last night and officially representing the city at the opening ceremonies, Ald. Phelan was appointed acting Mayor of the briefest meeting this year. The Green Estate's request for a strip of the old Government reserve on Charlotte street, east of Water street has been one of the Council's shop-worn questions for several years. A corner of the Edward Green estate juts upon this property and the final distribution under the will has been held up until the executors learned definitely whether they could obtain ownership of this piece of the street. Mr. Green made several public benefactions in his will, and further consideration that has been impressed upon the Council was the fact that the strip required would ot interfere with ample passage on the street which leads to the C.P.R. sheds. By last night's bylaw the city was authorized to sell to the estate the land they need, and a motion was also passed asking the Lieutenant Governor in Council to approve the bylaw.

Mrs. Sheedy Loses Estate; Accused of "Martial Looseness"

NEW YORK, May 18. — Because she resumed marital relations with Thomas F. Sheedy, a wealthy horse owner and a well known turfman, from whom she was divorced, without engaging in a second ceremonial marriage, Surrogate Cohalan denied to Mrs. Mabel Sheedy, the right to administer his estate, valued at several thousand dollars.

Rejecting her plea that she was the common law wife of the turfman, Surrogate Cohalan said: "She seems to have been playing fast and loose with all marriage laws and living with whomsoever it best suited her fancy at any particular time."

Mrs. Sheedy explained in her petition that she was married to the decedent in 1894 and was the mother of his child. Six years later the couple separated after quarrels over Mr. Sheedy's mother-in-law, and Mrs. Sheedy went to Chicago, where she obtained a divorce. Soon after, however, the couple became reunited because of their affection for their child. They lived together for two years and again separated.

Subsequently Mrs. Sheehy, believing her husband to be dead, married Francis J. Doyle, in Detroit. Her second marriage was in 1906, and ten years later, while Mrs. Sheedy was stopping at the Imperial Hotel, she chanced to meet Mr. Sheedy, who was convalescing from a severe illness.

After this accidental meeting Mrs Sheehy otbained an annulment of her marriage to Mr. Doyle, and went to Charleston, S. C., with her first husband, acting as his nurse.

She remained with Mr. Sheedy until his death last year. After this she contended that although separated from the turfman for almost 23 years, she was still his wife as the divorce decree granted in Chicago was not valid in this state because her husband had not been served with notice of the action.

Tablet in Memory of Sherman Mahood

Lakefield News of Interest—Visitors to the Village.

LAKEFIELD, May 20.—A brass tablet has been erected in St. John's Church to the memory of Sherman Mahood, who was killed in action at Arras, August 26, 1918. The tablet has been erected by the A.Y.P.A. in loving memory of their only member who is sleeping among the poppies in France. With an honour roll of sixteen, only one man was killed and of him it can be said that to God, his King and his Church, he was "faithful unto death."

Attended Church

The Lakefield Branch of the I. O. O.F. attended the Methodist Church in a body on Sunday evening. Maj. (Rev.) H. A. Frost preached a telling sermon on "Friendship," in its meaning toward ourselves and our fellowmen. The choir rendered splendid music.

Returning Home

Miss Kennedy received a telegram on Saturday from her brother, Capt. M. P. Kennedy, who had just landed at Halifax, from the "Olympic."

Capt. Kennedy of the Canadian Field Artillery was the first man to leave Lakefield at the outbreak of war. Attached to the Heavy Artillery he was sent with his battery to the Pacific Coast in case of German naval bombardment, a real danger in August, 1914. When danger was over the battery returned to Cobourg and disbanded. In May, 1916, Capt. Kennedy again left Lakefield and proceeded directly overseas. Last year he won the Military Cross for distinguished service with his battery in France.

PRESENTATION TO RETIRING OFFICER

At the opening of the Sunday School exercises at George Street Methodist Church Sunday afternoon, the following illuminated address was presented by Mr. J. Maynecord, secretary, on behalf of the Sunday School, to Mr. C. C. Parsons, superintendent of the School for the past two years:

Peterborough, May 18, 1919.

Dear Mr. Parsons:—

The George Street Methodist Sunday School has learned with very deep regret that you are about to leave Peterborough.

You have given very valuable and highly appreciated services to this School, first as a teacher and for over two years in the important and responsible position of Superintendent. Your capable oversight of the organization of the School and direction of its work is largely responsible for the success that it has achieved, and we know that you have given much time, thought and work to advance the interests of the School and to bring it up and keep it up to the standard that it has attained.

We are pleased that you have been advanced to more important position in the large financial institution in whose service you are, and we wish to congratulate you on this recognition of your abilities and zeal in your chosen avocation. At the same time we are sorry that this promotion necessitates your removal from Peterborough, because we have learned, not only to appreciate you as an officer of the School and a worker in the Church, but to regard you as a highly esteemed friend. We also regret the coming removal from Peterborough of Mrs. Parsons, who has given valuable service to the School while in charge of the Beginners' Department.

We desire to wish you and Mrs. Parsons all success and happiness in the future, and our prayer is that the Master whom you serve so well will continue to bless you abundantly.

Signed on behalf of the School.

AMOS J. THOMAS, Pastor.
J. E. MIDDLETON,
GEO. ROBERTSON,
Associate Superintendents.
J. MAYNEORD, Secretary.

Suitable Reply

Mr. Parsons made a suitable reply expressing his regret at leaving the School.

Glass jars in the refrigerator are convenient for holding left-overs.

We have never heard of anyone who regretted changing from some other Coffee to Chase & Sanborn's "SEAL BRAND" COFFEE But we have heard of a great many who were sorry they did not change sooner.

In ½, 1 and 2 pound tins. Whole—Ground—Pulverized—also fine ground for Percolators. Never sold in bulk.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"As the only way to possess her, ultimately."

"And how many may I ask, are saying that I am in love with my client?"

"Not a soul—save, possibly, Alys to herself. She doesn't seem to have much enthusiasm for the Star of Elsinore. Provincial people are too funny for words. Maybe we New Yorkers are also provincial in our tendency to forget there is any other America. I intend to cultivate the open mind; a writer must, I think. So you see just how in earnest I am. Don't you believe you could trust me? All the world knows that a newspaper person is the safest depository on earth for a secret."

"Oh, I have the most touching confidence in your honour, and the most profound admiration for your candour, and the deepest sympathy for ambitions so natural to one afflicted with genius. I am only wondering whether if I gave you the information you seem to need you would permit Mrs. Balfame to remain in jail and stand trial for her life."

"You are not to laugh at me! Yes, I should. Because I know that she has ninety-nine chances out of a hundred to get off, and that if she were condemned you would come forward at once and tell the truth."

"And you really believe I did it?" His hands were in his pockets, and he was balancing himself on his heels. There was certainly nothing tense about his tall loose figure, but the light of the street lamp, filtered through a low branch, threw shadows on his face that made it look pallid and as darkly hollowed as the face of an elderly actress in a moving picture. To Miss Sarah Austin he looked like a guilty man engaged in the honourable art of bluffing, but her mounting irritation precluded pity.

"Yes, Mr. Rush, I do: It is to my mind the one logical explanation—"

"You mean the logical fictional—"

"I'm no writer of detective stories—"

"Just like a novel then?"

"Ah! That I admit. The great novel is a logical transcript of life. The incidents rise out of the characters react upon them, are as inevitable as the personal endowments, peculiarities and contradictions. Understand your characters, and you can't go wrong."

"You are the cleverest young woman I ever met. For that reason I feel convinced you need no such adventitious aid as confession from a murderer. You will work it out—your premises being dead right—far better by yourself. It's the contradictions you mentioned I am thinking of, both in life and character."

"You are laughing at me. It's no laughing matter!"

"By God, it isn't. But you couldn't expect me to plump out a confession like that without taking a night to think it over."

"If you don't tell me, I warn you I'll find out for myself. And then I'll give it to my newspaper. To begin with, I'll find out if you really did see any one in Brooklyn that Saturday night. I'll discover the name of everybody you know in Brooklyn."

"That's a large order. I fear the case will be over."

"I'll set the whole swarm on the case. But if you will tell me the truth, you will be quite safe."

"The cause of literature might influence me were it not that I fear to be thought a coward—by my fair blackmailer."

"Oh! How dare you? Why, I don't want your secret to use against you. I thought I explained—how dare you!"

"I humbly beg pardon. Perhaps as it is such a new and flattering variety, it deserves a new name. I suppose the legal mind becomes hopelessly automatic in its deductions—"

"Oh, good night!"

They were at the Crumley gate. Rush opened it and passed in behind her. "I think I too will call on Miss Crumley," he said. "I have been too busy to call on any one for weeks, but to-night I must take a rest, and I can imagine no rest so complete as an evening in Miss Crumley's studio. I see a light in there—let us go round and not disturb Mrs. Crumley."

CHAPTER XXVI

Miss Austin remained but a few moments in the studio. She was embarassed and angry, and Rush was not the sole object of her wrath: she anathematized herself not only for permitting her literary enthusiasm to carry her to the point of attempting coercion and running the risk of being called bad names by an expert in crime, but for speaking out impulsively in the first place and throwing her cards on the table. It had been her intention to cultivate the wretch's acquaintance and lead him on with excessive subtlety; but he had proved impervious to her maidenly hints that she would like to know him better; equally so to her boyish invitation to come over some evening and meet a number of the newspaper girls who were all fighting for his client. Fifteen minutes alone with him in the quiet streets of Elsinore at night was an opportunity that might never come again, and she had surrendered to impulse.

She was now more deeply convinced than ever that he had killed David Balfame, but although she had no intention of denouncing him even if she found her proofs in the course of persistent sleuthing, she thought it wise to "keep him guessing," as the uneasiness of mind caused by this constant pressure from without might eventually drive him to her for counsel and aid. Like all healthy young American writers of fiction, she was an incurable optimist, and as yet untempered in the least by the practical experiences of a New York reporter.

After a few moments' desultory conversation, she announced that she "must run," and as Alys opened the door, Miss Austin turned to the lawyer, who had risen and stood by the stove.

"Good night, Mr. Rush," she said sweetly. "So glad you are defending poor Mrs. Balfame, but you know I never did believe she did it, and I have good reason to hope that we shall all know the truth in about a fortnight."

Rush bowed politely, as she did not offer her hand. "You would save me much trouble and Mrs. Balfame much expense. I wish you all good luck."

Her brows met and her dark grey eyes [illegible]lack, but she swung on [illegible] marched out with her head in the air. Rush remained behind, as it was evident the two girls wanted a last myaterious word together.

Alys returned in a few moments, and with a swift step. Her face was radiant. She too held her head high, but as if she lifted her face to drink in some magic elixir of the night. This was the first time she had seen Rush since he had immersed himself in the case, and now he had come to her unasked, and as naturally as in the old days when weary with work and the sordid revelations of the courts. Her mercurial spirits, which had hung low in the scale for weeks, had gone up with a rush that filled her with a reckless unreasoning happiness. Perhaps intimacy with Mrs. Balfame had disillusioned him in little ways: Perhaps he had discovered the truth for himself and despised her for a cold-blooded liar where he might have forgiven her honest admission of the actual crime. It would be just like his exaggerated idealism. There never was any love that could not be killed by transgression of some pet prejudice, some violation of secret fastidiousness. At all events, he was here and with every appearance of spending a long evening. What did the rest matter?

He was still standing as she entered, staring at a water colour of a bit of the woods west of Elsinore. The trees were stately and old, the shadows green and shot with the gold of some stray beam of the sun dancing down through that heavy canopy with Puckish triumph. A rocky brook crossed the glade, and behind was a subtle suggestion of the uninterrupted forest, deserted and absolutely still. Rush had recognized the spot.

"My village, Rensselaerville, is on the other side," he said, turning a boyish face to Alys. "I have been fourteen again for a few moments. Last summer I only got a day off now and again to loaf in those woods. I wish I had been with you when you painted this."

She unhooked the picture and handed it to him. "Please let me give it to you. I'd like so much if you would hang it in one of your rooms,—say behind your desk,—so that when you are tired or puzzled you can wheel about and lose yourself for a moment. I am sure it wouldn't be a bad substitute for the real thing."

She spoke with a shy eagerness and an entire absence of coquetry. He put out both hands for the picture.

"I should think it wouldn't. It is just like you to think of it. Indeed I will accept it." And he remembered how many cases he had forgotten under her kindly tact, both in this cool green studio and that other room of woodland shades in the cottage. He was wondering if he had not been a conceited ass and misconstrued an increasing warmth of friendship in this fine impulsive creature, when he remembered Miss Austin's insinuations and sat down abruptly, recalled to the object of his visit.

Not Only Rock-Bottom Truck Costs —but a Safe Investment

IT'S of just as much importance for Canadian truck buyers to measure up the maker of the truck as to decide what size of truck to buy.

During the last five years an average of fifty truck makers have gone out of business each year. Less than eight per cent of the truck manufacturers in business today have been in business for over five years.

A still smaller percentage of the trucks offered in Canada are made in Canada—can give service on the spot.

The Maxwell is built in Canada. By a nationally-known institution. By an institution that has a big investment in a Canadian plant. By an institution that has an unequalled manufacturing record. By an institution that has built up a vast dealer organization in Canada from coast to coast.

Maxwell concentrates on a one-and-a-half-ton job. Output is developed on a sound manufacturing basis.

Large-scale selling makes it worthwhile for dealers to handle the Maxwell Truck—and to carry Maxwell parts. Maxwell service is fast and complete.

The Maxwell is a safe investment. And it is a better truck.

Not a mere assembled mechanism—but a scientific engineering job designed to carry economically four out of every five loads.

Delivers more work in the same time than lighter trucks, incompletely equipped.

Costs much less to buy, much less to operate, much less to maintain than trucks that can do only slightly more work.

Costs several hundred dollars less than other trucks of the same capacity. Lasts longer, depreciates less and commands a high resale price at all times.

Saving time, earning profits for farmers, manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers in every province in Canada.

Put it to work in your business.

DRUMMER DENIES MURDER OF LIEUTENANT EUROPE

BOSTON, Mass.—Herbert Wright a drummer in the 369th Regiment band, who is alleged to have fatally stabbed the band leader, Lieutenant James Reese Europe, during a concert here on Friday night, pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder. He was without funds and the Court assigned counsel to defend him.

Wrigh's counsel opposed a motion by the District Attorney to have the trial assigned for May 21st, declaring he must have time to obtain evidence from France. "This affair," he said, "was the culmination of a long series of happenings, and if we are going to give this man a fair trial, the evidence must be produced." The Court postponed a decision.

The Woman's War Work Exchange of a Chicago paper, conducted by Miss Dorothy Jefferson, reports having placed one young woman within an advertising agency as copy-writer, the agency never before having used women in its copy department.

Large doses of pills for the liver are not as efficient as small doses.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

SURROGATE UPBRAIDS SON FOR ACCUSING HIS MOTHER

NEW YORK.—"Any man who makes charges against his mother—and I don't care what they are—if I had the law-making power in my hands, he would not be allowed in this court on such an application," remarked Surrogate Cohalan when reviewing an application by Louis Becker, for the removal of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Becker, of No. 506 West 157th street, as administratrix of his father's estate.

While clearly manifesting his disapproval of the action Surrogate Cohalan acknowledged Becker was within his legal rights. He reserved decision after making further comments on the impropriety of a son attacking his mother.

The husband and father, John Becker, died February 13, 1894, leaving an estate of $100,000.

Fly Rod For Trout Fishermen.

Rods of split bamboo are produced by cementing together a number of triangular strips split from the whole cane to form each joint; the rod of six strips is the choice of most anglers. Weight for weight—and, of course, within reason, the lighter the rod, the better—split bamboo rods are stronger and have more casting power and better action than rods of any other material. Very properly considering that the choice of a fly rod is practically limited to the rod of split-bamboo, you cannot go far wrong in selecting one nine feet in length. Such a rod for the light work of our average trout streams should not weigh over five and a quarter ounces.

Any rod seriously worth consideration has snake guides, german silver reel seat and ferrules and a solid cork hand grasp.

It is very well when making your selection to try out several rods answering to the above specifications, in order to avoid, if possible, getting a rod that is either too stiff or too flexible.—Outing.

Strength in Hollowness.

The stems of bamboos, grasses, wheat and oats are hollow, although they grow to great heights in comparison to their thickness. It might naturally be supposed that to gain strength as they grew the stems ought to be solid at the base, but it is not so. Careful experiments have proved that a solid column subject to bending strains is no stronger than a hollow one. Consequently all iron shafts are made hollow, and the steel shafts which drive the screws of steamships have a hole bored down the center to reduce the weight. But this does not reduce the strength. The thickness of the branches of trees is in proportion to the weight to be borne. Horizontal branches, such as those of the cedar and elm, are much thicker than the almost vertical branches of the poplar. The average natural factor in breaking is about one in ten, exclusive of wind pressure, and engineers employ a factor of six in building with timber.

Bookplates.

No book collector should be without a bookplate, and a bookplate once inserted in a volume should never be removed. When the plate is that of a good collector it constitutes an adornment and adds a certain interest and value to the volume. I was once going through the collection of a friend and observing the absence of a bookplate I asked him why it was. He replied: "The selection of a bookplate is such a serious matter."—Atlantic.

Knitting.

Knitting is a Scotch invention of the fifteenth century. Soon after its invention a guild of stocking knitters was formed, with St. Fiacre as its patron saint. Hand knitting was supplemented by machinery as early as 1564, when William Lee invented the knitting frame.

MADE IN CANADA

TURKISH SOLDIERS.

They Are Always Prepared and Ever Willing to Fight.

The popular western conception of the Turkish army is something in the nature of a wild savage, marshaled in battalions and fired with a fanatical, homicidal mania. But nowhere in Turkey will you find such a conception realized.

The great majority of Ottoman regulars are singularly plain, unpicturesque, unpretentious soldiery. On their heads they wear either gray bashlyks wound turbanwise, or plain fezes or "kalpaks" of a yellowish brown color corresponding to their German made uniforms of rough woolen cloth. Their legs are wound in a bulky way with the same material in a Turkish conception of a puttee, and on their feet either short boots or the soft leather moccasin-like shoes of the Balkans give them a comfortable agricultural look.

Singly or in bulk, there is nothing at all smart about them, but they look exceedingly equal to the delivery of the goods. Altogether they appear as well able to fade indistinguishably into the landscape as anything human could. Many of them are Anatolians and Kurds, the ruddy Turks from the Caucasus. Others come from the Taurus mountains, back of Konia and Aleppo, swarthy Syrians and Arab types.

Any one of them will fight at the drop of a hat. He would not have to change anything. There is nothing about him to polish or to be kept clean. As he stands he sleeps and eats, drills, marches and goes into battle.—World's Work.

A SMALL WORD.

It Has Only Two Letters, Yet It Is Not Easy to Define.

To define one word in the English language one modern dictionary takes eighteen columns of small type. And this solitary word upon which the dictionary bestows such a wealth of elucidation is one that hardly anybody except a dictionary maker can define at all. The ordinary educated English speaking person's knowledge of it could be expressed in about half a single line.

This fecund word is "of." If you were asked to define it—unless you are a dictionary maker or of an allied trade—probably you would have to reply: "Of? Why, of just means of." You might add dubiously, "I always comprehend perfectly what it means when I see or hear it and can use it correctly in speech, so what do I want to define it for anyway?"

But if you were a child your actual mastery of "of" would stand you in no stead whatever. You would be set to digging out and memorizing the things the dictionary had to say about it, or the driest and least informing of them, as, for instance, that in some cases it is such a kind of preposition and in other cases some other kind and that prepositions have such and such properties when they don't have some other, every bit of which you would absolutely and mercifully forget at the first possible moment.—Exchange.

Hardly Worth Mentioning.

"As a New Orleans hotel keeper tells the tale a ninety-year-old negro man who was homeless, penniless, infirm and crippled crawled into a hayloft in a strange neighborhood to spend his last hours. The darky who owned the hay saw a suspicious figure slinking into his stable and came with his shotgun to make the intruder a prisoner. Cautiously entering the stable, he detected a rustling in the hay and, aiming his gun in the direction whence the sound came, yelled out:

"I got you! Doggone you, I got you!"

The expiring wanderer raised his head and as he gazed down the gun-barrels replied wanly:

"Ain' a great git you got!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Good Advice.

A man advertised recently in a London paper to forward on receipt of postage stamps "sound practical advice that would be applicable at any time and to all persons and conditions of life."

On receipt of the stamps he sent his numerous victims the following:

"Never give a boy a penny to hold your shadow while you climb a tree to look into the middle of next week."

Repudiated.

"I am a self made man," said Mr. Oumrox.

"Didn't your wife have something to do with your career?"

"She used to say so. But after seeing how I behaved in society she refuses to take any of the blame."—Washington Star.

Questions and Answers.

"You are thoroughly familiar with public questions, of course?"

"I know 'em all by heart," replied Senator Sorghum. "But I must admit that as time goes by I don't feel quite so certain about some of the answers."—Washington Star.

Every one is dissatisfied with his own fortune.—Cicero.

What After Safety?

Everybody from Dan to Beersheba is now thoroughly convinced that "safety first" is the proper thing. It may not always be possible to agree upon whose safety it shall be, but considered wholly in the abstract anybody cought putting anything ahead of safety in these enlightened days of peace and good will would have to dodge anathema the rest of his life.

Indeed, so amicably and universally settled is this problem of "safety first" that many are wondering if we shouldn't now stop talking about it and commence to consider what shall come after safety. Safety, although the first thing, is not the only thing. What shall we have for second? Any suggestion, however fooolish, will be welcome.—Life.

Inner Life in Constantinople.

Constantinople has a deleterious effect upon Europeans. So at least declared a "great and highly gifted lady," mentioned by Grant Duff. She had the honor of being received by the sultan. "I hope you like Constantinople?" inquired the monarch. "Yes," said she, "but I find great difficulty in leading my inner life here." The sultan started, but, recovering himself, said suavely, "Ah, no one should drink water here without having it previously boiled."—London Chronicle.

The Player "Cannot Study."

For remarkable memory it would be hard to equal a strolling player of the eighteenth century, of whom Sir William Robertson Nicoll has written. For a wager he once undertook to memorize the whole of the next day's Daily Advertiser and accomplished his task by repeating every line in the journal, news, headings, advertisements and all in perfect order and without a slip.—London Tatler.

Gentlemen Didn't Answer.

"Will the gentlemen please move up forward a little?" called out the polite conductor of the trolley car.

"I won't," growled Mr. Grouch, who hung to a strap near the door.

"Oh, I didn't ask you," said the conductor.—Buffalo News.

SICK HEADACHE and CONSTIPATION

CURED BY

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Peak Loads

IN practically all public services there are what are known as peak load hours—hours during which the demands for service are greater than at other hours of the day. A striking example of this is seen in the case of the street railway rush in the period just preceding and following the business day.

The accompanying curve shows the distribution of Long Distance business over the various hours of the day. It is evident that to make use of the service at hours other than those in which the peak loads are being carried, means that you obtain a more prompt and satisfactory service.

We suggest that where possible, you place your Long Distance Calls so as to avoid the hours of peak loads.

Soldiers' Haircut Costs Barber $25 For Charging $4.60

Magistrate Denounces Tonsorial "Artist" for Effort at "Perfumed" Looting.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The legal procedure required to make a barber itch was exemplified in toto in the Jefferson Market Court, when Arthur J. Stading, third chair in the Royal Tonsorial Emporium, at 138 West Thirty-fourth Street, was found guilty of perfumed looting and fined two weeks' tips. The complainant was Cecil Bell, an enlisted man, in the 3rd Anti-Aircraft Machine Gun Battery, who entered the Royal enclosure to have his hair trimmed and received mysterious services totalling $4.60.

According to the complainant, he first met Stading with his white coat and city ways on Monday last. The soldier had been assured by dependable associates that he needed a haircut, and was on his mark and ready set when Stading shouted "Next!" at approximately 10.45. He entered the chair, was soon enveloped in steam and bay rum, and knew nothing definite until he was propelled to attention at exact noon. He felt as clean as a pin, and became even cleaner a moment later when a bill for the $4.60 was placed in the centre of his left lifeline.

Overcoming a natural tendency to cry out, Private Bell strolled into the open and asked a marine if $4.60 was about right for a scissor frolic with steam. The marine doubted it, and finally a counsel of soldiers and workmen decided that the moment had come for the law to take its course. Bell obtained a summons, and Arthur J. Stading came to Court in civilian garb. He explained with that glib vocabulary which distinguishes the barber even through hot towels that he had given Private Bell what, in the vernacular of tonsorialism is termed, the works. Mr. Bell had received a peroxide steaming, a shave, a haircut, and an application of mange cure.

"Mange?" exclaimed the Magistrate. "Have you the mange, Mr. Bell?"

"What is the mange?" asked Private Bell. "I haven't anything that I know of. I just asked for a haircut."

"Well," said Magistrate Corrigan, "this is an outrage. If I had the proprieton here I would fine him $100. As it is I will fine you $25."

Arthur Stading stood as though deceased. There was a low gurgle, and then slowly his tip mitt sank into the buried bills. He paid in full.

Anyone Can Pull Teeth in England

Terrible Condition of Affairs Unearthed by Recent Commission.

LONDON. — A shocking condition of affairs has been called to public attention in England by a report recently made by a committee appointed a year ago to investigate the extent of the evils connected with the practice of dentistry by persons wholly unqualified to practice that profession.

There are few laws and government acts controlling the practice, but they are so lenient that almost any one, from a boilermaker to a fugitive bartender, can go out into the provinces, and with practically no training, perform surgical operations on the teeth and jaws, administering anesthetics and carrying on a general practice.

In the report it was stated that the dental profession is suffering from the odium and dishonor cast upon it by the uneducated and untrained persons who are wandering about the country breaking teeth, and in some cases causing deaths through the improper use of surgical instruments or narcotics.

Quacks Operate in Pairs.

Under the present condition of affairs the travelling dentists, who are really nothing but quacks, go about England in pairs. As a rule there is one man who has some little knowledge of teeth, while his partner acts as canvasser, working mostly among the laboring classes.

The result of the malpractice in the profession has been widespread decay in the teeth of the proletariat. The working classes in England not only have bad teeth, but they actually suffer from the diseases caused by lack of attention at the proper time.

In hundreds of cases patients suffering from an ache in one tooth have several pulled and a set of false teeth put in to replace the sound teeth that might possibly ache in the future.

Reform urged in Report.

An illuminating part of the report is contained in the following paragraphs:

"The state cannot afford to allow the health of the workers of the nation to be continually undermined by dental neglect. Steps should be taken without delay to recognize dentistry as one of general importance for preventing ill health, and every possible means should be employed for enlightening the public as to the need for conservative treatment of diseased teeth.

"The dental profession should be regarded as one of the outposts of preventive medicine and as such encouraged and assisted by the state. Treatment should be rendered available for all who need it. The present anomalous position in which an uneducated, untrained person can practice, as a dentist, performing surgical operations, is doing untold injury and casting dishonour upon the profession."

The gold medal awarded by the Reading High Schools for the best alumni essay was conferred upon Miss Isabel Strawbridge. The brother of Miss Strawbridge was killed in France and her essay was entitled, "The Spirit of 1917."

HAYNES LETS CONTRACT FOR $600,000 PLANT ADDITION

The Government's request that "big business" lead the way in national reconstruction is being met promptly by the Haynes Automobile Company, which has just let the contract for the erection of a large addition to its plant at Kokomo, Indiana, involving an expenditure of $600,000

The funds to meet this expenditure and to also furnish additional working capital required by the company business is being provided by an issue of $1,600,000 of one-to ten-year 7% notes, which represents the first public financing on the part of the Haynes Automobile Company. The issue has been underwritten by Counseiman & Co., Investment Bankers, Chicago, who are Managers of the Syndicate which is making public offering of these notes at this time.

The first Haynes car was designed by Elwood Haynes, President of the company, more than 25 years ago and was the first automobile successfully operated in the United States. The growth of the business to its present proportions has been fundamentally sound and the present expansion follows along most conservative lines. The decision to further increase the manufacturing facilities of the company was reached only after the most careful study and analysis of the automobile industry which analysis discloses the fact that the demand for automobiles for years to come will far exceed the combined output of all American factories.

This large demand strongly indicates that the automobile business will continue to hold its place as fourth among the most important industries of the country, both from the standpoint of capital investment and value of manufactured product.

CLEANLINESS IS HEALTH

By the use of Gillett's Lye, house cleaning is made a pleasure instead of a drudgery. It softens the water and cleans thoroughly whether the dirt is visible or invisible. Destroys all bacteria and infectious germs, removes obstructions from drain pipes, closets, sinks, etc. Refrigerators are made delightfully fresh and clean by using one teaspoonful of Gillett's Lye dissolved in two gallons of water.

"GILLETT'S LYE EATS DIRT"

Made in Canada

Combing Won't Rid Hair Of Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this to-night, and by morning most it not all, of your dandruff will be gone and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

The HOME CIRCLE COLVMN

GROWING OLD.

Do not be fretful because you have come to spectacles. While glasses look premature on a young man's nose, they are an adornment to an octogenarian's face. Besides that, when your eyesight is poor you miss seeing a great many things—unpleasant things—that the younger are obliged to look at. Do not be worried because your ear is becoming dull. In that way you can escape being bored with many of the things that are said, if the gates of sound keep out much of the discord. If the hair is getting thin, it takes less time to comb it, and then it is not all the time falling down over your eyes; or if it be getting white, we think that colour is as respectable as any other—that is the colour of the snow and the blossoms and the clouds and all angelic habiliments. Do not worry because the time comes on when you must go into the next world. It is only a better room with brighter pictures, finer society and sweeter music. Robert McCheyne and John Know and Harriet Mewell, Mrs. Hemans, John Milton and Martin Luther will be good enough company for the most of us. The corn stalk standing in the field to-day will not sigh dismally when the huskers leap over the fence, and throwing their arms around the stack swing it to the ground; it is only to take the golden ear from the husk. Death for the aged Christian is only husking time, and then the load goes in from the frosts into the garner. Our congratulations to those who are nearly done with the nuisances of this world. Give your staff to your little grandson to ride horse on. You will have no need for crutches. May the clouds around the setting sun be golden and such as lead the "weather wise" to prophesy a clear morning.

MOURNING FOR THE DEAD.

There are few things in which men and women show themselves so irrational as in prolonged and consuming grief for the dead. It is not in human nature to be philosophic when the earth has closed over one we love, but to nourish agony and sorrow is nearly an abdication of reason itself. The God who orders our births, orders likewise our deaths. All must die. To die is as common and as natural as to live. Being common, universal, certain, it cannot be an evil. Those who have gone before, no matter how long their days, seem to have lived and vanished as creatures of the hour, so we should not lament at the seeming untimeliness of their taking off. It is indiscreet to assume that the death of the young is a peculiar calamity and hardship. How can we tell what they have escaped, or decide that they are not singularly fortunate? Who finds life such an unmixed blessing as to grieve long over the translation of those who are yet innocent and happy in serener spheres. It is vain and marvelling to grieve over what has happened and cannot be altered. It does no good to the dead and it injures the living. It is also mutiny against the Presiding Judge of all. To honour the dead aright is to cherish fondly the memory of good dispositions and deeds, and make that memory a guide for our own spiritual attainments. This is better than marble slabs, glowing memorials or devouring pangs of fruitless woe. The ancient world never clothed death with the terrors which came in with the church and the middle ages. Who grieves forever has no faith in a reunion. Such teare silently proclaim the fear of annihilation, the despair that forgets God.

BE PROMPT.

No man can expect to succeed who is not prompt in meeting every emergency. If you make a promise be prompt to fulfill it. Don't make a promise unless you can be prompt. If you agree to meet a person at a certain time, be promptly on hand. Don't run away from a debt. Be prompt to meet your creditor If but to explain your reason for being unable to meet your obligation. Promptness is the keynote to establishing confidence. Be prompt in all things. That established, a man has a fair start toward final success.

If we will only look around us we will see there is not a person we meet but there is something lovable about — a smile, a motion, a feature, voice, walk, act. All have some good trait. If they have a sweet voice, tell them you think so, and it will make them happier and gain you a friend. If they have some feature you admire, or act or motion, tell them and they will like you far better. Do you know that is the true way of gaining friends—tell them their good traits and leave the bad for them to find out? If we hear a singer and love the voice, tell her, and every song will be sweeter because of a loved one. If anyone has a pretty feature, tell her.

A gentlewoman never fails in the small, sweet courtesies. Instinctively she respects the feelings of others and having the golden rule by heart, it is from her heart that all lovely love compelling graces flow. In her tongue she has the ready tact which takes advantage of every opportunity to render the lives of others happier.

"And every morning with good-day, Makes each day good,"

Her winning smile and gentle ministrations, her soft voice and unfailing sympathy, insure her always a ready welcome.

Nothing is better than a good wife and nothing is worse than a bad one.

GIRL'S STORY AIDS STEPFATHER TO GET DIVORCE FROM HER MOTHER

Mrs. Schmutz' Relations With Real Estate Operator Bared to Support Dentist.

NEW YORK.—Undismayed by the presence of her mother, whose widened eyes and pained expression plainly reflected the emotion she was unable to repress, Miss Aline Windsor, nineteen years old, formerly a student at Wadleigh High School, gave testimony before Justice Ford in the Supreme Court which enabled her stepfather, Dr. Louis R. Schmutz, dentist, of No. 47 West Forty-second street, to win his action for divorce.

So affected by the attitude of her daughter was Mrs. Mabel Wilbur Windsor Schmutz that she tearfully instructed her counsel to abandon the defence she intended presenting. Her eyes welled with tears and her body shook with repressed sobs while her own child calmly and dispassionately said she favoured her stepfather's demand for the severance of the matrimonial bonds.

Looking directly at her mother, Miss Windsor testified of Mrs. Schmutz's relations with J. Arthur Belden, a wealthy real estate operator, in his apartments here and in bungalows at Avon and Belmar, N.J.

Scenes at the breakfast table, with Mrs. Schmutz and the real estate man wearing but pajamas and kimonas, were described by the girl, who said her mother frequently acted as nurse to the realty operator. She told of efficacious love taps her mother used in bringing an end to disputes with Mr. Belden.

The girl was asked to enlighten counsel on her definition of "love taps," but Justice Ford interposed:—"Don't you know what love taps are?" addressing J. A. Bolles, the attorney.

"I may, but I want this pretty witness to tell us what she considers are love taps—they are different at different ages," rejoined the lawyer.

"Everybody knows what they mean and, furthermore, every love tap has a meaning of its own."

Miss Windsor explained the idea was 'that love taps were used in settling quarrels between lovers. When bestowed by her mother, she said, they never caused serious injury to Mr. Belden.

Amazed by Miss Windsor's testimony, the mother's lawyer asked the girl if she favored her stepfather getting a divorce. Only for a moment did the witness hesitate. Then she replied:—"I don't know. I imagine they both want a divorce. However, I think the Doctor is right and I want him to win."

Mrs. Schmutz then turned to her lawyer and instructed him to discontinue the defence. Miss Windsor stepped from the stand at the close of her testimony and joined her stepfather, with whom she arrived in court. Almost immediately Justice Ford granted the decree.

GEORGE STREET CHOIR ENTERTAINED

Gathering Made Occasion of Presentation to C. C. Parsons, Who Is Leaving the City

In the several years that the Renwicks have been in Peterborough they have achieved an enviable reputation for their hospitality. And to say that they lived up to this reputation in their entertainment of the George Street choir last Friday evening, is putting it mildly. "The house is yours for the evening," said Mrs. Renwick when we arrived. And as will be imagined such spacious hospitality brought a hearty response from the choir members. There was nothing formal to be gone through. Everyone could do what they wanted to, so the evening went with a rush. Music and games were rife and all went merry as a marriage bell. Spontaneity perhaps best describes the whole entertainment. Personally we had a "whale of a time."

Presentation to C. C. Parsons

"Joy and woe are woven fine
A garment for the soul divine."

The gladness of the evening had in it a tinge of sadness—a sort of a smile-with-a-tear-in-it affair, for it was the choir's official farewell to Charles Parsons, who leaves shortly to take up his new position as manager of the Whitby branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Charlie has had a close connection with George Street Church, both as superintendent of the Sunday School and as one of the most valued members of the choir. He is a worker and has always been prominent in anything that might be undertaken, from a corn roast to a concert.

And so in order to make the occasion still more painful for Charles and as a token of their appreciation, the choir took advantage of the opportunity to present him with twin thermos bottles in a leather case—just the thing for a picnic on the beach at Whitby. A more fitting gift could scarcely have been thought of, though we do say it as shouldn't, for Baby Parsons was the only member of the family who was already the possessor of a thermos bottle. The gift should therefore tend to keep peace in the family. An address read by Miss McKay accompanied the gift.

Despite the unexpectedness of the presentation, Mr. Parsons replied very effectively to the address and expressed something of the pleasure he had had in his associations with the church and the choir.

The air of sadness that always accompanies farewells was relieved to some extent by the advent of the delectable refreshments which, served at the lavish hand of Mrs. Renwick, were by no means a small part of the evening's entertainment. And it was with reluctance that we put up our umbrellas and fared forth into the night, for it was raining.—Com.

"See What I Brought You This Time, Mary"

"WHAT is it?"

"Something to make you well."

"I only hope that it will for I have had a miserable week of it."

"In what way?"

"Oh, the same old headaches and sleeplessness. I do not think I ever suffered so much, for, besides the headaches, I had sciatica pains in the limbs."

"Well, I got talking to a man on the train. We noticed a sign on a billboard about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and he began to tell me his experience with this medicine.

"His wife was just like you have been and suffered terribly from nervous headaches. She had tried so many treatments that she had become very much discouraged."

"How long had she been that way?"

"Oh, for some years, but she was completely restored after using the Nerve Food for about two months."

"That seems quite a while."

"Yes, but you must remember how long she had been run down and that it takes time to restore wornout nerve cells. He said they bought half a dozen boxes at first and before they were all used she had so improved that they felt sure they were on the right track.

"He told me about other similar cases and said that he used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food himself after he had had the 'flu' and it soon put him on his feet."

"Well, Jim, if this only cures me it will be the best present you ever brought me."

"It seems to me that it is worth trying, so I called at a drug store and bought half a dozen boxes."

"I am glad you did and I shall certainly give it a chance to help me."

In order to be sure of getting the genuine Dr. Chase's Nerve Food it is only necessary to see the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, on the box you buy. 50c a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Queen Slumming Much Disgusted

Went Incognito and Saw the Real Slums for the First Time.

LONDON. — Stirred by her personal discoveries in "slumland," Queen Mary has taken the unprecedented step of summoning the leading British housing and health authorities to discuss and draw up plans for immediate betterment of living conditions of the workers.

King George made a speech of welcome to the delegates, who numbered about a hundred, and also evinced the liveliest interest in the proceedings, but it is known the Queen's desire for first hand information for all matters concerning the nation's homes was responsible for this housing "Durbar" as the press calls it.

Queen Mary recently paid a series of surprise visits to the east side slum area and was shocked at what she saw. Hitherto, carefully worked managed stage visits to the homes of the workers had provided nice clean cottages belonging to the better class workers, and energetic officials had seen that everything was in order for the Royal visit.

"Very nice and clean," the Queen was always able to say on departing.

"But her unofficial visits showed the other side of the picture.

"Terrible, terrible," she exclaimed, aghast at the squalor and unsanitary conditions she found everywhere. Then: "Why wasn't I told of this before?"

The court officials had nothing to say. So Queen Mary turned to a man who would know—Colonel W. J. Lewis, mayor of the East Side District of Bethnal Green.

"I am afraid that I have always stuck to the highways too much," she said. "I want you to show me the byways."

Lewis did, and afterwards he said: "The Queen was disgusted." Overcrowding was the chief evil. One house that the Queen visited contained a mother and seven children in two small rooms. They all slept in the upstairs room for fear of mice. The Queen assured the woman that she was also afraid of mice.

As she is an energetic housewife herself, Queen Mary is determined to "get things moving." There will be no prosaic official reports, destined for pigeonholing. Real progress is assured and the Queen is delighted to find a subject so thoroughly womanly in which she can interest herself.

AMERICANS IN ALBERTA.

Population Has Influence Upon Trade Sentiment.

According to official figures, the total number of Americans that have taken up residence in the Province of Alberta since 1905, including five months of the fiscal year 1918-19, reaches 276,093. In 1905 the Province of Alberta was organized, and statistical information has been kept since that date of the immigration into the three provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta. Saskatchewan ranks second, with 236,320 immigrants; and Manitoba third, with only 78,789. The largest immigration into Alberta from the United States came in 1909-10, numbered 5,613. The total population of Alberta in 1916 was given officially as 496,525.

The British immigration during the thirteen years since the province was organized, was 73,082, and other than British 40,283, making a total of 113,364, as compared with 275,093 immigrants of American nationality. The predominance of the American immigrant over all other nationalities is nearly 70 per cent. Assuming that the proportion of immigrants from the United States residing in Alberta, prior to the organization of the province, was about the same as is now existing, the total American population in Alberta today is probably 325,000 out of the entire 496,525 population, or about 65 per cent. Of course, hundreds of Americans have taken up Government land and have become naturalized, and many hundreds of immigrants have left the United States before they have completed their naturalization there. But the predominance of Americans in Alberta is very marked and this predominance has a directing influence upon trade with the United States.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Mocking Bird Girl

By F. A. MITCHEL

One afternoon in April while on a visit to Washington I was sitting on a bench in one of the parks. The leaves were half blown, and among them birds were twittering. One little songster in a tree above my head was now and again giving two melodious notes, the first higher than the second. Then suddenly just behind me these notes were repeated by a human voice, followed by a girl's laugh. I cannot say which was the more musical, the imitation of the bird's piping or the laugh. I turned and saw three girls, all with their backs toward me, moving away.

Cupid has many arrows in his quiver, but there is one, called fancy, that he uses more than all the others. At any rate he had let drive at me with such a arrow and pierced my heart. I had been caught by the trifling incident that I have mentioned and was enamored of the girl who had mocked a bird and laughed. I fancied her the embodiment of feminine mischief; her smile between dimples was doubtless expressive of that melodious laugh and her eyes laughed as well as her lips and her voice.

Had I been a trifle less fanciful and more practical I would have arisen and hurried after the girls to get a view of the one who had bewitched me. But by the time I became aroused to the situation it was too late. I went after them, but the park was full of people, and they were lost in the crowd.

A few evenings later I was attending a reception at the White House. I was standing near the opening to the conservatory with a married lady to whom I was indebted for invitations. Suddenly from within the conservatory I heard the musical laugh that had charmed me. But unfortunately high growing plants were between me and the person who laughed, and I could not see her.

I would have given all I possessed if I could have left my companion and hurried around what screened the girl I longed to see. But no. Convention ruly held me. To leave a woman standing alone at a function would be unpardonable. And what excuse could I make for such an act? Could I say: "Madame, pardon me. There is a mocking bird girl behind those palms with whom I am enthralled. I must leave you to go to her?" Such a course would be to commit social suicide, for I have observed that of all the women in society the most sensitive to the attention shown them are those who have husbands. I remained at my post, but heaven knows what it cost me to do so. Later I would have tried to find her, but how could I do so never having seen her face?

The next time I heard my mocking bird laugh I was at the capitol, up in a gallery under the dome. Directly below me walked a man, a woman and a girl. I could see the tops of their heads and shoulders, but nothing more. Then up came the laugh. It was the same I had heard twice before. I would know it among a thousand.

I was tempted to jump down fifty or a hundred feet and land before my charmer. Instead, I turned and ran down the stairs so fast that I fell and when I tried to rise found it impossible to do so. I had broken my leg.

I cursed my fate for many reasons, but the principal one was that I must give up hope of ever finding my charmer—that is, if she was a stranger in Washington. If not, I would remain here as long as I lived in order to find her.

I did not get the use of my leg again till July, and then it was too hot to remain in one of the hottest cities in America. I would have done so, but I didn't believe the girl I was looking for would be there. With a heavy heart I went northward.

In October I returned to prosecute my search. I accepted all the invitations I received, hoping to meet my mocking bird girl. I was doomed to disappointment. Everywhere I went I listened and never heard a girl laugh that I did not feel a pang because it was not the one I longed to hear. I was introduced to many girls, but none of them could fill the gap in my heart.

One evening I was assigned to take a certain young lady out to dinner. She was very pretty. Her eye was liquid, her smile flanked by dimples. I passed a delightful period chatting with her, for there was between us that wireless something which tells two persons that they like each other. I parted with her under the impression that she might make me forget my laugh girl.

I met this young lady again and asked permission to call. It was granted, and during the first evening I spent at her home I made a discovery. She began to play the piano, and this set a canary bird in another room to singing.

"I once heard a girl," I remarked, "imitate a bird to perfection."

"I can do that," she said and straightway reproduced some of the canary's notes. Whether it was the expression on my face or what it was I know not, but she laughed.

I sprang toward her and took both her hands in mine.

"I've been hunting you since last April!" I exclaimed. "I heard you imitate a bird in the park and laugh. That laugh made me your slave forever."

And I spoke the realistic truth. We have been married ten years, and I have never yet had my way in a single instance.

Myths Hard to Down.

Many details of the pig myths of Ireland, Scotland and Wales reveal the fact that the ancient stories of the dragon have been preserved with remarkable completeness, even though they have been kept alive by verbal currency for a vast number of years. The efficacy of a one-eyed man as a pig-slayer in Ireland is a case in point. In the earliest version of the dragon myth the monster is killed by the "Eye of Ee"—i. e., the moon or sun. The Greeks interpreted this literally and created a being with a destructive eye, and in Ireland this belief is still potent to influence the conduct of our contemporaries.

Ever since the time when the human spirit first began to seek for an elixir of life these myths have been circulating among mankind. In the visions of the small children of Rasselmuss we are catching glimpses of the thoughts of people who lived long before the Pyramids of Egypt were dreamed of. This helps us also to understand how profoundly our actions and beliefs are influenced by the remote history of mankind.

Horses on the Simplon Pass.

The horses of the Simplon post diligence—the coach which carries mail and passengers to the villages on the Simplon pass between Italy and Switzerland—are particularly well cared for. The road to the top is a steady pull of fifteen miles over a macadamized track. The horses are driven at a fast walk. Five miles up they are watered. At the ten mile station they are fed about a peck of black bread (rye or barley) cut into mouthfuls; this makes a light lunch, sustaining but not so difficult of digestion as oats. At the top of the pass, at noon, the horses are given an hour and a half to rest and are well fed and watered. The return trip of fifteen miles is made with a brake on the wheels most of the way, so that the horses trot freely and without the strain of holding back.—Our Dumb Animals.

Valuable Books Found.

In moving Thiel college library at Greenville, Pa., to another building many rare and almost priceless books of Latin and Greek text were found. One book was printed by Zell at Cologne in 1473, a Virgil's Aeneid was printed in 1501 and one in 1508. A history of Rome, printed by Andrew Welcher in 1598 at Frankfort and a German religious work, printed in 1524, are in a good state of preservation. Among the other volumes is an iron-bound Bible.

CANADA AND TITLES.

It Is Time We Decided What We Shall Do.

What is Canada going to settle down to in the matter of titles? Probably nearly all will agree that the social and economic conditions of this country are unsuited to hereditary titles; and it is equally natural that the development of democratic feeling should make the vox populi pronounce with increasing decision against knighthoods, though they are not hereditary, especially as they are suspected of being the reward, very frequently, of wire-pulling, and of party, rather than public, services. On the other hand so long as we remain a united Empire and subjects of the King it seems a pity and an anomaly that, under no circumstances, should public service be permitted to receive titular recognition at the hands of the sovereign. Might not a wise compromise be found by distinguishing between prefixes and affixes; in stopping the former, but not the latter? Every graduate of a university is entitled to an affix of B.A. or M.A. or LL.B. as the case may be. Why then should affixes such as C.B., C.M.G., or O.B.E., be objected to? Affixes will never minister to snobbishness as prefixes may undoubtedly do; nor would they tempt in nearly the same degree to wire-pulling for the obtaining of them. No doubt it may be objected — Why should colonial subjects be thus confined to the lower stages of the orders of knighthood? But there is no reason why they should. All that is necessary is to bar the use of the prefix "Sir." Apart from this a Canadian could still be a K.C.B. or a K.C.M.G., or hold any other knighthood. Already the same thing is the case with foreign honorary members of these orders. Gen. Pershing is, we believe, a G.C.B. But he would not think of using the prefix "Sir." Apart from this, however, and even if Canadians were not permitted to accept more than the C.B. or the C.M.G., and not the K.C.B. or the K.C.M.G. would that be any ground of objection when it was done purely at the request and in accordance with the wish of this country?—The Canadian Law Times.

Ownership.

"Are you in favor of government ownership?

"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "I've been trying to make up my mind. Everything depends on whether a business is run with intelligence and care, regardless of who owns it. And I've seen some men who thought they could take on all kinds of government responsibility that I wouldn't trust to run a peanut stand."

Honor Canadians.

Public recognition of the work of Canadians who are doing the expressing is an absolutely necessary condition to success, and we have sinned against our own interests by fooding too appreciatively upon the art of another country. If we were true to our native genius it would doubtless be found in the end that national art and national prosperity are not irreconcilable.—Edmonton Journal.

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.

If you get headaches, it's your liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the your liver. If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanliness. Your liver is the most important, also the most active and neglected organ of the body. For know its function or how to relieve the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.

Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not constrict the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and wholesome, tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleanse, clarify and freshen the liver, keeping

SALES OF ARMY SUPPLIES OVERSEAS TOTAL $50,000,000

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Sales of surplus subsistence supplies held by the army overseas have totalled $50,000,000 the War Department announced, the American Relief Commission taking goods valued at $10,000,000; the Czecho-slovak Government, $16,000,000; Roumania $14,000,000, and Poland, $10,000,000. The sales include 22,000,000 pounds of bacon to the three governments named.

Announcement was also made that the department would sell by July 1 all the horses and mules now with the army in France and that negotiations were under way for the sale of oil and gasoline storage tanks and distributing stations, with the railroad tank cars and tank trucks used by the A. E. F. in France.

FOR 20 YEARS DOCTORS TRIED to cure a bad leg from which I suffered," says Miss F. Dandin, of Somerset, Man., writing to the proprietors of Zam-Buk. "The numerous remedies which I used during that time also proved ineffective. Finally I was advised to try your balm—Zam-Buk. I hadn't used it long before I could see that this remedy was quite different from anything I had before tried. It wasn't long before the inflammation began to disappear and with it the pain. The appearance of the sore changed—it became healthier looking, and then I noticed healing had commenced. I persevered with Zam-Buk and it entirely cured me. I shall never be without it again, and if everyone knew the wonderful healing power of Zam-Buk I am sure it would be in every home."

Zam-Buk is so successful in healing chronic sores because of its great refinement and its extraordinary powers of penetration. It reaches the "root" of the disease in the underlying tissues and cleanses the flesh of all germs. Zam-Buk then grows new tissue, which, replacing the old and diseased, builds itself up to the surface skin. A complete and permanent cure results.

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, ulcers, abscesses, rashes, boils, pimples, blood-poisoning, and piles, and is indispensable as a first-aid for cuts, burns, scalds, etc. All dealers 50c box.

GRAIN MARKET

The Winnipeg strike has unsettled the grain markets here, as no definite information came through today as to conditions in the western market. In the afternoon a "wire" got through from Winnipeg in some way or other, purporting to give the closing quotations for yesterday's market. According to these, Manitoba oats closed 3-8c. up on May, 5-8c. up on barley, and steady on October. July barley closed 1c. higher. In the local market, the Board of Trade's official list omitted all cash quotations on oats and barley. With the strike at Winnipeg still in force, it will be difficult to get reliable information as to that market. In the local market business is at a standstill. Corn in Chicago closed strong, with more unsettled weather in sight.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts 275 cars, with 4,378 cattle, 1,249 calves, 2,207 hogs, and 193 sheep and lambs.

There was a heavy run of over 4,300 head of cattle in yesterday, and the market consequently was slow, buyers figuring that in view of such a big run of cattle offering, prices ought to be easier. The job of getting prices down, however, was not as easy as expected, the buyer, in fact, finding it a very difficult market to work in. Trading, under the circumstances, was necessarily slow. There were some very nice loads of butcher cattle in the market, and the choicest of these sold strong and steady with last week. For the general run of butcher, the market finally settled at from 15c. to 25c. lower than last week.

Fat cows and bulls were very firm.

Calves easier, with a big run.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Hogs firm to 25c. higher for yesterday's market, but packers say it will be a quarter off to-day.

CAN HASTEN GROWTH.
Use of Hotbeds Urged to Help Gardens.

By the use of hotbeds and cold frames, plants can be grown through their earlier stages out of doors even before the growing season has arrived, says a pamphlet issued by the Dominion Horticultural Department. By the use of these, garden crops can be secured much earlier in the season than if seeding is delayed until the soil is warmed up in the open garden. Such vegetables as peppers, egg plants, melons, etc., can be so hastened in the spring as to ensure their maturing before the frost period arrives in many parts of Canada, where these crops are not usually grown. Such crops as radish, lettuce, spinach and other vegetables can be made to reach a marketable size, relatively early in the summer. While hotbeds, as the term signifies, are heated with fermenting manure, the cold frame depends upon the sun shining through glass sash to warm up the soil and start growth. The cold frame for that reason is more easily adopted although it cannot be used to so great an advantage.

WORST IS NOW FEARED

Believe Hawker Did Not Reach Steamboat Lane—No Farewell Message.

WEATHER BAD

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 21.—Study of weather maps here to-day showed the growth of the storm which partially wrecked two of the American seaplanes near the Azores, and which may have sent Hawker and his navigator, Lieut.-Commander MacKenzie Grieve, to their deaths off the Irish coast. The original limited area of depression off the Azores moved northeastward, until it covered half the Atlantic, reaching almost to the shores of Ireland.

Despite the possibility that the Sopwith expedition went to its doom in this gale, some of the aviation and wireless officials held to the theory that Hawker had fallen into the sea between Newfoundland and the trans-Atlantic steamship line, supporting their contention with the knowledge that none of the many vessels steaming across the Atlantic had reported sighting the plane or hearing its wireless.

Wireless inquiry in all parts of the North Atlantic has brought no news of Hawker. His plane has been neither seen nor heard from since it was glimpsed by the Signal Hill lookout at the harbour mouth, disappearing over the ice-strewn Artic current to the east.

Capt. Morgan's Flying Days Ended With His Accident

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., May 21.—Capt. Charles W. F. Morgan, Raynham's navigator, will not be his partner in the new trans-Atlantic flight he is planning. Morgan's physicians last night told him his flying days were over, and it might take him two or three months to recover from the injuries he suffered in the wreck of the Martinsyde on Sunday. Raynham has not a substitute for him.

Special Holiday Attraction at the Grand

There's a homey quality about "Turn to the Right" that draws an audience quite as effectively as the smell of Mr. Bascom's famous peach preserves drew the wanderers in from the highway, and the turn to the right is, accordingly, quite the natural movement for theatre-goers passing The Grand, when they reach the entrance of the Opera House, Saturday matinee and evening.

It takes one right back to "home town" and there one finds the same childhood sweetheart, and the dear old villian with the mortgage—or its equivalent—on the farm: which farm is in this case a peach orchard which furnishes the raw material for the wonderful peach preserves, through which are to be worked the salvation of the returned son and also his two light-hearted, light-fingered friends.

THE BOY SCOUTS IN PETERBORO

The members of the Boy Scout Local Council will hold their regular monthly meeting on Thursday night, May 22, so as to arrange about the Toronto visit and other business.

Word has just been received from the District Passenger Agent that no reduction can be had. The best we can get is regular round trip rates, and boys under 12 half the adult rate.

St. Alban's boys will meet Wednesday night. Every boy expected to turn out, patrol leaders at 7 p.m., troop at 7.30 sharp.

CITY HALL NEWS

The city is planting shrubs in both Victoria and Central Parks to-day. A large variety was purchased this year and already the City Fathers are speculating as to the different colours of the bloom.

Amusement Park.

Some sort of an amusement park at the end of the Jackson Park car line has been suggested as a good thing for the city. It was also suggested as a painless cure of the "short run" the street railway line which now stops at Bonaccord street and returns.

OPEN LETTER TO PETERBORO

City to Be Restrained From Using Its Sewer System to Pollute the Otonabee River.

Peterborough:—

The time has come when your city should hear from North Monaghan.

Your City Council has for many years been permitting you to pollute the waters of the Otonabee River with your sewage, contrary to the provisions of The Public Health Act.

Your City Council has either ignorantly or wilfully bee breaking the law, by permitting sewage to be dumped into the River, to the injury of everyone who uses its waters.

Your City Council has been constructing sewers for years and illegally expending your money for the purpose of dumping sewage into the River to our injury and contrary to law.

The members of your City Council must realize that they have been violating the law in permitting this unwarranted state of affairs to exist and they must be very badly advised indeed if they do not realize that they have rendered and are rendering themselves personally liable for every dollar of the many thousands of dollars expended in constructing and operating your sewage system.

The time has now come and in fact is long overdue when your City Council must cease to commit its illegal acts.

Your Councils cannot plead ignorance as an excuse because they know that an action has been pending against you for years to restrain you from doing these illegal acts and yet your City Council has, year after year, continued to wilfully violate the law, spend your money in an unlawful manner in constructing more sewers and to set at defiance, those who are injured by your unlawful acts.

Your Council cannot plead poverty as an excuse for violating the law because it is common knowledge that a suitable Hunter Street Bridge could be erected for over $100,000.00 less, than your Council proposes to expend, and in a business way, and without making its members a butt and a joke wherever Hunter Street Bridge is mentioned.

Therefore, unless your Council takes immediate steps to cease its illegal practice of polluting our River, action will be taken to restrain you from doing so, and every one of your citizens will have to go back to backwoods' methods of using cesspools and earth closets until you obey the law.

May 19, 1919. NORTH MONAGHAN.

WAR VETERANS' CONCERT

With the hall taxed to capacity, the Great War Veterans' Concert, given last evening in connection with the Six Day Drive for funds for the Club House, proved a big success and a considerable sum of money was realized. The programme was splendidly selected and each number well rendered.

The main hall of the Veterans' Club House, in which the concert was held, provided an ideal setting for the musical and elocutionary numbers, and the artists were enthusiastic in their satisfaction with conditions generally, and claim that the hall will prove a popular place for many concerts in the future.

The Programme.

The programme opened with a quartette, "Land of Mine," by Mrs. King, Mrs. Park, Mr. Park and Mr. Carlisle. In this number the splendid voices of the four artists were perfectly blended. To an enthusiastic encore the quartette responded with "The Skippers of St. Ives."

In a vocal solo, "Recessional," Mr. Herbert Rush made a decided impression upon the audience, who would brook no denial to their encore. He responded with "For you Alone."

In the numbers by Miss Muriel Harvey and Miss Margaret Ingall, the young ladies demonstrated their marked ability as elocutionists. Miss Ida Sanderson's competent technique and high interpretative ability was pronounced in her piano solo "Polonaise Militaire in A Major." A vocal duet, "The Moon has raised her Lamp Above," by Mr. Park and Mr. Carlisle, was enthusiastically received by the large audience, and as an encore "Watchman, What of the Night?" was rendered with splendid effect.

Mrs. George King delighted the audience in her solo, "The Little Brown Owl," and her encore, "A Mammy Song."

Second Part.

In the second part of the programme a violin solo by Miss Dora Logan was received with demonstrative applause. Mrs. Maurice Park was heard to splendid advantage in "Judith," a heavy number admirably suited to her beautiful voice.

Bandmaster Hughes, scored a big success with "The Sunshine of your Smile," and an encore of "Perfect Day."

A feature of the evening was the solo by Peterboro's two most prominent soloists, Mrs. King, first soprano, and Mrs. Park, second soprano, "Hear me Norma," with an encore of "Oh, Wert Thou in the Cauld Blast." The combination of the two voices was a selection out of the ordinary and proved a marked success. Each word was clearly enunciated and each singer lost no opportunity of bringing out the points in the selection.

The concluding number by the quartette, Mrs. King, Mrs. Park, Mr. Park and Mr. Carlisle, was splendidly rendered.

The accompaniments by Miss Ida Sanderson and Mr. King were played with that telling sympathetic touch appreciated so by the artists performing.

Big Boxing Bouts at Armouries To-morrow Night

The boxing bouts under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association in the Armouries to-morrow night (Thursday) promise to be the most interesting programme of the kind seen here in a long time, and there will undoubtedly be a big crowd out.

The feature bout is, of course, the clash between Red Gallagher and Charlie Christie, of Toronto. Gallagher is one of the most promising boxers in Toronto, and a prime drawing card whenever he goes into the ring. He is a slashing two-handed fighter, who always gives the crowd their money's worth. In Christie he has a worthy opponent, and the pair should provide the liveliest mill that has been staged here in many years.

Provincial Secretary W. E. Turley of the G. W. V. A., who is a famous boxing authority, will be master of ceremonies.

In addition to the main bout, there will be several fast preliminaries—one between two Toronto boxers and others between local boxers. The entries include in addition to Gallagher and Christie, the following: Anthony, Lilly, Dugan, Patterson, Barrie, Jones, Rootes, Jordan and Lavery.

Contestants are asked to meet at the G. W. V. A. Rooms George St., to-night at 8.30 o'clock, to draw for their opponents and receive their admission tickets for to-morrow night.

Mr. Turley will be referee of the bouts, and the judges will be Messrs. G. N. Graham and C. G. Graham.

FAIR AND MILDER WINNIPEG REPORT

Situation Shows Improvement Over Yesterday—Moving Towards Settlement.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, May 21. — A feeling of optimism prevails in the Government circles to-day as to the Winnipeg strike situation. Advices received indicate that matters are moving steadily forward in the direction of conferences and negotiations that will probably result in a settlement.

The Railway Department has no news on the possibility of the railway trainmen going out. On the whole the outlook is regarded as much more favorable than yesterday.

A GET-TOGETHER MEETING TO-NIGHT

Mayor Duncan has called a meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council for to-night to discuss with representatives of business and labour questions pertaining to the welfare of each, and likewise of the city as a whole. It is understood the retail merchants' section of the Board of Trade have been exchanging opinions with members of the Labourers' Union, to name one group, and that their conferences have reached the stage at which they requested the Mayor to take the initiative in arranging for a conference, which it is hoped will lead to better understanding and actual advantage to all the parties concerned.

This meeting will follow the Bridge Committee, which will meet at 4 o'clock.

REFUSES TO SIGN TERMS

German Cabinet Authorizes a Statement—Still Writing Notes.

HUN CLAIMS

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, May 21.—"Germany declines to sign the peace terms laid before it because they spell economic destruction, political dishonour and moral degradation of the entire German nation, not only for the present but also for the still unborn generations," was the statement authorized by the Cabinet to-day through the Associated Press. That these consequences must logically follow the acceptance of the peace conditions, the American press itself has recognized itself without question," the statement continues. "Toward them Germany took the standpoint that acceptance of such conditions could not be demanded, and that the Entente was unjustified in imposing such demands."

Definite Statement.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, May 21.—The Associated Press this morning issued the following definite statement that Germany will not sign the peace terms as they were presented to her plenipotentiaries at Versailles. It is made by the German Cabinet through the Associated Press. Statements along somewhat similar lines by President Ebert, Premier Schiedemann and other Germans in high place have preceded this one. Meanwhile European despatches show that Germany's representatives are still endeavouring to secure modifications of these terms. Thus another note was sent yesterday by the German peace mission at Versailles to the secretariat of the Peace Congress. This is the tenth communication forwarded to the Allies by the Germans since they received the peace terms. Contents of the note are not as yet known.

To-day or to-morrow German representatives are expected to transmit to the Allies a comprehensive statement on Germany's attitude toward the peace terms, as a whole, specifying desire to have modified. The fifteen day time limit for them to make known their standpoint expires on Thursday. Up to yesterday at least, the prevalent opinion in Paris seemed to be that, notwithstanding all their protests, the Germans ultimately would sign the treaty.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 21.—Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace delegation, has asked an extension of time for Germany to present her reply regarding peace terms. The Count stated that further notes were being prepared and that it would be impossible to complete them by one p.m. Thursday, when the time limit is up.

Only Three Packets of Seeds Unsold

There are only three of the Government packages of seeds left. They each contain sixteen large packets and can be secured at the office of Hill, Weddell & Co., 482 Water street, for fifty cents. As the planting season is well under way it is suggested that anyone wishing to get a package should act at once.

Of this year's members there are thirty-six who have not yet sent in their option lists to indicate their selections for the spring delivery.

Confirming the truth that "delay means disappointment" it is now necessary to cancel options members one up eleven and future orders will be confined to options 12 to 27. The time for the selections of perennials has already been extended from May 1st and good stock can no longer be assured.

Those who wish to get options 22 or 24 should indicate the variety of Police Join the Strikers When Military Appeared on the Streets—Authorities Preparing for Eventualities—Few Arrests.

TRAINMEN IN SESSION

(Copyright, 1919.)

(By Main Johnson and J. J. Cowan to The Examiner.)

WHITE RIVERS, MINN., May 21.—The citizens of Winnipeg prepared yesterday to see some excitement on the streets. During the afternoon military automobiles and trucks dashed up and down loaded with great packages of suspicious appearance to the ordinary mind. Others were carrying hay bundles, while others were filled with soldiers in uniform wearing the bright red of the mounted police or the sombre khaki. They were going to the barracks with consignments from off the cars.

Hundreds of automobiles had been requisitioned yesterday and asked to report at 12.30 after being given a number with O.H.M.S. sign on each.

Nothing of an untoward nature happened up to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, but the military authorities evidently are preparing for eventualities.

The government has secured several tanks for refilling the autos pressed into the military service.

Police Strike.

The policemen walked off the streets at noon yesterday, the union having heard that the military were going to take over the authority. They had several times stated that they would go back on strike if the military interfered with the authority of the strikers.

Members of the Citizens' Committee stated to the impatient ones that everything was working fine in the midst of it all.

Another offer was received by Mayor Gray from the General Strike Committee that there was a chance to open new negotiations. President Wiesing of the Labor Council wanted a concerted report on what the strikers were willing to accept and what they were willing to give before he would take it before the Citizens' Committee. This will be done and will be ready by Friday when a great delegation will present it to Premier Norris.

All morning the engineers, firemen and trainmen of all the systems have been in session discussing their participation in the strike, and the sentiment seems favorable for a break. They were addressed by Chairman Best of the Canadian National Railways branch of the Brotherhood, who is a warm advocate of the "One Big Union." His words had a big effect and it would not be surprising if the railway men broke away from their United States affiliation and joined the new movement, despite the protests of all the older members, who would lose their standing and pensions and insurance in the International.

Few Arrests.

Chief Detective George Smith states that the city has never been as free of disorders as it is at present. Hardly an arrest has been made and the Unions are continually preaching to members not to do anything.

Railway mail clerks are not yet out but are willing to join. All running on trains voted solidly for a strike. Their decision was accepted by the strike committee, and they will walk out at a minute's notice upon call of the committee.

Ald. Robinson, Secretary of the Winnipeg Trades and Labour Council and of the Central Strike Committee, made it plain in a speech in the Board of Trade Building that the present strike is a revolutionary move which is planned to spread east and west until it reaches Halifax and Vancouver, and until industries are owned and operated by the workers.

He said: "I have said that I do not know how far this strike will go, but now I say that geographically speaking this strike will continue until it extends from Halifax to Vancouver. We have received word from all intermediate points between here and the coast that Winnipeg is the leader and that they will follow Winnipeg's example, and do as we do. We will lead and set a standard for the fight."

"Y" Boys' Entertainment In New G.W.V.A. Hall

The Y.M.C.A. boys are providing the entertainment in the new G.W.V.A. Hall to-night and a programme of the greatest interest may be looked for. Under the direction of Mr. Asa Huycke and Mr. G. H. Roper, the best features of the recent successful Y. Minstrel Show and Circus will be repeated. There will be songs choruses acrobatic stunts funny clowns and a whole host of entertaining and amusing acts that will provide a programme of more than usual merit. It is expected that the splendid new hall will be filled to the doors to-night. The proceeds are of course for the Great War Veterans building fund.

This space should be watched daily for announcements in regard to Returned Soldiers' Week activities.

BAND CONCERTS FOR SUMMER MONTHS

57th Band Will Not Out Turn Out This Season—Grant May be Diverted.

A band concert will be held in Victoria Park every Friday evening during June, July and August, and King Edward Park will be favoured with a band concert every Tuesday evening. The G.W.V.A. band and the Salvation Army organization will play alternately at these parks. The 57th Regimental Band will not dispense music in the parks this season as formerly, as they politely informed the Parks Commission last night that they "politely declined." They stated that they were prepared to give band concerts this year on the same conditions as last year. In other words the $200 slice was too small part of the grant for the Militia organization. Mayor Duncan naively suggested that the $200 grant be used to paint and repair the grand stands in King Edward and Victoria parks, and a resolution to this effect was made, to be submitted to the Property committee at their next

Ald. Turner favoured two band concerts being held every Friday night, one at Victoria Park and the other at King Edward, but the rest of the committee took the view that there should be two band concerts a week, but on different nights, because a citizen would have an opportunity to hear two band concerts a week for the same amount of money.

31C HIGH PRICE FOR LOCAL CHEESE

Peterboro Board Sold 444 Boxes at Opening Meeting This Morning.

A new high record price for cheese was set up at the Peterboro cheese board's first meeting of the season this morning, when Mr. T. Thompson of Belleville, brought the entire offering at 31c a pound.

Bidding was sharp and brisk, the seven buyers evidently having orders for local demand, and not for export, that stimulated their eagerness to obtain the Peterboro cheese.

W. S. Cook of Belleville opened the bidding at 29 1-4c, and Messrs. Gillespie, Flavelle, Kerr, Free, Morton and Thompson, drove it to their limits.

The factories boarded as follows, and while some of them have not yet reported a "make," and the season is only a few weeks old, the quantity offered this morning was comparatively large:

Selwyn	14
Villiers	28
Warsaw	30
Oakdale	45
Ormonde	70
Young's Point	35
Lang	15
North Dummer	25
Norwood	70

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Sign. Earl Jos. Downey, who died of wounds in France, May 22nd, 1917

No one knows how much we miss him,
Some may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That's within our hearts concealed.

For our hearts still cling to memories
Of one who has gone to rest.

Are those who loved him best.

[illegible]DNESDAY, MAY 21ST, 1919.

THE CITIZENS' DUTY

[illegible] disagreeable weather conditions of yesterday interfered considerably with the progress of the Great War Veterans' drive so that it behooves the citizens of Peterborough to make up for the weather handicap during the balance of the week, by giving a hearty welcome to the workers and giving liberally to the cause. Many splendid donations have already been received and the triumphal success of this campaign will be assured when people who have not yet been approached will follow the precedent established by those who have already given. Our Greek residents of Peterborough have shown a commendable spirit to their fellow citizens by subscribing a very creditable sum on the first day of the drive, their donations being on a scale that if proportionately followed by other residents would make the objective of $15,000 be easily reached during the week. The value of the G.W.V.A. to the community was admirably set forth by Provincial Secretary W. E. Tuck at the opening of the new hall on Monday night. No one who heard him will doubt that the Association has acted along the lines that have established its progress since its inception, would be a great power for good in the community, and that such an organization that should be enthusiastically supported, not only because of the great service done by Canadians in the battle against German autocracy overseas, but because of the splendid work on behalf of Canada that is being carried on at home.

The Veterans have earned the confidence of their fellow citizens in full measure. It should be the aim of every resident to see that the magnificent new quarters are entirely free from debt at the end of the week so that when the returned men take possession of their new home there shall be no mortgage hanging over the building to take away the pleasure of the occasion.

SPLENDID ORGANIZATION

The splendid gift of a camplete [illegible] certain to the Great War Veterans' Association, by the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club, is an appropriate climax to the work that the latter organization has been carrying on in support of Peterboro's soldiers from the early days of the war, and which, with the end of the conflict practically finished. The Soldiers' Wives and Mothers' Club was among the first of the local patriotic bodies to commence operations in this city. Made up as the name implies of those whose loved ones were in the fighting forces of Canada these brave-hearted women banded themselves together to see that a few comforts was sent forward to Peterboro boys overseas. Although so many of the members there received yellow telegraph forms bearing the tragic news of the death of those they held most dear, they never faltered in their task. There were husbands and the sons of others to work for, and although as the days of the war dragged on the number of black-garbed workers gathered together increased, yet they "carried on," just as the men over there carried on until the end was won. In winding up the affairs of the organization and finding a balance left on hand, it was the wish of the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club that they should provide for the welfare of the soldiers in Petersboro, and according the Red Cross fountain, a most useful addition to the canteen equipment, was agreed upon.

GOOD FOR THE NATION

It is not surprising to find that the Government has already been criticized by private members in the House of Commons and generally by people of the British Empire for its policies for the safety of the Hun leader and Commander [illegible] of the submarines who raided and destroyed [illegible] in an effort to prevent the transfer of the first American Army across the Atlantic. It is allowed by the Government that the attempt was a private one, and while the authorities [illegible] to it, will hardly subscribe to the opinion of those who regard Hunker's attempt as an exploit gallantly undertaken to win fame for the nation. Hawker undoubtedly was compelled by his anxiety that a Britisher should be the first to accomplish the feat, to start out under weather conditions that were not the most favourable. His financial prize was not in danger because the America naval flyers were not eligible for the prize of $50,000 offered for the first successful trans-Atlantic flight. As far as the money was concerned he could have waited until the atmospheric conditions were better. But there was a danger that another nation would succeed in first flying across the Atlantic. An American seaplane had reached the Azores and was preparing to start on the 900 mile journey from the islands to Portugal. And so Hawker and his equally brave navigator, jealous for the fame of the British Empire, dared everything in one thrilling attempt.

In doing so they relied entirely upon their own skill and the capabilities of their Sopwith biplane. The nation for whose sake they were undertaking their most sensational gamble with death over 2000 miles of turbulent ocean, did nothing to help them. The British people will remember Hawker and Grieve as men who gave their lives for the honour of their country.

A TEST OF UNIONISM.

Trades unionism is being put to the test in Canada today. The issue is one more grave than many near-sighted optimists realize and more serious than many of those directly concerned want to admit. It is an issue which must be faced. The solution lies in the ability of the employers and the trades unionists to stand together against the insidious menace of the social revolution, of the I.W.W., of Bolshevism. It is a bigger problem than a single stroke. It involves our whole social system.

The danger to our national well-being in the grave possibility of the success of the revolutionary socialists lies in driving capital and labour apart. The one big union idea in striking is the outward method being employed.

The crisis which Canada faces today was faced in England some weeks ago. In England it has been safely passed, for the time being, at least. We have to thank God for British labour unionism and Lloyd George. It was the sanity of British labour which prevented a world revolution, and facilitated a reasonable settlement of the issue. If Germany should break, which does not seem likely, only British labour will stand between the world and a bloody revolution.

Let us consider frankly this Bolshevistic propaganda. It is undoubtedly at the back of the trouble in Canada today. Practically, it means that instead of the present superintendents, general managers and presidents, and the rank and file of investors, we shall have the leaders of the revolution who will be in full control. In the book of instructions distributed to the branches of the I.W.W. it is set forth that all industry shall be handed over to their leaders, and that they must be obeyed implicitly. Does the average working man in Canada desire to place himself in the control of such leaders? To make the "Reds" his taskmasters? To go further and hand over his own property and savings—his very home, his wife and daughters—to these protagonists of incendiary socialism? We do not think so. And yet that is the ultimate condition towards which the present movement is fast heading.

Our safeguard in Canada today, as in the United States, lies in the sanity of Canadian labour and American labour just as it did in England in the sanity of British labour. Labour must assume the responsibility of judging between the system which has meant years of general prosperity to the industrial world, and one which promises more but guarantees nothing. The workmen are being asked to drop what they have, to grasp at an illusion.

The Financial Post believes that the problems can be worked out by representatives of capital and labour if their representative leaders can be brought together in a practical way. The situation has now assumed national proportions and the duty of the Government to act is plain. England has set the example in this connection. The crisis there when the mine workers issued their ultimatum was faced by Lloyd George with characteristic courage. He appointed a commission of competent, practical men, representing the mine owners and labour, and instructed them to bring in a fair report. Such a report was, naturally, not at first favoured by either side. Again Lloyd George courageously faced the issue. He told the mine owners, on the one hand, that they had to accept. He told the workers, on the other, that they, too, would have to accept or, not accepting, they would not only have to fight capital, but the British Government. The result was a settlement which formed the basis of agreement in other disputes and, as Lloyd George has said, British trades unionism set a beacon light for all the world to see.

So far the Government in Canada seems to have failed to see the seriousness of the situation. The appointment of the commission, which is now on a transcontinental gallop of inquiry, followed the time-worn political customs of dodging the issue in the hope that some natural solution of the difficulty might work itself out. Further than to provide a safety valve for the weird theories of socialistic quacks, this commission promises to accomplish little. It is certainly to be hoped that no effort will be made to establish the relations of capital and labour in accordance with the majority of the impractical theories which are being presented.

The British Government, with the aid of Lloyd George, successfully met the crisis in England. The Canadian Government, without a courageous leader, has evaded the issue. Premier Borden is now returning. Let us hope that, as the result of the experience he has gained while in England, he will be able to take some definite course in bringing together the accredited representative of capital and labour—the employers who are willing to concede what the workers are justly entitled to, and the real leaders of Canadian trades unionism.

To allow the opposing factions to be led by those employers who cry, "To hell with trade unions," and those socialists who lead the revolutionary chores means disaster.—Financial Post.

C.P.R. Will Build a Turntable Near the Freight Depot

Last evening the Railway committee, after viewing that portion of the city's property on the west river bank just north of the C.P.R. bridge, granted the C.P.R. railway permission to build a turn-table; the land to be leased to the railway company at a nominal rent of $5 per annum. It was also stipulated that the lease can be terminated at any time the city see fit, subject to a notice of six months. Mr. L. S. Rudder, a C.P.R. engineer from Toronto, was present in the interests of the company, and asked that the railway be given one year's notice instead of six months. He stated that the cost of the turn-table would be approximately $13,000.

CAR SHOPMEN MAY GO ON STRIKE

War Board is Served With Ultimatum —Increase in Wages is Trouble.

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, May 21.—Officers and representative delegates of the 35,000 shopmen in all the railways of Canada received telegrams last night and this morning from unions in all parts of Canada urging them to issue an ultimatum to the War Board regarding demands made for a 44 hour week and a 20 per cent increase in wages. They were asked to call the men at once in all shop of Canada if demands were not granted. An encouraging reply was sent and pressure was brought to bear on the war board which, according to Charlie Pickie secretary of the Federation, is likely to force a reply by noon to-day, as to the action of running trainmen in Western Canada. No news has been received by the delegation since Monday, when a wire said they were taking a vote as to whether or not they would join in the sympathetic strike.

Girls' Auxiliary of All Saints' Church

The Women's and Girls' Auxiliary of All Saints church met last evening and welcomed their delegates from Toronto, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Beatty and Mrs. Conolly gave splendid reports covering the work. Mrs. (Dr.) McCullough, representative of Womens' Council, also gave an interesting report. The Auxiliary has just sent substantial bale to Moose Fort, Indian school. The bale consists of an entire outfit for a native girl wh is to be educated as a Missionary. Rev. R. B. Groth also gave a short address. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

One Cause of a Bad Complexion---the Remedy

"Look at a section of skin under the microscope and you will readily understand why cosmetics generally injure the complexion," says a well known physician. "The skin, smooth as it looks to the naked eye, under the glass exhibits a lacework of tiny holes, mouths of myriads of little glands. To keep the skin healthy, these holes must be unobstructed, that the perspiration and natural oil can have free outlet. Should the glands be blocked up with irritating gritty particles, a common result of using powders and creams, nature retaliates by causing sallowness, roughness, blotches or pimples.

"As a substitute for all cosmetics I recommend ordinary mercolized wax. It not only does what the various face preparations are supposed to accomplish but its peculiar absorbent action frees the pores from the daily accumulation of impurities, also absorbing the devitalized particles of surface skin. This produces a natural, healthy, youthful complexion. One ounce of this wax, to be had at any drug store, usually suffices to rejuvenate the poorest complexion. It is put on nightly like cold cream ad washed off mornings."

Whereas, employment must be found for our returning soldiers, in addition to the large number of employees who have been engaged in the manufacture of war munitions, and

Whereas, in order to furnish the maximum employment for our workmen it is necessary to stimulate the activity of industrial enterprises of every description, and

Whereas, values of all commodities are in process of adjustment and any changes in the present fiscal policy would tend to delay the return to normal conditions, and

CYRIL MAUDE TO-MORROW NIGHT

Mr. Cyril Maude and his supporting company, under the direction of Charles Frohman, will begin, to-morrow evening at the Grand Theatre an engagement of one night only presenting C. Haddon Chambers' new comedy, "The Saving Grace," which has won great success in London and New York. Mr. Maude is no stranger to Peterboro players, and his appearance here two seasons ago in "Grumpy" established him firmly in the affection and esteem of our theatre audience. Almost as well known is Mr. Chambers, the dramatist, who has given to the stage a host of most entertaining comedies including "The Tryanny of Tears" and "Passersby". "The Saving Grace" is the latest work to come from his pen and it is a very fine product of his mature genius.

Miss Laura Hope Crews plays the delightful sympathetic role of Mrs. Corbett. Other members of the organization well known here are Miss Betty Murray, Miss Annie Hughes, Miss Charlotte Granville, Edward Douglas and Stanley Harrison.

PRESENTATION TO MR. T. HENDRY

On Monday evening many friends and members of Mark street church met at the home of Miss E. Kemp, Bethune street, and presented Mr. Hendry, the retiring Superintendent of Mark street Sunday School, with a beautiful leather rocking chair. The presentation was made by Mr. K. Troope while the following address was read by Mr. Jno. Speer.

Mr. T. Hendry,

Dear Superintendent,—It is with feelings of keenest regret that we have come to the time of your separation from our Sunday School and church. During the years you have been associated with us in the work of Christ your service has been effective in building up our school as an organization and as an integral factor of our church life. You have been exceeding faithful to its interest under circumstances that have made your service sacrificial in character. We have come to trust your judgment and have recognized the ability and earnestness of your effort in our behalf.

We desire to give expression to our appreciation of your life and to acknowledge the obligation under which your faithful services have placed us and ask you to accept this small token of our affection and esteem.

Signed on behalf of the Sunday School and congregation.

R. A. WHATTAM, Pastor.

Mr. Hendry replied in a few well chosen words thanking the donors for their kindness. Lunch was then served and evening spent by games music.

Voice of The People

Sir:—

Noticing in the Examiner that you mention that the City Council objects to a fair wage clause, might I ask if it is in favour of an unfair wage clause, or is the "strike" to be allowed to mature for the future instead of being settled now. I am most anxious for good reasons that this project get under way and must ask your pardon for butting in.

ELSIE RYAN IN "TEA FOR THREE"

Miss Elsa Ryan, known to Toronto theatregoers for her skilful interpretations of the little wistful Annie in the British recruiting play "Out There" and of Peg in the Hartley Manners comedy, returns to The Grand, Monday evening, May 26, in what she considers the best vehicle she has yet appeared in, "Tea for Three", the dramatic novelty of the year, by Roi Cooper Megrue which has been packing the Maxine Elliott Theatre, N.Y., for the past 12 months In "Tea for Three" Miss Ryan has been given a role which allows unlimited freedom for dramatic versatility, providing a remarkable range of emotion, from brilliant, scintilating comedy to something bordering on the brink of tragedy. Beneath all the sparkling wit, the apparently flippant cynicism of "Tea for Three", there is a genuinely human note, an appeal for generosity, for broadmindness. Miss Ryan presents a charming appearance in the modish effective frocks which her new role as society person, permits her to assume, in this respect varying greatly from the shabby little Irish girl and the little Cockney slavey in her nurse's apron, of her former plays. Selwyn and Company have provided artistic stage settings and a splendid supporting cast including Norman Hackett and Hayden Stevenson and the entire presetation bids fair to be one which Peterboro theatregoers will view with keen relish and satisfaction.

LETTER FROM MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P., ON THE QUESTION OF PROHIBITION

House of Commons, Ottawa,
May 15, 1919.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir:—The total prohibitionist, or, as we should call him, extinctionist, is one who regards alcohol, that is alcohol that may be drunk, as a curse to humanity and something that should be obliterated. This position includes the making of alcohol in nature by the Creator, wholly uninterfered with by the hand of man. If alcohol is made for consumption, by the Creator, then the extinctionist is one who arrays himself against the Creator, and in the last analysis, is an atheist.

I enclose the official statement of the National Council of Scientific Research, which, as you see, gives an authoritative pronouncement upon the presence of potable alcohol in nature. The vast quantity of alcohol so made is, as you will observe, not precisely to be estimated, but that it is enormous in quantity must be, of course, admitted, from the data.

As a consequence, all dealings with the question of alcohol for consumption must be, unless we are to become atheistical, upon the principle of regulation. This, I think, you will agree will harmonize with the views of many who call themselves prohibitionists but who are in reality extinctionists, and of many who are regulationists but do not call themselves prohibitionists.

It is advisable that this position should be made clear, otherwise there will result from the confusion a more or less disastrous consequence to temperance and the well-being of humanity at the next referendum to be held in Ontario.

That the Government should exercise control is admitted by all, if it were not for the fact, as they allege, that government control means the intervention of Ward politics. What we should strive for, therefore, is the extinction of this brand of politics, which is at the base of so much harm to the community.

Alcohol as a beverage is not and cannot be altogether bad, otherwise we must accuse the Creator of having created something wholly, and deliberately, for the destruction of humanity. As a matter of fact, we know that alcohol serves a most excellent purpose as a beverage when taken at proper times and in moderation. It is against immoderate use that we must set our face, and Government control ought to be able to handle that up to a certain point. When it exceeds that point, punitive measures will have to be adopted and reformatory measures. The delinquent could be placed upon a farm under Government control, and his earnings applied to the use of his family. There need be no fining of the family or other absurd note of maladministration. The question is easily solved. We all know that the bootlegger is the ally of the prohibitionists, simply because the bootlegger cannot thrive if legitimate business in alcohol is to be done. He wants prohibition even more than the prohibitionist. It would be absurd to charge the prohibitionist with the crime of the bootlegger. So it is with most things that occur in the government of humanity by itself. Surely, it is not impossible to get an upright and commanding Government that will observe the laws of God, and see that its own wholesome legislation is honestly and properly carried out.

Yours faithfully,
J. H. BURNHAM.

J. H. Burnham, Esq., M.P.,
House of Commons, Ottawa.

Dear Sir:—

In reference to your communication of the 12th inst., inquiring further as to the amount of alcohol which is made by nature, wholly uninfluenced by men, I wish again to state that it is absolutely impossible to get data. There are no data to be obtained anywhere on this subject.

All we know is that the waste sugar and carbohydrates in Nature, the amount of which waste is unknown, are all finally disposed of through yeast fermentation and bacterial decomposition. The proportionate part played by yeast in this disposal is also unknown, and to make any estimate of it would be only a wild guess. It is only where the processes are controlled or guided by man that the quantity of alcohol produced may be determined.

The first use of alcohol by man, undoubtedly, arose through the discovery that the juice of bruised fruits, and especially grapes, on standing, acquired properties which were recognized as making such juices or fluids acceptable as beverages. Later, bruised cereals were found to give similar beverages.

The fermentation in these original instances was wholly uninfluenced by man and is due to the introduction into such fluids, juices or mash, of the yeast organism, which, as I have pointed out, is universal in its distribution, and which will, therefore, always be ready to produce alcohol from carbohydrates, especially of the saccharine kinds. I am,

Yours sincerely,
(Signed) A. B. MACALLUM.

SECRETARY OF TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL ADMITS WINNIPEG, ETC.

time of Winnipeg's general strike has arrived. A citizens' committee of 200 in cooperation with Mayor Gray yesterday, took action of a substantial nature to end the trouble.

The Citizens' Committee issued a bulletin printed sheet of four pages flaying the methods of the strikers in hampering the free delivery of food and only allowing the drivers to deliver to the bakeries on a permit of the general strike committee.

The policemen left the streets at noon yesterday, indicating that they heard the military were going to take charge.

The Citizens' Paper said:

"It is to the general public of Winnipeg that we speak in stating without equivocation that this is not a strike at all in the ordinary sense of the term—it is Revolution.

"It is an attempt to override British institutions in this western country, and to supplant them with the Russian Bolsheviki system of Soviet rule.

Storm Breaking.

"Winnipeg, as a matter of plain fact is governed by a central strike committee of the Trades and Labor council. At a mass meeting in Victoria Park on Friday, Wm. Ivens, ex-preacher, pacifist during the great war, and now editor of the Socialist organ of this city, who is the self-styled dictator of Winnipeg, declared in a speech that Winnipeg was now under Soviet rule. 'The storm is about to break,' he said, 'and this time the lightning is going to strike upward and not downward.'

"The strike had then been in progress for two days. Ivens did not mean that the strike itself was the 'storm,' for that had already started. The 'storm' to which he referred was a determined attempt to dethrone British justice and British institutions and to permanently establish in their place dictatorship of Soviet—of Bolshevik.

By Permission.

"This does not mean that the trades union movement as such is a Bolshevik movement nor that all of the present strikers are Bolshevist. Hundreds, nay, thousands of the men and women now on strike honestly believe that the strike is a demonstration of sympathy for the metal trades workers, and the principles of collective bargaining. Incidentally the principle of collective bargaining never was an issue. The only issue in that respect was the method of applying the principle — whether through trades unions or through shop committees. Theatres and motion picture establishments are operating 'by permission of the strike committee,' the delivery of bread and milk has partially been resumed 'by permission of the strike committee;' water is kept at 30 lbs. pressure, 'by permission of the strike committee;' a few restaurants are open to feed the public, 'by permission of the strike committee.' How long must Winnipeg submit to such an outrage as this defiance of constituted authority—yes, of law and order?

Sick People Suffering.

"Sick people and hospitals are suffering, lack of ice and lack of milk is causing hardship and privation for even the babies, who did not start the strike. So much is this the case that the medical profession has been moved to measured protest. Yet we are told by the strike committee that 'enough workers have been left at work to take care of the sick, the children and the hospitals.' The The men's leaders prate of 'law and order,' and of leaving the police on duty to preserve 'law and order,' yet a crowd gave the volunteers at No. 9 fire station ten minutes to get out on Friday night. The same ultimatum was served upon the men in No. 12 fire hall by a crowd of a hundred men. Who talks of law and order, when all the gasoline stations were visited by representatives of the strikers and given the option of closing up or being smashed up.

"There is but one way out—the strike committee has pronounced in print for 'a fight to a finish.' The sway of a strike committee and the rule of the Bolshevik must be decisively ended. All true citizens must unite to defeat the revolution."

More Definite Action.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, May 21.—H. G. Veitch, member of the Executive committee of the Central Strike committee, announced to-day that negotiations were in progress to develop conciliatory conversations, which have been taking place, into "direct conferences," looking toward a settlement of the general strike here.

Immediate restoration of normal city water pressure was ordered by the City Council to-day. Some delivery trucks appeared on the streets this morning when business men began to make an attempt to resume delivery service. No serious disorders were reported.

(Canadian Press.)

THIEF RIVER FALLS, Minn., May 21.—Up to a late hour last night, when this despatch was filed, nothing of an untoward nature had occurred in strike-ridden Winnipeg. Indications are that the Northwest Mounted Police and military have made every preparation for handling trouble if it develops. The regular city police walked off the streets yesterday at noon when their union heard that the militia would take control. Hundreds of private automobiles have been requisitioned by the authorities and supplied with Government signs, O.H.M.S., to be used in emergency. Members of the Citizens' committee say that "everything is working fine." Strikers' committee is preparing a new offer of settlement and this will be taken up on Friday. The chief question is now whether the railway trainmen will join the strike movement, thus stopping all transportation on railways from Fort William west. It is thought that this is quite probable.

Chief Detective George Smith, of the city police, states that the city has never been so free from disorders as at present. Hardly an arrest has been made, and the unions are continually preaching to members not to do anything that would cause trouble.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

Among the notable scenes of Wm. H. Kibble's "Uncle Tom's Cabin", which is to be at the Grand Opera House, Friday, 23rd., matinee and evening is the St. Claire home, showing the tropical garden with its fragrant magnolia and orange trees, among which nestles the typical Southern plantation residence, the home of Little Eva, Legree's cotton plantation on the Red River with the cotton in full bloom; the wild rocky pass in Southern Ohio, and the ice choking Ohio River by moonlight. The transformation entitled "The Celestial City" is said to be the most magnificient tableau ever conceived. In offering this revival to our city Wm. H. Kibble not only claims that the scenic effects are superior to any ever attempted but honestly assures prospective patrons that the Company is composed of the most capable talent obtainable. Special Children's Matinee at 3 p.m.

Margaret Anglin in "Billeted," at Grand Next Tuesday

Margaret Anglin will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House, on Tuesday evening, May 27th in her delightful English comedy "Billeted", by F. Tennyson and H. Harwood. There is every indication that the capacity of theatre will be tested at the performance, not only on account of the popularity and exalted position occupied by Miss Anglin in the dramatic firmament, but also because she has in "Billeted", one of the greatest comedy successes of her career. "Billeted" is a charming play cast in the mold of high comedy touched with farce. The play is in three acts and relates the story of an attractive and engaging widow who has been notified that two army officers are to be billeted with her. The meddling sister of the village vicar discovers that she (the widow) has merely been abandoned by her husband and therefore no fit person to entertain "lonely soldiers" under the same roof. The widow, however, refuses to be so suspiciously put aside. She may have been abandoned, but she is not an abandoned woman, and she prepares to prevent a threatened scandal. To do this she fabricates and forges a telegram to herself detailing the death in Africa of her absent spouse. She has no sooner done this than she discovers that the last officer to arrive is the husband himself. Then follows a series of humorous complications in rapid succession throughout the three acts.

The central character affords Miss Anglin the best comedy role she has had in years and she has so perfectly cast and staged the comedy that the performances are nearly one hundred per cent. perfect.

A DYING WOMAN'S REQUEST DENIED

Kingstonians are Indignant Over Military Authorities' Act—Woman Dead.

KINGSTON, May 21.—Kingstonians are very much incensed at a ruling of the Militia authorities regarding the request of a dying woman, Mrs. Jessie Rosebush, that her husband, who is overseas, be allowed to come home as soon as possible that he might be with her during her last days.

A doctor's certificate was sent to Ottawa, with the recommendation that Pte. Rosebush, who was waiting to be sent home, be returned immediately. The authorities replied that the facts disclosed did not warrant an application being submitted overseas for return on compassionate grounds. They stated that medical authorities advised that the doctor's certificate relative to the condition of the wife did not indicate sufficient reason for requesting an immediate return of her husband on account of her condition.

Yesterday the woman died, leaving her husband, who is still overseas, and a son, whose eleventh birthday was yesterday. When his mother passed away he said to the doctor: "Not a very happy birthday for me, is it?"

The cause of the woman's death was heart disease, from which she had suffered for two years. It is likely that the refusal of the authorities to allow the husband to return will be taken up at Ottawa.

ARRAIGNS THE BELL TELEPHONE CO'Y

Charge Corporation With Conducting Monopoly and Clubbing Local Companies.

OTTAWA, May 21. —, Parliament spent the entire day on the Consolidated Railway Act, the bulky volume of several hundred clauses with which the House and the Senate have been struggling for two or three years.

The feature of the discussion was a short, sharp fight which occurred just before midnight over an amendment moved by Mr. T. G. Wallace, member for West York, to limit the amount the Bell Telephone Company may charge for giving local independent telephone companies in the rural districts connection with the long-distance trunk lines. The Ontario members made a determined attack on the Bell Telephone Company, which they characterized as a monopoly, and stated that it charges little local companies an initial fee of $300 for long-distance connection, and on top of that exacts a toll of 70 per cent. of the revenue earned by the little fellows on long-distance calls. Mr. Donald Sutherland of South Oxford, cited the case of the Ingersoll Telephone Company, which, he claimed, had been unjustly treated by the great corporation. He said that if Parliament permitted the Bell Company to continue charging as in the past it would encourage monopoly and strangle initiative and enterprise.

A BUSY SESSION IN POLICE COURT

Man Fined for Allowing Horse to Roam at Large.

Sandy O'Brien, East City, allowed his horse to run at large in the neighbours' gardens, and Sandy was asked, for $5.10 in Police Court this morning. He parted with the money, saying that it was only spite.

Frank Fontaine told a story in the Police Court this morning that did not fall on very credulous ears. The police allege that Frank has been on a "toot" for the last three days. He was assessed $14.10, including costs. The police then tried a pry and tried to elicit from Frank where he had obtained the liquor. This is the story:

"William Robertson 'phoned me on Sunday evening, and said he had seven bottles of whisky for me. I went out with him to the woods."

"Where is the woods?" interjected the Chief.

"In Douro, on the Warsaw Road," replied the prisoner.

"We want to see if there is any more out there," explained the Chief. "The trees must be leaking good."

The prisoner stated that it was under some brushwood in the woods.

"Hm. That must be what is keeping the deserters out there," mentioned the Chief.

"He gave me seven bottles of whisky as a gift," continued the prisoner.

The Magistrate did not appear as if he took this statement seriously.

"I hid it under a tree because I did not want to take it home. On Monday I went to Buckhorn, but had no liquor with me. Yesterday I went out to the woods and brought in my consignment."

"I'm very doubtful of this story," said the Chief.

The prisoner was remanded until to-morrow morning while the story can be investigated.

The Police Court resembled an East Side traffic court this morning, when rear lights out, speeding, cutting corners, and failing to slacken speed at corners, charges which were all pleaded guilty to, added a matter of $40 or $50 to the Police Court funds.

Charge Withdrawn.

Mr. Joseph Fontaine, a local automobile driver, pleaded not guilty to driving a car with no rear lights. Somebody rented the car and failed to keep the marker light lit. The charge was withdrawn.

SHORT-SIGHTED POLICY OF CITY BALL LEAGUE

Postponed Game Must be Played on Saturday Morning and as a Result Peterboro Central Ontario League Team Will Be Deprived of Services of Players Who Should Have Gone to Oshawa for Opening Game—Gate Money Seems to be More Important Than Success of Peterboro Team.

The action of the City Baseball League in ordering last night's postponed game between the Great War Veterans and Matthews-Blackwell teams to be played at Riverside Park on Saturday morning is a short-sighted policy that will hardly be approved by the local fans when they understand the situation.

Peterborough is represented in the Central Ontario Baseball League, composed of Oshawa, Cobourg, Port Hope, Belleville, and Lindsay, in addition to the local club. It was the intention that the Peterborough team should be chosen from the four City League teams, the selection to be made by Umpire Alex. Kay and the official scorer of the City League, who were to choose the strongest possible line-up.

The Peterborough team opens the season with a game in Oshawa on Saturday, and the team committee had practically completed their selection, the line-up chosen including several members of the Matthews-Blackwell team and the War Veterans.

Knowing these facts, the City League has shot the selected line-up to pieces by deciding to play the postponed local fixture on Saturday morning, thus robbing the Peterborough Central League team of the services of the players chosen from the two competing clubs. There was no hurry about playing off this fixture, so the conclusion must be arrived at that some of the City League officials are thinking more of the few extra dollars gate money they may obtain by a holiday game than they are of the good name of Peterborough in sporting circles or of seeing this city represented by the strongest possible team in competition with the other towns of the district.

The fans want to see games with outside teams. They want Peterborough to have the best line-up in action that can be found in the city, and the City League management will get their organisation into disfavour if they pull off many more stunts like their action of scheduling a City League game on the same day as a Central Ontario League fixture, and depriving the Peterborough team of the services of players who should be on the line-up.

As a result of this unexpected move the field of selection has been cut down from four teams to two, and as it happens several of the De Laval players who were chosen for the Central Ontario League team may not be available on Saturday. So that it begins to look as if Manager Solomon's good little Oriental team may have almost the sole honour of representing Peterborough in the opening battle of the new organisation. If this happens to be the case, the fans should thoroughly understand that the reason the some of the stars of the other teams are not on the line-up is that the lure of a holiday gate was more attractive than the desirability of sending the best team available to represent Peterborough at Oshawa.

Peterboro Team Play In Oshawa On Saturday

Peterborough's Central Ontario League team, which will be picked from the teams of the local City League, will play their first game of the season on Saturday, when they meet the fast Oshawa team in the Lakeshore town.

At a recent meeting of the executive of the local Central Ontario Club, Mr. Russell Coppinz was elected president of the organization.

It was decided that Alex. Kay, the official umpire, and the official scorer of the City League, should select the Central Ontario League team. The Peterborough team will motor to Oshawa, leaving on Saturday morning. The line-up will be announced on Friday.

The first home game will be played here a week from Saturday, when Cobourg will meet the Peterboros.

ORIENTALS AND DE LAVAL CLASH

Will Meet at Riverside Park Tomorrow Night—Last Night's Game Off.

Yesterday's downpour of rain caused a postponement of the City League game between Matthews-Blackwell and the Great War Veterans, which will be played off later in the season.

The next game in the League series will be played at Riverside Park at 6.30 o'clock to-morrow night, when the De Laval outfit will stack up against the Orientals. The fans can look forward to a good battle. De Laval have picked up a couple of new stars, who will be seen in action to-morrow night; and with Galbraith or Prest on the slab for them, will give the Solomon crowd a hard tussle for the honours.

Manager Solomon will likely use McNeeley, the good youngster who performed for Orientals last year, in the box to-morrow night.

MIKE SHEEHY WITH THE ORIENTAL TEAM

Mike Sheehy, who was with the City League champions, the Riversides, last year, has arrived home from St. Michael's College, and will be out with Manager Solomon's Orientals in their City League fixture against the De Laval team to-morrow night. He has been practising with the St. Michael's team, so is already in shape.

THE PETERBORO GOLF AND COUNTY CLUB HANDICAPS

New System Has Been Adopted for This Season's Games—A Score of Sixty-Six Established as Par.

The Handicap Committee of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club have found it necessary to adopt the Calkins system of handicapping to conform with the procedure adopted by the other Ontario Golf Clubs. A score of 66 has been established as par for the Peterborough course (18 holes).

The following handicaps indicate the strokes above par, which in the opinion of this committee are required to complete the course.

It has unfortunately been the experience of the Handicap Committee in the past that players have not turned in score cards for the guidance of the committee. It would greatly facilitate the work of the handicappers if the members would make a point of doing this in the future. Keep your scores, hand to a member of the Handicap Committee the three best and your handicap will be revised if necessary, according to above system.

CHURCH LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

For the purpose of forming a Church Baseball League a meeting of representatives from the various churches was held at the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday evening, May 20th at 7.30 p.m. Mr. Loomis, of the Y.M.C.A., conducted the meeting. Owing to an absence of many older members of the churches the election of permanent officers was deferred until a later date.

The following motions were adopted.

That the League consist, if possible, of a junior and senior series.

That the junior age limit be sixteen years.

That the senior age be unlimited.

To be eligible to play church ball one must be a member of some organization of the church he is playing for before March 1st, 1919. Also that anyone playing one game of City League baseball is ineligible to play church baseball.

That the games be played on Monday and Wednesday evening, beginning Wednesday, May 28th, at 6.30 p.m.

It is to be hoped that the Church Baseball League will receive the hearty support of church members.

The following churches propose entering the senior series: St. Paul's, All Saints', Knox, George street, St. John's, Murray street, St. James', Park street.

A short, full dress is ideal to wear while doing housework. Also it should be free at neck and wrists.

OBITUARY

MRS. (DR.) CRAWFORD

It was with deep regret that the news of the death of Mrs. (Dr.) Crawford of Marmora, was received in the city this morning.

The deceased was a daughter of the late T. A. S. Hay and Mrs. Hay, 192 McDonnel street, and had resided in Peterborough practically all her life until her marriage with Dr. Crawford about six years ago.

As a girl she made many friends which she easily retained in later years and her early demise will be greatly regretted by those friends and acquaintances in Peterborough as well as those made in her new home at Marmora.

The funeral will take place from the C.P.R. station on Friday upon the arrival of the afternoon train from the East. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE WHATLEY.

The death occurred at the Nicholls Hospital last evening at eleven o'clock, a few hours after she had been received there, of Eva Vanora Babcock, the beloved wife of Mr. George Whatley, 20 Stewart street. Although suffering from heart trouble, Mrs. Whatley had been cheerful and hopeful as usual, and her death, coming rather suddenly, was a shock to her family and friends. She was in her 36th year. Her mourning relatives are her husband and one son, Garfield, eleven, and daughter Ivah, seven years old, also her mother and two sisters, Mrs. F. C. Buott and Mrs. C. Luffman, of this city. The deceased was a devout member of the Park street Baptist church, and also of the Ladies' Aid Society, in which she was an enthusiastic and industrious worker. She was of a lovable, bright disposition that endeared her to all who knew her, and her fine qualities of optimism remained with her during her illness to which she never resigned herself. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon from her late home at 20 Stewart street to the Little Lake cemetery at 3 o'clock, following the service, conducted by Rev. Dougald Brown, which will begin at 2.30 o'clock. To Mr. Whatley and his family the sympathy of their friends will be extended in their bereavement.

DIED.

PRATTEN.— Miss Mary E. Pratten died Monday evening, May 19th. The remains will be forwarded to Nanticoke, Ontario, for interment.

CRAWFORD.— Wednesday, May 21, 1919, Helen L. Hay Crawford, beloved wife of Dr. A. H. Crawford, of Marmora, and daughter of the late T. A. S. Hay, of Peterborough.

Funeral on Friday afternoon, May 23rd, upon the arrival of the C.P.R. train from the east, direct to Little Lake cemetery.

Heart Palpitted

Seems Count Every Beat

When the heart begins to palpitate, it will beat fast for several seconds, then slow, then start to flutter, and a feeling of utter depression will come over your whole system, accompanied by weak, fainting and dizzy spells.

When the heart gets into this condition, you become weak, worn and miserable, and are unable to attend to either social, business or household duties.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief to all sufferers from any heart weakness or nerve derangements.

Mrs. Walter Greives, Apsley, Ont., writes:—"I had been run down, and doctors told me I was anaemic, but did not help me with their medicines. I could not sleep nights, my heart palpitated so, and I could count every beat.

I used to have such dizzy spells I would have to go to bed. I was not able to do any work for eight months. A cousin of mine had taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and told me what they had done for her. I took eight boxes of them, and now I am able to help every day with the work. I am so thankful to tell others what they have done for me, so that they may try this great and wonderful remedy. I hope this may prove good to some one who is suffering the way I did."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts, 1,276 cattle, 109 calves, 530 hogs, and 39 sheep and lambs.

Market was very slow. Several of the leading packers' representatives were not in the market at all yesterday, holding back probably in the expectation of heavier receipts for tomorrow. Most of yesterday's receipts, in fact, were held over for the mid-week market. Bad weather and an indifferent demand, or perhaps an unreadiness to add to Monday's heavy purchases, kept dealers and drovers alike to warmer quarters indoors.

The day's cattle transactions were practically at Monday's prices, the market holding just about steady.

There was but little doing among the small meats, lambs and calves steady with Monday.

The hog market is firm and 25 cents higher than last week, on the basis of $21.25 straight, f.o.b.

"It's Good to Know so Fine a Sugar is Canadian from the ground up."

WE know that no woman will use a Sugar for any other reason than that supplied by its intrinsic merit. We realize that the "Made in Canada" claim counts for nothing unless backed up by real quality. Thousands of Canadian women are using Dominion Crystal Sugar—and insisting that their Grocers supply it in preference to any other; solely because they have found it to be a superior product.

These women, when they learn that this Sugar that they like so well—

DOMINION CRYSTAL SUGAR

is made from Canadian Sugar Beets, are delighted to find that the Brand which gives them unfailing satisfaction—in the kitchen and on the table—is the Sugar that is "Canadian from the ground up."

You do not know how fine a Sugar can be until you have tried this brand.

Not all Dominion Crystal Sugar is made from Sugar Beets. We do import raw Cane Sugar, and we refine it in the same three refineries that produce our "Best" Sugar. But our pride is in the product we make from Canadian Sugar Beets. There is none better.

Write for our beautiful book entitled: "Sugar from Beet to Bowl." It tells the interesting story of Dominion Crystal Sugar and how we make it in our modern and splendidly-equipped refineries. The book is free—write for it.

Minister of Labour Declares There is No Surplus of Food

Production is the Only Hope—Conditions World-wide—Some Places Where Blame is to be Laid.

DUTY TO REALIZE NEED

OTTAWA—That there is a shortage of food in the world, that Canadian prices are regulated by demand abroad, that there is no surplus of food supply in Canada, that the duty of Canada is food production for the benefit of itself and the world, that the Government may present a programme to regulate the cost of living, and that industrial unrest can be traced to the cost of living, were stated by the Hon. Mr. Robertson, Minister of Labour.

Increased Production the Hope

Hon. Mr. Robertson said that there appeared to be a great deal of misunderstanding in Canada, as indicated by press comments and resolutions calling for inquiry to reduce the cost of living and charging present high prices of food to hoarding for profit. Mr. Robertson said the people of Canada should know that there is no surplus of food in Canada, and unless production is increased there was little hope for much reduction of food prices.

Little in Cold Storage

As to food in cold storage, if it were at once released, little would be done to relieve the situation. If all the butter in storage on May 1st were divided it would give each Canadian 1.7 ounces; a division of oleomargarine would give each Canadian a quarter of an ounce; a division of the cheese would give each person less than a quarter of a pound. The quantity of butter in cold storage was 868,243 pounds, oleomargarine, 313,764; cheese, 1,064,318 pounds; eggs, a little over 3,000,000, or a third of a dozen per head; pork two and a half and beef three and a half pounds per person. What portion had been sold for overseas consumption he could not say. He gave the figures to show the incorrectness of the idea that the present high price of butter, for instance, was due to there being large quantities in storage, held for the profit of the owners.

Big Famine Within Year

This was the season of egg production, when, usually, they are collected for storing; but today eggs were not forthcoming, and therefore only small stocks are being laid away. Unless production increased, there was the prospect of an egg famine within a year.

Facts About Butter

In 1918 the Canadian production of butter was short of Canadian requirements by 1,400,000 pounds; and although Canada exported 12,000,000 pounds of butter there was imported and manufactured thirteen and a half million pounds of oleomargarine. With the army returning the requirements of Canada this year would be 15,000,000 pounds of butter greater than Canadian production. If any persons believed that the high price of butter was due to the quantities placed in cold storage the sooner they awoke the better for all concerned.

He made the statement for two reasons: first, that it was proper the facts should be known; second, because it was the duty of Canadians to realize the need for greater production from the soil. Canada was an agricultural country, with thirty-seven per cent. of the people in farming. Men lacking employment in their trades, the markets for whose products had disappeared, continued to live in cities in the hope that new markets would be created, that prices would decrease, and that they could continue to work at their callings. It was but right that these men should be warned that they should not immediately expect the relief they were looking for.

Earning Purchase Less

The unrest in Canada was the natural consequence of the fact that the purchasing power of the average workman's earnings today was less than half its purchasing power four years ago. Light had to be turned on, of conditions would grow worse instead of better.

Mr. Robertson explained that the figures of the cost of living obtained by his department were carefully gathered weekly from sixty-four Canadian centres, and had been checked up with the figures obtained by the Cost of Living Commissioner.

Cost Doubled Since 1914

From 1900 to 1913, thirteen years, there had been a gradual rise of 36 per cent. in the cost of living in Canada. In 1914 it was only one per cent. higher than in 1913, but from 1914 to the present time the cost of living in Canada had doubled. These were wholesale prices.

Retail figures gave more startling results. The purchasing power of a dollar was but half its purchasing power four years ago. A brief interim report from Mr. Justice Mathers of the Royal Commission on Industrial Relations, indicated that the declining purchasing power of the dollar, the existing unemployment and the fear of unemployment were the chief contributing causes which had produced a situation which is regarded in a number of parts of Canada as serious.

Not Peculiar to Canada

Increase in the cost of living was not peculiar to Canada. In Britain in March the cost was 120 per cent. higher than in 1914; in France the living cost had increased two and a half times; in Denmark 90 per cent. and the United States over 100 per cent.

In Canada if the exportation of butter were forbidden the farmers would reduce its production. Prices

MRS. BALFAME

Alys had invited him to smoke but had not produced her box of Russian cigarettes. Miss Austin, who was determined to keep her nerves in order and her efficiency at high-water mark, did not smoke, and Rush had his prejudices. While he puffed away at his cigar and stretched his long legs out to the fire, she leaned back against a mass of pillows on the divan and congratulated herself that she had put on a charming primrose-yellow gown in honour of her Aunt Dissosway and two other guests entertained by her mother at supper. It was rhythmical in its harmony with the olives of the room and of her own rare colouring.

Rush, who had been studying his picture, looked up and smiled at the other picture on the divan. In the soft lamplight Alys' smooth dark hair looked as olive as her eyes, and there was a faint stain of pink on the ivory of her cheeks. Beneath the lace that covered her slender bust was a delicate note of ribbons and fine lawn, and the little feet in pointed bronze slippers showed through transparent stockings. More by instinct than calculated effect Alys on such occasions managed to create an aura of fastidious and dainty femininity while stopping short of invitation.

Rush scowled as his mind leaped to the substantial and sensibly clad feet of his beautiful client, and to a pile of stout, unribboned underwear that had been brought into the jail sitting-room one day when he awaited her tardy appearance. For the first time he wondered if such things really counted in human happiness—not so much, perhaps, for the artistic delight in them that a plain man like himself might be able to feel as for all that they stood: the elusive but auspicious signal.

He shook himself angrily and sat up.

"Your young friend thinks I murdered Balfame," he announced.

Alys started under this frontal attack, but smiled ironically. "I knew she had conceived some such nonsensical theory, mainly because she wanted to have it so. Sarah intends to be a novelist."

"So she did me the honour to confide. She even promised me all the immunity that lay within her jurisdiction if I would reward her with a full confession."

"Really, she is too absurd. Don't let it worry you. You have nothing to fear."

"I'm not so sure."

Alys sat up as rigidly as if armoured like Mrs. Battle. "What do you mean?" she breathed.

"Miss Austin has arrived at the conclusion that I am in love with Mrs. Balfame. She is an outsider with no data whatever to work on; it is reasonable to suppose that sooner or later our good fellow citizens will work round to the same theory."

"That is just the one theory they never will conceive or accept. They know better. That sort of thing never was in Mrs. Balfame's line. The women know that if she doesn't exactly hate men, she has a quiet but profound contempt for them. I wish you could have seen them—her particular crowd—at Mrs. Battle's the day of the arrest. Just to draw them out, I suggested that some man who was in love with her might have fired the shot. They nearly annihilated me. Mrs. Balfame, guilty of the crime of murder or not, is fairly screwed on her pedestal so far as the women are concerned. As for the men, such a theory will never occur to them for the simple reason that not one has ever been attracted by her; she's the very last woman they would expect any man to commit murder for."

Rush, wondering if these observations were dictated by venom or a mere regard for facts, shot a veiled glance at the divan; Miss Crumley's soft carefully de-Americanized voice had not sharpened, but her face was very mobile for all its reserve. She was looking almost aggressively impersonal and had sunk back against the high pillows in a limp indolent line. Facts, of course!

"It is very like a political campaign," said he. "Nobody is quite sane in this town just now, and the wildest conclusions are bound to be jumped at. It is not only embryo novelists that have romantic imaginations. Just reflect that I am Mrs. Balfame's counsel, that I am still a young man and unmarried, and that she is a beautiful woman and looks many years younger than her age. There you are."

Alys made an abrupt change of position which in one less graceful would have suggested a wriggle. However, her voice remained impersonal. "But this community, including her friends, believe that she did it. They want her to get off, but they have settled the question in their own minds and are not looking around for any one else."

"Cammack and several of the other men are, besides Balfame's old political pals—and his enemies, for that matter. Old Dutch, who is far shrewder than his son, is by no means certain of Mrs. Balfame's guilt and has put a detective on the job—against her acquittal, having no desire to see suspicion pointing at his house again. He is just the old sentimentalist to settle on me."

He saw the pink fade out of her cheeks, leaving her face like cold ivory, but she answered steadily: "You have your alibi. You went to Brooklyn that evening to keep an appointment."

"I don't mind telling you that although I went to Brooklyn that night I did not see the man I was after. I went on the spur of the moment, more because I wanted to get out of Elsinore than anything else; I didn't have time to telephone before catching the train, but when I left it in Brooklyn, I telephoned and found that he had gone to New York. I gave no name; it was a matter of no importance. Then as there was no one else I cared to talk to I took the next train back, and as my head ached and I felt as nervous as a cat—from overwork and other things—tramped for hours until I met Dr. Anna out by the marsh and she drove me in—"

"Dr. Anna?"

"Yes, and I have reason to believe she thinks I shot Balfame, but she would never denounce any one if she could help it."

"Oh, you are all wrong. She believes—like everybody else—that Mrs. Balfame did it. My Aunt Dissosway is superintendent out there and has been listening to her delirious mutterings; she's never mentioned you. I drove out there for the second time on Sunday. I haven't told Mother, as she is one of the few that believe Mrs. Balfame innocent—but when Dr. Anna is coherent at all, that is the impression my aunt gets—but—Oh—of course she's only guessing like everybody else. She couldn't know—she was not at the Houston farm—"

Rush was sitting up very straight. "Has any one been permitted to see her?"

"Of course not."

"Not that it would matter. Delirious people all have insane fancies. But I don't believe she had any such idea before she came down, and besides it is not true. Mrs. Balfame is innocent."

"Of course as her lawyer you must persuade yourself that she is."

"If I had not believed in her, I would not have taken the case, great as my desire would be to help her. I am no good at pleading against my convictions; I'd fail with the jury if I had believed her guilty, I should have got her the best counsel possible and helped him all I could."

Alys had a curious sense of physical paralysis, or of spiritual dissociation from her body, she made no attempt to decide which; but that the cause was an intense nervous excitement she was well aware. As she stared at him with dilated eyes, he was suddenly convinced that Miss Austin was right in assuming that Alys had some secret and important knowledge bearing upon the crime. Was her reticence due to the common Elsinore loyalty. If so, why her reserve with him who would have parted with his life rather than with any facts that still further would incriminate Mrs. Balfame.

Then in a flash he understood, for his keen faculties were on edge, concentrated to one point, and as sensitive as magnets. He recalled his high estimate of this girl during the weeks of their intimacy, and the instinctive doubts that had assailed him in his rooms on the night of the murder. And as he realized the fierce battle that was raging in that passionate but disciplined soul, he knew that she loved him, and he scorned himself for attributing her former tentative advances to calculation or that compound of nerves and imagination which so many women call love. She had given him her heart, and it had betrayed her. But while the knowledge gave him an unexpected thrill, he ruthlessly determined to try and to test her to the utmost.

He stood up and walked about the room for a moment, and then halted directly in front of her.

"Do you know anything?" he asked abruptly.

"About what? Do you think I suspect you?"

"No, I don't. I mean Mrs. Balfame."

"I told you we all believe she did it. We can't help ourselves."

"I don't understand the attitude of any of you women who were her friends, her intimates. You—they, rather—have let her lead this community for years, believed her to be little short of perfection. And now with one accord they accept her guilt as a matter of course."

"I think they came to with a sort of shock and realized they never had understood her at all. She had them hypnotized. I think she's one of those Occidentals with terrible latent powers for whom new laws will have to be made when they awake to consciousness of them and begin to develop them with the power and skill of the Orientals—"

"Beg pardon, but let's keep to the present."

"Well, I mean it rather excites them to be able to believe, not so much that she did it, as that she was capable of it, that while uniformly sweet and serene, she had those terrible secreted depths. She reminds one of Lucrezia Borgia or Catherine de Medici—"

"Why prisoners? You don't mean to say they take any stock in that story of the poisoned lemonade?"

And before Alys could collect her startled faculties she had stammered: "Oh, of course, not. They laugh at that. Balfame was shot—what's the use of—the water in the vial no doubt was put there to rinse it, and Dr. Anna [illegible] put it back in place. I merely mentioned the names of the first wicked women that occurred to me. Somehow Mrs. Balfame suggests that historic tribe to our friends. No doubt this crime in their midst has irritated what little imagination they have."

THE WINNIPEG SITUATION

The most serious features of the Winnipeg general strike is that the situation is being exploited by the Reds and that there is a danger that social revolution with its consequent destruction of the present system may follow. The Toronto Globe points out the menace of the situation as follows:

"Behind the metal workers and their call for a general strike in Toronto, as in Winnipeg, to obtain the recognition of the principle of collective bargaining in its widest application are many avowed social revolutionists. They are using the present dispute to couple Canadian trades unionism with Bolshevism of the most reckless sort, and up to the present time they have had amazing success. Their avowed object is not shorter hours, or better working conditions, or the recognition of trades unions, but the destruction of the present social system and the introduction of the Marxian form of political and industrial organization, under which only manual workers would have any share in the government of the country and the community, and in the ownership of the implements of industry.

The confiscation of all houses, factories, and banks, with their deposits, and of all other forms of investment of capital, would unquestionably be the first measure these revolutionists of the Marxian type would undertake were they to gain the upper hand. They did that in Russia and in Hungary, and in the portions of Bavaria and Saxony in which they held brief authority. They will do it in Canada if by the support of the trades unionists of the country they can produce the conditions of anarchy necessary to their purpose.

And the result here would be what it has been everywhere else. Food supplies would dwindle, factory output would fall, raw materials would become scarce, and brute force would oppress and hold in subjection all debarred from the rights of citizenship Not one in fifty of the native-born Canadians who constitute the bulk of population of the Dominion favors Marxian principles. They have not the remotest intention of dividing up and having all things in common. They assuredly would fight were ony one to attempt the confiscation of their homes. Yet through the obstinacy of a small group of employers and trades union leaders in Toronto Winnipeg, and other industrial centers there is danger that Communism will find its opportunity.

There should be an intimation from the employers that they are willing to discuss a settlement of the question of hours and wages with any duly appointed representatives of the Metal Workers, whether such representatives are in their own employ or not.

In an outbreak like that at Winnipeg the principal victims are neither the strikers nor their employers, but tens of thousands of people who have had no part in bringing about of the dispute and will have no part in settling it. The general strike is a measure by which the weak and the unorganized are crushed between the upper millstone of the "open shop" and the nether millstone of trades unionism. That is an almost intolerable condition for victims of industrial warfare. But less tolerable still will it be if from the struggle there shall emerge the menace of social revolution. The streets of Toronto were strewed on Saturday with a call, published in the name of the Central Executive Committee of the Communist party of Canada, for "revolutionary action." That call urged the workers to get into the streets "where the fight for liberty will be decided. It asks: "You machinists who made so many splendid machine guns, rifles, and small arms for your masters to sell, why did you neglect to provide yourselves with them before you strike?"

Against the evil-minded men who circulate such incendiary calls the whole strength of the forces of law and order should be directed at once What is the Attorney-General of Ontario doing to prevent Toronto from becoming, like Winnipeg, a center of industrial war and a breeding place of revolution?

TREATY FAVORS FRANCE.

Agreement Made in 1907 Operated Wrong Way.

While the Canadian Ministers are busily engaged in terminating the work entrusted to them as Peace Conference delegates, the economic future of Canada is occupying their attention and is being discussed at daily meetings. The successful results which are anticipated as the outcome of Canada's brilliant participation at the Lyons' Fair have awakened the interest of French industrial leaders towards Canada.

The recent visit to Paris of delegates of the Federation of British Industries, representing a membership of 17,000 firms, and the speeches delivered at a banquet presided over by M. Clementel, the French Minister of Commerce, mark the preliminaries of a direct and durable accord between the British and French business men and producers. Canada is no less interested in such co-operation, and the comments of the French press show signs on the part of France of a policy with more advantageous co-operation for the conquest of foreign markets.

Le Journal Des Debats notes that before the war Great Britain was the best client of France, and this paper insists that in the interest of both countries such good relations should not only be maintained, but extended.

Are Canadian producers satisfied with the facilities extended them through the Franco-Canadian treaty for trade with France? There seems to exist among Canadian business men here and those who participated at the Lyons Fair an impression that the Franco-Canadian treaty of 1907 was much more favorable to France than to Canada.

Statistics would appear to justify this conclusion, as from 1909 to 1914 imports into Canada from France increased $6,079,100, while exports of Canadian products to France only increased $1,290,931.

The commercial treaty between the United Kingdom on behalf of Canada and France, signed Feb. 5, 1893, went into force Oct. 1, 1895. Under the terms of this treaty France extended to Canada a minimum tariff on a limited list of Canadian products, and Canada accorded certain products of French origin a special rate of duty lower than the ordinary tariff rate. On September 19, 1907, the United Kingdom; on behalf of Canada, concluded a new commercial treaty with France for the express purpose of improving still further the commercial relations between the two countries. The new treaty includes a much larger range of goods than was covered by the treaty of 1893. The new treaty was ratified at Paris, Feb. 1, 1910, and, accordingly, went into force on that date.

The Franco-Canadian treaty of 1907 has undoubtedly had the effect of stimulating the exchange of commodities between the two countries. Prior to the war the balance of trade was largely in favor of France and the treaty of 1907 appears to have further assisted the imports of French goods into Canada without materially increasing the exports of Canada to France.

Since the outbreak of the war and under the stimulus of war orders the exports of Canada to France have largely exceeded the imports from France. During the year 1909, just prior to the coming into force of the Franco-Canadian treaty, the imports into Canada from France were valued at $8,197,429, the dutiable imports amounting to $6,978,938 and free imports to $1,218,497, while for the fiscal year 1914, just prior to the outbreak of war, imports to Canada were valued at $14,278,386, dutiable imports amounting to $11,916,089 and free imports to $2,362,446.

The exports of Canadian produce in the year 1909 amounted to $2,341,567 and in 1914 to $3,632,444.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFUL

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Composee) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three, mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and 1-2 drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again, rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on your scalp as tight as a vise. Dandruff will disappear. You will find fine downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its result.

Two Canine Heroes.

Two French war dogs, which well deserve the honor, have had their names and numbers posted up at all the French army kennels for a deed of valor. The story is that, at the time of the German offensive, the dogs' keeper stayed in the rear to the very last moment, waiting for his dogs to return with an important message. When they did come, the only way left to escape capture was by swimming the Marne, and the man could not swim, so he coupled the dogs together, and clinging on to their iron chain, was dragged across the river by them, the three escaping unhurt in spite of a rain of bullets from German rifles.

Clouds.

"The height maintained by clouds is very variable and is generally less than you might suppose," writes Jean Henri Fabre. "There are clouds that lazily trail along the ground; they are the fogs. There are others that cling to the sides of moderately high mountains, and still others that crown the summits. The region where they are commonly found is at a height varying from 500 to 1,500 meters. In some rather rare instances, they rise to nearly four leagues. Beyond that, eternal serenity reigns."

Stomach So Bad

THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE. CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW.

But for indigestion and dyspepsia, many a life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which stomach troubles cause the sufferer knows only too well and any one who has suffered knows what joy it would give to be able to eat three good meals a day and not be punished for it after.

Nearly everything that enters a weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For forty years new Burdock Blood Bitters has been making weak stomachs strong, and permanently curing severe cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that other remedies were powerless to reach.

Mr. H. L. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N. B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for two years, and sometimes was so bad I thought I would die. I tried everything I ever heard tell of, and had medicine from three doctors, but continued to grow worse. One day I read of some wonderful cures made with Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles I could eat any kind of food without any bad effects and by the time I had taken four I was in perfet health."

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn grey, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

BURIALS AT CROSS ROADS

Events That Led to the Interment of the Suicide With the Executed Criminal.

In pre-Christian days, suicides were terribly frequent, and it was generally agreed that a man might escape the burden of life in this manner, without discrediting his memory. Christianity with its higher code of morals, taught the wickedness and cowardice of self-murder, in the strongest terms. When consecrated churchyards were set apart as the resting place of the Christian dead, it was felt that those who died in deadly sin, in flagrant rebellion against their Maker, had cut themselves off from the faith, and had no right to await the resurrection with faithful Christians. They were believed to have put themselves outside of society, and to have forfeited their right to share its burial privileges. In those early days, before churches could be built, it was the rule to preach and conduct divine services at the cross-roads. Wooden and afterwards stone crosses were erected to mark the situation where services would be held. Some of these have been preserved to this day, being memorials erected to the dead, or dedications of thanksgiving. Since suicides might not be buried in the churchyard or other consecrated ground, pity suggested that the next most holy spot was the ground near the old cross, where service had once been held, or was then held. They buried the poor suicides there, because they were unwilling to relinquish hope for them. Afterward, for the sake of greater publicity, the gibbet and the gallows were set up at the crossroads, and criminals were buried beneath them after their execution. The law decreed that suicides should lie with these criminals, in order to mark the detestation in which the crime of self-murder was held. And so what was once a signal of Christian hope and charity, became a legal indignity imposed upon the dead bodies to mark an immensely serious breach of the law of the country.

Share and Share Alike.

The Russian revolution has not without its lighter side, as the following account of what happened in Petrograd will show:

A woman communist was holding forth, asserting that all grub, opium and all wealth should be divided equally. At this a man in her audience produced coins amounting to about a dollar and one-half from his pocket. "I agree with you," he remarked. "You have convinced me." Turning to a bystander he asked him to change one of the pieces for him. He obtained two notes.

Facing the lady orator, he said: "This is all the money I possess. I will halve it with you," and he held out the seventy-five cents. She had to take it, and was about to commence her oration again when her questioner continued: "No, no. How much have you in your purse? We must now divide that, since we are to share equally in our wealth." Reluctantly she produced her purse. It was opened and found to contain twenty dollars. The man pocketed ten dollars of this, thanked her for her interesting lecture and withdrew.

Latest Infant Prodigy.

The latest "infant phenomenon" hails from Philadelphia. Her name is Edith Greenberg. At the age of eight months Edith, from the confines of her cradle, mimicked the call of the quail with such conviction that the bird would hasten back. At the age of two she could distinguish all the colors of the spectrum. One month later she was discovered in the act of humming Schubert's "Serenade," and at three and one-half years she could recognize 100 popular airs. Three months later Edith's favorite composers were Tschaikowsky, Wagner, Leoncavallo, Handel, Rubinstein, Liszt, Sullivan, Puccini and Beethoven. Edith could pronounce all these names without slip.

Incident That Shows That Missionary Work is Only for Those Who Are Especially Efficient.

Bangs was sent to Bang-bang up in the Malay peninsula. This is not his name, nor is it the place, but that does not matter. The story is true. His instructions were to start a school for the Chinese and to open up mission work. The government had promised to provide the land for the school building and Bangs expected to find waiting for him a very extensive subscription list signed by wealthy Chinese to meet the expenses of building. He was instructed to present himself to the police inspector, who was supposed to be heartily backing the project. Shortly after Bangs' arrival the official was suddenly transferred for excellent reasons. Then Bangs discovered that the names of all the brothel keepers in the region were on his subscription list. They had no objections to subscribing when the inspector of police argued the cause, but they felt very differently about paying out their cash when a young missionary came to collect the money. Meanwhile Bangs found that the contract for the school building had been let to a dishonest builder. He sent out 200 notices to leading Chinese inviting them to meet and confer on the proper action to be taken. No one came. He called a meeting of his executive committee, with a similar response. Then he jumped on his bicycle, scoured the highways and byways of the jungle in the scorching sun, which registers 140 degrees and no shade, every day, to round up his committee. The last member he roused from bed and late at night called them to order. The project was revived and a new subscription list started which soon totaled $8,000. The school began temporarily in an old church with 43 pupils. At the same time preaching services in Chinese, Tamil and Malay were opened in the jail, and a Young Men's association for the Chinese, offering opportunities which appealed greatly to the wealthy men, was organized. One effective means of raising money for the young men was to make a rule that whenever a $500 gift was registered the donor might have his picture hung in the clubrooms. He finished the schoolhouse, found the money to pay the contractor, tutored some boys for the Cambridge examinations and turned the money in to pay for a Chinese preacher, put in enough time on the polyglot languages of the district to make himself understood, and, when I visited him, was on good terms with everybody in town. The missionary who cannot stand such acid tests as these need not apply for the job.—Tyler Dennett, in Asia Magazine.

Heroic Red Cross Doctors.

Few incidents will stir Americans with more justified satisfaction than the conduct of two American doctors at Ainel, an outpost of Compiegne, on the night of March 25. The patients of their hospital had been evacuated the preceding night. The French surgeons and all the nurses were gone. The Germans were within a half-dozen kilometers and advancing. Heavy artillery, set in the hospital grounds, made a terrific din. But the American ambulance sections kept on coming to Ainel Chateau. They did not know where else to go. Two Red Cross doctors, Major Tarnoway and Major Morehead, stayed on in the deserted chateau. Two canteen women volunteered from Compeigne. The two doctors kept on operating, the canteen women handing them instruments and dressings, the Red Cross truck drivers holding candles and bringing in and carrying out the wounded. A day and a night and a second day the two doctors operated. The crisis passed. The regular attendants returned, the routine was resumed.

Canada's War Trophies.

It will require a building of heroic dimensions to house the war trophies and records of the Canadian army in the great war. Dr. A. G. Doughty, public archivist, has returned from Europe after looking over the material now held in England and France. Dr. Doughty says there is a vast collection of trophies, records, pictures, photographs and historical papers awaiting shipment to Canada. Apart from any question of shipping facilities, these trophies cannot be transported yet, because of the lack of accommodation in Ottawa for such a collection. The Canadian relics and records will be among the largest and most complete of any of the fighting nations.

Biblical Names.

Biblical names are not now so common as formerly. In Nova Scotia, however, they are still prime favorites. A journalist in that province says that in Canso, Nova Scotia, are six brothers whose given names are respectively: Gurus, Elias, Shadrach, Alias, Zacharias and Cornelius. "Strange to say," the journalist adds, "some years ago three brothers were working on one of the docks wharves when a heavy thunderstorm came up and Ananias was struck by lightning!"

She is a graduate of Queen's University, and commenced her work as a Public School teacher.

Before such a permit is issued it is necessary to give satisfactory evidence that the tire is for one's own individual use and under no circumstance will be allowed to get into the hands of the Germans.

Train ferries across the channel to France have for some time been used for the transport of supplies and are now also being used regularly for passenger traffic. Authors Had Grievances.

For many years the Canadian copyright law had been antiquated and unfair. Some of the handicaps under which Canadian authors and composers worked were,—

1. Canada is the only country that does not recognize the composer's control over the reproduction of his work by phonograph records, player-piano rolls, etc.

2. Canadian writers have no control over the reproduction of their work in moving pictures. It is a current complaint that there are not enough Canadian films. There would be more of them if there were any inducements for Canadians to write.

3. The writer of a Canadian book has no control over the translation into a foreign language.

4. The writer of Canadian fiction has no control over its dramatization.

5. The Canadian dramatist has no control over the rewriting of his play as a novel.

6. The present method of registration of articles by newspapers is inadequate and inconvenient.

7. Under the British Act, the term of copyright is the life of the author plus fifty years. In Canada, it is only 28 plus 14 years.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a Glass of Salts Before Breakfast If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Village Tale

By M. QUAD

Copyright, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

It was when Uncle Ebenezer Davidson was postmaster at Hopeville that Silas Thompson and Ben Goodheart met at the postoffice one evening, and as they sat around and whittled and waited for the mail to come in Silas idly queried:

"Eben, you've been to Cat Hill a hundred times, I reckon, and jest how far do you call it from Hopeville?"

"Jest as far as it is," answered Eben after thinking for about three minutes.

"And that's ten miles?"

"Who said it was?"

"I say so. I carried the mail on that road for three long years, and I reckon I know the distance purty well. I asked you because some one said you all it only nine and a half miles."

"And that's what I'm sayin' this minit. It's nine miles and a half to an inch."

"Say, Eben, didn't you measure it with a purty short tapeline?" asked Silas as he whittled away.

"It's jest nine and a half," answered Eben in a dogged way.

"It's exactly ten."

"Not an inch over nine and a half!"

"Not an inch under ten miles!"

"Silas, are you crazy or a born fool?" asked Eben as his hair began to curl.

"I ain't a big nuff fool to call it nine miles and a half to Cat Hill!" yelled Silas in reply.

"They jawed about it half an hour longer, and they parted bad friends. In the course of two or three days Eben put up a sign reading, "Cat Hill—Nine and a Half Miles," and as soon as Silas heard of it he put up another reading, "Cat Hill—Ten Miles." That made things worse, and a half dozen families were mixed up in the quarrel. Almost every night in the year the two men met at the postoffice, and, though they wouldn't notice each other, they had their ways of hurting each other's feelings. Silas would look around to Hiram Billings and giggle and chuckle and say:

"Did you hear that Cat Hill had moved inland a half a mile, Hiram? She used to be ten miles from Hopeville, but she moved up to nine and a half to accommodate sartin smart folks."

Eben would be hurt and want to get even, and he'd look at Jabez White and say:

"Heard about that escaped lunatic, Jabez? They say he's measurin' the road from here to Cat Hill with a tow string and that it keeps him crazy because he can't make but nine and a half miles of it."

The two men never came to blows, but they never met without trying to hurt each other's feelings. If one favored anything the other opposed it, and they were contrary in politics, religion and all public improvements. One day Eben got buried in his well by a cave-in, and though Silas helped to dig him out the chance was one to say:

"Mebbe this narrow escape from death will make him turn to the truth in the future and admit it's ten miles to Cat Hill."

It wasn't four weeks after that when Silas had a saw log roll over him, and as he lay there all flattened out Eben came up and looked on him and said:

"He seems to be a goner, but if the Lord lets him live it will be that he may take half a mile off the distance to Cat Hill and save his soul from perdition."

Folks thought the dispute might wear itself out in a year or two, but it didn't. It kept right on for twenty long years and never grew cold. Eben would have gone to Indiana to live, but he didn't want to leave Silas behind to crow over him, and Silas would not go to Syracuse to run a sawmill for the same reason. At length Eben lay on his dying bed, and just the minute the doctor told him his case was hopeless he sat up and said:

"Then I want you to send for Silas Tompkins. I've got something I want to say to him before I die."

Silas didn't hang back about coming, and after he'd arrived and said he was sorry Eben said to him:

"Silas, how fur is it to Cat Hill?"

"It's jest ten miles, Eben, jest ten."

"But I'm a dyin' man."

"Yes, I know, but it's jest ten miles."

"It's only nine and a half, Silas, and you are as big a fool as you was twenty years ago!"

"Ten miles!"

"Nine and a half!"

Silas went away, and Eben died, and a year later Silas was called to go. When he realized it he said to his wife:

"Martha, don't let anybody brag you when I'm gone. It's ten miles to Cat Hill, and you stick to it if you have to live on cold taters."

"I'll do it, Silas," she answered.

In a day or two he was dead and buried, and as the small crowd met at the postoffice in the evening the talk was all about the two men and their lifelong dispute. Some said one was right, and some said the other. There was a stranger present, and by and by he pricked up his ears and asked:

"Was you folks talkin' about the distance to Cat Hill?"

"We was," says Moses Campbell, and he goes on to explain about Eben and Silas.

"Why, they were both blamed idiots!" says the stranger when he had the facts in hand. "I'm the man who opened and surveyed that road, and it's jest exactly nine and three-quarters of a mile long!"

The Proof of the Pudding

SOONER or later you will buy a pair of A. H. M. Shoes. And if you are correctly fitted with the proper shoe for your type of foot, you are likely to conclude that your shoe problem is solved. For the shoes will give you satisfaction.

That is the purpose back of these little talks about buying shoes. For unless the shoes do give you satisfaction, you are not so likely to buy A. H. M. shoes again.

And so we ask you to go to a reliable dealer, and make sure of getting the right type of shoe, and the right size and width. We ask you to look for the manufacturer's trade mark, that you may be sure of quality, and that you may be sure of getting the same make again.

We gladly send our booklet "How to Buy Shoes" to any address in Canada upon request to our head office at Montreal. There is very little in it about ourselves—but a great deal about shoes.

Britain's Greatest Precipice.

The wild [illegible] of the Kilda and nesting places that enable them to bid defiance to the spectator and to the most daring of bird climbers. There is, for example, the precipice called Conagher, the name being far and away the greatest precipice in the British Isles, the deepest perpendicular precipice. It rises from the sea level to a clear height of 1,220 feet. Consider that a man might jump from the top of Conagher into the sea without getting a scratch by the way.—London Graphic.

Moon Blunders.

The moon has innocently been the cause of much blundering on the part of authors. Willie Collins in some mysterious fashion made it rise on the important occasion in the west. Rider Haggard in "King Solomon's Mines" contrives an eclipse of the new moon for the benefit of his readers, and Coleridge ingeniously places a star between the horns of the crescent moon as she rises in the east.

Xerxes and the Hellespont.

Xerxes was furious when a storm wrecked his bridge of boats in the Hellespont from Abydos to Sestos. Not content with having the engineers decapitated, he ordered the infliction of 300 lashes upon the strait and the letting down into it of a set of fetters. Herodotus discredits the story that Xerxes also sent irons to brand the strait. But the historian does give the "most Hellenic and blasphemous terms" which the scourgers were ordered to use: "Thou bitter water, this is the penalty which our master inflicts upon thee because thou has wronged him though he has never wronged thee. King Xerxes will cross thee, whether thou wilt or not, but thou deservest not sacrifice from any man, because thou art a treacherous river of salt water."

Thrive Without Sunshine.

The doctrine that sunshine is necessarily helpful and beneficial to the health is not always true. The Turkish men and women upset this theory completely. Across every window in a Turkish home are lattices to keep out curiosity and sunlight. The Turkish women get as little sunlight outside of their homes as they do inside.

At the age of twelve the Mexican woman takes the veil and she is never seen without it. The only chance she gets to let the wind blow on her face is when she is seated in the courtyard and within the walls of her own home.

In spite of the fact that the men and women get so little exercise and fresh air they are strapping big and hardy people. Few Americans can match them in physique or powers of endurance.—St. Louis Republic.

An Artist's Impromptu Solo.

Pietro Garat, the singer and exquisite of Napoleonic France, was not merely a glass of fashion and a wonderful, self instructed singer, but an artist devoted to his art. "But in the following," asks Bernard Miall in his biography, "an example of sincerity in art or of love of attracting attention?"

Coupigny had supplied him with a "romance" to be set to music. Whenever the two met Garat replied, "I have not hit upon an idea as yet." One day Coupigny was walking down the Rue Neuve des Petits Champs. Hearing a sound of some one running up behind him, he turned. It was Garat, who seized him by the arm, dragged him up the stairs of a neighboring house and, halting on the first landing, exclaimed, "I've got it!" At once he began to sing the romance through at the top of his voice. The inhabitants of the house began to open their doors, heads were projected over the banisters. Finally they began to approach. But Garat, having finished, tore down the stairs like a monkey, dragging the bewildered poet with him. —Youth's Companion.

Canes at the National Museum.

A collection of canes made of practically every kind of suitable material and representing forty-five foreign countries, as well as twenty-one states of the Union, forms one of the most interesting exhibits at the National museum at Washington. Forty different kinds of wooden canes are on exhibition, as well as canes made of ivory, bone, horn, skin, paper, tin, wire and other substances. In this collection are many canes that are artistic and others that are merely curious in shape, as well as some made for emergency use. Among the latter are a sketching cane with drawing materials stored in the handle, a number equipped with match safes, mountain climbing canes with sharp spiked ferrules, an officer's "swagger stick" and sword and gun canes of various types. The most interesting feature of the collection perhaps is the historical elements.—Popular Mechanics.

The most suitable are those with a wide span, which couple truths related to, but far removed from each other.—Bishop.

Why Lack of Iron Keeps Women Weak, Nervous, Fretful and Run-Down

While Plenty of Red Blood Rich in Iron Helps Make Them Strong, Healthy and Beautiful.

How Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—helps Solve Problem of Supplying Iron Deficiency, Thereby Increasing the Strength and Endurance of Delicate Care-worn Women in Two Weeks Time in Many Instances.

Many a woman who ought still to be young in feeling is losing the old-time vim and energy that makes life worth living simply because her blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron. It is through iron in the red coloring matter of the blood that life-sustaining oxygen enters the body and enables the blood to change food into living tissue, muscle and brain.

In commenting upon the alarming iron deficiency in the blood of the average woman of today, Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey said:

"What women need to put roses in their cheeks and the springtime of life into their step is not cosmetics or stimulating drugs, but plenty of rich pure red blood. Without it no woman can do credit to herself or to her work. Iron is one of the greatest of all strength and blood builders and I have found nothing in my experience so effective for helping to make strong, healthy, red blooded women as Nuxated Iron. From a careful examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron I feel convinced that it is a preparation which any physician can take himself or prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence of obtaining highly beneficial and satisfactory results."

Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author says: "I have gained strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard looking women patients. Lack of iron in the blood may often transform a beautiful sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable—one who makes life a burden to herself, unbearable for her husband, and disagreeable for her children. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks."

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Making Tin.

The tin of trade is not pure, but has in it a little iron, lead or arsenic. Tin is a metal of chemistry. Its principal ore is called tin stone or tin oxide and is made up of tin and oxygen. To obtain the tin the ore is heated in furnaces with charcoal. The carbon of the charcoal unites with the oxygen of the ore, forming carbonic acid gas, which passes off into the air, leaving the tin, which melts and is drawn off and cooled in iron molds. This is called block tin. Tin ore is chiefly found in Cornwall, England; Banca, in Dutch East Indies; Malacca and Queensland and New South Wales, in Australia. Tin was used by the ancients. The Phoenicians obtained most of their tin from the British Isles. When the Romans conquered Britain they worked the tin mines in Cornwall by means of slaves.

The Annexation Bogy.

The United States and Canada have lived at peace for over 100 years and their relations to-day are more friendly than ever. The nation creed of the Americans is against the acquisition of territory by conquest. Canada is safe from armed aggression from that quarter. Annexation could be effected only with the consent of a majority of the people on both sides of the border, and this puts it beyond the range of possibility. Even the American flag in Alaska is no menace. Canada can set it, hand to its own household affairs undisturbed. The annexation bogey is simply the creature of a disordered brain. This country is comparatively secure, with at the north a pole which even American enterprise has not been able to locate to popular satisfaction, a vast ocean on either side and a friendly nation of one hundred million people to the south.—Peterboro' Review.

Spirit of Industry

A policy of "wait and see" caused the downfall of a Government.

Applied to business, the same policy is equally fatal. Whereas, action generates progress.

Our business is barometrical. It presents an absorbing study in creative human nature.

The first evidence of a creative mind at work is apparent in the demand for Power Transmission Equipment. And creators have been remarkably active since the Armistice was signed.

This new Spirit in Business has not been confined to war plants.

Other men have sensed the close of an epoch, and the birth of a greater industrial future.

We are proud that many of these firms have hastened to avail themselves of our experience as power transmission engineers. They realize that the gigantic work we have done in the past four years has had its effect upon our spirit. They know it has made us more efficient.

We rendered magnificent service to customers during the war; but we see now that that was merely a preparation.

The latent possibilities of our organization were a revelation to us; and we do not intend that the high mark of service rendered in 1915, '16, '17, '18 shall be lowered.

Victories of peace are second only to victories of war in their demands upon human energy. But Canada will rise to the occasion, and we are translating this faith into action for every firm that calls upon us.

The lady jury was out longer than the importance of the case would warrant.

The judge grew impatient.

"What's the trouble in there?" he said to the bailiff.

"I'll see," replied the bailiff.

"Hold on," cried the judge. "Tell 'em if there's any knotty points about the case that bother them they should appeal to me."

"Yes, your honor."

The bailiff goes to the door of the jury room and returns.

"Well?"

"They ain't got to the case yet, your honor. They're still discussin' th' plaintiff's clothes."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The High Seas.

The "high seas" is a term signifying the entire marine expanse, so far as it is not the exclusive property of any particular country. The rule of international law is that every country bordering on the sea has the exclusive sovereignty over such sea to the extent of three miles from its shore, but all beyond and which is not within three miles of some other country is open or common to all countries.

"Yes," replied the young attorney. "My tailor is suing me."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sharpening a Worn File.

"How so?"

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

Spent Over Five Thousand Dollars Seeking Health—Restored By Tanlac.

Like the man who went to Alaska in search of gold, leaving a lump of the precious metal worth a fortune, lying under his doorsteps, thousands tour the country annually seeking relief from their many ills. The health resorts are thronged, the hospitals filled, and millions of dollars are spent by those suffering from stomach trouble and the many complications resulting from it when if they would only believe it, relief often lies within, if they would reach out, and at a cost almost too small to mention.

The evidence regarding the use of Tanlac in the treatment of all forms of stomach trouble is too conclusive to even admit of doubt. In every city, town and community throughout the United States and Canada, there are many living, enthusiastic witnesses to the merit of the Master Medicine. One of the most interesting of the many statements recently received was made by Mrs. W. A. Southerland, residing at 530 South Street, Springfield, Ill. Mrs. Southerland is one of the best known and respected women of Springfield. She said:

"What Tanlac has accomplished in my case has been the most complete surprise in my life. I can hardly find words to express the gratitude I really feel over what it has done for me. I had been suffering from stomach trouble and nervousness for eleven years, and have been treated by some of the best specialists, not only in this country, but also in London, England and Old Mexico. We have travelled almost around the world and spent over five thousand dollars trying to get my health restored, but nothing ever helped me. In fact I kept getting worse until I began taking Tanlac. I suffered almost beyond words from cramps and pains in my stomach after every meal and was so nervous that I just trembled all the time. I could find no comfortable position at night; my head throbbed, and when the morning came I felt exhausted.

"Some of the specialists called my trouble nervous indigestion; anyway I could not even eat milk-toast without suffering, and for a long time I lived almost entirely on milk. When we came back to Springfield I was so discouraged and down hearted that I told my husband there was no use trying any longer—that there was no help for me. About this time I began reading about what others said Tanlac had done for them, and decided to try it as a last resort. Well, I soon had a good appetite, got so I could digest my food, and my suffering ceased. So I bought more Tanlac and a few bottles have completely restored my health, and not only myself, but my husband and all who knew of my dreadful condition, have been surprised at the results I have gotten from Tanlac. I am never the least bit nervous any more, never know what it is to have a restless night, and enjoy three good meals a day, and never have a pain or uncomfortable feeling afterwards. I have no longer that tired, wornout look, with that dull, swarthy colour, but my complexion has cleared up and I look and feel like a different woman altogether. I am making this statement because I want the people who may be suffering as I did to know they can get relief without travelling the world over, as I did. I can never praise Tanlac enough."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by the W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle and Son.

"Don't you have trouble getting a sufficient variety of food?" she asked.

"No," said the woman who runs a boarding house; "that's the easiest part of it. You see, I make up a series of menus for breakfast, dinner, etc., at the beginning of the season and then they go on steadily till the end of it. The cook knows just what to prepare each day, and I am not at all bothered."

"But don't your boarders get tired of having the same thing each week on the same day?"

"Ah," said the landlady, "that's where I fool 'em! They don't have the same thing on the same day of the week. There are ten separate menus. If we begin, say, with hash on Monday, the next time they have hash is a week from Thursday and the next time a week from the following Sunday. Nobody can tell what he's going to have on any given day without working it out with a pencil and paper, and as nobody is likely to go to that trouble just for the sake of finding his meals monotonous, the result is, in fact, as pleasantly varied as if the menu for the day was composed every morning."—New York Post.

MINISTER OF LABOUR DECLARES

should know that international conditions had a great bearing on the cost of living in Canada.

Able to Give Reasons Soon

It had been assumed that the Government was doing nothing to provide a remedy, but serious consideration had been given to the matter more than two months ago. Investigation had been going on quietly and efficiently, and "some day soon we will be able to tell you why some things are as they are. Perhaps we will have to ask the people of this country why it is that a pair of shoes that the manufacturer sells for $6 is sold to the consumer for $12, why profits on certain plumbing supplies exceed the sale price of the manufacturer; why a lady's gown, sold by the manufacturer for $16, is sold to the consumer for more than twice that amount.

Place Blame Where It Belongs

"The public of Canada should know that in the past it has not always placed the blame where it belongs. I am not attempting to excuse exorbitant profits on the part of manufacturer's, because some of them are guilty, but I can say, in all candor, that so far as I have been able to gather, the manufacturers' original profit in most instances is not unreasonable to anything like the same degree as are the profits of the people who handle their goods after they leave factories." No one was to be blamed for making a good profit on a transaction; machinery placed at the disposal of municipalities for investigation of these matters had not been made use of.

Some Causes Close at Home

The people of Canada could look close at home for much of the cause of the high cost of living, and individuals could provide some remedy. As long as the ladies of households called up their grocer before 9 in the morning for a box of matches, for a little lettuce in the afternoon, and something else in the evening, necessitating three deliveries in one day, so long the cost of necessaries would be increased. In the opinion of Senator Robertson, faulty methods of distribution and handling goods in a retail way was largely responsible for exorbitant prices.

In conclusion Senator Robertson called attention to the fact that the Immigration Bill before Parliament restricted immigration to agricultural classes, and advised pressure to get Canadians, especially those lacking employment in their accustomed vocations, to go on to the land and increase agricultural production.

Senator's Suggestion and Complaint

Senator Choquette said that it seemed as if farmers were badly wanted now to plant and harvest the crop. There were now in the jails, a large number of farmers' sons. They might be released to handle the crop on the understanding that they should afterward return and complete their sentences. He complained that the city markets of Quebec had been destroyed by the produce dealers sending circulars to farmers advising them not to bring produce to markets, but to wait for it to be called for at their farms, where they would be paid as well as if they brought their produce to the cities.

Two Kettles of Water.

Sir Robert Hart, speaking of marriage and death customs in the far east, told a story of a great Chinese scholar and high official who said that the foreign way of letting the young people fall in love and choose and the Chinese way of first marrying and then making acquaintance reminded him of two kettles of water. The first—the foreign—was taken at the boiling point from the fire by marriage and then grew cooler and cooler, whereas the second—the Chinese—was a kettle of cold water put on the fire by wedlock and ever afterward growing warmer and warmer. "So that," said his friend, "after fifty or sixty years we are madly in love with each other"—Exchange.

Why He Was Careful.

A man who believed in pedestrianism coaxed a friend to accompany him on a little jaunt. Every time they crossed the road his friend looked first one way and then the other and refused to budge if there chanced to be a motorcar in sight.

"It's all well enough to be careful," said the pedestrian, "but you seem to have let automobiles get on your nerves."

"I've good reason to be careful," answered his friend. "The insurance policy I carry is void if I get run over by one."—Judge.

Board of Works Accepts Tender of Canadian Engineer and Construction Co., of Hamilton

ANOTHER CHAPTER IN THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE CONTROVERSY —CITY COUNCIL WILL MEET NEXT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

PUBLIC OPINION

The irresistible force of public opinion forced the members of the Special Bridge Committee last night to make a settlement and let the bridge contract. Ald Morrison spoke of how he was buttonholed on the streets numberless times to answer questions concerning the bridges and the heads of the aldermen nodded in acquiescence showing that the same experience was not unfamiliar to them.

"I think you are all conversant with the subject", stated Chairman Ald. Phelan opening the subject gently. "The citizens are loking upon us to act."

The Chairman's last statement was not contradicted and Ald. Morrison voiced the sentiment of the meeting when he demanded that a decision be made to-night.

"Although I have my own views as to who should get the contract, I will abide by the majority to get the thing settled," he said.

Ald. Turner—"I have not changed my mind. I have the utmost confidence in the Russell-Townsend Company.

Ald. McIntyre wouldn't support the Russell-Townsend under any consideration at the same time referring vaguely to buttonholing done by officials of one of the tenderers.

Threatened Storm

Ald. Edgar, although not a member of the Special Bridge Committee, asked Ald. McIntyre to explain how he was in favour of Mr. Conroy although it had been stated that if Mr. Conroy was successful in receiving the tender he would engage Mr. Russell as engineer. It didn't bear out his statements. Both Chairman Phelan and Ald. McIntyre took issue with Ald. Edgar on his right to address the committee. Ald. Edgar said he had the right but couldn't vote.

"It is a piece of presumption," stated Ald. McIntyre, closing the incident.

Ald. Morrison, Gainey, McIntyre, Garside and Phelan spoke in favour of Mr. Conroy's tender (the lowest tender) on the lump sum basis and Ald. McIntyre moved that the tender be given to the lowest tenderer (Mr. Conroy). Ald. Gainey and Phelan voted for him and Ald. Turner and Mayor voted nay. Ald. Morrison refused to vote. The Bridge Committee immediately went into the Board of Works and Ald. McIntyre's motion considered, Ald. McIntyre, Garside and Gainey voted for it but were opposed by Ald. Turner, Hamilton, Mayor. The motion was lost.

Ald. Turner moved that the contract of the Russell-Townsend Company be accepted on the narrow bridge with eliminations and on the cost plus a fixed sum basis. Ald. Edgar seconded the motion.

For—Ald. Turner, Hamilton, Mayor Duncan.

Against—McIntyre, Taylor, Gainey Morrison, Garside.

Ald. Phelan—"The citizens are behind Mr. Conroy.

Ald. Turner—"A great many people have spoken to me and only two think that Mr. Conroy can carry the work out.

Ald. Taylor in the midst of the discussion briefly moved that the Canadian Engineers and Coustruction Company of Hamilton be awarded the tender on the cost plus a fixed sum basis. The Mayor seconded the motion and put to a vote the motion was carried and the City Council was recommended to award the contract to the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company.

The vote in regard to Ald. Taylor's motion stood as follows:—

For Ald. Turner, Edgar, Morrison, Hamilton, Taylor and the Mayor.

Against —Alds. McIntyre, Gainey, Garside and Phelan.

The Opposition

The motion was accepted as a compromise and everybody breathed easier after the vote was recorded. Only Ald. McIntyre voiced any opposition saying that he would not blame any citizen taking out an injunction and that he felt like doing it himself. Ald. Phelan did not appear to be particularly pleased.

The Canadian Engineering and Construction Company's contract is on the cost plus basis and they guarantee that the bridge will not cost more than $376,860.00. Their profit is $48,000, but they do not work on the Union wage.

Ald. Taylor moved that the City Solicitor draw up a by-law to carry out the motion regarding the bridge Seconded by Ald. Turner and carried.

The proposed by-law will be submitted to the City Council Wednesday evening.

On Tuesday evening another meeting of the Board of Works will be held and Mr. Frank Barber, the consulting engineer will be asked to attend.

The mayor thought the city should have some say as to who the inspectors of the bridge should be. At present Mr. Barber has the power to appoint them and the mayor was afraid lest students from Mr. Barber's office would be installed in these positions. The matter will be brought to the attention of Mr. Barber.

COPY MUST BE IN THIS EVENING

To facilitate a number of mechanical changes to be made in the plant over the holiday, the Examiner will go to press at Friday noon. This means that all church announcements and other copy must be in this office this evening to ensure insertion in to-morrow's issue.

CYRIL MAUDE AT GRAND TO-NIGHT

To-night at the Grand Theatre, Mr. Cyril Maude and his supporting company, under the direction of Charles Frohman, will present Mr. C. Haddon Chambers' latest comedy entitled, "The Saving Grace." The plot has already won great success in London and is said to be the most delightful dramatic composition that has came from the pen of Mr. Chambers in recent years. The action takes place in a village outside of London during the early days of the war and deals humorously with the effect of great happenings upon the lives of people of small importance. It is a rarely human and intimate comedy that engages the deepest sympathy of the auditor and is at the same time immensely amusing. Not only is Mr. Maude very well known in this city, but nearly every member of his supporting company has a wide circle of friends here. Among the players are Miss Laura Hope Crews, Miss Annie Hughes, Miss Charlotte Granville, Miss Betty Murray, Mr. Edward Douglas and Mr. Stanley Harrison.

THE WEATHER

Weather conditions of late have been discouraging to the amateur gardener as well as the farmers genally. Rains have been frequent since the spring opened and lately showers have been almost continuous. Nor have they been of the proverbial "gentle" description. The downpour of last night and early this morning was very heavy, the total amounting to over 1½ inches (1.53). The spring is already quite backward and the late heavy rains will still further retard work on the land. Last year the trees were in full leaf before this date. Some cold nights came later, however. For instance on May 24th, the thermometer was down to 35 degrees in the morning; also on June 20th there was a heavy white frost, with the temperature at 35 degrees. Lower figures were reached in the south end of the city, and many of the tender plants were nipped by the frost. On May 28th, we had a very heavy thunderstorm, and rain fell to .76 of an inch.—W.P.

TOWNSHIPS IMPATIENT

INJUNCTION WILL BE SET IN MOTION AGAINST THE CITY AFTER JUNE 1ST OVER SEWAGE DISPOSAL.

NUISANCE IS INTOLERABLE

If by June 1st the City Council has shown no sign of undertaking the long delayed work of constructing a sewage disposal plant, the injunction issued by the townships of Monaghan and Otonabee in the summer of 1914, but suspended because of the war, will be forthwith launched. This is the statement of Mr. E. A. Peck, solicitor for the several municipalities.

"I don't know who is the author of the letter in last night's Examiner," Mr. Peck said, "but it sets out the situation which the city council faces and must deal with immediately. We have been patient with the city, we have been considerate of the difficulties that sprang out of the war, but we must demand action.

"The city council has taken no steps whatever to carry out the promises that induced us to withhold the injunction. If you ask an alderman what system of disposal they have decided upon they have nothing to tell you. They have not chosen nor purchased a site, and have made no arrangements for meeting the cost."

Mr. Peck was reticent in regard to the consequences of the injunction but he intimated that the first bill the city would have to meet would be the costs. A Judge might give the council a month's grace to begin the sewer work, but the legal rigours may be avoided by the city immediately giving satisfactory assurance and substantial evidence that they have set themselves to this task and intend to proceed to its completion.

LOUIS GEORGE SMITH WANTED BY POLICE

Smith is Charged With Failing to Write to His Mother Since 1911

Chief Thompson has received the following letter from Aberdeen, Scotland and if any information to available regarding the missing man communication should be made with the chief at the police station. It is quite possible that Smith enlisted and perhaps some of the veterans may be able to locate him. His photograph is at the police station and may be seen any time.

The Letter

522 Holburn street,
Aberdeen, Scotland

Chief Constable, Peterboro,—

I would be very well pleased if you would assist me to find my son, Louis George Smith. I received a post card from him dated 28th., 12, 1911, bearing a Peterboro post mark. He stated that he would be back at the end of May 1912, but gave no address. I have had no word from him since. He was thirty years of age.

Yours sincerely
Mrs. M. Gardiner.

A SPECIAL MEETING ON FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 23RD, AT 7.30 SHARP. 24120-3160

BIG BOXING BOUTS TO-NIGHT AT ARMOURIES

The big feature for to-night in the Returned Soldiers' Week programme is the boxing tournament at the Armouries, which will bring together in the main bout Red Gallagher and Charlie Christie of Toronto, two of the cleverest of the Queen City's boxers who can be counted upon to provide the crowd with a battle royal from the first handshake. In addition to this big card there will be half-a-dozen bouts between local performers and a "go" between Paddy Nolan of Onawanda and Sailor Dempsey of Buffalo, who will meet in a six-round bout.

Mr. W. R. Turley, the Provincial Secretary of the Great War Veterans, will referee, and it should be a big night's sport.

Permit Cards Disappear From Public Places and Water Pressure is Restored

ORIGINAL ISSUES OF THE STRIKE

(Copyright, 1919, by Main Johnson, to the Examiner.)

THIEF RIVER, May 22. — With the disappearance of most of the permit cards and a gradual quieting down of the resentment about the usurpation of authority, the original issues of the strike are again emerging prominently from the melee.

The latest issue of the "Labor News" puts before everything else, "The absolute necessity of settling once for all the two points at issue—first, the right to collective bargaining, and second the right to a living wage."

The G.W.V.A. meeting is also considered at the most insignificant, especially in its declaration in favor of compulsory collective bargaining. There are many signs that the "dictations" issue that was the storm centre for several days, is now gradually receding. The permit signs have disappeared from the theatres, and from the bread and the milk wagons. The gasoline stations have reopened; water pressure is normal again, and the delivery of ice has been started. Order is still being maintained, and although the general business is absolutely at a standstill, there is noticed a slight relaxation of the intense strain that has prevailed.

Crisis Reached.

The president of the Strike Committee told the war veterans that there was a possibility of a settlement within a few days, but such optimism is by no means unanimous. There is a widespread feeling among thoughtful men that a crisis has been reached not only in the stormy, industrial life of Winnipeg, but also in the whole question of industrial relations in Canada.

These people although experiencing as much inconvenience as any one and being just as anxious for a cessation of the tie up, feel that any settlement reached must recognize the fundamentals. They do not want any patched up peace. The moderates among them are of the opinion that in some way or other the unions must be regarded not as revolutionary, reprehensible bodies, but as stabilizing institutions, which give the employers a cohesive, responsible force with which to deal.

A Class War.

Many men believe that our whole system of business is bound to change and that it may be the ultimate result that the workers will control at least to some extent that the people rule in politics and that there will be responsible government in industries as well as in public affairs.

Those who hold these views, however, do not think any such change is feasible at one stroke. Public opinion is not ready for it, and any attempt to enforce it would mean class war. They do think, however, that the old order can never be restored, and that some direct advanced step in the direction of industrial democracy must be taken, and may just as well be made now as a result of the Winnipeg strike.

That is why they deplore certain statements and acts of the Strike Committee as at least leaving latter open to the grave suspicion of trying to establish a dictatorship at their very first strike for power. The more reasonable attitude of the last day or two is welcomed as an indication that this manifestation was only a temporary one and did not reflect any unanimous and determined decision by the whole body of the strikers.

The Foreigners.

The Winnipeg situation is undoubtedly complicated by large numbers of foreigners here. They have not provided the leadership, nor do they form the great mass of trade unionists, but a good many people think they do constitute the active force in the ranks. As long as such men think and act in terms of what they regard as Canadianism there is no objection, but there is apparent in the city, resentment against what is looked upon as exotic and incompatable ideals being furthered by men who have not become acclimatized here. Anyone can see that the one crying need is for some active constructive measure for securing co-operation of these people, if they are to remain here, in the general national outlook and aspirations.

G.W.V.A. Neutral.

The arrival of Meighen and Robertson is awaited with interest. The Government delayed so long in taking any appreciable notice of the Winnipeg trouble that many citizens grew impatient, disgusted, [illegible] upon as either shirking or apathy. But now that the Cabinet Ministers are actually near here there is interest as to what they will suggest or try to do.

Popular interest centres in the mass meeting of the G.W.V.A. which was crowded to the doors, and which brought forth keen debates and close arguments, but which finally did result in certain definite decisions.

Although the executive was endorsed and the policy of neutrality re-affirmed, it is quite evident that the temper of the meeting was strongly in favour of Labour and against Capitalist influences. This was shown not only in the decision to call for compulsory collective bargaining of a plenary nature, but also in the vote to disassociate with the G. W. V. A. from army and navy veterans on the ground, among others, that there was capitalist influence in it.

Expressed Regret.

Questions which poured onto the platform from the body of the hall in reference to the alleged strike breaking activities by certain members of the Association showed the prevalent drift of opinion. The Strike committee presented its case to the meeting both through President Winning of the Trades and Labour Council personally, and in a letter from the committee. The latter expressed regret for a communication appearing in the "Labour News" calling for the resignation of the executive of the G.W.V.A. The Strike committee said they did not know such a letter was appearing in the paper.

Mr. Winning, who was given a tumultuous welcome at the beginning of his speech and an even warmer reception at its close, declared the fundamental issue to be that on collective bargaining. The principle had been accepted at the peace table by all war boards, and by most employers generally.

Certain Winnipeg employers in the iron trade had been fighting collective bargaining for years for they feared they would have to share with their men too large a slice of profit.

Mr. Winning, amid cheers, asked why they should fight one group of employers this year, some one else the next, and then have to repeat the same process all over again.

"Why not clean it all up now," he asked.

Original Proposal.

The strike leader denied any thought of soviet rule in Winnipeg and of any ulterior motive in the tie up. As evidence of his view he said that the Strike committee had been consulting with the Mayor, and as another thing they had taken permit labels off bread and milk wagons. They had been put on in the first place by arrangement with bread managers and dairy companies so that drivers would not be molested. It was W. J. Wilton, M.L.A. for Assiniboia, a returned officer, who proposed compulsory collective bargaining and the plan was endorsed by the meeting. The proposal was contained in a letter he had written to the Provincial government, asking for a declaration by them, that it was the

INTERCEPT MESSAGES

TROTSKY SENDS MESSAGE TO RED LEADER TO "HOLD OUT AT ALL COSTS."

ENCOURAGE BELA KUN

VIENNA, May 22—"Hold out at all costs" is the wireless word sent to Bela Kun, the Hungarian Communist Leader, by Leon Trotsky, the Russian Bolshevik Minister of War, in a new code arranged by airplane a week ago, so that the allies might not intercept messages. "Keep on presenting a fair face to the allies, thus fooling them until we are in possession of Roumania."

Nikolai Lenin, Russian Bolshevik Premier, is also sending word of hope to Bela Kun.

The Hungarian Red army has orders, it is affirmed here, to burn Budapest and slay all hostages and then scatter to the four winds, in case the attacks of the Bolshevik army in East Roumania fail, and also if the Serb-Czech advance succeeds.

General Franchet D'Esperey, who is in command of the allied forces in Macedonia, and whose headquarters were transferred to Constantinople, has arrived at Arad from Constantinople for the purpose of directing a new attack on Budapest.

FIREMAN MUNDEN TO BE REINSTATED

PRESENT FIRE DEPARTMENT IS OVER STRENGTH.

At the meeting of the Committee of the Whole held last evening Ald. Morrison, Chairman of the Water and Light Committee asked that the re-instatement of Fireman Munden, by Fire Chief Grange be authorized by the Committee. Fireman Munden has just returned from overseas and was a member of the fire brigade prior to enlistment. There are 22 men besides the chief on the brigade now and Ald. Gainey wanted to know when this re-instatement business was going to end. He thought they could be placed in some other work for the city. Ald. Morrison replied that there was only one other man, who is now overseas who would ask for re-instatement on the fire brigade. Ald. Morrison put the motion and it was carried, Fireman Munden to be paid from the time of re-instatement on the certificate of the Chief.

PERSONAL CLASH AT CONFERENCE

DIFFICULTY OVER LANDING OF INDEPENDENT ITALIAN FORCES.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The Associated Press this morning issued the following: Great Britain, France and the United States are reported from Paris to have sent a joint note to Italy, asking for an explanation of the landing of Italian forces in Turkey. Premier Orlando answered the note, and it is reported there was a personal clash between him and Premier Venizelos of Greece, which resulted in the latter withdrawing from the meeting of the Council. The difficulty apparently is over the landing of independent Italian forces in the village of Smyrna, which the Allies are trying jointly to pacify with the view to the mandate to Greece for its administration.

SEARCH FOR AVIATORS

VESSELS DIRECTLY IN TRACK HAWKER WAS TO TAKE SAW NOTHING OF HIM.

WARSHIPS OUT

LONDON, May 22.—At the moment of cabling there is still no news of Harry G. Hawker and Lieut. Commander Mackenzie Grieve, the daring airmen. The mystery of the false wireless reports, attributed to the Admiralty, that they had fallen into the sea forty miles from the Irish coast, remains unexplained.

Eight vessels were within an area of four hundred miles directly in Hawker's track off the south-west coast of Ireland when he was due to finish his flight. In answer to a wireless inquiry none of these vessels has reported seeing any trace of the Hawker machine.

Admiral Tupper, commanding at Queenstown, issued the following message to warships at sea:

"Proceed immediately and search the area around Position 52.30 north and 14 west for a radius of thirty-eight miles for Sopwith biplane."

Special School Children's Matinee at 3 P.M.

An event looked forward to with more than ordinary interest theatrically is the coming of Wm. H. Kibble's world's greatest revival of Harriet Beecher Stowe's lovable story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Kibble's reputation as a promoter of big productions is well known by theatre-goers, but few are aware that the coming event is one of the most gigantic and elaborate that has ever been attempted in America. Not only does Mr. Kibble promise to bring a company of over thirty people, but a carload of scenery and bloodhounds in the piece. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will hold the boards at the Grand to-morrow, matinee and evening.

Evening Examiner

Examiner — Established 1851, Business Office 1000. Private Branch Exchange to all Departments.

A WELCOME SIGN.

The news from Winnipeg is brighter to-day. The decision of the strikers to remove from bake shops and restaurants and other business places the signs which stated that these concerns were carrying on business "through the permission of the Strike committee," is a step that should naturally aid in the reaching of a settlement. These placards were resented by many citizens, who regarded them as an attempt to substitute for rule by civic authority the administration of affairs by the strikers. As long as these placards were in use there was little chance of negotiations, and their removal is a welcome sign. The strike is causing an enormous amount of inconvenience and monetary loss, and anything that indicates a development towards settlement will be hailed with satisfaction.

THE 21ST BATTALION.

The news that the 21st Battalion has safely arrived in Canada will cause general joy in Peterborough. In the ranks of the Easter Ontario Battalion there is a large quota of Peterborough boys, probably the biggest squad that will come back at one time from overseas. It is fitting then that arrangements are being made to tender the local members of the battalion a suitable welcome when they arrive in this city. The hour of their arrival here is not yet definitely known, but whenever they come nothing should be allowed to interfere with the plans for tendering them a reception that will indicate the joy of the people of Peterborough at their return and the pride felt in their achievements overseas. The 21st has had a glorious record since it reached the fighting front, and Peterborough's soldiers have had no small share in making the name of the Eastern Ontario battalion famous throughout the Canadian corps.

THE LAST DAY.

Although the people of Peterboro will have a chance on Saturday to assist the Great War Veterans' fund by attending the big field day at the Exhibition grounds on the holiday afternoon, and the tatoo and over-the-top exhibition at the same place in the evening, to-morrow will be the last opportunity to contribute to the drive as there will be no canvassing on Saturday. The collectors have been handicapped by the adnormally bad weather conditions and the last day of the drive will have to be a record-breaker to make up for the time that was lost in the middle of the week. The citizens who will be called upon tomorrow should recognise this fact by giving to the best of their ability tomorrw, when the canvassers will endeavour to make the day's receipts large enough to compensate for the disappointments in the earlier part of the campaign.

It is not surprising to find that from the experiences of some of the members of the collecting teams that the families who have given most freely, not only of their money, but of their flesh and blood during the war, are the people who are gladly contributing to the War Veterans' fund. One collector states that while from seven houses on one street from each of which one or more soldiers had gone to the war, some of them to come back no more, he secured $12 in donations, he visited seventeen houses on another street from which practcially no one had volunteered for service, and was rewarded with the grand total of 50c.

Those who have not yet contributed to the G.W.V.A. fund should think the matter over seriously and be prepared to give as liberally as possible when they are called upon tomorrow.

SIX NURSES OF NICHOLLS HOSPITAL WERE PRESENTED WITH DIPLOMAS

THE ADDRESSES

Last evening on the platform of the Collegiate Institute Hall, almost hidden by the scores of bouquets sent by grateful patients and friends, six graduates of Nicholls Hospital Training School for Nurses, Miss Ruth E. Jones, Miss Alma O. Dobbin, Mrs. Coral L. McCarthy, Miss Leitha White, Mrs. F. J. Hanna (nee Miss Parsons) and Miss Lulu Brown, received their diplomas from Mr. Richard Hall, who resumed his post as chairman for the first time since his illness of three years ago.

Chairman's Address

In opening the programme of the evening, Mr. Hall said:

"It is a pleasure once more to find myself well enough to attend our annual Graduation Exercises. As I have often said before, we are proud of the large number of splendid nurses sent out from this Hospital, who, with few exceptions, are doing well in their chosen vocation.

A very pleasant feature of this evening's gathering is the presence with us of Miss Beamish, our Lady Superintendent, who has been overseas for the past three years. We are glad to have her back again safe and sound and we congratulate her on having fulfilled her duty in her country's cause.

During the absence of Miss Beamish, Miss Sanderson "carried on" as Acting Superintendent. Anyone who knows anything about institutional work, will appreciate the difficulties experienced in running a Hospital during the war—the scarcity and inefficiency of help—the high cost of food and materials—the increased number of patients brought about by the quartering of troops here—the flu epidemic—and many other factors which made Hospital management extremely difficult and wearing. Throughout the three years, Miss Sanderson has faithfully discharged her duties and, with the able assistance of her second-in-command, Miss Gertrude Howson, has handed the Hospital back to Miss Beamish in a well organized and thoroughly efficient condition.

Especially during the flu epidemic were the Board sensible of the splendid services given by every employee of the Hospital, and, at a time when the danger of contagion was great, all did their part in combatting the epidemic and were able to "carry on" even when a large percentage of the Nursing Staff were down with the disease.

The work of the Nicholls Hospital continues to expand and every year shows a considerable increase in patients treated. The Hospital has a very important standing among our Civic Institutions and should receive loyal support and kindly sympathy from our citizens."

Mr. Wearing's Address

In a short address Mr. Wearing spoke of the pleasure he felt in honouring one of the highest and noblest professions. No work he said could be higher and nobler than the clerical profession and the nursing profession in its genesis and up to modern times has always been an auxilliary to the clerical profession. He spoke of the enviable reputation nurses have made for themselvesin serving the King during the past war and of the place the nursing sister holds in the heart of every soldier to whom she ministered in the military hospitals and on the field.

"Antiquity," he said, "lends dignity to a profession and the nursing profession dates back to the early Christian era." After tracing the history of the profession, Mr. Wearing spoke of the rigorous requirements of nursing. No girl, he said, becomes a professional nurse without possessing the qualities necessary to make them successful. In the three years in the hospital training, no girl could stand the test without she was made of the right stuff. He outlined some of the requirements of the nurse, concluding by observing that it is no wonder people look upon nurses as the cream of women. Mr. Wearing then wished the graduates every success in the noble profession they had chosen.

Address to Graduates

Dr. F. C. Neal in an address to the graduates said that he followed their work during the past three years and felt it a pleasure to see the satisfactory culmination of their efforts. He spoke of the high standards required today of the professional nurse.

In speaking of the duties of the professional nurse, he impressed upon the graduates the necessity of keeping sealed lips, of acquiring the spirit of self-sacrifice, of instilling hope in the patient, of careful dressing and careful hearing, of loyalty to the profession in carrying out instructions, and of broadening their daily interests. Dr. Neale said he felt astisfied that the nurses, who may now confidently take their places with any nurses, would maintain the high standards of those who went before them. In wishing the graduates every success, he spoke of the fifteen graduates of Nicholls Hospital, who served i nthe war, two of whom have been decorated by the King.

Bandaging Prizes

In presenting the bandaging prizes to Miss Ruth E. Jones and Miss Letitia White, Dr. Cameron, after congratulating the girls upon their success, said he understood that only two of the six graduates would remain in the city. He said he had found them exceptionally splendid nurses. In conclusion, he congratulated Mr Hall upon being back again.

General Proficiency

"You have deservedly stood at the head of your class," Dr. F. E. Harvey remarked to Miss Ruth E. Jones, in presenting to her the Harvey Medal for general proficiency. He impressed upon the class one great principle necessary to every nurse—to always be kind.

Presented Medals

The medals were pinned on the girls by Miss Sanderson, who has been head of the Training School during the absence of Miss Beamish, overseas, and who has filled the position with much fidelity and zeal.

Musical Programme

An pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the musical programme presented by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Park, with Miss Ida Sanderson as accompanist, which was keenly appreciated by the large audience.

Margaret Anglin at the Grand Tuesday Evening

At the Grand Tuesday Evening.

"Margaret Anglin is an actress who knows," writes O. L. Hall, the distinguished critic of the Chicago Evening Journal. "She has the velvet touch without which there is no such thing as high comedy acting. John Drew has it, so has Mrs. Fiske; likewise a few others. It comes after years and years of serious. Few of them have it so definitely as Miss Anglin.

Miss Anglin will be seen here at the Grand on Tuesday evening in her delightful military love comedy, "Billeted." The play will be presented in precisely the same manner as given in its long New York and Chicago runs, and with the same identical cast of players.

Souvenirs in the Smith Shoe Store

INTERESTING COLLECTION LOANED BY SERGT. C. MOWRY.

Regardless of the steady downpour of rain to-day, the hastening shoppers who braved the weather found time to spend a few minutes in viewing the interesting collection of war souvenirs in the C. E. Smith boot and shoe store window.

The collection, owned and loaned by Sergt. C. Mowry and Lieut. T. Shields, is perhaps the best collection of souvenirs in the city. Numbered amongst other intensely interesting souvenirs is a signal flag from the merchant submarine Deutchland which plied the waters on the American coast. This, like two signal flags from the U-122 and the U-112, is owned by Lieut. T. Shields. Other exhibits are a complete collection of the badges of the British and other Allied armies and of the German Army; a complete collection of English money from the smallest piece to the largest in gold; German, French and Belgian money of every denomination; shells in their natural state and shells remodelled into all manner of ornaments, gas masks of the oldest and newest models, German automatic revolvers, Mills' hand grenades and German officers' helmets and Uhlans' caps. One of the brass cases presented by the Queen to all soldiers in the trenches at Christmas, 1914, also figures in the collection.

(Beauty Culture.)

Here is a method for removing hair or fuzz that is unfailing and is quite inexpensive: Mix a thick paste with some powdered delatone and water, and spread on the hairy surface. After two or three minutes rub it off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. No harm or inconvenience results from this treatment, but be careful to get genuine delatone.

WAGE DISPUTE DISCUSSED BY COMMITTEE OF WHOLE COUNCIL

WILL BE DISCUSSED AT ANOTHER MEETING TO BE HELD ON WEDNESDAY EVENING NEXT—WANT EIGHT HOUR DAY.

PROS AND CONS

No settlement of the civic labour wage dispute was reached by the Commitee of the Whole Council last night. A deputation from the Trades and Labour Council, among whom were President A. J. Bolwell, Mr. Edward Tighe, Mr. T. Toones, Mr. Sharp. Mr. E. F. Mason of the Industrial Committee of the Board of Trade, was also present, and suggested that if the Committee could not agree as to the labour wage they meet the Industrial Relations Committee in an effort to settle the matter.

Mr. T. Toones of the Laborers' Local, demanded 45c an hour and an 8-hour day for the laborers working for the city. He said that the 8-hour day would soon be Dominion wide and he appealed to the committee to take the lead in this matter. He disclaimed any endorsation of the means taken by the men in Winnipeg, but thought the laborers had the right to ask for 45c an-hour. Giving government statistics he showed that $29.99 was the minimum upon which a family could live in a week.

"The eight hour day will be Dominion-wide by fall," stated President Bolwell. "When a man has an eight-hour day he spends the extra hour in his garden or with his family. Nine hours work and he is tired out." He further said that a man can't rent a decent house and live as he should on less than 45c an hour. On less than that there is no incentive to buy your own home, and a section of the city would soon be shacks. He hoped the committee would adopt 45c an hour for the laborers, and an 8-hour day, and that no exceptions be made.

Mr. Edward Tighe advocated time and a half for over-time and double time on Sundays and holidays.

Voted for 40c.

Mayor Duncan — "I voted for 40c an hour for laborers and 60c an hour for carpenters, and I haven't any reason to change my mind except that if a man only works part of the time 45c an hour is not too much but if the unions compel the factories to adopt this rate they would not be able to compete with other factories. I don't want it to interfere with inside workers. It might close down some of our factories.

Ald. Garside spoke in sympathy with the laborers but in view of the tremendous cost of the bridge he asked them if they couldn't see their way clear to work nine hours a day.

"They only spend that extra hour walking around or spending some more money," said Ald. Garside, in conclusion.

President Bolwell took exception to Ald. Garside's statement. "I'll guarantee that men can put over just as much work in eight hours as in nine and be contented in the bargain."

Mayor Duncan—"My men work on the eight-hour day but I don't get nine hours work out of them."

Ald. Turner—"Nor do I."

Mr. Bolwell did not want to discuss the carpenters' wage saying he thought that it should be left to the contractor.

Two Shifts.

Ald. Gainey—"I would have liked to have seen the laborers stay at 50c an hour and have two shifts on the bridge and thus use up the surplus of labour.

Ald. Hamilton — "The factories of the city at the present juncture can't work on the eight-hour day, and the factory employees are just waiting to see what the council does. The manufacturers say that a man can't produce as much in eight hours as in nine, and the laborers say that they can. Both Ald. Hamilton and Ald. Turner suggested laying the eight hour day aside until it became general throughout the Dominion, but the labor aldermen were insistent with the consequence that a deadlock resulted.

Ald. Gainey moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that the city employees be re-instated at 45c an hour, and an eight hour day.

Nobody wanted to vote except the movers.

Ald. Morrison (heatedly) "You've raised nearly everybody but the labor men."

From several—"We've raised them, too."

"The Trades and Labor Council want us to employ union men only, and we can't do that," stated the Mayor.

"No; we can't," agreed Ald. Turner.

Ald. McIntyre—"We've raised all the city officials but the laborers."

Ald. Turner—"I voted for $1000 for the mayor so you would get it next year," which statement seemed to cause some merriment among the Aldermen.

Ald. Morrison alleged that farmers from outside of the city were working now on the streets.

"That's news to me," from Ald. Phelan.

Parliamentary Language.

Ald. Morrison—"If anybody took my job I would knock his block off."

The question then veered back to the laborers' wage and the eight hour day.

"I understand," said Ald. McIntyre inquiringly, "that the Mayor is in favor of 45c an hour, and an eight hour day."

"No; I never said so," replied the Mayor; "not the eight hour day."

Ald. Garside moved that the work of the city that is to be finished be done at 45c an hour and an eight hour day. No vote was taken.

The Mayor—"There is not much work to be done."

Ald. Morrison—"We could find plenty of work on the surface drains."

Mayor Duncan—"The appropriation for the surface drains is nearly exhausted now."

Ald. Morrison—"I move that we adopt the eight hour day."

Ald. Turner—"If you do that you force the manufacturers' hand. When you adopt the eight hour day for the city work you legislate for all the city."

Neither side seemed willing to make a compromise, and the Mayor suggested that the matter be left over until the meeting of the city council next Wednesday evening.

WILL INVESTIGATE M'CULLOUGH'S SANITY

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 22. -- Rev. R. Bertram Nelles, pastor of the Western Congregational church and spiritual advisor to Frank McCullough, returned last night from Ottawa, where he placed a plea with the representative of the Minister of Justice to have McCullough's death sentence commuted to one of life imprisonment.

"There is nothing to be said at present," Mr. Nelles told the Examiner. "The plea will probably come before the council when the acting Minister returns from Winnipeg."

"It is understood that Doctors Clare, Bemer and Powell, being alienists, will go to the jail this afternoon or to-morrow to make an examination as to McCullough's sanity."

Conference Opened This Morning

THIRTEEN COUNTRIES ADDRESSED PROHIBITION DELEGATES.

Canadian Press:

TORONTO, May 22.—The representatives of thirteen countries addressed the prohibition delegates at the inaugural session of the World Prohibition Conference here this morning, referring particularly to the progress made in temperance legislation. Among the countries represented were: Australia, Canada, Denmark, England, France, Ireland, Japan, Italy, New Zealand, Scotland, Switzerland and the United States. The conference is a preliminary to a great meeting to be held in Washington on June 4, and various delegates are leaving the city to-night who will tour various parts of this country and the United States, ultimately arriving in Washington for the final conference.

Will Not Move the City's Bank Account

MATTER WAS DISCUSSED AT MEETING HELD LAST EVENING.

The city decided to leave the civic bank account with the Bank of Toronto at a meeting of the committee of the Whole Council held last evening. Ald. Phelan's motion of changing the bank account back to the Bank of Montreal was referred to and Ald. Phelan in supporting his motion rehashed some ancient history. He stated that years ago when the city wanted some money the Bank of Toronto refused to give it to them, but the Bank of Montreal did. "Other city bodies stayed with the Bank of Montreal," contended Ald. Phelan.

"We went back to the Toronto bank because their tender was the lowest," stated Ald. McIntyre.

"The Bank of Toronto make our city bonds payable at par in New York," stated Ald. Taylor, chairman of the Finance committee.

Ald. Edgar—"If it had not been for the Bank of Montreal, which came to our assistance in 1916 when we were paving the streets, there would likely have been soup kitchens in the city."

Ald. McIntyre — "Nonsense, the Bank of Montreal didn't come to our assistance. They were well paid, and the Bank of Toronto gave us a better rate."

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Edgar that the city's bank account be taken back to the Bank of Montreal.

Ald. Gainey moved an amendment that no action be taken this year, but withdrew his amendment when all the members seemed disposed to settle the question once and for all time.

Ald. Turner moved an amendment that the city account be left at the Bank of Toronto. Ald. McIntyre seconded the motion, which was carried, only Alds. Edgar and Phelan voting against it.

No City League Game For Holiday Morning

Local fans will be glad to learn that the postponed game between Matthews-Blackwell and the Great War Veterans will likely be played on Friday night at Riverside Park instead of on Saturday morning as originally planned. This change will be appreciated because it permits a and representative team to do battle for the Peterborough Central Ontario League team in the opening game at Oshawa on the holiday. Members of the Veterans and Matthews-Blackwell teams had been chosen for the Central Ontario League line-up and had the proposed arrangement gone through to play the postponed City League game on Saturday morning, these players would not have been available.

The fans will applaud this decision of the City League not to interfere with the chances of the Central Ontario League Club, and the local league will gain support for itself that would have been lost if the other league had been interfered with.

ORIENTALS, VS. DE LAVALS TO-NIGHT

The Orientals and De Lavals will meet in a City League game at Riverside Park to-night at 6.45 o'clock. The grounds have dried rapidly this afternoon, and will be in good shape for to-night's battle. Either Prest or Galbraith will pitch for De Laval, while McNeeley will be on the rubber for the Orientals.

TURNBULLS WON TWO FROM LAWN BOWLERS.

Last night in the Five-Pin League at the Water Street Alleys, Turnbulls took two from the Lawn Bowlers, putting them tie with the Lawn Bowlers in second place. For Turnbulls Villeneuf had the high three-games with 523; for the Lawn Bowlers Maynard was high with 508.

PERMIT CARDS DISAPPEAR FROM PUBLIC PLACES

refusal by certain employers to grant unpleasant collective bargaining that had caused the strike, that the principle should be universally accepted, and that the government should make it unlawful for employers to refuse to agree to collective bargaining. Mr. Wilton himself thought it was quite possible such legislation would be passed.

Working

Vice-President Newton, of the G.W.V.A. said that most of the members of the Association were working men and sympathised with all legitimate demands of labour. As an organisation, however, he continued, they must remain neutral.

Reports were received from two committees of the G.W.V.A. who had been sent to Strikers' and Citizens' committee respectively to look after the interests of returned soldiers.

It was Comrade Bathie who reported for the first committee. He said the strike leaders were giving clear, strong, white management of the strike and were anxious for order, and asked the Veterans to co-operate in the maintenance of order.

Comrade Eadie, who had gone to see the Citizens' committee, had informed that body that the G.W.V.A. was anxious only to see law and order maintained.

During the meeting it was announced that the postmaster had been asked to allow postal clerks to deliver gratuity cheques for returned soldiers, but the answer was that no such special privilege could be allowed. Objection was raised to the action of an officer and six men who, it was alleged, had gone to one of the citizens' fire halls and had said they had been sent as volunteer firemen from the G.W.V.A. The answer was that an officer had volunteered but that he denied saying he had been sent by the organization.

DELIVERIES RESUMED.

Department stores made their first morning delivery since the strike began. No disturbance of note was reported. Provincial officials declared they were convinced that the danger point in the situation was passed. Union leaders who commented upon this remark said never had there been any intention of violence. Members of the Central Strike Committee who were in conference from yesterday morning until late last night resumed deliberations. Mayor Gray expected the main problems surrounding the strike would be disposed of shortly. At the Board of Trade, where the Citizens' Committee was in session, several members of the committee declared that "the strike was broken." Efforts to obtain a statement from the union forces were not successful.

The aggressive resumption of the commercial enterprises in Winnipeg, which had been paralyzed by the general strike of union men, began this forenoon, while high Government officials were conferring with the union leaders regarding the settlement of the industrial disagreement. The general strike has been in progress one week.

Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labour, and Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, and also the Minister of Justice, arrived from Ottawa. They declined to comment upon the situation prior to a conference with the Central Strike Committee. The Winnipeg Free Press published an extra edition this forenoon.

One is Bringing an English Bride From Liverpool.

HAVELOCK, May 23.—Corp. George Quackenbush, of Havelock, who enlisted in the 93rd Battalion, arrived home on Wednesday of last week, bringing with him a winsome English bride from Liverpool. Corp. Quackenbush is a son of Mr. Samuel Quackenbush, of South Lake, and will reside here for some time, but eventually intends going to the western provinces. Corp. Quackenbush was wounded in both thighs at Vimy Ridge, but has entirely recovered from the effects of the Hun's grenades.

Home From Siberia.

Pte. Ray Williams, who enlisted in the 1st Canadian Tank Battalion, arrived home from overseas on Monday night and is receiving a cordial welcome home by his many friends.

Was Kicked on the Nose by a Cow

Joseph Catarack, of Havelock, passed away on Saturday morning of last week, in his 61st year. The deceased was kicked on the nose by a cow on March 16th last, and his system became impregnated with poison from the injury, resulting in his death. The late Mr. Catarack was one of Havelock's oldest citizens and was most widely known and respected by all. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. C. Graham, to mourn his loss, and the sympathy of a host of friends goes out to the bereaved family. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon to the Maple Grove cemetery, services being held in St. John's church at 2 o'clock by the Rev. C. E. Emerson.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of our Dear Son and Brother, Sig. Earl Jos. Downey, who died of wounds in France, May 22nd, 1917.
No one knows how much we miss him,
Some may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
That's within our hearts concealed.
For our hearts still cling to memories
Of one who has gone to rest.
And those who think of him to-day
Are those who loved him best.

It strengthens and relieves the whole Digestive Tract. This preparation used in connection with proper diet and nerve sedatives, gives the most satisfying results in Nervous Dyspepsia and Hyperacidity.

Even the old chronic cases show a decided improvement under treatment with this remedy.

SOLE HEIR OF TWO LARGE FORTUNES WAS KILLED BY AN AUTOMOBILE

VINSON WALSH M'LEAN STRUCK IN ROAD NEAR HOME—POLICE SEEKING DRIVER OF CAR—ANOTHER TRAGEDY IN WAKE OF HOPE DIAMOND.

HIS PARENTS IN THE SOUTH

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Vinson Walsh McLean, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean, was struck by an automobile on the highway in front of his father's country estate, Friendship, in the Northwestern suburbs of Washington, and died from cerebral hemorrhage at 7 o'clock the same night.

The tragedy, which caused general sorrow throughout Washington, occurred while the boy's parents were out of the city, and snapped out the life of the boy, who became known when an infant as "the $100,000,000 baby," because he was the sole heir of the Walsh and McLean fortunes, which were united when Edward Reale McLean, now owner of The Washington Post and the Cincinnati Enquirer, married Miss Evelyn Walsh only daughter of the late Thomas F. Walsh, the Colorado mining millionaire, who lived the latter part of his life in Washington.

The boy was playing on the road, according to police reports, when a car driven by a woman and containing three other women, struck him and knocked him down, the car passing over his body. The women picked him up and took him to his home, then slipped away without leaving their names. Their car, the police believe, bore a West Virginia license.

Parents Speeding North

In the absence of Mr. and Mrs. McLean, who are in Louisville, the servants immediately summoned physicians from Baltimore and Major George Miller, of Philadelphia, an army surgeon, who was in the vicinity, gave the lad prompt medical attention. Despite an operation performed by Dr. L. F. Baker, of Baltimore, the boy rapidly grew worse and died while his father and mother were speeding northward in a special train from Louisville.

The police of three states are now looking for the driver of the car, which is described by the McLean servants as a small one, probably a Ford. The servants were so excited over the accident that they gave their attention to the lad and allowed the women who carried the injured boy into the house to slip away without asking their names or any details of the accident.

Vincent Walsh, only son of Thos. F. Walsh, was killed some years ago in an automobile accident at Newport. His death made his sister, Evelyn Walsh, now Mrs. McLean, the sole heir to the Walsh millions. His father was so solicitious over the safety of the baby that he employed private detectives to watch and constantly safeguard him. The parents had always feared that the newspaper publicity that he received might lead to an attempt to kidnap him.

Hope Diamond Recalled

When news of the death of the boy spread throughout Washington it was at once remarked that this was another tragedy to be added to the long string of misfortunes that had followed the successive owners of the famous Hope Diamond. After the marriage of Mr. McLean and Miss Walsh he bought the Hope Diamond, and became involved in a suit over it. He presented it to his wife at a large ball given in his Washington home, but it reposes most of the time in the valuts of a local trust company.

Friendship, the country home of the McLeans, opposite which the accident occurred, is the place where Nicholas Longworth and Alice Roosevelt spent their honeymoon immediately after their marriage at the White House during the Roosevelt Administration.

CATTLE MARKET

Winnipeg quotations received over a private wire at the Toronto office of Logan and Bryan, show Manitoba oats slightly easier, but barley is still going strong in that market. Rye and barley also are higher at Chicago under the influence of the latest developments in the anti-prohibition campaign. In the local market, the cash situation continues strong on all the coarse grains. Peas are quoting 5c. higher. Corn markets were strong yesterday, with light offerings, though there is evidently a more bearish tone developing.

MRS. BALFAME

Her chest was rising under quick heartbeats, stirring the soft nest of ribbon and lawn under the lace of her gown, a part of the picture that he did not appreciate until later; at the moment he was observing her dilated eyes, the strained muscles of her nostrils and mouth. He found himself interested in feminine psychology for the first time in his life; and as he hated a liar above all transgressors, he wondered why he inconsistently delighted in not being able to comprehend this complex little creature, and at the same time hoped, his own breathing almost as irregular as hers, that she would continue to lie. But he pushed on. He had a dim sense that far more tremendous issues were at stake than further proof of his client's guilt, and deep in his soul was an ache to feel reassured that staggering old ideals might yet be reinforced with vitality.

"Have you told Jim Broderick that Dr. Anna accuses Mrs. Balfame?"

"Of course not. He would be climbing the porch the first dark night."

"Have you been tempted to tell him?"

She shrank farther back and looked up at him under lowered lids. "Tempted? What—why should I? Well, I haven't told him, or any one. That is all that matters."

"Exactly. I only meant, of course, that I have a reprehensible masculine disbelief in the ability of a woman to keep a secret. I might have known you would be the exception, as you are to so many rules. And I mean that. But Broderick is an old friend of yours and preternaturally keen on the case."

"Oh!"

"You haven't told me why you in particular believe so firmly in my client's guilt. You are the last person to be influenced by either the ravings of a typhoid patient—hallucinations, generally—or any of the sentimental and romantic theories of these half-baked women that spend their leisure taking on flesh, playing bridge, and running over to New York. If you believe Mrs. Balfame is guilty you must have some fairly good reasons—perhaps proof."

She could not guess that he was trying her; she imagined his insistence due to apprehension, a desire to know the worst. The hour she had dreaded and desired had come—and she had almost let its opportunities escape! These last weeks in New York filled with work and novel distraction had repoised her, unconsciously. She had begun to doubt, some time since, if she would be able to violate her old standards when the test came; but not for a moment had she ceased with all the concentrated forces of her being to long for his desertion of Mrs. Balfame. And if she had rejoiced sometimes that she was incapable of a demoralizing act, she had at others been equally disgusted with her failure in inexorable purpose. She told herself that the big brains were ruthless, able to hold down and out of sight one side of the character they governed while giving the hidden forces for evil full play; never in wantonness, of course, but in sternly calculated necessity. She had a suspicion that this was just the form of greatness Mrs. Balfame possessed, and it increased her disesteem of self and inspired her with a second form of jealousy.

The bitter tides were welling to the surface once more. She asked abruptly: "Is Sarah Austin's theory true? Are you in love with Mrs. Balfame?"

"What has that to do with it?"

"It has its bearings."

"I don't think I should be expected to answer that question. I can say this, however: that as long as she is my client and in jail, I shall have no time to think of personal matters—of love, above all. My job is to get her off, and it occupies about sixteen hours out of the twenty-four. I oughtn't to be here, but relief—distraction—is imperative, now and again—"

"It would be too delightful if you would come here when you wanted both." Her tones were polite without being eager, but she found it impossible to smile.

"Yes, I will; but I shall ignore the subject we are discussing—rest does not lie precisely that way! For that reason we'll finish up now. Why do you believe Mrs. Balfame guilty?"

"If I could prove to you that she was, would you throw over the case?"

He hesitated and regarded her fixedly for a moment through narrowed lids. "Yes," he said finally. "I would get one of the men whose firm I expect to join the first of the year to take the case."

She sat erect once more and twisted her hands together, but tried to smile impersonally as she returned his gaze. "Would you then have time to love her?"

Again he hesitated, although he was beginning to hate himself; he felt as if he had some beautiful wild thing of his woods in a trap but an imperious inner necessity urged him on. "Probably not. Now will you tell me?"

"Now?"

She slipped to the floor and confronted him, holding her small head very high. No doubt the upward movement was unconscious in its expression, but he thought her very lovely and proud as she stood there, and for the first time he took note of the subtlety in that delicate mobile face.

"I really know nothing," she said lightly. "It is just this: if you or any other innocent person were in danger, I should feel called upon to unravel certain clues. Naturally I should make no move otherwise. Mrs. Balfame is an old friend of ours—and then—well, our local pride may be absurd, but there it is. We must watch Jim Broderick. He has discovered the intimacy between Dr. Anna and Mrs. Balfame, and also—what all know here—that they were alone together during those last morning hours following the murder. I'll warn my aunt. He really could n't get at her—not now, at all events! what he is after, of course, is not so much corroboration, but a new and sensational story to keep the case going. And, of course, as it was the press that ran Mrs. Balfame to earth, a statement from a woman of Dr. Anna's standing justifying it would be an immense triumph."

She had moved over to a table against the farther wall, and she struck a match and applied it to the wick of an alcohol lamp. "I am going to make you a cup of tea. It will rest without overstimulating you, and you must go right from here to bed. I'm sorry Mother doesn't keep whiskey in the house—"

"I don't drink when I'm on a case. That's one advantage I generally have over the other side. It will be delightful to drink tea with you once more, although I'm free to say that outside of this house I never drank a cup of tea in my life."

The atmosphere was as agreeably light as if ponderable clouds had rolled out of the room. Two young people drew up to a smaller table and drank several cups of tea that had stood three minutes, nibbled excellent biscuit, and talked about the War.

CHAPTER XXVII

Three days before the date set for the opening of the trial, Mrs. Balfame deferred to the advice of her counsel and friends and received the women reporters—not only the four depending upon Miss Crumley, but a representative of every Woman's Page in New York and Brooklyn.

They presented themselves in a body at three o'clock in the afternoon and were conducted upstairs by the fluttered Mrs. Larks, who had anticipated them with all the chairs in the jail. They crowded into the little sitting room, and were given time to dispose themselves before the door leading into the bed room opened and Mrs. Balfame entered.

She bowed composedly and, with a slight diffident smile, walked to the chair reserved for her. Her weeds were relieved by white crepe at the neck and wrists, but to two of the newspaper women who had interviewed her a year since as the founder of the Friday and the Country clubs, she had lost her haunting air of girlhood: there was not a line in her beautiful skin nor a gleam of silver in her abundant brown hair, but she had suddenly entered upon the full maturity of her years, and what she may have lost in charm they decided she had gained in subtle force. The other women agreed that she looked as cold and chaste as Diana, quite incapable of any of those mortal passions that drive fallible Earthians into crime.

It was an ordeal, and she drew a long breath.

"You—you wish to interview me?" Miss Sarah Austin, whose brilliant parts were generally recognized, and whose creative fervour was suspected by few, had been elected to the office, of spokeswoman and replied promptly:

"Indeed we do, Mrs. Balfame, and before asking you any of the tiresome questions without which there could be no interview, we should be glad to know if you read the woman's pages in our newspapers and realize that we are all friends and shout our belief in your innocence from the housetops?"

"Yes, oh yes," murmured Mrs. Balfame stiffly, but with a more spontaneous smile. "That is the reason I finally consented to see you. I do not like being interviewed. But you have been very kind, and I am very grateful."

"If I Could Only Get Rid of These Headaches"

"GOODNESS knows, I have tried enough treatments for it. I think I have used nearly all the tablets and wafers and powders there are at the drug store.

"And what is the result? I am getting more rundown all the time, and the headaches are worse than ever.

"Of course, they help at the time, save me a little suffering, but I have the headaches now oftener than ever before, and my nervous system has all gone to pieces.

"The doctor says my blood is thin, and that I do not get the nourishment from my food that is required to feed the nerve cells and keep up the vitality of the system.

"I have been reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and this letter from Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis street, Brantford, Ont., seems to about describe my case.

"I am tired of taking medicines for temporary relief, and am going to see if Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will not build me up and make a complete cure."

This is Mrs. Simmons' letter:

Mrs. F. G. Simmons, 42 Curtis street, Brantford, Ont., writes:

"For about eight years I suffered from anaemia. My circulation was poor, my gums and lips were pale, and my hands and feet were always cold. I was nervous and unable to sleep well. I had frequent headaches, seemed restless and easily worried or irritated. There was a buzzing sound in my ears. Indigestion was also one of my complaints, and I often was attacked by weak spells. As nothing seemed to improve my condition, I went to a doctor, who told me I was anaemic, and that the climate of this country did not agree with me. But as I did not get any better I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I had heard a great deal about. After the first box I felt brighter and my headaches completely disappeared. I continued using the Nerve Food for quite a while, and now I feel better than I have since I came from Scotland eight years ago. I am quite well now, and cheerfully and gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to people suffering as I did before I used this splendid medicine."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates Co., Limited, Toronto. The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box.

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

"THE HANG OVER"

(By B. F. GADSBY.)

This Parliament so far as I can see is acting like a hang-over. I am not an authority on hang-overs, but I am informed that a hang-over is a demoused and befuddled condition arising out of excesses the night before. The victim's mind feels like a scrambled egg, and to get it back to a tolerable state of clarity much money is spent on John Collinses and other tonics.

About a billion and a half of dollars was sunk in the war. It was the greatest spending jag Canada ever had. We got used to throwing money around and now we cannot break ourselves of the habit. We are still drunk with the blood-red extravagance of four years, and, being drunk we have the customary illusion of riches which is not borne out by the famished state of the treasury. We ought to be saving—pinching pennies—but we go on spending. A hundred million dollars on Government railways,—three hundred and fifty million dollars after-the-war-vote —seventy million dollars credit to three busted countries in Europe. These are the cocktails and Collinses on which we sustain false hopes—filling ourselves with the east wind and calling it nourishment. Parliament gulps down its cocktails without fluttering an eye, sticks its thumb in its vest pockets, and says "How clever am I!" It does not choose to think of the day of reckoning when the accounts can no longer be squared with stage money. A sensible man just naturally hates to reflect on the exiguity of the gold reserve which carries all this high finance.

The announcement is made that there will be another domestic loan in the fall. That is to say we shall borrow from Peter to pay Paul. We are going to lift ourselves by our bootstraps again. One loan washes the other. It is even on the cards that we may use the principal of the last loan to pay interest on the others This procrastinating finance must come to a show-down somewhere. The most cheerful observers predict an annual deficit of one hundred million dollars—which is approximately the interest on the war debt—and having predicted that they throw up their hands—I am thinking now of Frank Carvell's gloomy candor—and say, "Heaven knows how we are going to get it!"

There is one way to get it, of course,—more taxes—but this is a Union Government, meaning that it consists of two parties which are afraid of each other. It follows that neither party will do anything to get in wrong with the taxpayers, and matters are at a stand-still. Union Government is willing enough to share office but it draws the line at sharing blame. It prefers to pass the back to various boards and commissions which will stave off the evil day by dilatory proceedings. Like the old woman who lived in a shoe, Union Goverment has so many troubles that it doesn't know what to do. It doesn't know what to do because it doesn't want to do it—begin taxing —so the shoe goes on pinching.

There are signs and omens that Union Government is beginning to fade away and gradually die. The country is ahead of Parliament in its yearning to get back to party lines, but even the politicians are commencing to hanker for the system by which a man might say the thing he willed in open meeting instead of breathing it to his shirt front or not saying it at all. Fielding has served notice that he will shift at the right time; Carvell has more than once cast a wistful eye at the Opposition benches; Crerar has spilled a bean or two just to show what he will do with the pailful when the need arises; Maharg has to the moon complained; the twenty free trade seats in the West threatened to take the soft pedla off; Dr. iMchael Clark has shifted to the cross benches to be nearer his former opinions; and Fred Pardee has gone over body, bones and breeches to his old friends.

All these things go to apprise Union Government that the rapids are near and the daylight is past, and that the budget speech—which cannot be postponed much longer—may be the final plunge. There can be hardly any doubt that both parties are waiting for somebody to lead them out of the wilderness. And their waiting is more than watchful—it is eager. In a word Union Government is a hang-over from the war and it displays the mental confusion incidental to that low state of health It is true that every other Parliament in the civilized world is in the same state of hang-over, but that doesn't make it any the more pleasant for the governed classes either.

This mental fog, as I said before, is evidenced chiefly in our weird financing. Whenever I see a crowd in the Chateau Laurier lobby—and there is a new one every day except Sunday —I know that it is another band of patriots invading the capital to grab a "credit." A lot of money was raised in Victory Loans and of course everybody with something to sell has to "get his bit." Nobody stands to lose but the people who put up the "bit." The process is simple but effective. The manufacturers of woolens or tinware or ploughs or cement or bacon, or whatever it may be, sells to a bankrupt country in Europe, accepts a long-time note with Canada's name the back of it, and discounts it at the Dominion Treasury. As Omar Khayyam might have put it, had he known anything of post-bellum finance—he takes our cash and lets their credit go.

We must have money to burn because we go on burning it. Not only do we plunge into new expenditures in the name of export trade,but we even neglect to make such retrenchments as we can. Being in the hang-over stage we are too low-spirited to lift a finger and so we allow war boards and commissions that have outlived their usefulness to go on drawing pay when there is no work to do. The Repatriation and Employment Committee, although quite dead as far as public service is concerned, goes on speaking to the extent of two hundred thousand dollars a year. The Censor's Department lags superfluous at the rate of one hundred thousand dollars a year; so does the Department of Public Information—another hundred thousand. Nobody is cruel enough to lift anybody else out of an unnecessary job.

Two thirds of the inside Civil Service ought to be fired and the other third hired at better wages but nothing has been done except to "classify it," which means more pay all round. The war bureaus are crowded with women clerks whose occupation is gone but who are kept on because they have acquired the sealskin-sacques and silk-stocking habit and don't want to go back to their dishpans. The man who will lift his hand against a woman—on the pay roll—is a brute. Union Government is nothing if not a chivalrous to the fair sex, but it runs into a lot of money.

It's all due to the hang-over. Not only are we spending money that we haven't got but we are also throwing money away that we can get. Having denied ourselves any intoxication, save that of throwing money to the birds, we part cheerfully with the twenty-two million dollars a year that we might draw in revenue from the sale of liquor. Twenty-two million dollars a year is what we pay for our remorse. It appears that our remorse is melting, because Quebec has gone partly wet. And just here hangs a tale. Quebec has not gone as wet as she expected to be because a Dominion order-in-council, dated February 24, prevents her drinking anything that she does not manufacture within her own borders. Beer she can have but whoever heard of the wine of Quebec? Unable to make wine of her own, or to import it from Ontario or France, all Quebec gets out of her effort for freedom is small-beer. No doubt the order-i-council will be amended if not by the Commons, by the Senate, so that the will of the Quebec people will not be defeated. But the question arises. Why what order-in-council of February 24? An order-in-council passed four days after Parliament was on the job in the face of an expected plebiscite in Quebec which might make it look like thirty cents. What reason for this order-in-council—except perhaps the precipitancy of Mr. Rowell?

The gossip runs that a great deal of the prohibition slipped over by means of the War Measures Act is ultra vires of the Canadian constitution in times of peace. The British North America Act forbids interference with inter-provincial trade and a test case will soon be on the way.

An Investor Need Not Be a Capitalist

Many people think it is necessary to have a lot of money in order to invest in high interest-bearing securities.

They envy the Capitalist because he has money to buy bonds and shares that earn him more money without further effort.

But to-day the humblest wage earner can be an investor and get big returns.

War Savings Stamps have made it possible.

You can get a War Savings Stamp for $4.00. It is a Government Bond, bearing interest at over 4½%, and in 1924 will be redeemed for $5.00.

Thrift Stamps help you to save up the $4.00 necessary to get one of these Bonds. A Thrift Stamp costs 25 cents, and sixteen of them can be exchanged for a War Savings Stamp.

Thus you can start being an investor as soon as you have $4.00, and build up as big an investment as you choose.

In May W-S.S. Cost $4.04
In June W-S.S. Cost $4.08

KNOW your bicycle before you buy. A cheap assembled wheel with its parts purchased from far and wide "at a price" may look like a good bicycle, but is it? The firms making some of the parts may put good honest value into their products; others may not, or cannot. One bad part will ruin your wheel. You take the risk—and it is a costly one. Exactly the opposite policy is pursued in the making of

C·C·M· Bicycles

We make in our own splendid factory at Weston practically all the parts required in the finished bicycle—a larger proportion than does any other bicycle manufacturer in America. This serves a double purpose:

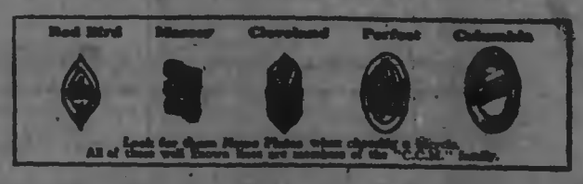
1st.—It gives us the opportunity of scrutinizing every detail of workmanship and material.

2nd.—It gives employment in Canada to the largest possible number of Canadian workmen.

This policy has been maintained since the inception of the Canada Cycle & Motor Company. It has given our wheels a character and dependability unrivalled in the Dominion. In other words, it means 100 per cent. service.

C.C.M. Bicycles in every part give maximum service and satisfaction, and every part is guaranteed. This means extra years of service.

In case of accident you can renew C.C.M. parts without loss of time. C.C.M. dealers are to be found almost everywhere in Canada. Ride a C.C.M. bicycle.



Look for these Name Plates when choosing a Bicycle. All of these well known lines are members of the "C.C.M." family.

The many friends of Miss Bertie Lamb will be sorry to hear she has had to give up her position in Toronto and rest for some time.

A Presentation.

On Wednesday evening last the members of the Presbyterian Sunday school and friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Windrim met at their home and presented them with a miscellaneous shower. Many beautiful and costly gifts were presented them. Two contests of much interest were reasoned out and occupied the minds of those present for a considerable time. The evening was interspersed with music, after which light refreshments were served.

Friends of Miss Ella McCrea will be sorry to hear she is in the Peterborough hospital in a run-down condition.

Pte. J. Carey arrived in town last week from overseas and is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Carey.

Mrs. (Rev.) James expects to sail for England on Thursday to visit her mother, whom she has not seen for nineteen years. Her many friends wish her a safe and pleasant journey.

The regular meeting of the E.V.W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. Widdis. The election of officers took place also other business was transacted. The annual meeting in June will be held at the home of Mrs. George McQuade, when the delegate will be present to address the meeting. The following are the officers for the coming year:

President—Mrs. Jeff Widdis.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. (Dr.) Earle.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Miss Lila Parsons.
Sec.-Treas.—Mrs. R. J. Cornwall.
District representative— Mrs. Geo. McQuade.

Flower and Sick committee— Mrs. Isaac Fee, Mrs. F. Clemett, Mrs. Earnest MacPherson, Mrs. L. Mahood.

Auditors— Mrs. J. Weir, Mrs. H. Lamb, Mrs. Wilbert Fee.

A full house welcomed the Millbrook entertainers on Monday evening, and without a doubt each received full value for his money. The S. S. orchestra was a pleasing feature of the evening as was Mr. Clarke, of Peterborough, with his banjo selections.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Venetian Episode

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Many years ago, when the principal method of getting rid of an enemy or a rival was either by the stiletto in the dark or by poison, there lived in Venice one Andrea Casini, a gentleman of wealth, whose only daughter, Lita, was just coming to a marriageable age. The Palazzo Casini stood on the bank of the Grand canal, between the Rialto and St. Mark's.

Marriages among the Venetians were at that time usually contracted for by the parents of the bridegroom. But in this case, Signorina Casini having fallen in love with a young man of equal rank with herself, no objection was made to their union. Signor Ricardo Centimiri was a young man of wealth and family, respected by every one and the match was regarded as an excellent one.

One afternoon, when the Grand canal was a promenade for the wealthy denizens of Venice, Signorina Casini and her fiance were riding in the latter's gondola, bowing to their friends and acquaintances as they passed. A stranger from Rome was also riding in a gondola with a view to seeing the beauty and fashion of Venice and on meeting Signorina Casini was struck with her beauty.

This man was one of the De' Medici family, who in its time played an important part in the history of Italy and whose members committed so many crimes, though his relationship came through his mother. His name was Lorenzo Crispi. On seeing Signorina Casini he inquired who she was and on being informed took measures to secure an introduction.

When an Italian noble of those days, especially a De' Medici, saw a woman he wished to possess, he stopped at nothing. Crispi visited the Palazzo Casini and, being a member of the most powerful family in Italy, was received with marked favor. Though he knew that Signorina Lita was betrothed to Ricardo Centimiri, he proposed for her hand.

The proposal interrupted the pleasant conditions with reference to the engagement of Lita and Ricardo, for Signor Casini insisted upon his daughter breaking with him and accepting Crispi. This at once threw the lovers into a sea of trouble. Lorenzo Crispi, having made his proposition, pretended to leave the matter to be settled by the Casini family, but really had determined that Lita should be his bride.

Signor Casini found it more difficult to force his daughter to give up her lover and marry Crispi than he had supposed. After much persuasion and many threats he told Crispi that he feared he must forego the honor done him by a member of the distinguished De' Medici family, for his daughter was so wrapped up in Ricardo Centimiri that it would be impossible to force her to break with him. Had Signor Crispi made the proposal earlier Signor Casini had no doubt that all would have gone well. Crispi simply bowed to indicate his sorrowful obedience to the young lady's wishes.

Soon after this Crispi saw Ricardo debark from his gondola at the steps of the Palazzo Casini. Crispi ordered his own gondolier to draw up at the steps and followed Centimiri to the house, calling for Signor Casini. Learning that Casini was not at home, but was expected shortly, Crispi went into the library to wait for him.

Meanwhile Ricardo and Lita were in another room conferring as to how they could parry the efforts that were being made to force Lita to marry the stranger from Rome. Crispi saw a lackey pass through the hall with wine and glasses on a salver. Stopping the servant, he drank a glass of the wine and asked the man to whom he was taking it. The latter told him that it was for Signorina Casini and her guest.

"Present my compliments to the signorina and ask if I may be permitted to join her," said Crispi.

Permission could not well be refused, and Crispi was shown to the room where the lovers were.

"I desire," he said, with a profound bow, "to congratulate you both on your engagement. I wish you, signorina, as great happiness as I feel disappointment for myself."

Responding to these self sacrificing words, the lovers proceeded to reciprocate, the three pledging one another in a glass of wine. Centimiri was deceived, but Lita was not. She believed that Crispi had some sinister intention and resolved to be on her guard with a view to thwarting it. Presently she asked to be excused for a few moments and left the rivals together. Taking position in a room where she could see and could not be seen, she saw Crispi, when Centimiri was not observing him, drop something in his rival's glass.

She re-entered the room, and Crispi said to her:

"I was just about to ask Signor Centimiri to pledge me in token of his good will. May I ask the same of you?"

Lita consented. Taking up one of the three glasses on the table she handed it to Ricardo, the one Crispi had tampered with she handed to him and took the third herself.

"Let us drink," she said, "to a long friendship between us."

Over Crispi's face came a look that showed his realization of his defeat. Touching the glass to his lips, he set it down and, turning, left them without a word. The same day he left Venice.

When Earthquakes Come.

That animals are sensitive to the approach of earthquakes is a fact frequently observed, and the more recent seismic troubles in various countries give numerous examples of this singular faculty which many animals possess. For instance, in Japan horses set up an unusual agitation whenever a seismic shock is near at hand. In Central America dogs and cats flee from houses, and the inhabitants have become so accustomed to this that they follow the example of the animals and leave their dwellings so as to escape danger.

In Italy it has been observed that birds left their nests and flew up to a great height in the air, but this without noise before the earthquake took place. However, at the time when the earthquake shocks were produced the birds uttered cries which lasted for all the duration of the earthquake.

It is asserted that in Sicily cocks crow and dogs howl just before an earthquake.—Chicago News.

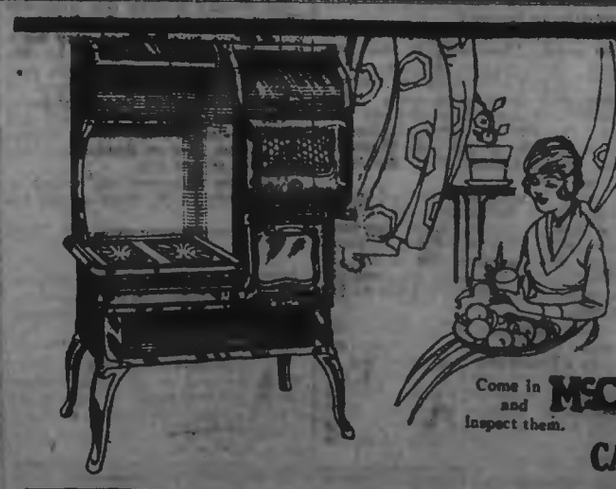
Power of the Supreme Court.

"The supreme court of the United States," writes Christian Bonnet in Case and Comment, "exercises a power which we think is unique in the world, to pass upon the constitutionality of the statutes enacted by congress. It may thus suspend the execution of the resolutions lawfully adopted by both houses.

"The French courts have the right to interpret the law. They cannot refuse to do so under pretext that the law is not clear or that it is silent or insufficient. By so doing the judge becomes guilty of a misdemeanor called 'denial of justice,' and he is punished by a fine and deprived of all civil rights for a period varying from five to twenty years. But no court in France, not even the court of cassation, has the power to decide whether a law passed by congress is unconstitutional or not."

Too Many Non-Fighters.

Of twenty-seven officers in the Pay Office of Toronto Military District fifteen have been overseas, and of 104 non-commissioned officers and men only 21 have served outside of Canada. There is need for the planting of a good many more returned fighting men in that warm nest.



In all McClary's Models, unusual conveniences are found. The exposed surfaces are covered with hard-baked black enamel, which needs no blackleading. Every part of McClary's Gas Ranges, including inside of the oven, can be cleaned with a damp cloth. Many types to choose from.

OLD TRADER PASSES.

Alexander Mackenzie Formed Link to the Past.

The name of Alexander Mackenzie binds all the rest in the history of Canada's northland. The great explorer and fur trader, who in the closing years of the eighteenth century journeyed first to the Arctic and then to the Pacific, and who is constantly recalled to us by the Mackenzie river, received world-wide recognition for his achievements. Napoleon Bonaparte was among those most profoundly impressed by the importance of his work of exploration.

But there has been another Alexander Mackenzie in recent years, whose name and fame counted for much in the northland itself, though he was practically unknown to the outside world. He died on Jan. 15 last, at Peace River, Alberta, in his 78th year. He was a native of the Province of Quebec, and after being educated in Scotland, entered the service of the Hudson Bay Company in 1863.

For forty years he was one of its officers, serving it with much distinction at many different posts all along the Mackenzie and its tributaries. Fifteen years ago he was pensioned and has since made his home six miles below the town of Peace River, near the point where the Peace is joined by the Smoky. The ruins of one of the oldest posts of the company are adjacent to his farm.

Since settlers began to arrive in large numbers in the Peace River country and the railway was built the romantic aspect of the fur trade has largely disappeared. Mr. Mackenzie was to a unique degree a link with the old days. In winter time he always wore what was at the time he entered the employ of the company the distinctive costume of the trader.

A photograph, which was found on his body at his death, the only one copy, it is believed, being in existence, shows him in that costume. From it a person can easily appreciate how picturesque a figure he was and what a source of interest he was to those whose good fortune it was to meet him.

Those who have visited the town of Peace River must have been impressed by the great height of the river banks there. At a point 740 feet above the water there is a grave, that of "Twelve-Foot" Davis, one of the earliest of the country's sturdiest free-traders, in a fur-trading, not in a fiscal sense. Davis and Mackenzie were strong rivals for many years.

Davis was first buried at Grouard, but his remains were afterwards taken by James K. Cornwall—a much younger free-trader who is now the commanding officer of a railway battalion in France, where he has won the D.S.O. and the Croix de Guerre—and reinterred at what was believed to be the highest point on the hills above Peace River. Over them Lt.-Col. Cornwall subsequently placed a monument.

The grave at that great height recalls, that on the Matoppo Hills, where Cecil Rhodes rests, Cornwall, being an intimate admirer of the career of Rhodes, probably had this plan of honoring the memory of his friend Davis suggested to him by the provision which the South African Empire builder made for his final resting place.

The writer visited Peace River in the autumn of 1916, and met Mr. Mackenzie. The conversation came around to the grave of "Twelve-Foot" Davis, and his old-time rival then stated that he knew of a higher spot on the other side of the river, where he intended to be buried. But his grave is in Mount Pleasant Cemetery just outside the town and, so far as his executors have learned up to the present, he made no definite request or provision to be buried on the heights.

When he turned from trading to farming, he and his sons made a very considerable success of the latter. His enterprise is shown by the fact that he brought the first threshing machine into the district and the machinery for the first grist mill.

It is a familiar charge against old Hudson Bay men that they were never prepared to concede the possibilities of agriculture in the country over which they had traded. But this could never be preferred against Mr. Mackenzie. He had the most abundant faith that the northland would sustain a very large population.

He had kept extensive notes of his experiences during fifty-five years along the northern rivers, and these should prove of the utmost historical value.

THERE IS DANGER IN TENDER GUMS

To preserve healthy teeth the ordinary tooth-paste is futile. You must first care for the gums, on which tooth health depends.

How many people think of this? Yet four out of five people over forty suffer from gum-decay, or Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease).

At first the gums become tender, though actual gum-shrinkage is imperceptible. But in time receding gums will surely loosen your teeth, and then only a dentist can save them. The tender, bleeding gums of Pyorrhea also act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's (For the Gums) prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. This means that it prevents gum-shrinkage, gum-tenderness, gum-bleeding. So, automatically, Forhan's prevents tooth loosening.

Brush your teeth with it. It scientifically cleans the teeth—keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for treatment.

Forhan's FOR THE GUMS

The Time to Break It.

There is an anecdote in some volume of French theatrical memoirs narrating an experience of Mlle. Clairon, the great tragic actress, with a pupil of hers, a girl of strong natural gifts for the histrionic art, but far too frequent and too exuberant in her gesticulation. So when the pupil was once to appear before the public in a recitation Mlle. Clairon bound the girl's arms to her side by a stiff thread and sent her thus upon the stage.

With the first strong feeling she had to express the pupil tried to raise her arms only to be restrained by the thread. A dozen times in the course of her recitation she was prevented from making the gestures she desired until at the very end she could stand it no longer, and in the climax of her emotion she broke her bonds and swung her hands to her head.

When she came off the stage she went humbly to where Mlle. Clairon was standing in the wings and apologized for having snapped the thread.

"But you did quite right," said the teacher. "That was the time to make the gesture, not before."

A SUMMARY OF FARM CONDITIONS

MILK SUPPLY IS INCREASING WITH THE GRASS—FALL WHEAT LOOKS GOOD.

The following is a summary of reports made by Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

Spring seeding has been unusually difficult this season. Only a small portion of the acreage intended to be sown was put in previous to the long stretch of more or less rainy weather of the last five weeks. Rather than miss the season some farmers have recently "mudded in" some spring grain seed, but the ground has been too soggy most of the time for proper sowing. Sod land also is getting very grassy from the almost continuous moisture.

Generally speaking, not more than two-thirds the usual acreage of spring crops has been put in so far. Several representatives report that some farmers have been unable to get on the land to sow their grain.

The opinion is freely expressed that there will be less oats, barley and spring wheat sown than was put in last year, and that more corn, buckwheat, and millet, will be raised, and perhaps more peas.

From North Ontario reports come of the planting of early potatoes.

Halton states that an enlarged acreage of sugar beets will be used for the Kitchener factory, as last year's experience gave satisfaction.

Fruit Trees

Fruit trees and bushes are blossoming generously, taking the Province over. They appear to have escaped winter injury almost completely, but the serious damage done in the previous season is being further manifested.

Fall wheat is almost unanimously referred to as a splendid crop. It has never looked better in mid-May.

Clover has improved somewhat during the week. While patchy in places it has thickened up nicely with growth, and a fair general yield is now looked for. Alfalfa also promises well.

Fodder supplies, hay and ensilage especially, are running short in many quarters, as live stock have been slower than usual in getting on pasture.

Cattle are bringing good prices, from 12 to 17 cents being quoted for beef animals. Many cattle on grass, however, are looking rather thin. Farmers' Clubs are actively shipping live stock, and appear to be steadily growing in favour.

The milk flow is increasing with the grass. According to the Durham representative, a payment of $106 has just been made for fourteen days' milk from seven cows. Good fresh cows are selling at from $140 to $175. Cheese has been selling at from 29 3-16c to 31c a lb. Lanark's first cheese board calling the latter price.

Hogs have been going off somewhat slowly during the week at from $20 to $21.25 a cwt. Little pigs have sold at from $20 to $25 pair in Frontenac and at about $22 a pair in Brant, while in York six-week-old pigs were quoted at from $16 to $18 a pair.

Farm labourers are of course, still scarce. While some references are made to returned men appearing to prefer factory work to farming, the Halton representative states that: "A number of soldiers are taking practical training on the farms of this county, and are helping out the labour problem."

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM BAILIEBORO

BAILIEBORO, May 20.—Early on Friday morning last, Arthur S. Dean passed away at his home, Bailieboro, at the age of 55. The funeral service was largely attended on Sunday afternoon; the service being conducted by Rev. Capt. Spencer, of Millbrook. Deceased was a member of the Court of Foresters and of the Orange Lodge, from both of which there were many members to assist in the service.

Church Service

On Sunday evening the Methodist Church was almost crowded with worshippers who enjoyed very much the splendid address given by Mr. Jas. Fernie, on the war and the contrast between Germany's Gospel of Hate and the Allied Gospel of Love.

The local Court of Foresters will attend Divine Worship in the Methodist Church here on Sunday evening, June 1st, at 7.30 p.m.

Anxious to Eliminate the Soviet Feature of the Winnipeg Strike

GOVERNMENT HEADS HELD A CONFERENCE YESTERDAY—A FEW TRAINMEN WENT OUT.

LATEST DESPATCHES

Special to the Examiner:

NOYES, Minn., May 23.—All eyes were turned toward the Royal Alexander Hotel yesterday, where the conference of the Provincial Government representatives, Premier Norris and Hon. Thomas Johnson, was in progress with Hon. Arthur Meighen and Senator Robertson, Minister of Labour. General Ketchen was present and made a report on the situation. Meighen intimated to the local government that he was principally concerned in heading off the Soviet feature of the Winnipeg strike. If it triumphs here, the Minister said, there was the gravest danger of it spreading east and west across the continent. Senator Robertson was gravely interested in the attitude of the railway men. It was stated to the Minister by Premier Norris that there were some fears that the railway men might go out in a sympathetic strike. In fact some in Winnipeg and Brandon had gone out in sympathy and in error, but without the sanction of the International Executive, but the danger has passed for a time and was only local in its effect.

NO DOUBT OF SYMPATHY.

The Premier stated that there could be no doubt of sympathy of trainmen for the strikers. They were giving financial support generously, and had approved of their leaders taking an active part in urging on the local and civic governments the appeal and right of strikers for most favourable consideration.

"There is no doubt of the trainmen's earnestness in this work," the Premier asserted.

The first one to see Senator Robertson when he arrived was R. A. Rigg, a veteran of the war and a former member of the Legislature, who gave them in concise form the situation as viewed by the strike committee. Mr. Rigg is a man of very sensible and sane opinions. In all his past career he has been viewed by the public as a safe man in a crisis.

The conference will be continued by the Dominion Ministers with the Mayor and City Council, and Senator Robertson will see the Labour Committee this morning at ten o'clock. The Citizens' Committee predict a lively session with the Senator when they come in the session for his neglect of their 'rights while him to come at once to the city sent last week, and which he paid little attention to. The committee of 1,000 feel the neglect of the city government very keenly, judged by expressions heard.

BELOW NORMAL.

The "permit" cards have not gone back to theatres or delivery rigs. The Strike Committee, through Richard Devine, asked the theatres to put up another card with different wording, which will be issued by the Strike Committee, but they refused to do so until it was asked by the local government. Nothing has yet been done to interfere with the theatre employees, stage hands, musicians and moving picture operators by the strikers, and all are at work and seem satisfied. Business is about 40 per cent. of normal at picture houses, about 25 per cent. at drama and vaudeville houses and growing worse.

FEW DEATHS.

A wireless station has been rigged up on the roof of the "Free Press," the first point reached last night was in Virginia, three thousand miles away. An effort will be made to get in despatches, as there is no way of the papers getting in news of the outside world except by "permit" of the Strike Committee, which they will not consent to accept. Considerable wires are being received and sent by private and a few business houses by that way. All are of the most urgent character, and are censored by a delegate appointed by the strikers. The 'Free Press' got out two editions to-day, two small sheets welcome to the public. This will be continued daily, and there are hopes of a large paper being issued by Saturday. Remarkable facts reported by undertakers is the small death-rate this week compared to last. The people have no startling news to worry over, and an average of four deaths daily, compared to 8 and 9 last week, is the rule:

Members of the Women Citizens' Committee are giving partial operation of 'phones in the business district to-day.

CONDITIONS IMPROVING.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, Minn., May 23.—"No trouble at all," was how Engineer Brereton described the taking over of the city waterworks by volunteer engineers. Seven new men are on the job. The old staff kept full pressure all through. There was not a sign of disorder, Brereton said. City Solicitor T. A. Hunt interpreted the agreement between the city and city employees to mean that they could not strike under any circumstances, and that the sympathetic strikes were covered by this. He said he believed a complete breach of contract had been committed. The Citizens' Committee is understood to have asked the Council not to sanction any settlement or help to bring one about until the principle of public utilities being immune from sympathetic strikes has been settled once and for all. Most of the aldermen are agreed on this point, it is said. Mayor Gray, interviewed, said the situation was getting clearer and the chances of violence more remote. What may appear to be a link in connection with the strike is the interruption in the burial of the dead and disturbance of the arrangements for the interments. George Champion, superintendent of the city parks, in charge of the Brookside Cemetery, stated there are now five hundred bodies awaiting their final consignment to earth, and that no men were available for the purpose of digging graves.

On Tuesday thirty men were obtained, and the total number of interments to be made at once reduced to 400. Owing to a tie-up in the street railway and the failure of the telephones and mails to operate, it is quite impossible to notify relatives at what is being done, and it is difficult for them to be present at the sepulchre, even in cases where information is obtained. The cost of making the journey to the cemetery is in many cases prohibitive. One of the remarkable features of the situation is that while private grounds are being well cared for under the existing circumstances, the parks, which are the property of the average citizen, including all men and women on strike, are neglected. Even the old man who cares for the grass in a very small park in front of the General Hospital is on strike.

LITTLE PROGRESS.

James Winning, Ernest Robinson, R. Brussell and H. G. Veitch, representing the Central Strike Committee, conferred with Premier T. C. Norris and Mr. Johnson, and stated that the Labour leaders seemed anxious to have the general strike settled. Little progress was made, the Premier said, and a further conference was arranged. Mr. Robinson, when asked if the prospects of a settlement were brighter, said that it was impossible to make any statement on the situation. Representatives of the Strike Committee, he said, merely outlined their case and had not secured the statement from the Government. Representatives, with the Premier and the Attorney-General, declared that their executives had expressed the desire to maintain order and that they did not anticipate trouble.

A deputation of 24 delegates, representing running trades, and including engineers, conductors and porters, waited on Wednesday afternoon upon Premier Norris and members of the Manitoba Cabinet, and requested their intervention to secure a settlement of the strike. The deputation was handled by Tom Carroll, of the C.P.R., and with the best of care. It was explicitly declared that unless the strike was settled the running trades would be drawn into it. There are some even now ready to go over the top, said Mr. Best, and he indicated that there was a danger of the men taking the affair out of the hands of the officers. It was stated that the settlement would depend on the acceptance of conditions laid down by the Strike Committee re recognition of collective bargaining, recognition of the Building Trades Council and Metal Trades Council, and that all employees on strike should be reinstated without discrimination.

NEVER REPLIED.

What had been done by the Premier toward bringing the parties together was told the deputation by the Premier himself and Hon. Dr. Thornton, who stated that the offer made by Mr. Norris of the committee composed of two men, representing Labour and two employees with a neutral chairman, had never been replied to on behalf of the men. Premier Norris said he appreciated the earnestness of those comprising the deputation, and reminded them that the Government had not been unmindful of the industrial conditions of the Province before the present trouble. He referred to the passing last session of the Industrial Conditions Bill, under which everything bearing on the labour situation would be investigated with a view to preventing such culmination as the strike, and that the measure recognized organization by both employers and employed. Hon. Edward Brown mentioned that when the bill was before the committee of the Legislature, two men, who were now members of the Strike Committee, declared there could be no peace between capital and labour, and that it was not a question of wages. Mr. Best replied that it was very much a question of wages now with butter at 80 cents and ham at 70 cents a pound. He asserted that these could be bought at half price in Superior, Wisconsin, and in Minneapolis. That was the cause of the present unrest, he declared. It was pointed out that the delegation had been appointed at a meeting of 700 of these railway workers.

WHO IS TO RULE?

The citizens ask: "Is constituted authority or Bolshevik to rule Winnipeg? Let us settle the one big issue once and for all. Winnipeg refuses to live by the authority of the Strike Committee. Shall babies starve and invalids suffer by permission of the Strike Committee? God is in His heaven. All's well in Winnipeg when the Bolsheviki are exterminated. Fly your flag, wear your flag and show that you stand for law and order."

From the Labour News: "The Morning Albertan, Calgary, May 22, says: "All labour in the West will strike if the Militia is ordered into Winnipeg. This, it says, is a statement of the labour leaders in Calgary. In the event of any troops being brought into Winnipeg, or martial law being proclaimed, practically all labour men in the West are prepared to lay down their tools. Labour is working harmoniously toward that end."

CONCESSIONS TO GERMANS

PEACE TREATY HAS BEEN MODIFIED —COUNCIL'S REPLY TO THE GERMANS.

PRISONERS OF WAR

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 23.—The Council of Four met this morning and discussed the military terms and clauses relative to prisoners of war, which will be incorporated in the treaty with Austria.

Military experts attended the session.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The Associated Press this morning issued the following: "Concessions on some points in the Peace Treaty have been made to the Germans by the Paris Peace Conference. Slight modifications have been made in the terms of the Saare Valley award, and terms regarding reparations as they stood in the original text of the Peace Treaty have also been modified in some degree.

"The fact that the Council of Four had decided to make these modifications was reported in a despatch from Paris late last night. The message, however, did not indicate just what were the alterations decided upon. These are expected to be developed in part with the handing to the Germans to-day of the Council's reply to the German note on reparations. There were no indications, however, when the exact nature of the concessions made regarding the Sarre Valley would be revealed.

"China's delegation at the Peace Conference has decided that it will sign the Peace Treaty in spite of its declaration that it would not do so because of the decision of the Council of Three relative to the turning over to Japan of Germany's interests in Shantung and Kia-Chau. It is said, however, that reservations will be made in attaching the signatures of the Chinese delegates."

BUSINESS LIGHT AT LABOUR BUREAU

ELEVEN MEN PLACED DURING THE WEEK—RECRUITING OFFICER HERE.

So far this week the Government Employment Bureau has been very quiet, due it is concluded, to the strikes in the city.

Since Saturday last 11 men have been placed, 19 applications were received, and 13 vacancies were reported.

Applications from farmers for help are registered constantly but the wages offered are insufficient to tempt men to go.

Recruiting Officer.

On June 5th a recruiting officer of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police will have headquarters at the Employment Bureau, 190 Charlotte St.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Grand To-night

Kibble's mammoth scenic and spectacular $30,000 revival of the great and everlasting celebrated masterpiece of Harriet Beecher Stowe's entitled "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be given at the Grand to-night. It is one of the grandest and most interesting and heartrending plays ever placed upon the stage, and it will live for ever in the memory of the theatre-going public. Mr. Wm. H. Kibble, the enterprising manager, has taken great pains in staging and producing the original version of Mrs. Stowe's beautiful story, every year trying to outdo the previous. The company this season numbers over thirty people, ten of whom are coloured, engaged to fill out the many pictures of the play and introduce their many old and new songs, dances and plantation shines.

PROPOSAL FOR AERIAL EXHIBITION

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, May 23.—A proposal for an international aircraft exhibition to be held in Canada this summer has been laid before Sir Robert Borden by the Canadian Air Force. It is understood the Premier is sympathetic to the idea, which has for its object the promotion of aviation in the Dominion. It is proposed to hold the exhibition in July or August at Montreal or Toronto.

AT THE GRAND.

At the Grand Opera House, "Turn to the Right" will be seen both afternoon and evening. It is the story of a reformed crook, and appears here with a star cast.

AN EXCURSION.

The Salvation Army are running a monster excursion tomorrow down the River to Hiawatha. Both the Stoney Lake and the Rainbow have been secured for the day. The boats will leave the George Street Wharf at 8.30 a.m., returning to the city at 6.30 in the evening. At Hiawatha, games with special prizes have been provided, and with plenty of fare, a good time is anticipated under the oaks at Hiawatha.

DANCE AT CHEMONG.

The Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E., open their summer season dances at the Chemong Pavilion in Chemong Park, on the night of the holiday. A special augmented orchestra has been engaged, and Dan Sullivan, with his genial Irish, will be there with a full booth.

MAY FESTIVAL.

The Women Teachers' Guild of this city will present a Children's May Festival this evening and on the holiday in the Collegiate Assembly Hall at eight o'clock.

PEACE CELEBRATION.

The only out-of-town event in close proximity to the city is a big peace celebration in Norwood on Saturday. A monster Calithumpian parade is planned, and the whole of Norwood is enthusiastic over the idea. As a resident of Norwood said, "It takes the small places to put up a good time."

VETERANS' FIELD DAY

The biggest event of the day is the Field Day to be held in the Exhibition Grounds all day tomorrow under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association. A heavy silver cup will be presented by Sports Secretary Dalliday of the G.W.V.A. to the winner in the five-mile motorcycle race for the heavy machines. There will also be bicycle races, the one-mile race will be free for all, a half-mile race for the Peterborough County riders only, and another half-mile race exclusively for members of the Veterans' Association. A purse of $100 has been put up as prize in the 2.30 trot or pace horse race. There is another purse of $100 for a free-for-all race.

A first-class line of vaudeville has been secured for the grand stand performance and a spectacular military tattoo, with fine bands will also be held before the grand stand. A brilliant display of fireworks will close the day's riot of sport, fun and hilarity.

DECORATE GRAVES

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the 37th Chapter I.O.D.E. will perform a solemn duty, when the graves of departed soldiers in the Little Lake and St. Peter's Cemeteries, will be decorated and flags, flowers and emblems will cover the last resting place of the men who "went West" while in the service of their country.

K.C. Gathering

The Knights of Columbus will exemplify three degrees to a class of about eighty candidates tomorrow. Many visitors are expected from all the towns in this district. High mass will be celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral in the morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, and Rev. F. J. O'Sullivan, of Port Hope, will preach the sermon. Including the local members it is expected that the attendance will be about four hundred.

TITLES TO BE ABOLISHED

DECISIVE VOTE IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS—THE PALLBEARERS

VOTE 94 TO 43

(Special to the Examiner.)

OTTAWA, May 23.—Titles shall not be permitted to take root on Canadian soil. By the decisive vote of 94 to 43, the House of Commons tonight decided to ask His Majesty the King to graciously refrain in future from conferring title distinctions upon persons living in the Dominion.

Hereditary titles, knighthoods, and such decorations as C.M.G. and C. B. A. are abolished, if the King accedes to the request of the Canadian Commoners. Thus titular honours are dead, and the pallbearers, to quote the witty observation of Mr. Ernest Lapointe, are the members of the Privy Council.

BLAMES THE G.N.W. TELEGRAPH SERVICE

PATRIOTIC FUND TELLS OF FAILURE TO DELIVER PROMPTLY—SOLDIERS' FAMILIES SUFFER.

TORONTO, May 23.—What has every appearance of negligence on the part of the Great North Western Telegraph Company's officials is said to be responsible for much inconvenience and annoyance to which dependents of returned soldiers are put by the late delivery of telegraphic despatches sent out by the company. It means that in many cases messages from soldiers of soldiers' wives notifying them of their arrival by a certain train at a given time are delivered long after the trains have arrived, resulting in none of their friends being at the railway station to meet them.

The Toronto and York Patriotic Fund, who have undertaken to look after the reception of soldiers' wives, have had occasion to complain to the company on more than one occasion, and as an example of the justification of these complaints, it may be said that last night a wire was sent from Cornwall to Mr. McElroy, the manager notifying him of the time of arrival of a train carrying soldiers' wives to Toronto. The message was despatched from Cornwall at 11.30 p.m., but was not delivered until 11.10 today, long after the train had arrived. The passengers on the train who had telegraphed their husbands to be at the station on their arrival, included three women, each with young children, who were much distressed because of the absence of their husbands, to whom they had wired overnight.

"We have no complaint whatever concerning the service given by the other companies," said Mr. McElroy, "but in nearly every case the Great North Western deliver their telegrams after the arrival of the trains, and I find it necessary to give vent to my complaint in order that a stop may be put to the irregularity. The late arrival of telegrams sent to us puts us to great inconvenience. In order to take those who have no homes to go to, we have to arrange for cars to convey them to our hostel on Church Street, and it was only be mere accident that we were able to take care of the families alluded to, whilst their friends were being located and notified of their arrival."

LOST OFF A TRANSPORT.

Pte. Charles Simmons of Stratford Fell Overboard En Route Home.

STRATFORD, May 23.—Mrs. Charles Simmons, 45 Blake street, has been notified by the Militia Department that her husband, who sailed for Canada on the Royal George on May 4, is missing off the transphip. He was last seen, seasick, leaning over the rail.

AEROPLANE WILL BE ONE OF CHIEF ATTRACTIONS TO-MORROW

MOTOR CYCLE, BICYCLE AND HORSE RACES ALSO PROVIDED—MILITARY TATTOO BY FIVE BANDS—OVER-THE-TOP BY THE VETERANS.

One of the chief attractions at the Exhibition Grounds to-morrow afternoon will be a series of aeroplane flights to be conducted by a member of the Royal Air Force. Those who desire to make a flight with the aviator may do so. Arrangements to this effect may be made as soon as the aviator reaches Peterborough. Some of the finest aerial work ever witnessed in Peterborough is promised for this occasion. In addition to this, there will be a complete list of sporting events, such as motor cycle races, bicycle races. Several good horse races have been provided.

Vaudeville on the stage in front of the Grand Stand, a military tattoo with five bands, and "over the top" by the Veterans, will conclude one of the best programmes presented in a long time at the Exhibition Grounds. The proceeds will be in aid of the G. W. V. A. Building Fund.

The City Plan Committee Held Its First Meeting In Board of Trade Rooms

SCARCITY OF HOUSES TAKEN UP BY HOUSING COMMITTEE—PROPOSED AMENDMENT OF BY-LAWS.

FEELING OF OPTIMISM

The City Plan committee of the Board of Works, composed of Dr. Harvey, chairman, William Sangster, Chas. E. Sisson, J. W. Worth and Russel V. Copping, have held their first meeting and begun to map out their work. They are to study parks, park-ways, bathing beaches and a general lay-out for the city. The information acquired will also be of value to the City Council which, if the troublesome bridge problem is disposed of, will doubtless give attention to bathing beaches and parks and general improvement.

Housing Problem.

The scarcity of houses was taken up by the Housing and Neighbourhoods committee, Messrs. Canfield, Campanie, Linton and Stock, with Judge Huycke as chairman. These members of the Board are to work on a plan by which the man with a family will be put in a better position to build his own home on his own plan and also to get money at a low rate of interest.

The committee on Streets, Roads and Highways is to accumulate data, statistics, maps and charts on road improvement. This committee is composed of W. H. Bradburn and Messrs. Homer Fisk, Roland Wilson, Ross Dobbi hand E. B. Rogers.

The Manufacturers' Association held a meeting yesterday to consider the pressing problem of the industrial stability of Peterborough. The feeling of the manufacturers is one of optimism in regard to industrial growth, if the spirit of co-operation can be vitalized and if all citizens concerned in industry co-operate for the common welfare.

Railway Committee.

Chairman W. S. Campbell, of the Transportation committee, met his associates, H. E. Rodgers, Homer Meyers, George A. Macdonald and Bruce Fowler. Bruce Fowler was transferred to this committee by reason of his practical experience in railway matters. The committee issued a circular to the shippers stating that the new rates of freight accounting approved by the railroads. It has applied to the Board of Railway Commissioners for a hearing on the subject of the car demurrage rules which were adopted as a war measure and will advocate the restoration of pre-war rates and charges. In this move the Board will have the co-operation of the Boards of Trade of Montreal and Toronto and other important freight centres in the Dominion.

Thomas Barrie, President of the Merchants' Association, will, on his return from the west, take up the proposed credit bureau and will also take steps toward a more intimate relation between the farming community and the city.

The proposed amendment of the by-laws is under consideration by the committee to which it was referred.

Report of Wednesday night's Labour meeting, at which oleomargarine, butter and the Board of Trade were discussed.

"Justice for the Foster Parents of our Children," an appeal on behalf of the School Teachers.

ALGONQUIN PARK FISHING.

To the excellence of the fishing to be enjoyed in Algonquin Park there is unlimited testimony. Fish caught in the waters of the Park have won each year many of the national competitions open to the anglers of the continent. "I record here my opinion," writes one authority, "that in the variety of species of game fish, in their abundance and in their remarkable size, no section of the continent affords better mid-summer sport than Algonquin Park. And this is the testimony from three extended trips in the Park." 200 miles north of Toronto, 178 miles west of Ottawa, reached by Grand Trunk Railway. For free illustrated descriptive literature telling you all about it apply to: Grand Trunk Agent or C. E. Horning, D.P.A., Toronto, Ont.

EMPIRE DAY.

To-day is Empire Day, and the important occasion is being observed in the schools of the city with proper ceremony. It is fitting that this should be so because with older people Empire Day is allowed to pass unnoticed, although it is an occasion that should have special significance. There never was a time in the history of the British Empire when the day should be more enthusiastically observed than this year, which finds Great Britain saved after nearly five years of war, from the peril that threatened her destruction. Never have the bonds of patriotism, which holds the Empire together, been so firm and strong. The Empire's test came when the Motherland entered the war and triumphantly did it rise to the occasion. The rally of the Dominions and overseas dependencies was a demonstration such as the world had never seen before.

It is well that in the observance of Empire Day the children should be told of these things, and of the valour and courage of the troops of the Empire.

A LAST CHANCE TO HELP.

The Peterborough people who stay in the city to-morrow—and the great majority will do so—will have a final opportunity to assist in the drive of the Great War Veterans' Association by attending the big field day at the Exhibition grounds. The attendance should be worthy of the occasion. The directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition have done their share by placing the grounds at the disposal of the Veterans and making it possible to hold the demonstration under most favourable auspices. An attractive programme has been arranged, and with the co-operation of the weather man there is no doubt as to the success of the occasion. The citizens of Peterborough should welcome this final chance of increasing the Veterans' fund and should turn out in large numbers to see the fine list of sports and other attractions that have been arranged.

PROTECTION FOR RAYNHAM

The statement of Raynham, the British aviator who was prevented by an accident to his plane from starting out after Hawker on his ill-fated attempt to cross the Atlantic, that he will make an effort to accomplish the feat as soon as his machine has been repaired, will cause no surprise. Like Hawker, Raynham is a Britisher and the fate of the first brave spirits who dared the perilous adventure will not prevent him from making the same attempt. The British people, however, are likely to demand that before Raynham starts the big "hop," that every possible safeguard should be placed at his disposal by the British Government. If it were possible for the United States Navy to provide destroyers enough to patrol the Atlantic from Newfoundland to the Azores, the British Navy should surely be able to provide similar protection for Raynham and his companion. Two brave men have already gone to their deaths in a glorious attempt to win the glory for Britain of a non-stop flight across the Atlantic. If any more trials are to be made the nation should see that everything possible is done to prevent a repetition of the disaster that befell Hawker and Grieve. That Raynham will start even without these safeguards, is not to be doubted, but he should not have to do so.

THEATRE MANNERS.

The Belleville, Ontario has been doing good service by publicly calling attention to a number of objectionable personages who persist in making nuisances of themselves during performances at the theatre. A glance over the article reveals the fact that Peterborough can duplicate the people complained of and that local audiences are annoyed by the same actions as those referred to by our Belleville contemporary. Peterborough, too, has the late-comer who arrives half way through the first act, and whose noisy entrance exasperates both actor and audience. The individual who persists in giving vent to his opinion of the performance in a tone that is audible half a dozen seats away is found here as well as in Belleville. Generally his comment is inane and frivolish, but he is not happy unless he has a chance to let his voice be heard. And then there is the objectionable fellow in the gallery who thinks it necessary whenever the progress of the play or picture calls for a kiss to greet the osculatory episode with a loud imitative smack. This imitation is intended to be humorous, but only succeeds in being annoying. The Ontario need not thing that Belleville has a monopoly of people of this type; they are here in Peterborough and make themselves heard at every performance. Nor are the persons who make a mad rush for the exit when the end of the performance is in sight, or who cannot stand quietly until the National Anthem is played, peculiar to Belleville. Any theatrical performance here reveals just as many of these anxious-to-get-out people as the neighbourly city can produce.

A code of manners for people who attend the theatre might not prove a best seller if published in book form, but it is needed nevertheless.

WHAT THE $270,000 GUARANTEED COST PLUS TENDER MEANS

The Canadian Engineering and Construction Company's tender for Hunter street bridge, the acceptance of which was recommended by the Committee of the Whole Wednesday night, is based on the cost plus system, with a guaranteed limit. The company offers to build the bridge at cost, plus their fee of $28,000, and they guarantee that the city will not have to pay more than $276,000.

Thus if the bridge costs $200,000, for example, the company adds on their $28,000, making the total $228,000. If the cost is $250,000, the total would then be $278,000, or $2,000 more than the guaranteed price. Any excess of $276,000 is borne by the company.

If this company secures the contract, it will be, in a sense, another illustration of the "dark horse" winning the race. The Canadian Engineering and Construction Company was supported only by Ald. Taylor when the rest of the Council, except Ald. Morrison, were divided between the Russell-Townsend Company and Ed. Conroy. The latter offered a lump sum bid of $251,000 and Concrete Constructors had a similar tender of $252,000. Hence in comparison with these guarantees the $276,000 represents a possible and even a probable difference in final costs of $25,000, which would be saved by accepting either of the lowest lump sum tenders.

Ald. Turner and some of the Council who agreed with him emphasized at recent meetings that the disparity between the Russell-Townsend price of $228,000, cost plus, and the $276,000, was altogether too wide to attract them towards the Canadian Engineering Company's offer. However, that is what they finally propose. The Russell-Townsend estimate is nearly $50,000 less than the other, and Mr. Russell gave his assurance, but not a guarantee, that the bridge could be built for $228,000.

Ald. Turner at one stage even entertained the idea of accepting the Russell-Townsend bid in the confidence that the contractors would not overrun their estimate by more than $20,000.

If the Canadian Engineering Company reaches their guaranteed total of $276,000, the final cost will run considerably over $300,000, for Mr. Barber's engineering fee and land indemnities will add another $50,000, according to the Council's estimates.

In short, the recommended tender, while it may eventually prove a saving, will scarcely impress the public who have been led to expect that the results of all the backing and filling would be a more positive guarantee, and at least something less than the tender decided upon.

It is understood that the Canadian Engineering and Construction Company has been Mr. Frank Barber's original choice, and there may be a compensating recommendation or reassurance in that statement.

GASOLINE LORRIES HAVE PROVEN THEIR WORTH TO GRAND TRUNK

WERE INTRODUCED TO RELIEVE THE SCARCITY OF LABOUR DURING THE WAR AND ARE RETAINED NOW WHEN STAFFS ARE AGAIN COMPLETE.

A PROGRESSIVE STEP

While the railway motor lorry has lost its novelty as a handcar de luxe, it may not be generally realized that it has become a permanent vehicle for the G.T.R. sectionmen, although it was pressed into service during the war when the scarcity of labour compelled the company to find some solution to a problem that was threatening general traffic on account of the difficulty of maintaining the strength of the section corps. Those were memorable days in railroading, and the vicissitudes that worried the officials were never appreciated by the travelling public. On many of the sections only the foreman withstood the attractions of the temporarily high wages that were offered in the munitions factories and in many staid old plants that were following the ascending scale of remuneration to heights their executives had never dreamed of.

Obviously one or two men with a slow-going, lumbering handcar could not hope to cover their sections. It was physically impossible, but when the company realized that its greatest difficulty was the replacement of the departed sectionmen the motor lorry was provided for the depleted staffs. Almost immediately relief was felt. A gasoline lorry with a speed of an express train insured at least a daily inspection of the road and the making of imperative repairs.

But that is all past, the troubles of the officials and the strain on the faithful sectionmen. However, the lorry remains. It more than demonstrated its practical value, and today the men have grown accustomed to the first strange sensations of going to work without pumping up the hills and coasting on the declines. The mechanical secrets of the gasoline engines have all been explored and revealed long ago. The motor lorry responds to every wish. It saves the extra strain that was caused when the men used to pump their way home in a hurry, and the long pull up grade presents no aching labour. The motor lorry, in short, was introduced as a necessity to meet one of the exigencies of the war in its effect on industry, and it remains as something of a blessing for the men.

Used Entirely Here

There are three of these lorries in Peterborough, one each on the sections north and south, and Mr. T. Yerrow, the road superintendent, has the third. There is another at Lakefield and the country sections are similarly provided. At first the lorries were unknown and more or less untamed mavericks to the section men, and in the local G.T.R. circles there are stories of spills on sharp curves that might easily have been fatalities. These railway "flivvers" are said to be able to keep in front of a passenger train and on a good long straight stretch with the "gas" feeding properly, they can develop an astonishing speed. One source of danger is their lightness. They lack sufficient weight to keep them on the rails when in full flight, and at corners the company's safety first motto is always observed. It is now, at any rate, for the experience of flopping into the ditch with a narrow escape from being pinned beneath the overturned car, taught the chauffeurs that the lorry frowned to extreme liberties on the sharp turns. However, they have brought a new day for the sectionmen who perhaps have forgotten the old days when the wages were almost the horrible example in labour remuneration and there seemed no hope for sectionmen. The sun is already high in the new day. The pay cheques can hold their heads up among their neighbours and the men themselves motor to work on cars that were formerly reserved for officials.

Spring Cleaning On G.T.R. Was Thorough

When Vice-President Robb of the Montreal office of the G.T.R. recently inspected the results of a thorough house-cleaning he found everything to his satisfaction, so it is reported, and the yards look the part. It was a thorough renovation. Old sheds were replaced with new ones, rails that had rusted under exposure to the weather were piled away, and other equipment was straightened out in places where it was convenient for the workmen, but not conspicuous to the public. This was no spring clean up, but a general tidying of the company's city premises and the removal of unnecessary material and the accumulations of three or four years during which time the scarcity of help as a result of the war prevented the usual neatness being maintained throughout the seasons.

The yards were raked, almost combed in fact, paint was used freely and the effects of the work are noticeable in the orderliness, cleanliness and appearance of newness that claims the attention of the passing public.

How May 24th Was Celebrated in Peterboro Fifty-four Years Ago

THE PROCESSION WAS UNIQUE, DIVERSIFIED AND INCONGRUOUS—RED INDIANS TOOK PART IN THE PERFORMANCE—MR. HARRY WINCH WAS HEREDITARY CHIEF.

(By F. H. DOBBIN.)

During the life of our late Queen Victoria, the anniversary of her birthday was observed as a general holiday among all English-speaking peoples, and especially so in Canada. Before Confederation the holiday came as a break between Good Friday and away on in the year. There was, of course, up to 1867, no observance of Dominion Day, as there was no such day to observe. Nor was there any stated day set apart as a public holiday, a Citizens' Day, but people relaxed at any old time and as the spirit moved. To some the spirit was moving very often, in fact, it might be said that in such individuals it moved continuously.

Here we are at the commemoration of the Queen's Birthday, in the year 1919. Wisely enacted that the observance shall still go on. Keeping in mind the memory of our Good Queen, the monarch during whose beneficent reign Peterborough came almost into being and prospered. As a matter of interest it may be agreeable to peruse the programme of doings on a certain 24th of May, fifty-four years ago. That it may illustrate how the people of that day made their own fun, how all fell to work and contributed, that all might have a good laugh and there be enjoyment for the children and amusement for those of mature age.

Unique Procession.

The procession was unique. It was termed the Kalithumpian Demonstration. Diversified, incongruous, quaint, and laughable, as it strolled the streets, accompanied by a flock of Red Indians, barebacked on divers horses, whooping, careering, and tearing up and down, the most delicious thrills of fear and excitement pervaded the children. If one wishes to know more of the Indian Tribe, that came from the Land of Nowhere and disappeared in the Land of Somewhere Else, he will commune and consult with Harry Winch, who knows things that have never been told and never will. As the Distinguished Hereditary Chief of that Memorable Occasion, Mr. Winch was in a class by himself, and all were well content to let him be.

How to Remove Pains Caused by Kidney Trouble

It may be news to you, but it is history to thousands of persons, who have suffered from Backache, Painful Urination, Swollen Joints, Constant Headaches, etc., that Gin Pills remedy Kidney and Bladder troubles by first removing the cause.

The cause of all Kidney diseases such as Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, etc., is congested Kidneys. Kidneys that fail to perform their function of filtering the poisons and impurities from the blood. These poisons remaining in the system are the direct cause of a chain of dreaded diseases.

If you've never heard of Gin Pills before ask any of your friends about them. Gin Pills have been on the market for years; they are the old reliable remedy for Backache, etc. If you suffer from any Kidney or Bladder afflictions try Gin Pills.

Should you not care to buy them as an experiment, a sample box will be sent to you on request.

Gin Pills contain the beneficial ingredient of Gin without the slightest trace of alcohol. For many years bottled Gin was considered the ready remedy for Kidney or Bladder troubles. Scientific research proved, however, that the reason for this was due purely to the extract of Juniper it contained and nothing else. From hundreds of letters received by us we are convinced that all any sufferer of Kidney or Bladder trouble needs to do is try Gin Pills—and they will find relief at once.

Few Fireworks Are to Be Had in the City

Prohibitive Price has Caused Decline in the Demand.

The prohibitive price on fireworks has had its effect upon the stocks in Peterboro and most of the merchants who formerly carried fair sized stocks have next to none this year.

At Routley's it was stated that Hand of Hamilton supplies practically all the demand of Canada, and that the prices owing to the high cost of labor and materials, are away up.

Mr. Soden said that the bylaw prohibiting the explosion of fireworks in the city has had its effect upon the stocks carried by the merchants to such an extent that he like many others, had given up handling them.

Any fireworks on hand are pretty nearly the same lines as formerly, Roman candles, pin wheels and firecrackers bulking the stocks.

DIDN'T HAVE WELL DAY IN FIVE YEARS

TORONTO MAN GAINS 6 POUNDS—NOW FEELS LIKE HAS NEW LEASE ON LIFE.

If there is a man in Toronto who believes in Tanlac; that man is Harvey Hamilton, who resides at 475 Church street, and is employed as fuse maker by the Copeland-Chatterson Co., 1303 Queen street. Mr. Hamilton has lived in Toronto eighteen years and is well-known.

"Five years ago I had a severe attack of pneumonia," said Mr. Hamilton recently in conversation with the Tanlac representative, "which reached into a general run-down condition and I have not been like myself since. I lost weight until I was almost a shadow. I felt like I didn't have hardly any life or energy about me and was so nervous I couldn't sleep over four or five hours a night. I lost my appetite and often didn't go to the table at meal time, for I knew if I did I couldn't eat a thing. The little I managed to eat did more harm than good and soured on my stomach, causing a stuffed-up, uncomfortable feeling. I had pains in my stomach, and sides and often had dizzy spells. I got played out I just had to lay down my tools and quit work. Here often I felt so weak and yes sir, I went five long years without enjoying a well day, and you can imagine how blue and despondent I was. This is the very shape I was in when I read in one of the Toronto papers the statement of a man who described his trouble just like mine. He said he had been relieved by Tanlac and I lost no time in getting a bottle.

"It was about the best move I ever made in my life, for I now feel like to have taken a new lease on life. I have the finest appetite you ever saw and eat three square meals every day, enjoy every mouthful, and have no disagreeable feelings afterwards. I have actually gained six pounds in weight and feel like my strength has been increased a hundred per cent. Gas has quit forming on my stomach and all the pains have disappeared. I'm not nervous and I sleep like a log at night. I simply feel better all over and my work is no longer a burden, but is a pleasure to me. My friends all know the shape I was in before I took Tanlac and now see my remarkable improvement. I know of four or five people who have begun taking Tanlac since seeing the good it did me. If anybody doubts this statement all they have to do is to ask and I'll tell them just what I told you and that I consider it the finest medicine on earth.

Tanlac, the medicine that accomplished such remarkable results in Mr. Hamilton's case is being sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowlers' Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

GUNNER FIELDS ARRIVES HOME

Gunner Louis Fildes, the first member of the 93rd Battalion to have his name appear in the casualty lists of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, arrived home from overseas this morning. Gunner Fildes, who formerly served in the Grenadier Guards, enlisted here with the 93rd Battalion and soon after that unit arrived in England, was transferred to a heavy battery in France. He had not been at the front long before he was wounded.

MURDERS HIS TWINS THE DAY AFTER LEAVING ASYLUM.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 21.—Recently transferred from the county jail, to which he was committed for a minor offence, to the County Insane Asylum, Leon Angelino was released one day recently through his wife's efforts. Next day he murdered two of their children. He began showing signs of mental disorder, and while his wife was preparing dinner he attacked her with a club, threatening death to her and their four little children.

She fled to the yard, where she fell from her injuries. The madman procured an axe, locked himself in the room where his four-year-old boy twins were asleep, and beat them to death.

A Scene From "Billeted," at the Grand Tuesday Evening, with Miss Margaret Anglin.

LAKEFIELD PERSONALS:

LAKEFIELD, May 23. — Mrs. Oscar Dunford was in Peterborough on Wednesday.

Capt. M. P. Kennedy is in Toronto, visiting his sister, Mrs. M. L. Quigley, for a few days.

Miss Eva Sanderson, of Peterborough, is visiting friends in the village.

Mr. J. R. Robinson is in Toronto this week on business.

Gnr. Victor Bullock has returned to the village, after two years' absence overseas. Gnr. Bullock enlisted more than two years ago with the Cobourg Heavy Battery.

Lieut. E. C. Cumberland, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard for a few days, returned to Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr. Fred. Amys was a week-end visitor to Toronto.

RETURNING HOME.

Mr. G. B. Hilliard has received a cable from his son, Capt. G. F. Hilliard, saying that he sailed on the "Acquitania," due the end of the week. Capt. Hilliard has been overseas nearly four years.

FUNDS COLLECTED.

A subscription has been going around the village for Mrs. Arthur Payne, who was burned out on Tuesday morning. The village headed the list with $50. Up to the present time something over $200 has been raised in cash, besides gifts, household furniture, clothing, etc.

SOCIAL EVENING.

The Maple Leaf Club had a sale of candy and home cooking in St. John's Sunday School-Room on Wednesday evening from 7 to 9. Though the evening was very disagreeable, the little girls were well patronized, and the sum of $20 was raised. This will be given to the local branch of the G.W.V.A. These girls have been faithful little workers for the soldiers, and are setting a good example by continuing to work after the soldiers are home to furnish club-rooms for them. Miss Hilliard, the president of the club, was in charge of the affair. There were four tables with tempting wares displayed in a very dainty manner.

At the first table were Misses Ida Webster, Doris Hill, Fern Wannamaker, and Lottie Lemay. At the second table were Misses Helen Simpson, Mary Johnson, Isabel Sutton and Margaret Charlton. At the third table were Misses Jean Ridpath, Helen Watson, Kathleen Bygott and Y. Stuart. At the fourth table were Misses Ruth Morin, Ruth Junkin, and Evelyn Northey.

Sergt. Fred. Balsdon and wife are passengers on the "Minnedosa." Sergt. Balsdon enlisted in Lakefield in the 2nd Battalion early in November, 1914. He was wounded in the chest in January, 1915, but returned to France when the wound healed. Since he left Lakefield both his parents have died, so his homecoming is rather a sad one. He married in England.

STORES OPEN.

The stores will remain open on Friday night till 10.30, as Saturday is a public holiday.

A meeting of the business men is called for Tuesday evening next in the Foresters' Hall at 8 o'clock, to discuss the summer half holidays.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you give me space in your valuable paper to ask for a remedy or how we can stop men, boys and girls from running across our lawns every hour of the day. No matter who comes with parcels to your door, they must march across the lawn. The milkman, butcher, baker, laundryman, grocer, paper boy, besides a regiment of boys and girls going to and coming from school, tramping down the grass. Is there no law in this city to stop this destruction of property? The mail-carrier is the only one who knows what a walk from your door to the street is made for. We pay taxes and try to keep our homes nice, but it's impossible while this nuisance is going on. When I read in your paper of the destruction of trees in Langfords woods by the young hooligans of our city, I was not surprised when I see the way they are allowed to act on our own streets, gathering at night on street corners, and in the lane between George and Water Streets, north of Edinburgh Street, boys between the ages of nine and fifteen, armed with catapults, firing stones at everything in sight, shouting, swearing, smoking cigarettes and stealing rhubarb out of back gardens and then racing across the lawns, becoming a perfect nuisance to the neighbourhood. It's time our police, or someone in authority, looked after these matters to save our lawns and the boys from getting into the Police Court some of these days.

ONE OF MANY WHO IS SUFFERING.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The municipal labourers of Peterborough wish to ask the City Council why this discrimination between the labourers, while the Mayor and all other employees were granted an increase in their salary on account of the high cost of living; and yet the same consideration is not given to the labourers. At the conference between the Council and the Labour men last night, it was practically approved that 45 cents per hour for eight hours was not too much, as I yet it was turned down. Have the Council to settle the matters for the employers of the different factories in the city? It is claimed by the labourers that the factories should settle their own differences and the municipal council mind its own business. This does not seem an unreasonable request, and yet the excuse put forward is that the factories will not agree. The municipality should be model employers; they have no competition, and the labourers are not discussing the factory terms with the Council, and I am sure the labourers should have the moral sympathy of every fair-minded citizen.

The cost of living set by the Government is $29.90, while the average earnings of the labourer is $19.00, so after working the week, and paying his expenses, he is still running into further debt $1.99. This situation calls for immediate action and settle this injustice.

YOU CAN'T RUB RHEUMATISM OUT

It is Rooted in the Blood and Must be Treated Through the Blood.

It is Rooted in the Blood and Must Be Treated Through the Blood

The pain of rheumatism is something that you cannot rub out. Every sufferer from rheumatism has been advised to rub this liniment or that on the affected part, but after all the rubbing, the pain remained. Rubbing did not cure it and can't cure it.

Thin blood and rheumatism come together and if they are properly treated they will go together. Rheumatism is rooted in the blood, in poor, watery blood. Sometimes cold, damp weather starts the aches and pains, but it is the condition of the blood that is at fault, and only by correcting this, and making the blood rich and red can the rheumatic poison be driven out. This is exactly what is done in the treatment of rheumatism with Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Acute and muscular rheumatism show improvement as the thin blood is built up, and when the blood has been restored to its normal condition the rheumatism is driven out and does not return as long as the blood is kept rich and red. There is no part of Canada in which some rheumatic sufferer has not been cured by Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and they do not hesitate to express their thanks for what this medicine has done for them. As an example, Miss Annie S. Dedrick, R.R. No. 2, St. Thomas, Ont., says:—"Dr. Williams Pink Pills cured me of rheumatism after a great many other remedies had failed. The pain in my arms and shoulders was so great that I could scarcely sleep. I could not raise my arms to comb my hair, and could not dress myself without help. In this condition I read of a cure of rheumatism through the use of Dr. Williams Pink Pills and decided to try them. I got half a dozen boxes and I am thankful to say they not only cured by rheumatism, but that my general health was greatly improved. My appetite was increased and I gained in weight. Since then a number of cases have come under my observation in which cures have been made by this splendid medicine. As for myself, I shall always speak a good word for Dr. Williams Pink Pills."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Such is the statement of Mr. A. O. Norton, of Boston, the largest Jack Manufacturer in the world. His voluntary testimonial regarding ZUTOO follows:

286 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

"I have been a sufferer from Headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all the so-called 'cures' on the market. Some months since my attention was called to Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a 'sick' or 'nervous' headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effects. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

To Wash Away Those Wrinkles and Crowsfeet

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple home made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel —ingredients found in every drug store. Bathe the face in this—and, presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into the mirror and behold the marvelous transformation!

The remarkable astringent action of the saxolite so tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all the result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for a while; it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.

TO HOLD ELECTION ON JUNE 23RD

Liberals Expect To Be Returned To Power in Quebec.

QUEBEC, May 23.—General elections are to be held in Quebec on the 23rd of June, according to the statement of Premier Sir Lomer Gouin to-day.

Margaret Anglin at Grand Tuesday Night

To that large body of discriminating Peterborough theatregoers, who encourage and maintain the best form of theatrical amusement, the long-looked-for and welcome engagement of Margaret Anglin in her charming English love comedy, "Billeted," at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday next must be a pleasing announcement. This attraction comes here direct from its long runs in New York, Chicago, and Boston, and will be presented with precisely the same cast identified with its original production. "Billeted" is a light comedy dealing with the social side of life in wartime, but it is not a war play. The comedy is staged in a most expert and artistic manner from designs by Livingston Platt,. Miss Anglin's technical director. The company includes Alice Coburn, Sally Williams, Harry Barfoot, Phyllis Birkett, Langdon Bruce, Fred Eric, Myra Burrington, and Ralph Kemmett.

Nature and the Indian

The Indian never liked work but he wanted his squaw to get well as soon as possible so that she could do the work and let him hunt, therefore he dug peppoose root for her, for that was their great remedy for female weaknesses.

Dr. Pierce uses the same root—called Blue Cohosh—in his "Favorite Prescription" skillfully combined with other agents that make it more effective.

Women who are worn out, who suffer from pain at regular or irregular intervals, who are nervous or dizzy at times, should take that reliable temperance, herbal tonic which a doctor in active practice prescribed many years ago. Now sold by druggists, in tablets and liquid, as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

WOODSTOCK, ONT.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Medicines. I had nervous prostration and was completely 'down and out.' I was so bad the doctors considered mine a hopeless case. I was much discouraged and was ready to give up when I began taking the Favorite Prescription and the Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines put me on my feet again and gave me the only real relief. Being a nurse I have recommended Dr. Pierce's Medicines to many, especially the 'Favorite Prescription.' I know of many a young mother to whom I have recommended 'Favorite Prescription,' that has both wonderfully helped.

"I am glad to lend my name in connection with Dr. Pierce's Medicines, knowing how good they are."—MRS. A. L. MILLER, 815 John Street.

ADMISSION AFTERNOON and EVENING 16c TO ALL

THE WORLD OF SPORT

LAST NIGHT'S BOXING BOUTS ATTRACTED FAIR SIZED CROWD

THE MAIN BOUT WAS DECLARED A DRAW—LOCAL TALENT MADE A GOOD SHOWING.

One of the biggest night's sport seen in Peterborough for some time was staged last night in the armouries, under the auspices of the Great War Veterans' Association. Six bouts were on the cards, and although Paddy Nolan of Townawanda, and Sailor Dempsey of Buffalo, were unable to be present in their advertised six-round bout, the big crowd was not disappointed, for they witnessed a battle royal between Red Gallagher and Charlie Christie, both of Toronto. They went the limit in the number of rounds, fifteen altogether, and although the bout was declared a tie by Mr. George Graham and Mr. Chris. Grdham, the crowd went away well satisfied that both men did their best.

From the first round to the last Christie was the aggressor, but Gallagher had a narrow margin on points, but Christie's aggressiveness evened up the score. Mr. William H. Turley the Provincial Secretary of the G.W.V.A., was the referee, and many declared that he appeared to be good for two or three rounds himself. He handled every bout in a satisfactory and proficient manner, but his services were needed very seldom for breaks as neither Red Gallagher or Christie played for clinches. Both boxers revealed perfect foot work and remarkable skill, and some experts in the audience pronounced Christie the cleverest boxer on the floor, although at times Gallagher did not seem to let himself out, but rather underestimated the ability of his opponent, which was of no mean order. Neither men took much time to study their men and the bout was fast from the beginning. Both showed some weariness towards the end and Christie got in several good uppercuts which, however, were repaid in full by Gallagher with his strong straight lefts. Christie was somewhat bruised about the chest, but it in no way seemed to hamper him, either in foot work or delivery. The big crowd was kept on their toes in the last round, when both men attempted to force a decision, but the four minutes slipped around with both men above the ropes.

A Returned Soldier.

After the box Christie remarked that although the decision was a draw, he thought that he could lick Gallagher. Christie is a returned soldier, going overseas with the 180th Sportsman's Battalion.

Anthony and Lilly, in the first bout, two home-brews, provided a good scrap from the beginning. Although it lasted only three rounds, Anthony showed that he was not green, and Lilly, the winner, proved an ugly customer. He uncovered some fast work, which surprised the sport fans and showed he has been a first-class demonstrator in the art of self defence in his palmy days.

Carroll and Patterson, also "made-in-Peterborough," showed some art in their three round bout.

The second bout between Lavery and Jordan was a draw and both midgets uncorked a wicked desire to get at each other, but they were seemingly evenly matched and at the end of three rounds the fight was declared a draw.

Fourth Bout.

Jones won the fourth bout, although Stevens was by no means a second rater. His punch is dangerous and his eye was never wandering from the hip of his opponent.

Patterson and Dugan looked good in the sixth fixture, with the latter winning the honours. The two kids should develop into regular 'Gunboat Smiths' or 'Georges Carpenteriers.'

Although the Veterans came out on the small end of the stick pecuniarily they are well satisfied that lovers of clean sport could see such first-rate talent at home. Although in the principal bout the purse was divided, yet the bout was clean and fast from the start, and nobody complained when the judges announced their decision.

CENTRAL LEAGUE TO-MORROW PETES PLAY IN OSHAWA

The Peterborough Central League team will open their season in Oshawa tomorrow afternoon when they clash with the lakeshore town in the opening League fixture. Oshawa is preparing for a big day with a parade of the teams headed by a band and other "frills" of the same kind.

The Petes will leave at 8.30 o'clock tomorrow morning by motor for Oshawa. The players are asked to meet at the Water Street bowling alleys sharp on time. The following players have been selected to make the trip: Cavanah, De Lavals; Wade, Long, War Veterans; Holyman, Hagerman, Matthews-Blackwell; Soden, Head, Kirn, Cherrett, Murray, Shelby, Heenin McCarney and Manager Solomon Orientals.

Mr. Alex. Kay, umpire of the City Ball League, will be the umpire-in-chief in tomorrow's game.

The other two games in the Central Ontario League tomorrow are Port Hope at Lindsay and Belleville at Cobourg.

LAWN BOWLING ON THE HOLIDAY

GAMES MAY WIND UP IN AN ICE CREAM SOCIAL.

The Lawn Bowling season will be in full swing on Saturday. The games between the President's and Vice President's teams promise to be an especially interesting affair judging from present appearances. All that is necessary to make it a success is fine weather.

Walter Oke evidently thinks his bunch can beat the "Doc" in view of his suggestion that the losers put up Ice Cream for the crowd (which he says is the best they can do until after the referendum in the Fall). However, the "Doc" will give him a battle, and may surprise him.

The games will start at 2:30 p.m. and all players are asked to be at the Green not later than that time. All members and intending members are asked to take part in this game.

Taken Up Challenge

We understand that "Doc" Hammond has taken up Walter Oke's challenge with regard to the Ice Cream, and he says that his boys won't have to pay for it either.

GOOD SCORES MADE LAST NIGHT

MR. ROY HUTCHINSON WAS HIGH IN GUN CLUB SHOOT.

The weekly shoot of the Peterborough Gun Club took place last night, and some fine scores were made. Mr. Roy Hutchison was high gun in the blind handicap shoot after a tie shoot off with Harry Cook, and he won the box of cigars presented by Eddie Wright.

Mr. Randlett, who represents Webster Co., of Sherbrooke, Que., was a visitor last night and showed the boys how to hit the clay birds, breaking 45 out of 50. He gave a box of cigars to be shot off at the next evening's shoot. Below are the scores:

	Shot at	Broke
R. Hutchison	55	50
R. B. Randlett	50	45
H. Cook	53	46
J. Loucks	60	48
G. Getterson	60	35
J. S. Coon	75	54
C. Graham	75	50
Dr. McClennan	50	36
B. Gillespie	50	31
C. Tanner	35	20
W. Rye	35	18
C. Mills	25	15
C. Wood	25	20

LAST NIGHT'S GAME WAS CALLED OFF

There was no game in the City Baseball League last night, owing to the fact that the DeLaval team got the impression that the ball grounds would be too wet for a game and failed to put in an appearance. Manager Solomon had his Orientals out in full strength, ready for the battle, but finally Umpire Kay had to announce to the boys that the game was off. The Orientals might have claimed a win be default but have no intention of doing so and the game will be played off later.

BASEBALL

A game of baseball took place on Thursday, May 22nd, between King George school juniors and Central school juniors. The score was, Central 12, King George 6. Courtland Miller umpired satisfactorily.

The game was playyd on Central school grounds.

MATTHEWS-BLACKWELL AND G.W.V.A TEAMS WILL MEET.

The postponed game between the Great War Veterans and Matthews-Blackwell teams in the City League series will be played at Riverside Park to-night at 6.45 o'clock. With the welcome change in the weather and the grounds in good shape there should be a big crowd out for this battle. The G.W.V.A. team has a strengthened line-up and are out to break into the win column.

Music & Drama

"THE SAVING GRACE"

Once again are Peterborough playgoers indebted to Mr. Cyril Maude for an evening of thorough enjoyment. The eminent English actor whose work in "The Second in Command," and whose remarkable performance in the title role of "Grumphy" won all hearts on his previous appearance here, presented another masterpiece at the Grand last night when he was seen in C. Haddon Chambers' comedy success, "The Saving Grace," which will long be remembered as one of the most delightful and most cleverly presented offerings that has been seen in this city. Mr. Maud has few rivals in his profession and in "The Saving Grace" he has a part that gives him every opportunity to show why he is held in such high regard, not only on this, but on the other side of the Atlantic. As Blinn Corbett, an army officer who had run away with the wife of his colonel, and consequently had to sever his connection with the army, although his heart is breaking because he cannot get an opportunity to serve at the front, Mr. Maude's work was masterly. His portrayal of the improvident, but obstinate Corbett blessed with the saving grace of humour, was a characteristic performance that showed Mr. Maude at his best. The play centres around Corbett's endeavour to serve his country and his little flight as a match-maker in assisting in the love affair of his wife's niece, an episode that provided a rich kind of amusement. Mr. Maude made the part one that will not soon be forgotten. The intense desire of Corbett to get to the front and his deep love for his wife were most impressively conveyed to the audience, and not hidden beneath the comedy of many of the lines as they might have been had the part been in the hands of a less skilful actor. Supporting Mr. Maude was a company of uniform excellence. Miss Laura Hope Crewes, a well-known actress, but seen in Peterborough for the first time, was altogether delightful as Mrs. Corbett. Miss Betty Murray scored a personal triumph by her most artistic portrayal of the part of the niece, and Miss Charlotte Granville's picture of a naughty matron was effective and restrained. Edward Douglas was convincing and clever as the lover and Stanley Harrison, remembered for his work in "Bunty Pulls the Strings," contributed a capital performance, as William Hogg, the man-servant in the Corbett establishment, while Miss Annie Hughes was equally successful in a maid's part. Seldom has a Peterborough audience seen a better balanced company and it was no wonder that there were frequent curtain-calls and that at the end of the performance Mr. Maude and his associates were greeted by a perfect storm of applause.

Other parts are played by Mara Keval and S. Sydney Chon. Three acts and four scenes are artistically staged by Selwyn & Company, the producers. Don't forget—at the Grand on Monday evening.

FAIR PRICES SUGGESTED.

Guelph Committee Recommends 40c for Butter, 30c for Eggs.

GUELPH, May 21.—If the Ottawa Government acts on the suggestions of the Guelph Fair Price Committee, the old "high cost of living" will be dealt such a body blow it will go down for the count.

The Fair Price Committee, composed of Ald. Brydon, G. A. Fowke, and G. F. Ribby, recommends to the City Council as follows, with the request that the recommendations be forwarded to Ottawa:

(1) That the fair price for potatoes should not be more than $1.25 per bag.

(2) That 40c is a good price for butter.

(3) Fresh eggs should not exceed 30c per dozen during this month.

(4) That the present price of meat is too high, considering the quantity in cold storage.

LAKEFIELD LADIES PRESENT PURSES TO RETIRING PRESIDENT OF SOCIETY

MRS. (REV.) D. E. JOHNSON WAS TAKEN BY SURPRISE---REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING OF LADIES' AID SOCIETY.

LAKEFIELD, May 22.—On Tuesday afternoon the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church met in the basement of the church for their regular meeting. Although the weather was disagreeable there was a large attendance of ladies. Mrs. Johnson, the president, presided.

The meeting was opened with a hymn after which followed prayers by Mrs. S. S. Spence and Mrs. (Rev.) D. E. Johnson. Mrs. R. Nugent read the Bible lesson and Mrs. F. H. Richardson read the minutes. This was followed by the roll call. The treasurer read the report showing that during the year the receipts of the society were $465.18 and the expense $339.679 the balance on hand $125.18.

Mrs. H. Kemp asked the ladies to hold their next meeting at her home.

Rev. H. A. Frost will give a lecture on the war early in June which will be a great treat.

After the business had been disposed of the following programme was rendered.

Piano solo—Miss Lolos Waldon.

Duet—Misses Effie Webster? and Doidge.

Reading—Mrs. J. Murphy.

Piano duet—Misses Jean Erskine and Eva McIlmoyl.

Reading—"Fleurette", Mrs. J. H. Sherin.

An Address

At the close of the programme Mrs. Allan Hunter came forward and read the following address to Mrs. Johnson, who will very soon be leaving Lakefield.

Ladies representing all branches of woman's work in connection with the Methodist church were present.

The following is the address:—

Dear Mrs. Johnson,—We realize with deep regret that the term of association and friendly intercourse with you in our midst is swiftly drawing to a close and on behalf of the ladies of this church we take this opportunity to assure you of our sincere appreciation of your earnest Christian life since coming among us.

Your willingness to help and your interest in every department of church work has been an example and inspiration to many of us. You have truly rendered faithful service and we unite in the hope that for many years you may be spared to continue your ministry of loving service to the master.

As a token of our love, and good wishes for your future, we present this purse to you, and ask you to accept for your dear little girl, as an evidence of our kindly interst in her welfare this manicure case, and our earnest prayer is that, with God's blessing your life may be filled with the light of His presence and with the fragrance of His love and service.

Signed on behalf of the Ladies of the Congregation.

Mrs. A. T. Hunter,
Mrs. (Rev.) H. A. Frost.

Taken by Surprise

Mrs. H. A. Frost made the presentation. Mrs. Johnson was completely taken by surprise replied very suitably. She had received so many kindnesses, she said, from the people of the church in the year she has been among them. The year had brought her great sorrow but she had found true and kind friends who had done their utmost to help her bear it. When her husband died last November she debated within herself as to whether she should leave Lakefield or remain for the year and as she stood by his coffin an insistent voice seemed to say to her "Stay here and do your bit." So she had remained and never could she forget her kind friends who had helped her so much in those months of her loneliness.

Mrs. Johnson has been faithful in her work in Lakefield and certainly her conception of her "bit" has been of the greatest assistance to the Methodist church of Lakefield.

The ladies served afternoon tea at the close of the meeting.

The "Ajax" with a scow load of wood passed through the Lakefield locks on Tuesday.

The "Wacaota" of Fenelon Falls, which was sold by Mr. Burgoyne to be used as a fishing boat, passed through the Lakefield locks on Tuesday en route for Belleville.

The "Ed Conroy" of Young's Point, went to Peterborough on Tuesday for some scows.

BELMONT FARMER COMMITS SUICIDE

Wm. McMullen Shoots Himself Through Head—Rash Deed on Monday Attributed to Despondency.

William McMullen, of Belmont, a farmer, and the cheese maker at the Star cheese factory on the Marmora road, about five miles east of Havelock, committed suicide on Monday by shooting himself through the head, using a shot gun to do the awful deed.

The unfortunate man left his home in the morning with his gun, and not returning by the afternoon, a search was instituted resulting in the finding of his body in the woods, with the greater portion of his face blown off. A shot gun was lying beside him, and it was plainly evident that he had committed the deed deliberately. Apparently he had stretched himself on the ground and putting the gun under his chin, had pulled the trigger by means of a piece of wood. His face was horribly mutilated by the effects of the shot.

Coroner Hulderoft viewed the remains and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. It is thought that despondency over the recent loss of his cheese factory building by fire, was the cause of self-destruction. He leaves a wife and one daughter, and was 34 years of age.

The funeral took place yesterday at 2 o'clock to the Maple Grove cemetery.

KAISER'S SON A RECKLESS GAMBLER.

Prince Joachim, youngest son of the former German Emperor, is one of the German and Austrian aristocrats who fled to the new Italian "Monte Carlo" at Mampanioni. Joachim favours roulette, and large sums are lost and won nightly by the players. The Swiss Deputies have demanded that the Federal authorities protest to Rome and ask for the suppression of the gambling at Campanioni, which, although Italian, is surrounded by Swiss territory.

HAWKER'S SPLENDID DEED DRAWS FORTH FLOODS OF PRAISE

AMERICAN PRESS UNSTINTED IN TRIBUTE TO GALLANT AIRMAN.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Newspapers here editorially express the highest praise for the intrepidity of Harry Hawker, the Australian aviator, and his navigator, Lt.-Commander Mackenzie Grieve, who knew when they started on the Atlantic voyage that they must win the race or perish in the attempt.

The Tribune says:

"It seemed as if there were not a thrill left in the world when the Great War ended, but everyone, old and young fresh and faded, hung breathlessly upon the news from the sky. The good wishes of all the world were with this young Australian's desperate ventrue. We Americans had hoped that ours would be the first planes to cross. Now we may hope again. But when the Sopwith plane hopped off on that strange do-or-die flight there could be no question of national envy or petty rivalry. In deliberate hazarding of all chances of a success there has been no venture to equal this flight. Our hats are off to the sporting courage behind such daring. Our sympathy goes out to his failure by such a slender distance and our heartiest congratulations follow on the whole splendid deed. By such feats we know what the human race is capable of.

STILL BREED MEN

The World declares:

"They went down just as their arms were outstretched to grasp the prize of an unexampled triumph. It is a great pity, but they have given an example of dash and daring of which their country, their families and their friends may well be proud. In this year of the closing of the war no proof was necessary that the British race still breeds men."

The Sun says:

"No news, in aviation, is not good news. In the case of the gallant Hawker and his equally dauntless navigator, Grieve, no news now means that they have failed to win the prize that they flew for. More than that, the absence of word from them, or of them, makes it look dark for the fate of the man who would wait no longer on the winds and the weather, but must stake his all, and Grieve's all, on a rush from St. John's toward the British Isles.

"If Hawker and Grieve live, luck send them help. If they are lost then they must be written down as a pair of the bravest men who ever went out on a daring, some will say, hopless, errand."

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

There was a deep murmur, and after Miss Austin had thanked her prettily for her appreciation of their modest efforts, she continued in a brisk and business-like manner: "Now, Mrs. Balfame, what we should like is your story. We have been warned by Mr. Rush that we cannot ask you whom you suspect, much less the reasons upon which you found your suspicions—ah!"

Her final vocative was expressed in an angry gurgle. Rush had entered. He was so close to panic at the prospect of facing a roomful of women unsupported by a single male that his face was almost terrifying in its strength, but it had suddenly occurred to him that although these girls had agreed to write their interviews at the Dobton Inn and submit them to his censorship, it was possible one or more would slip over to New York, bent upon sheer sensationalism.

"You must excuse me," he said with a valiant assault upon the lighter mood, "but my client is in the witness box, you see, and must be protected by counsel."

Miss Austin swung about and faced him with a faint satiric smile. "Oh, very well," she said. "You may stay; but I for one shall not adjust my hat."

It is a curious fact that newspaper women are seldom of the masculine type; their sheer femininity, indeed, is almost as invariable as their air of physical weariness. Not one of the little company laughed with a more than perfunctory appreciation of their captain's wit, and several stared at Rush, fascinated by his harsh masculinity, the peculiar atmosphere of tense alertness in which he seemed to have his being, the magnetism which was more an emanation from an almost perpetual concentration of his mental forces than from any of the lighter physical attributes. He folded his arms and leaned against the door, and it is only fair to the cause of woman to state that hardly one of these, whose ages ranged from twenty to thirty-six, was unwomanly enough, despite the fact that she earned her bread in daily competition with man, to give Mrs. Balfame her whole attention thereafter. While keeping their business heads, they uncovered a corner of their hearts to the sun, and quickened, however faintly, in its glow.

"Now," Miss Austin resumed, "we will, counsel permitting, ask you to give us your story of that night. As you have been misquoted and there has been so much speculative stuff published about you, there surely can be no objection to that." And she squared her shoulders upon Mr. Rush.

Mrs. Balfame looked at her counsel with a gracious deference, and he nodded.

"No harm in that," he said curtly. "Tell them practically the story you would tell if you took the stand. There's only one story to tell, and it is as well the public should bear it in mind while reading the reports of the witnesses for the prosecution."

"That means he's rehearsed her," whispered Miss Lauretta Lea, who had reported many trials, to Miss Tracy, who was a novice. "But that's all right."

"Well, I suppose I should begin with the scene at the Club—that is to say, I do not care to speak of it in detail,—quite aside from a natural regard for good taste,—but it seems to have been given a unique importance."

"Just so," said Miss Austin encouragingly. "Do let us have your version. The public simply longs for it."

"Well—I should tell you first that, although my husband was sometimes irritable, he really was a good husband and we never had any vulgar quarrels. It was only when he was not quite himself that he sometimes said more than he meant, and he never quite forgot himself as he did that day at the Country Club.

"I was playing bridge in one of the smaller rooms when I heard his voice pitched in a very excited key. I knew that something unusual had occurred, and went out into the large central room at once. There I saw him at the upper end of the room surrounded by several of the men, who were apparently trying to induce him to leave. He was shouting and saying such extraordinary things that my first impression was that he was ill or had lost his mind.

"I reasoned with him, and as it did no good and as I was deeply hurt and mortified, I left him to the men and returned to the bridge-room. There, in spite of the kindness of my friends, I found I was too overcome to play, and Dr. Anna Steuer offered to drive me home. That is all, as far as the scene at the clubhouse is concerend, except that I cannot sufficiently emphasize that he never had acted in a similar manner before. If he had, I should not have continued to live with him—not that I should have obtained a divorce, for I do not approve of the institution; but I should have moved out. I have a little money of my own, left me by my father."

It was a pity, he reflected bitterly, that a woman who could lie to her counsel with such a fine front of innocence could not "put over" the large dramatic lie that would help him so materially in his difficult task.

Miss Austin, despairing of colour, made a shift of psychology. "Would you mind telling us, Mrs. Balfame, if you feel a very great dread of the trial? We realize that it must loom a terrible ordeal."

"Oh, of course, the mere thought of all that publicity horrifies me whenever I permit myself to think of it, but it has to be, and that is the end of it, since the real culprit will not come forward. But I feel confident I shall not break down under the strain. I might have done so if the trial had followed immediately upon my arrest, but all these weeks in jail have prepared me for anything."

"But you are not terrified—of—of the outcome? We know and rejoice that the chances are all in your favour, but men are so queer."

"I am not in the least terrified. It is impossible to convict an innocent woman in this country; and then"—inclining her head graciously to the watchful Rush,—"I have the first criminal lawyer in Brabant County to defend me. It is a detestable thought,—to be stared at in the courtroom as if I were an object in a museum,—but I shall keep thinking that in a few days at most it will be over and that I shall then return to the private life I love."

"Ah—yes. Thanks. And after you were in your own house? Do you mind? Of course, we have read the story you told the men, but we should like your own story. Perhaps you may have thought of some other points since."

"Yes, there are one or two. I had entirely forgotten in the agitation of that time that I went below, after packing my husband's suitcase, to get a drink of filtered water and thought I heard some one try the kitchen door. I also thought I heard some one upstairs, and called the name of my maid. Of course, a good deal will be made of this omission, but considering the terrible circumstances and the fact that I never had been interviewed before, I do not find it in the least remarkable.

"But, of course, you want me to begin at the beginning." And in her pleasant shallow voice, she told the story she had immediately concocted for her friends.

As Miss Austin asked a few questions in the endeavour to inject some essence of personality into the bald story, Rush permitted the sensation of dismay with which he had listened to take implacable form. He had never heard a less convincing story on the witness stand. Mrs. Balfame had talked glibly, far too glibly. It was evident to the least initiated that she had been rehearsed. Was her mind really as colourless as her voice? Had she no sense of drama? He had hoped that the excitement of this interview, coming after weeks of supreme monotony, would kindle her to animation and a natural enrichment of vocabulary; and, witnessing its effect upon these friendly women, she would be encouraged to simulate both on the witness stand.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAYBE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises, or are growing hard of hearing, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Volcanoes in New Zealand.

New Zealand's volcanic phenomena are accounted for in the Maori legends in the following manner: One of the first chiefs to reach New Zealand from the ancient home in Hawaiki brought with him a trusted follower, Ngauruhoe, with whom he set out to examine the country. When they reached the highest peak they suffered much from cold, and the chief shouted to his sisters on a far distant island to send some of the fire which had been brought in canoes from Hawaiki. This fire immediately came in a southwesterly line, subterraneously bursting forth on the summit where the chief and his follower sat freezing. It arrived in time to save the life of the former, but not that of Ngauruhoe, whose name is commemorated in the highest peak of the Tongariro mountains. Geysers, hot springs and fumaroles mark the course of the subterranean passage. Mount Egmont stands in solitary grandeur because he, as one of the three giants, quarreled with the other two, Tongariro and Ruapehu, and had to fly to the coast to escape their wrath.

America Not So Big.

On the steamer off the west coast of Africa I picked up an acquaintance with an Englishman who had come aboard somewhere along the Gold Coast. After the usual commonplaces he drawled, "You are an American?"

I admitted the soft impeachment.

"Did you ever meet an Englishman over there named Jessup?" was his next query.

I always take Englishmen seriously, so instead of rolling my eyes and explaining what a large country America is, I told him the truth about all the Jessups I happened to know. There were only two—one was a steel agent in New York city and the other was a Y. M. C. A. secretary in Summit, N. J.

"That's the chap," said the Briton, unexpectedly. "He used to live next door to me in Birmingham."

And he did, you know. And I couldn't keep up my pretense that America was a big country after that.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

TIBET OPEN TO CHRISTIANS

Officials Have Invited Missionaries to Enter Hastily Into the "Forbidden Land."

Those disciples of Christ who interest themselves in foreign missions are aroused over an invitation coming to American disciples from Tibet, according to the Boston Evening Transcript. This land, occupying the "roof of the world," has heretofore been practically closed to all foreigners. That it has been so was due, no Tibet officials tell American disciples, to the influence of China. Now Tibet has thrown off Chinese control and one of its first acts is to appeal for Christian missionaries. The disciples have a mission station at Batang, one of the farthest west cities of China, nearly 3,000 miles up the Yangste river.

A venturesome American doctor, sent out by the disciples, journeyed 18 days farther west, getting into Tibet and into a city wherein disease in its worst form, unattended and not understood, ravaged the people. The doctor set up an impromptu clinic and dispensary. The relief was so great that one of the highest civic officials in all Tibet begged him to stay, or if he could not do so to return, build a hospital and official Tibet would help him.

Now the disciples argue that here is a call they are not at liberty to ignore. Their missionary society has acted to this effect. An appeal has been made for four families, two of them physician families, to go. It is said there are no hospitals, no churches, no schools, no Christian agencies of any kind in that country of 4,000,000 people. American manufactured goods are beginning to reach Tibet and Scotch whisky has been there for a decade or two.

OLD BOXER DIES ON FIELD

Dick Burge, Once Well Known in This Country Met His Death Fighting in France.

Late Private Richard Burge of the First Surrey rifles never was a quitter, and, despite the fact that he was at the half century mark, he enlisted and died the death of a soldier. He was once the lightweight champion of England, and was born December 19, 1865.

Dick Burge was a name well known to the fight fans on both sides of the Atlantic 20 years or so ago, chiefly because of his remarkable battle with Kid Lavigne for the lightweight championship of the world. Dick was several inches taller than the Saginaw Kid, and he had a considerable advantage in weight, but, much to his surprise and that of the English fans, he was knocked out in the seventeenth round. He gave a good account of himself before he fell, however, and there were times when the Kid had reason to fear that he had taken on too good a man. After Burge quit the ring he became a fight promoter. That was in 1900. He enlisted as a volunteer in the British army in 1915 and served with the colors for three years. —Detroit Free Press.

Rulers With Business Instincts.

At the outset of his imperial career the grandfather of the former German kaiser, Frederick William, owed his accumulation of money to his commercial dealings. One of his commercial undertakings was to start milk-rounds, which did exceedingly well, in spite of being carried on sub rosa, for the German courtiers found that the imperial favor was dependent upon their patronizing the imperial dairy. In this way the old emperor created a huge milk monopoly in various cities, and reaped a correspondingly large profit. Kaiser Wilhelm himself had keen commercial instincts, and had a finger in most of the big German undertakings. In Germany it was currently reported that Ballin was merely the figure-head of the North German Lloyd line of steamships, and that the kaiser was the real man at the helm, and the same thing was said of many other money-making concerns.

In his recent annual report Maj. Gen. William L. Kenley, director of military aeronautics, states that 4,980 men had been graduated as reserve military aviators, the first rating for pilots, by June 30, last, with 110 bombers, 85 bombing pilots, 484 observers, 389 observer pilots, and 131 pursuit pilots. In the year ended last June 30 there were 182 fatalities in training, or an average of one death to 2,084 hours and 201,600 miles flown. Stalled engines, usually due to an error of the pilot, caused 89 deaths; collisions, 30; and sideslips, 10. The report goes on further to state that 440 balloon officers also had graduated, 185 of which were fully qualified observers during the year.—Scientific American.

The Rock of Moses.

The rock of Moses lies in the wild valley at the base of Jebel Musa, the Mount of the Law, in the peninsula of Sinai. The rock is eighteen or twenty feet high, slightly inclined, a rough indentation running over each side, which is intersected here and there with slits, and the stone is worn away in places as if from the effects of running water. It is beyond doubt the oldest known legendary object in the vicinity. The Koran refers to this rock more than once, and from these allusions arose the reverence of the Bedouins, who hold it sacred. From the middle ages onward it has been visited by Christian pilgrims, who have carved rude crosses on its side. Of all the objects in the desert it is most closely bound up with the simple faith of its wild inhabitants and of its early visitants.—Strand Magazine.

PRIZEWINNERS AT LAKEFIELD PICNIC

LADIES HAD A TUG-OF-WAR WITH THE MEN.

LAKEFIELD, May. 22.—The A.Y.P.A. held a picnic at the Exhibition grounds on Monday afternoon and evening. About thirty were present, among whom were ten returned soldiers.

The afternoon was given up to a baseball match and games. After tea Sergt. Stenner took charge of the sports and with the assistance of Mr. McFadden ran off the races.

There was a ladies tug of war which was exciting and amusing, the men also had a tug of war and then six ladies entered against three men and the victory was on the ladies side.

Miss Hilliard won the ladies sack race, and Mr. W. Robinson the gentleman's sack race. Miss Hilliard was the victor also in two potato races.

Mr. M. Kidd won the men's potato race. In the ladies hundred yard race Miss Hilliard was the winner.

Miss Hampton and Mr. T. Manning won the wheelbarrow race.

Mrs. Waldon and Miss Watson were winners in the ladies three legged race and Messrs. Manning and Barker in the men's three legged race.

Prizes Given

Prizes were given for points won in all the races and the prizes went as follows: Ladies 1st Miss Hilliard, 2nd Mrs. T. Waldon, 3rd Miss Hampton, 4th Misses R. Alford Watson (equal).

The men's prize went to Mr. M. Kidd and Mr. A. Barker ranked second.

The picnic was a huge success and when the party broke up after singing "Auld Lang Syne," that classic of songs of good fellowship, everyone had a feeling of regret that the party was over.

300,000 Persons Who Value a Dollar Drive a Maxwell

ONE reason—and the main one—why persons change from one car to another after a year's use is this: the cost is too much to keep it running.

A Maxwell possesses the prized virtue of staying out of the repair shop and running and running and running. This is why:

Raw materials are purchased in large quantities and for cash. Economy No. 1.

There are no engineering knick-knacks in a Maxwell. Economy No. 2.

The road testing engineer who spends 12 months a year testing Maxwell cars for weaknesses, and who has driven a motor car further than any living man finds the "mistakes" before they get into production and are therefore not passed on to you. Economy No. 3.

Maxwell cars are built on the original chassis plan laid down 5 years ago 300,000 have been built to date. Doing one thing always results in doing it well. Economy No. 4.

All "temperament" is taken out of the car by the engineering department so that it is well nigh impossible to find a Maxwell with an "unsweet disposition." Economy No. 5.

There are 25 others. These fortify you against after-trouble in a Maxwell. That is why you can be doubly sure on a Maxwell if you value highly a thrifty dollar. Most persons do, and 300,000 of them drive Maxwells.

BAILIEBORO BOYS WELCOMED HOME

Victor Fell and James Fernie Each Have Military Medal and Bar.

BAILIEBORO, May 20.—Thursday evening, May 15th, there gathered at the home of Wm. Fell, Bailieboro, a large number of neighbours and friends to extend their congratulations to the parents on the return of their son Victor R., and to do honour to the heroes who had so nobly fought for King and country in France during nearly four years. Victor and his chum, James Fernie, had been in many engagements together, had endured the hardships, and now each with a Military Medal and bar, have returned to Canada to enjoy a well-earned rest. After the friends had been called to order by the chairman, Rev. M. W. Leigh, B.A., a hymn was sung, prayer offered and then the following address was read by Percy C. Barnard and at the appropriate time the presentation made by Charles Dawson and Gerald Lang.

The Address

Address of appreciation to Messrs. Victor R. Fell and James Fernie.

Dear Friends:—We, a few of your friends, upon this happy occasion, desire through the medium of this feeble address, to express to you our deep appreciation of your noble services during the war and also our extreme pleasure in your safe return. We vividly recall the time over three years ago when with sad hearts and many misgivings, we said farewell to you, Victor.

We have ever followed you in thought and prayer through the years of your absence, and rejoiced from time to time over reports of your distinguished service, on which we congratulate you, and tonight we feel our joy fulfilled in receiving you back from the vortex of war.

To you, Mr. Fernie, we extend a most sincere welcome, feeling assured that you have fully bequeathed your share in making the name of the Canadians immortal, and in giving to humanity, liberty, and peace.

We admire in you both that wonderful spirit of self-sacrifice, which made you leave all, and stand forth for Freedom, with the bravest and best of Canada's sons.

We realize that for you who saw your duty and followed it, the war was a period of trial and testing and we rejoice that that physical struggle has borne fruit, just as the spiritual struggle, which went on in so many Canadian homes, has taught our people at home the solace of pride and the courage of faith.

We feel that anything we can do or say is as nothing compared with your great sacrifice, but as a slight remembrance of your inestimable service to mankind, we ask you, Mr. Fell, to accept this fitted club-bag, and Mr. Fernie, this watch.

We trust that wherever your future pathway may lead, these gifts may be constant reminders of our gratitude and esteem for your noble example.

Signed on behalf of your friends,
PERCY C. BARNARD.
CHARLES DAWSON.
GERALD LANG.

In Conclusion

After the presentation came the singing of, "We're rejoicing that you've come back home," and "For they are jolly good fellows," hearty cheers to the heroes, and brief and appropriate replies from both.

Addresses suited to the occasion were given by Rev. M. W. Leigh, Reeve J. Greer, Rev. A. H. McConnachie and Wm. Fell.

Games and refreshments filled up the rest of a very enjoyable evening.

8. Jonah 3: 5-9. How do you distinguish between the physical, and the moral penalties of sin?

10. Verse 10. What evidence is there, if any, that nature changes her law to inflict the legitimate penalty, when men change their conduct?

11. Jonah 3:10. What is the doom which hangs over the head of every sinner, and how would the sinner's repentance affect that awful condition?

16. What becomes of all those who die without repenting of their sins? What does it mean to "perish?"? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

17. Acts 2:37, 38. What message had they heard, so that they were pricked in their hearts," and inquired anxiously what they should do to be saved?

18. What is the matter with most modern sermons, that the hearers are not "pricked in their hearts"?

19. If a sinner's emotions are not stirred, but he is willing to forsake his sins and accept of Christ; will that or not, and why, constitute true repentance?

20. How long need it take a sinner to repent, be accepted by Christ, and become a saved man?

URGES PROHIBITION AS CHECK TO BOLSHEVISM.

OSSINING, N.Y., May 20.—Col. Dan Morgan Smith, of the 368th Infantry, speaking for Prohibition at a local theatre, issued a warning against the spread of Bolshevism in this country, and urged that one way to prevent "mob rule" was to enforce the constitution and its amendments.

"There is danger of the spread of Bolshevism if the Prohibition amendment is not enforced. If mob rule could prevent the enforcement of one section of the constitution it could another section. The Prohibition amendment has been placed on the statute books and should be as rigidly enforced as any other amendments," declared the speaker.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the American Anti-Saloon League.

FARM LOANS for SOLDIERS

Cheap Implements, Livestock and Harness

THE Soldier Settlement Board has arranged with manufacturers of implements and harness to give soldier settlers a wide choice of first class implements at prices substantially below those quoted to civilians; and in the Prairie Provinces the United Grain Growers, Limited, will give soldier settlers special prices on implements, wagons, and other commodities.

By collective buying in large numbers for cash, it can also offer soldiers the lowest possible prices on horses and other live stock.

It can supply a good harness set for approximately $31.50 at point of manufacture.

All these concessions are in addition to the Board's offer to secure for the soldiers good land, conveniently located, and to give financial assistance in the way of loans to establish them on the land.

Land and Loans

With certain exceptions, a soldier who has served with good conduct in the Canadian, Imperial or Allied forces in an actual theatre of war or outside the country in which he enlisted (or widow of any such man) may secure loans to purchase land, live stock and equipment and erect buildings—

(1) Up to $4,500 to cover the cost of the land and discharge encumbrances.

(2) Up to $1,000 to erect buildings. Both these loans to be paid on the instalment plan. Payments extending over 25 years.

(3) Up to $2,000 to buy implements, live stock, and equipment. The soldier will begin to pay off this loan in the third year, and will have four years to pay.

Only five per cent. will be charged on these loans.

A cash payment of one-tenth the price of the land will be required, except in special cases.

Qualified settlers on Dominion Lands may secure loans up to a maximum of $3,000 on a plan similar to the above for farm equipment, live stock, and erection of buildings, provided security offered justifies the loan.

If you figure you have more than a fifty-fifty chance to make good as a farmer, write to your Provincial Superintendent at 32 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

HASTINGS CORRESPONDENCE

HASTINGS, May 20.—A meeting was held in the Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of re-organizing the Mission Band. After discussing the subject thoroughly it was decided to unite the Mission Circle with the Band and the following officers were elected:

Circle Hon. Pres.—Mrs. C. Jones.
President—Miss Ora Doxsee.
1st Vice—Miss Eva Ellis.
Cor. Sec.—Miss Laura Smith.
Rec. Sec.—Miss Gladys Stevenson.
Treasurer—Miss Louisa Small.
Supt. of Christian Stewardship—Miss Kathleen Simpson.
Band officers:—
Vice-Pres.—Roland Jones.

A sort programme was then rendered and light refreshments served.

James Clysdale

The funeral of the late James Clysdale, eleven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Clysdale, of Percy (late of Hastings) took place on Saturday afternoon from the family residence to Trent Valley Cemetery for interment.

Picture Unveiled

Quite a number of citizens assembled in the I.O.D.E. rooms on Wednesday evening to witness the unveiling of the picture of the Hastings boys who had made the supreme sacrifice in the war. The chair was taken and ably filled by Mrs. P. Howard, Regent, who called upon Mrs. W. P. Plant to unveil the picture. Addresses were given by Rev. D. A. Thomson, Father Brethertor, Rev. Isaac Snell and Rev. Mr. McKim, who each spoke of the sacrifice the boys had been called to make and of the good work which the I.O.D.E. had accomplished during the war. After singing the National Anthem, refreshments were served and a pleasant evening brought to a close.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. E. Pettigrew in the loss by death of their infant son, who died a victim of pneumonia. The remaining child who was also suffering from the same, is we believe, on the fair way to recovery.

Quiet Wedding

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Methodist parsonage on Wednesday last when Rev. Isaac Snell united in marriage Clifford T. Robins, of North Bay, and Jean L. Oakley, of Asphodel.

Memorial Tablet

A large congregation assembled in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning to witness the unveiling of the memorial tablet which has been erected in memory of the boys of the congregation who gave their lives during the war. The tablet is of white marble and is beautifully inscribed. This occasion also marked to re-opening of the church after the decorations were completed, and which are certainly of a high order, reflecting credit on the decorator who had the work in charge. The music was in keeping with the occasion, the choir being ably assisted by Miss E. Fowlds, Miss Ida Lynn, of Peterborough, and Captain Walter Thompson, who each rendered a solo.

W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Methodist Church was held in the church parlour on Thursday afternoon. The attendance was good and the programme both interesting and instructive.

Quiet Wedding

On Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage, the marriage was solemnized of Harold Brown and Eleanor Free, both of Seymour. Rev. Isaac Snell officiated.

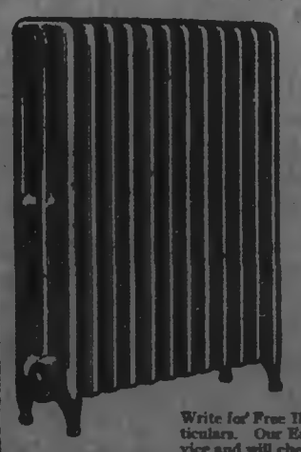
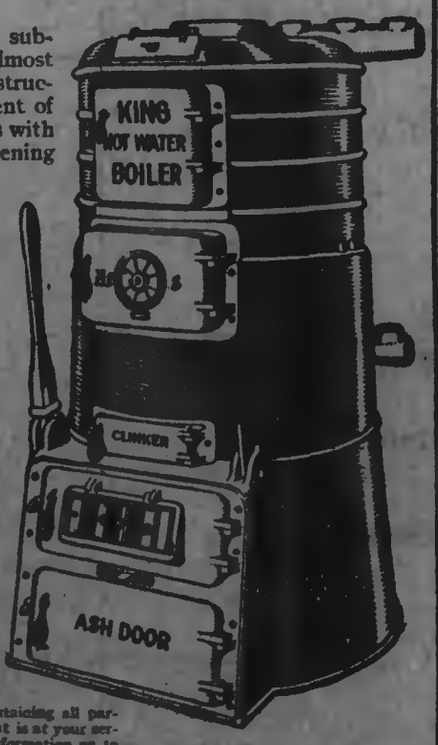
KING HOT WATER BOILERS AND IMPERIAL RADIATORS

By all the tests to which a Boiler can be subjected, the King Boiler makes a record of almost one hundred per cent. The scientific construction of the water channels; the arrangement of the fire chamber and flues; the quickness with which heat is taken up by the water, lessening the amount of fuel required; the air tight joints, preventing waste of fuel by ungovernable drafts; the strength of the materials; the convenience of all parts; the ease of shaking and ash disposal; the dust-tight ash pan, and other points, all explained in our Booklet are reasons why you should insist on having a King Hot Water Boiler.





Imperial Radiators

The latest improvements in our Radiators have doubled their power of quick and sustained heating. For graceful lines and beauty of proportion, Imperial Radiators are unequalled.

MANAGER THRASHES YOUNG MILLIONAIRE

NEW YORK.—George Bernheimer, aged 23, who since he came of age, has attracted newspaper mention by his desperate attempts to rid himself of the several millions left him by his father, Max Bernheimer, brewer, is back in the limelight. Although newspaper readers remember him as Bernheimer, he has change his name since the war to Burton.

The latest escapade of the handsome six-foot, 250-pound youth was neither a dinner to the gilded men and wild ladies of Broadway, nor a one-piece bathing suit party, by means of which he used to break into print in the good old days before the war. This time it is a one-round, three-minute, rough-and-tumble bout at the stage-entrance of the Ziegfield Midnight Frolic, indirectly due to the young millionaire's unwelcome attentions to Martha Mansfield, one of the beauties of the roof garden.

Young Burton's opponent was a theatrical manager, Edgar Dudley. Everybody on Broadway agreed that the brewer's son lost the decision. Dudley, who is about 30, does not look as if he could whip a big fellow like Burton. He is only 5 feet 6 or 8, and weighs only 140, but he was the amateur lightweight boxing champion of Maryland several years ago.

Get Away From the Odd One.

A curious story comes from the people of the Niger. A very rich man died, leaving the vast fortune (for Nigeria) of 20,001 cowries. It fell to the lot of the king to divide them among three sons, and he was at his wits' end to know what to do with the one cowrie. A wizard was called in, who gained boundless credit by doling out the cowries one by one until only six remained. These he divided into three lots of two each and gave a lot to each son. The king to this day attributes this very satisfactory outcome to conjuring.—Independent.

Food of the Chickadee.

The food of the chickadee is made up of insects and vegetable matter in the proportion of seven of the former to three of the latter. Moths and caterpillars are favorites and form about one-third of its food, while beetles, ants, wasps, bugs, grasshoppers and spiders make up the rest. The vegetable food consumed is composed of seeds, largely those of pine, poison ivy and weeds.

Sky Effects.

"This scenery isn't what it was," complained the artist.

"I can't see a bit of difference," declared the old farmer. "What do you miss?"

"I'm looking for a cloud like the one I painted last year."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer

Work That Blinds.

Many of the workmen in the Venetian glass factories begin to lose their sight after they have passed their fortieth year and soon become totally blind. This is caused by the excessive heat and also by the glare of the flames from the glass furnaces.

The unfortunate thing about good resolutions is that they are so often made too late.

His Passport.

On one occasion Gustave Dore, the artist, lost his passport while on a tour in Switzerland. At Lucerne he asked to be allowed to speak to the mayor, to whom he gave his name.

"You say that you are M. Gustave Dore, and I believe you," said the mayor, "but," and he produced a piece of paper and a pencil, "you can easily prove it."

Dore looked around him and saw some peasants selling potatoes in the street. With a few clever touches he reproduced the homely scene and, appending his name to the sketch, presented it to the mayor.

"Your passport is all right," remarked the official, "but you must allow me to keep it and to offer you in return one of the ordinary form."

The Codex Sinaiticus.

The most ancient of the New Testament manuscripts is the one known as the "Codex Sinaiticus," published at the expense of Alexander II. of Russia since the Crimean war. This codex covers nearly the whole of the Old and New Testaments and was discovered in the Convent of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai by the celebrated Tischendorf. It is generally ascribed to the fourth century.—New York American.

Week-Old Corns
Should Be Unthinkable

These positive facts are now known to millions.

The pain of a corn can be instantly stopped, and forever.

The corn itself can be ended completely, and usually in two days.

The method is scientific. It consists of attaching a Blue-jay plaster, forgetting the corn, and letting things take their course.

The results have been proved by experience.

They have been proved to so many people that corns are now comparatively uncommon.

Corn aches are needless.

Paring corns is folly.

Old-time harsh and messy treatments have no place today.

You will know these facts, and quickly, if you'll try a Blue-jay on one corn. Do it tonight, and the whole corn question will settle itself forever.

A LESSON IN GEOGRAPHY.

Do You Know How Far East South America's West Coast is?

In his book, the "Conquest of the Tropics," Frederick Upham Adams calls attention to some little known geographical facts:

Most of us picture Havana as nearly south of New York, when in fact it is about south of Detroit. A study of a map of the new world discloses the disconcerting fact that all of the west coast of South America is east of Detroit, and that most of it is hundreds of miles east of New York city. The truth of the matter is that we should call that continent "Southeast America."

I also made the astounding discovery that a considerable portion of South America lies north of the southerly sections of North America. When we get mail from Colon for Santa Marta, Columbia, we do not head south or southeast, we point our prow northeast. This is almost as puzzling as the other fact to the effect that Colon, the Caribbean port (the supposed east port), is twenty odd miles west of Panama City, which is on the Pacific and presumably west end of the canal. It is positively uncanny to look out of a window of the Tivoli hotel, in Panama City, and watch the sun rise squarely out of the Pacific ocean! Of course an accurate map justifies the sun in selecting the Pacific for rising rather than setting purposes, but it never seemed right or proper to me. Oceans should stay where they belong, and the Pacific has no business to twist itself to the east of Panama.

TRAVEL IN SAN SALVADOR.

Crossing Rivers and Swamps Tourists Often Get Free Baths.

More than once, says John H. Weeks in his book "Among the Primitive Bakongo," I had in my San Salvador journey a strong krooboy a part of whose duty it was to carry me over the many streams and swamps that crossed the path. His name was a remarkable one. I do not know how he came by it, but the first time I met him I asked him his name, and he replied in krooboy English, "My name, massa, be Napoleon Bonaparte."

Sometimes Napoleon would have me on his shoulders in the middle of a river, and feeling the rush of water against his legs he would begin to quake and say: "Massa, I no fit for carry you. I go let you fall."

I would reply, "Napoleon, I fit for give you one cupful of rice suppose you no drop me."

He would then take a few more careful paces, and feeling the swirl of water more strongly about his legs and the stones slipping beneath his feet he would nervously call out in his curious English: "Massa, massa, I no fit! I bound for let you fall."

Napoleon often received from me the promise of two or three cupfuls of rice to steady him before he landed me high and dry upon the farther bank. At times we were not so fortunate. Then both of us went down into the water, and we congratulated ourselves when it was a stream and not a nasty, muddy swamp.

Shampoo.

A mid-eighteenth century traveler, who is the first person known to have made English of the word "shampoo," wrote that "shampooing is an operation not known in Europe and is peculiar to the Chinese, which I had once the curiosity to go through and for which I paid but a trifle. However, had I not seen several Chinese merchants shampooed before me I should have been apprehensive of danger, even at the sight of all the different instruments." The original "shampoo," as this traveler's detailed account and other allusions for long after his time show, was very much what we call "massage" now. It was from India that the word really came, and it represents the imperative of a verb meaning to knead.

Green Animals a Puzzle.

What makes some animals green? If any reader knows and will tell he will settle a big dispute now going on among scientists who have vowed to find out. Green colorations belong chiefly to insects, worms and reptiles. Whether they get their green hue from the plants they eat or not is a question that has not been conclusively settled, although it has been shown that they will retain their color even when denied all green food.—Exchange.

Giraffe Meat.

The flesh of young giraffe, especially that of a young cow, is extremely good, somewhat like veal, with a gamelike flavor. The tongue, from eighteen to twenty inches long, is also very good. But the marrow bones afford the greatest luxury to the South African hunter.

Woman's Aim.

The Heel of Achilles in Tires

The weak spot in a tire is where tread stops and sidewall begins.

On any road but smooth, flat pavement, the spears of the road—stones and broken rock—are constantly jabbing at this Heel of Achilles. And the sides of wagon tracks, when you ride ruts, grind wickedly at vulnerable flanks.

• • •

Your eyesight tells you that. Now look at the SAFETY TREAD of Goodrich Tires. See how it spreads the Goodrich interlocking safety bars beyond the ball of the tire, and lays extra tread rubber along the sidewall.

Notice further, how the extra wide tread carries on up the sides of the tire, extending beneath the sidestrips.

• • •

Remember, that is one of the many reasons why Goodrich Tires lead in mileage over all roads, rough or smooth.

JUSTICE FOR THE FOSTER PARENTS OF OUR CHILDREN

A Plea for the School Teacher, to Whom is Entrusted the Care of the Children of the Nation in Their Tender and Formative Years—Have Done Their Work Well.

WHY THERE ARE SO MANY VACANCIES

The appended article reproduced from the Literary Digest, has considerable local significance inasmuch as the conditions outlined in the article obtain here:

It is strange that the generous-hearted American people, who poured out their riches so prodigally in response to every patriotic, every charitable appeal, and who accorded such enthusiastic and liberal supprto to every measure and to every group that helped win the war, should have neglected to properly encourage and reward the services of one of the noblest professions in the field of human activities—a profession that in lofty ideals, in unselfish principles, in sacred responsibilities, stands side by side with the ministry of the Gospel itself.

We wish to bespeak, with whatever power and authority we may have and with such words as may be granted to us, some measure of consideration for the foster-fathers and mothers of our children—the school-teachers of the United States of America.

There is no class of workers of which we demand so much. We commit into their keeping the minds, the bodies, and the very souls of our children in the tender and formative years of their lives, and they, receiving these children, can indeed be said to hold in the hollow of their hands the future of America. We expect these devoted men and women to watch over and care forour sons and daughters as though they were their very own, to drill them in the arts and sciences, to train them for business and for citizenship, to instruct them in manners and in morals, to do for them those things which we would do had we the training and the leisure.

No class has assumed so heavy, so trying a burden and a responsibility with such willingness as these consecrated men and women. No class has performed their increasingly heavy tasks more devotedly, more conscientiously, and with less thought of self. No class served their country more whole-heartedly, more loyally, during the trying and tempestuous times of war, day by day pursuing their round of duty, day by day helping the young people, and through the children the parents, to see the struggle in its true light, thus securing the co-operation of the community in every measure undertaken by the Government to win the war.

Have Done Their Work Well.

Truly they have made the nation their everlasting debtor. Truly had they not done their work so well this republic would not outlast the span of a generation.

What then have the teachers received at our hands in return? They have received little of honour and somewhat less of pay. Other classes have prospered; other classes through powerful organizations have secured generous wages. The teachers have no spokesman, however, to demand even the simple justice of a living wage, so to them we give their petty prewar pittance, so meager, so pitifully inadequate, that it places a burning brand of shame and disgrace upon this nation.

The men and women who are making the Americans of to-morrow are being treated with less consideration than the janitors who sweep out the buildings in which they are employed; they are earning on the average, less than the wages given to the scrubwoman employed in the public buildings of the United States Government. Normal school graduates receive less salary than street-sweepers; high-school principals and superintendents less than section foremen; country school teachers less than for instructing the farmer's children than he pays his hired man to feed his hogs.

In a certain town of Illinoi, for instance, the average wages of fifteen miners for one month was $217, while the average monthly salary of fifteen teachers in the same town was $55. In another town a miner, who, by the way, was an enemy alien, drew more than $2,700 last year, while the salary of the high school principal in the same town was $765. We welcome with all our hearts the long-belated recognition that is being given to the man who works with his hands. We believe that this same workingman will be the first to join with us in asking better pay for those who teach his children.

Fifty Thousand Vacancies.

No wonder there are fifty thousand vacancies in the teaching forces of the schools. No wonder the ranks are being filled with weak men and immature women who merely use the profession as a stepping-stone to something better. No wonder there are thirty thousand teahers in the United States who have had no schooling beyond the eighth grammar grade. Small wonder, indeed, that seven million of our school children are being trained by teachers, mere boys and girls themselves, who have had no professional education whatever.

When we consider that the 740,000 teachers of America are paid an average salary of $630 a year; when, moreover, we consider the fact that living costs have actually advanced 103 per cent. since the beginning of the war, thereby cutting the buying-power of these insignificant salaries in half, we can easily determine that only a fool or a martyr would choose teaching as a profession, or would long remain in it unless these terrible conditions were swiftly remedied.

What a crime is this! What an indictment! What an unpardonable sin at the doors of an enlightened people who now find themselves at the head and forefront of the democracies of the world! How can we better prepare for the great undertakings of reconstruction than by setting ourselves immediately to remedying this perilous condition. In these trying and chaotic times when the world is beset by unrest, by anarchy, by revolution, by the devil's brood of appalling evils that follow in the train of war, we must make sure that the foundations of our republic are set on a rock that it may stand against the flood.

The peace and security of the world of the future will be in the safe keeping of the generation now in our schools. These boys and girls must "weave up the ravelled sleeve" of civilization. Their hands must minister to the wounds of the nations. Their minds must meet and solve the difficult and crucial problems that will be their inheritance. Their hearts must be so imbued with the horrors of war and with the poverty and anguish that inevitably follow in its wake that they in their time will enter upon it only as a last resort in national self-defence or in support of some great principle of humanity.

Urgent Need For Instructors.

Never has there been a more urgent need for high-minded, great-hearted, splendidly trained, 100 per cent. American instructors to drive home the vital lessons that these times hold. Never has the future of the nation been so clearly committed into the hands of the teachers. And yet thousands of men and women of ability who would perfer to teach are reluctantly leaving their chosen calling, forced by the hard necessities of their very existence.

The teachers ask no largess at the hands of fortune. They enter their profession for service, not riches. But they invest years and money in preparation for their life-work and the knowledge they gain is shared with others who themselves use it to their own profit. Teachers, then, by every right and in all justice expect a return that will permit them and their dependents to live decently and in comfort.

In every community reached by The Literary Digest there are readers of foresight, of vision, broad-minded men and thoughtful women who will see— nay, perhaps have long since seen—the critical and compelling importance of this problem. We are directing this appeal to them. We urge them to compare the salaries of their teachers with the wages of those who are doing work of equal value. There will be a challenge in the facts that will stir the community to action.

Let each community invest in schools so that it may thereby invest in a trained manhood and womanhood that can play their part in the great period of rebuilding and reconstruction that lies before us. "Let each community set for its goal, as far as is practicable, a minimum wage of at least $1,000 a year for the teahers of America. This would cost the nation [illegible] as much as we spent so gloriously in but one week of the Great War.

We are not pleading merely for the welfare of some single profession; we are not pleading for a special class; we are pleading for America: for her larger, her brighter, her richer future, for the fulfilment of her glorious promise. We are pleading for a coming race of men and women who shall be qualified to make complete the work of our forefathers who founded this nation and dedicated it to liberty, and who will bring to full fruition the new victories that we have won in freedom's cause. We are pleading for a wider teaching of the principles, the purposes, and the ideals of this nation that all men shall know her meaning and shall have equal access to her opportunities; that the light of Americanism will so shine that it will flood every home, every heart, in our great land.—From Literary Digest.

RESTORING COLOUR TO FADED RUGS

War time economy has taught many lessons that will no doubt stay with us and save many dollars in nearly every home. One of these is, in the matter of rugs and carpets. In pre-war days a new rug or so every house-cleaning time seemed to follow as a natural course of events. After a time of wear on the best room in the house, a rug wended its way through various rooms of less importance, and finally ended its somewhat short life in the furnace or in the ragman's wagon. Sometimes it was strong and whole, but because the colors were faded and looked run-in, it was taboo and no longer fit for use, we thought. Rugs weren't such a big factor of expenses then, and good quality rugs were so easily procured!

How different it is now! Many old-time rugs could have been bought with the price we now pay for one —and then the quality is not what we had in the past. We have to make our rugs and carpets last now. We might have had to put up with faded, rubbed-in colors too, had not some wise housewife hit upon a discovery that restores colors to faded-looking carpets and rugs.

This is what it is: Take an ordinary scrubbing brush and scrub the rug or carpet with a solution of water in which Snowflake Ammonia has been dissolved. The result will be startling. Your old rug will look like new. Snowflake Ammonia may be obtained at all grocers.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Popinjay

By MARGARET C. DEVEREAUX

Two men were standing on a street corner chatting. They were both crooks, though professionally they had no connection. A dapper young fellow who looked as if he had just come out of a bandbox passed them.

"Who is that guy?" asked one crook.

"Hist!" said the other, and waited till the young man had got beyond hearing; then he added: "That's a Pinkerton. I run across him once. He's the slickest in the business. I'd know him through any makeup."

"What's he doin' here?" asked the other nervously.

"I reckon he's workin' on the Tenth National bank business. I've been let into it that the best men in the Pinkerton service are on that case."

"Come off, Tom; you're coddin' me."

"You needn't believe me, Bill, if you don't want to. I've only given you what I think anyway."

The crook who had received this information tried to look unconcerned, but the other noticed that he was very much concerned. Bill walked away, and Tom looked after him with evident amusement. "What a sucker!" he said to himself. "I believe he had something to do with that bank job or he wouldn't have bit so sudden. He's a green one. The idea o' that popinjay bein' a detective!" And he smothered a laugh.

That same afternoon Bill met the popinjay, again on the street. Bill looked at him so hard that he attracted the other's attention. This was probably the reason why he looked hard at Bill. At any rate Bill shuddered and passed on.

"He's on to me, sure!" he muttered. "I wonder if I could get out o' town without his knowin' it. I'm goin' to try a makeup."

When the 7 o'clock train pulled out of the station an elderly countryman with a pair of old fashioned green goggles on his nose sat in a seat by himself looking as if he had just come from the haying field. The door at the front end of the car opened, and who should come in but the popinjay. The only seat vacant was by the farmer, and the newcomer took it. The farmer's eyes being covered by the goggles and the lower part of his face by a long white beard, no one could see the contortions of his countenance. Presently he pulled himself together and said in a low tone to the man beside him:

"What is there in it for me if I give up the job?"

"What stuff?" asked the other, surprised.

"Oh, I'm on to you same as you're on to me. No need o' fencin'. If I put you on to where the money is will you let me out o' the game?"

The stranger instantly looked the speaker full in the face, surprise, curiosity, craft and a number of other expressions struggling for the mastery. Finally he said:

"Can you turn it over without the matter leaking out?"

"I can."

"Do you want to go anywhere?"

"Reckon I'd like to try South America for awhile."

"How much would you need?"

"How much can you let me have?"

"How much money have you to turn over?"

"All that was taken."

The popinjay was stalled. He didn't like to ask what he was supposed to know. He concluded to take a risk.

"Would five hundred do?"

"If you can't do any better."

"Very well. Where do we get off?"

"At Winchester."

There was no further conversation between the two till they reached Winchester, where they left the train together.

"Far?" asked the popinjay as they stood on the platform.

"About two miles."

"Cab!"

A station cabman drove up; the two got in and were driven beyond the outskirts of the town, stopping at a small house in bad repair. A woman came to the door, followed by several children whose faces peered from behind her. The crook had thrown off his disguise while in the cab and appeared as himself. The woman looked from one man to the other anxiously. Bill said to her: 'I've got tired o' this business. I'm goin' to give up the stuff and take you and the children to a new country to make a new beginnin'."

"I'm mighty glad o' that," gasped the woman. 'I'm dyin' with this load on me."

Going into the house, Bill went to the cellar and brought up a package, which he handed to the popinjay, who opened it and, finding a number of bank bills, counted out a thousand dollars and handed it back to Bill.

"I thought you made it $300?"

"I didn't know you were going to begin over with your wife and children. There's $200 for you and $300 for them. I'm no detective. You gave yourself away to me needlessly. Our meeting on the train was a coincidence. I'm a millionaire. I shall take this money to the bank and restore it, including what I've given you. If you need help at any time let me know."

He wrote his address on his card and was driven away, followed by many a "God bless you."

The next day a young man dressed in the height of fashion called at the Tenth National bank, asked for the president, told his story and left the amount of a recent loss by robbery.

$14 Saved Two Fingers

The fingers were those of Mr. J. W. Besnard, of 539 Craig St. E., Montreal. He says, —"A falling beam badly smashed my hand. Two fingers were so severely crushed that the doctors said they would have to be amputated. Naturally I didn't want this, so decided to try Zam-Buk first. I applied Zam-Buk daily, and by the time I had used $4 worth, the injury was completely healed. My fingers were saved!"

"You Will Try the Nerve Food, Won't You?"

"YOU seem to think that it would help me."

"I don't think anything about it, I know it would."

"And how do you know?"

"From personal experience. Isn't that the surest way to know anything."

"I guess you are right. But you know I never had any use for medicines."

"Not many people have so long as they are well, and you were always well until you had this nervous breakdown. That was just the trouble, you thought you could stand anything, and overworked until you had not an ounce of nerve force left. Now you have to build up the nervous system again."

"Oh, I will soon be all right."

"Yes, I think you will if you use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but you know you have not improved one bit in the last three weeks, and it's time you got something to help you. I was not a nurse for nothing. I know what you need and I never found anything in all my nursing experience that would build up exhausted nerves so thoroughly as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

"Well, I suppose I may as well give in, for I see you will have your way."

"Oh, I am so glad. I am going to send Bobbie to the drug store for half a dozen boxes right away."

"Why not try one first?"

"What is one box of medicine for a man whose nerves are in the condition yours are? This Nerve Food is not a miracle worker. It cures in Nature's way by gradually building up the depleted nerve cells. This is why the results are so certain and so lasting, but you must have a little patience."

"Oh, all right. You are the doctor. So we shall see what this Nerve Food will do for me."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

Eugene Field and Children.

"It was children whom Field loved best," says Miss Hildegarde Hawthorne in St. Nicholas, "and he would take all sorts of trouble to make a child happy. His room was crowded with toys, queer dolls, funny little mechanical toys that ran about or bowed or nodded strange heads or performed tricks. His study door was never shut to a child, and he had many child friends his family knew nothing of. His brother tells how a few hours after his death a little crippled boy came to the door and asked if he might go up and see Mr. Field. He was taken into the room where the gentle, much loved figure lay and left there. In a little while he came limping downstairs, the tears streaming down his cheeks, and went silently away, known to nobody there."

The Best's Kilt.

Some writers allude to the kilt as "kilts," and in this connection a Scotchman recently wrote a letter to a London journal protesting as follows: "I would like as a Scotchman to protest to you as an English journalist against the reference one sees so frequently in English newspapers to the highlanders' 'kilts.' The highlander does not wear 'kilts;' he wears a kilt. You may talk of a battalion of soldiers being dressed in kilts—though it would be correct to say that they wore the kilt—just as you would say the Persian ladies wear the 'yashmak.' It is just as absurd to say that General So-and-So wore 'greatcoats' as to say that he wore kilts. The kilt is a single garment."

The First Fires.

Speaking of wonderful inventions, the overshadower of Edison in the man—or woman—who invented fire. Our prehistoric ancestors doubtless were familiar with fire from lightning strokes and lava eruptions. But how did they ever get the idea that they could imitate the effects of lightning by rubbing two sticks against each other? It has been observed in recent years that in bamboo forests of southern India branches sometimes are whipped by the wind against each other until they burst into flame. That probably was where the fire inventor got his idea.—Kansas City Star.

The Genius of Language.

It makes a difference with a vengeance what tongue we employ to convey ideas of proper names. Thus, our notion of Vienna, in its assigned and native dwelling place, is Wien. Your Frenchman, insisting that the cockney does not know his own, converts London into Londres.

We superior English speaking schoolmasters, defying birthright and the custom of the ages, make it appear that Roma is merely monosyllabic Rome; that Venetia is Venice; that Koeln is Cologne, and so on through the world.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Tragic Coincidence.

In 1805 a German predicted that he would be a victim of a war that would take place in 1908. The war occurred, but did not affect him. One day forty-two years later he was laughing at his old time prophesying boasting of his good health. In his happy mood he bought an old-fashioned gun from a friend and straightway went to inspect it. In the garden there was a quantity of old guns and among it a shell dating from 1805. He picked it up and was examining it when it exploded, and he was killed on the spot. The prophecy had come true.

Tea Good.

"Mary, after the week is out I shan't need your services," the boarding house keeper told her cook. "Your cooking doesn't suit me."

"But the boarders seem to like it, ma'am."

"Yes; that's why I must get another cook."

Cause of His Worry.

Ned—I'm dreadfully worried about my debts. Jack—It must be frightfully annoying to be continually dunned. Ned—Oh, hang the duns! What worries me is the melancholy fact that I can't get any more credit.—Kansas City Journal.

Mending Him a Job.

Mabel—How are you getting on at college, Percy? Percy—Oh, all right. I'm trying awfully hard to get ahead, you know. Mabel—Well, heaven knows you need one!—Judge.

WOMEN! SAMSON'S

Examples of extraordinary strength and endurance on the part of women war-workers have been given recently by Mr. George Ryder of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers. He says that in a Birmingham shell factory women habitually handled and lifted shells weighing 250 pounds each.

Work is measured in foot-tons — that is, power sufficient to raise a ton weight one foot. The working power developed by the human body is 2400 foot-tons a day. The heart alone does 120 foot-tons in twenty-four hours.

Considered purely as an engine, the human body is very wonderful. The average day's work of a man in good health is equivalent to raising two million pounds to the height of one foot, and all this is done on the consumption of about eight pounds-weight of food, drink and oxygen from the air that he breathes.

To compare the work of strong men with strong women is interesting. The "peons" of Mexico and the professional porters of Turkey are reckoned the strongest of mankind. One of the former has been known to carry a Burley drill weighing 600 pounds over a mountain pass, while three of the Turkish porters have carried a grand piano in its case for a distance of three miles on end.

It is admitted that a professional cyclist in a 24 hours race has broken the record for the amount of work done by a human being within that time. Such a man does twenty million foot pounds of work in the 24 hours, or in other words, lifts a weight of two tons to the height of one mile.

WHAT A BIG PICTURE COSTS

The cinema has been aptly called "the poor man's picture gallery," though few people realize the vast sums that are spent in providing an entertainment that is within the reach of any child with a few pennies at his disposal.

To give an idea of the lavish methods of the great trans-Atlantic studios, let us consider the so-called "big picture," which forms the chief items of an average three hours' cinema bill.

The first person responsible for the production is the author. An original scenario will net anything from £20 to £100. Scripts adapted from books and plays are, curiously enough more expensive than original screen work. Mary Pickford paid over £3,000 for the film rights of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and the Vitagraph Company over £10,000 for "Within the Law." Dr. Dixon, author of "The Clansman," probably holds an unbeaten record as a harvester of film royalties. His profits on "The Birth of a Nation," which D. W. Griffith adapted from the story of "The Clansman," are estimated at £100,000, his share being 25 per cent. of the net receipts.

OLEOMARGARINE, BUTTER AND BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSSED

TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL APPROVED REQUEST TO GOVERNMENT FOR CONTINUANCE OF "OLEO" MANUFACTURE, BUT ONE MEMBER DECLARED THAT BUTTER SHOULD BE KEPT AT HOME FOR CANADIAN CONSUMER.

A USE FOR BAND MONEY

"Why should Canada export butter and keep oleomargarine," asked a delegate at last night's meeting of the Trades and Labour Council during a discussion on a resolution supporting the Local Council of Women's request to the Government to permit the manufacture of margarine to continue in this country.

"It would have been more consistent of the ladies had they asked the Government to prohibit the export of butter," this delegate said. "In regard to its taste I have no doubt that it is a good substitute for butter, but what of its nourishment? It is not to be compared with butter by a long ways. Our butter is exported and as a result many of our citizens can't touch its price. Canada is producing more than enough butter for our people, but it is being exported in order that the produce men can get the greatest profit. Why shouldn't they export oleomargarine and keep butter for Canadians. If we are consumers of margarine and not of butter it simply means that our standard of living is being reduced."

Another delegate stated that margarine was made in Great Britain by the Co-operative Association at a cost of 10c and was sold for 18c. It could be imported into Canada and retailed for 30c as compared with the 40c a pound that is charged here in Peterborough.

Margarine wasn't the only food that showed price discrepancies in Canada and the Old Country. It was stated that the local Co-operative Society several years ago had ascertained as a fact that bacon prepared in Peterborough could be reimported from England and laid down here at two cents less than the current retail price. On that basis it was scarcely a profitable transaction, but the point was made that after twice crossing the Atlantic and incurring costs other than those of freight, the accumulated price was still lower than the retail quotation in the very town from which the meat was originally produced and packed.

Those who advocated the retention of Canadian made oleomargarine for Canadian consumers argued that it exerted a depressive influence upon the price of butter, and for that reason its manufacture should be encouraged. The resolution was therefore carried.

Give It for Playgrounds

Another resolution recommended that the City Council donate to the Playgrounds Association the $200 appropriation the 57th Regimental band has declined to accept as remuneration for their Friday night concerts in Victoria Park. This money, it was contended, had been set aside for the benefit of the citizens and should be so expended. It would serve a good purpose if used by the Playgrounds Association in providing the bathing beaches the city needs.

A letter from Sir Adam Beck explained that the two street cars ordered by the Hydro-Electric Commission, were being made in the United States because their cost after paying 42½ per cent. duty would be 40 per cent. less than they could be built for in Canada.

Concert for Labourers

The concert the Moulders are arranging for next Tuesday night in Victoria Hall in aid of the striking labourers was recommend to workers and other citizens.

Last Night's Conference

Mr. Ed. Marchand presided as chairman last night in the temporary absence of Mr. A. L. Bolwell, who accompanied the representatives of the labourers in their conference with the City Council and the Industrial Committee of the Board of Trade at the City Hall. Mr. T. Tooms who was recently appointed business agent for the labourers also attended the meeting Mayor Duncan called, and returning he and Mr. Bolwell gave a report of the conciliatory session at which the labourers hoped the city would be moved to grant their demands.

Inevitably the mere mention of the Board of Trade provoked caustic comment from several of the delegates. It had been stated that Mr. E. F. Mason, chairman of the Board's Industrial Committee, had interested himself in the difficulties of the labourers, and for this evidence of solicitude some of the members spoke appreciatively. One delegate asked pointedly why the Mayor or the City Council should have to wait for the intervention of representatives of the Board of Trade before the yessayed to deal out justice to the striking labourers. The questions at issue involved the city and its employees, it was maintained by this speaker, and there was no occasion for the City Council considering the extraneous point of possible effect upon the labourers in the factories. That was a matter that concerned the factory employers and their men, just as the city's problem was one for the Council and the labourers to settle.

The exchange of opinions broadened somewhat to the general activities or purposes of the Board of Trade ruffled the proceedings until the gavel banged a reminder that parliamentary form must not be departed from. One delegate counselled that when the Board of Trade exhibited a desire to help Labour, their friendly initiative should be welcomed both in the interests of the workers and also for the entire city.

BELIEF PREVAILS THAT A REPRIEVE WILL BE SECURED

"FIGHT TO A FINISH" IS PROMISED IN M'CULLOUGH'S BEHALF.

TORONTO, May 22. — Petitions for the commutation of the death sentence imposed on Frank McCullough for the murder of Detective Frank Williams continue to pour into the offices of Robinette & Co. Many of them come from distant parts of the country, and, according to Mr. Wm. Hopkins, junior partner of the firm, many more are expected. Public sympathy has been with McCullough since the time of his daring escape, and his subsequent recapture by the police has greatly accelerated the interest taken by the public in the case.

Mr. T. C. Robinett, states that he will be in the battle till the very finish as far as the legal end is concerned. Rev. Mr. Nelles, however, has taken charge of the sympathetic side of the case, and both are confident that they will be able to save McCullough from his fate.

McCullough Despondent Now.

Taking no interest in life whatever, McCullough does not seem to care what happens to him. Since his recapture he has been inclined to be very quiet. His care-free smile has disappeared, and, except when visited by his counsel or his spiritual adviser, he rarely smiles. While McCullough's last profession of Christianity seems to have been exploded, in the minds of some people, by his daring get-away from the death cell, those who know him and are allowed to visit him state that he now gets a lot of pleasure and passes the most of his time in reading his Bible. McCullough, since the time he was first taken into custody, was always a great reader, and, strange as it may seem, he has a marked preference for good fiction and works of the better type.

While there are those who are eager to sign petitions for his release, there are also those, though it seems that they are in the minority, who think otherwise, and uphold the doctrine of an "eye for an eye."

Veterans Are Divided.

As far as returned soldiers go, there are some whose sympathies are with McCullough and others who think that he should pay the penalty for the deed whether it was intentional or not. Fortunately for McCullough, as far as it can be ascertained, there are very few who hold this opinion.

Regarding Mr. T. C. Robinette's plan of having an alienist watch McCullough in his cell, it is thought by some that it will have a great bearing on the case which he is making up to present to the Minister of Justice at Ottawa. Mr. Robinette stated that there were certain features of McCullough's actions both during and after his escape that pointed to mental unbalance, and he farther stated that he would leave no stone unturned to see what could be done for him.

Lowe Brothers Paints

The highest standard paints made and the most economical as they cover more surface, are finer in texture, more brilliant and permanent in color and far more durable than ordinary paints.

How to measure

To find out the quantity of Lowe Brothers "High Standard" paint required, divide the number of square feet of surface to be painted by 700 for the priming coat and 425 for the two following coats. If the surface is already painted and in good condition one gallon will cover 425 to 475 square feet with two coats. Or, bring your measurements to us and we will figure the quantity.

How to use good paint

See that the surface to be painted is clean and in proper condition. If the surface is not in good shape we will tell you how to treat it. Outside painting should never be done in damp or frosty weather, or when the wood is not perfectly dry. Never thin with coal oil or benzine as you will kill the life of the paint. Ask for color cards giving complete painting instructions.

Family Waiting at Station When This Soldier Got Home

AN INCIDENT OF THE RETURN OF THE PETERBORO MEN OF THE 21ST BATTALION IN WHICH THE USUAL ORDER OF WELCOME WAS REVERSED—TRAIN HELD AT ROMAINE STREET SEWER.

CAPT. D. H. MOORE, M.C., RETURNS.

When Private Wilton J. Tranter arrived at his home, 607 Chamberlen street on Sunday morning at eight o'clock he found the house closed, and he had to set out for the G.T. R. station to receive the loving welcome of his parents who were eagerly waiting there with the relatives of the other Peterborough men of the 21st battalion. There was humour and joy to this home-coming which in some particulars was rather unique.

The expectant crowd had concentrated their attentions upon the sense of hearing as they listened for the first faint whistle of the special train. The khaki-clad figure approaching along the platform from King street conveyed no intimation that he was arriving ahead of the train and his comrades, but even at the distance of many paces a father's unerring but probably doubting vision, recognized his first born, and to the surprise of the crowd he exclaimed in a voice that carried a note of amazement ,"Why there's Wilton," and rushed to greet the boy, whose presence demanded some explanation.

It was all simple enough. The special train was held at Romaine street where the city's special sewer gang were completing the work of filling the excavation and laying new ties and rails in the trench they have been working on for some weeks. Private Tranter, who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, recognized the outskirts of the old town and leaving the train at Romaine street he walked up the Monaghan road to surprise his family. But the picture he suddenly called up even more quickly dissolved, and these men no [illegible] the walk to the station.

There he became a herald of the other returning men, who in a few minutes were swinging into Bethune street. There were twenty-five local men, and with their Lindsay pals they made quite an impressive contingent as they were seen in the distance down the street. The automobiles of the Reception committee set out at once to save the last trudge to the station from which they departed, and the re-union had all the evidences of happiness that slightly repay the soldiers and their relatives for their long and anxious separation.

Departed From Plans.

The 21st Battalion men were expected to arrive home this morning, but they were mustered out on Saturday night and arrangements were quickly made to send them home by special train. They were met by Capt. Morrison, Capt. Hall and other officers and men previously returned, who were notified of the new plans at midnight on Saturday and had to make a hurried revision of their programme, secure automobiles and notify relatives who were not otherwise informed. Cars were supplied by C. E. Canfield, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, G. A. Gillespie, P. A. Ferguson, Capt. Morrison, W. R. Turner, and the city added three. Ald. Taylor and City Clerk Armstrong represented the Council.

Among those who came home yesterday was Captain David H. Moore, who has seen long service and came through with only minor scars of many engagements. He enlisted as a private, won his commission and promotions and also was decorated. He is the guest of Mrs. . Sheppard, 46 Alfred street, with whom he boarded prior to 1914.

Life Long Resident of the City Passes

MR. THOMAS M'KEE, CITY ASSESSOR FOR FIFTEEN YEARS, DIED YESTERDAY.

One of the oldest and best known residents of Peterborough passed away yesterday in the person of Mr. Thomas McKee, who died at his residence, 208 Dublin street, after a lingering illness. Mr. McKee, who was seventy-two years of age, was born in Peterborough and had lived all his life in this city. As a contractor and builder he was widely known. Some of the best residences in Peterborough were built by him and he acted as inspector in the building of several of the city schools. For fifteen years Mr. McKee was city assessor, a position that brought him closely into contact with the public, and the manner in which his duties were carried out, earned him the respect and regard of the citizens generally. His passing will be a source of grief to a very large circle of friends.

The late Mr. McKee is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Frank J. Osborne, of Edmonton, Miss Ethel L. McKee, at home, and Miss Army R. McKee, of Oshawa, and one son, Mr. Ronald A. McKee, of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon from the family residence, 208 Dublin street, at 2.30 o'clock. There will be service at the house at 2 o'clock.

WANTS AN ARMISTICE

ASKS ADMIRAL KOLCHAK TO CONSIDER TERMS OF PEACE—TROUBLE IN CAPITAL.

RISING REPORTED

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 26.—As a result of the Esthonian surprise attack late last week, when the Bolshevik positions along the Pskov front were broken through and the threat to the line of communication between Petrograd and Pskov at Gatchina, the Bolsheviki are retiring from their positions on the north-western front.

A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen says it is reliably reported that the Esthonians have captured Peterhof, 19 miles west of Petrograd.

A Helsingfors newspaper prints a Moscow despatch saying that Nikolai Lenine, the Bolsheviki leader, has offered an armistice to Admiral Kolchak, commanding the anti-Bolsheviki forces, in order to consider peace terms.

Through the successes of the various anti-Bolshevik forces the situation in Russia has changed greatly. Official and unofficial news of the past few days shows that Petrograd is closely threatened by the advances of the Finns and the Esthonians on either side of the Gulf of Finland and by that of General Maynard in the region of Lake Onega, while Bolshevik attacks on the Archangel front have ceased.

BUGGY WRECKED IN A COLLISION

Several Accidents Occurred Over The Holiday.

Several accidents occurred on Chemong Road on Saturday evening after the dance in the Pavilion at Chemong. Dr. McClennan made a slight mistake when he "stepped" on the accelerator instead of the brake, which landed him in two feet of water in the deep ditch in the swamp just east of Chemong Park. The car turned turtle, and was left there for the rest of the night. Fontaine's righted the car this morning and brought it to the city for repairs.

Reckless driving resulted in another accident which will cost four young men the price of a new buggy. They were heard to mournfully observe that the war has inflated the price of buggies as everything else. The car was rented from Dr. Pulkinghorn's livery and the boys were driving home after the dance when a buggy suddenly loomed ahead. Too late to avert an accident, the car launched into the rear of the horse vehicle, taking off one wheel, bending the axle, and demolishing the top. The car never stopped, but went ahead at full speed and soon after passed another car on the road which they missed by inches. This second car had six passengers, including a number of women and babies ,and the driver, indignant at the recklessness of the young men, reported the incident at the Police Station this morning. Patrol Sergeants Blade and Deanard were detailed to round up the Barney Oldfields, and after a short search they were located.

They told the police that they were willing to settle all damage accounts.

Strike Situation Shows Little Change in Western City

TRAINMEN ARE NOT LIKELY TO GO OUT IN SYMPATHY WITH THE WINNIPEG TRADES.

CITY IS QUIET

(Copyright by Main Johnson.)

NOYES, Minn., May 26.—Winnipeg labour, both through the Strike committee and unofficial representatives, seems to be working towards the Manitoba Industrial Conditions Board as one avenue of settlement for the general strike and for industrial conditions generally. Approach has been made by labour to the Provincial government in this direction and although there are difficulties in the way this may be at least one of the factors in the solution. Labour has not always looked with favour on this Board. It was not enthusiastic about the legislation this session that provided for its inauguration and would not name a representative to it. As a result of labour's opposition the order-in-council setting up the Board has never been proclaimed. It could be put into effect, however, with in a few hours. At the present moment the stumbling blocks seem to be that labour wants the Board to consider the whole question of the strike, whereas the Government is said to be inclined not to negotiate at all until the sympathetic strike, at any rate of Government employees, is unreservedly called off. Labour's idea in regard to collective bargaining still is that the Government should make it obligatory either by decision of the Board, ratified by the Government, or the Government direct.

(By Jas. T. Kollgart.)
(United Press.)

NOYES, Minn., May 26. — The Government and city officials in touch with the general strike in Winnipeg declared to-day they believed the strike will be broken before evening. The crisis was expected at noon, the hour set by Government officials for the return to [illegible] and railroad workers and city firemen, under the penalty of dismissal. Strike leaders in turn said they had positive assurance that workmen in twenty Dominion cities will quit their jobs if the situation is not settled to their satisfaction.

Committee in Session.

The Strikers' committee of fifteen was in session almost all day and night Sunday. Secretary Robinson then announced the committee would be met when it arose. He offered the government ultimatum to its employees. More than a thousand Winnipeg citizens of all classes sorted the mail to-day. Despite long hours they failed to dispose of the great mass of letters and paper mail accumulating in more than a week. If postal workers do not return to their tasks it was announced by Arthur Meighen, Acting Minister of Justice, deliveries will be made by volunteers under guard. Other municipal government work will be begun under similar conditions it was stated. The labour leaders hoped the municipal and government employees would not capitulate. They claimed, however, that their yielding will not affect the others. The city, still quiet, was tense to-day, but the crisis was awaited with hope.

No Strike Vote.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, May 26.— "No vote has been taken by the trainmen on any sympathetic strike which would tie up transportation in Canada." This is the definite statement made to-day to your correspondent by Mr. A. McGovern, general chairman of the Canadian Pacific Trainmen, and also chairman of the Legislative Board of Trainmen of Canada. Mr. McGovern outlined the position of the trainmen in connection with the labour situation in the Dominion.

"I must say, speaking officially, that we are in the warmest sympathy with the demand for the 8-hour day. We have that ourselves and we think that everyone should have it. That is as far as we are prepared to go," he said. "I think that the statement which was sent out from Winnipeg on Saturday should be contradicted at once: It is most misleading, for there is no possibility of a strike of the trainmen in sympathy with the Winnipeg trades."

"We do not do things in that way at all. We are negotiators all the time and believe in conciliation, but the point is that no vote has been taken on the matter at all and it is unlikely that any such vote will be taken," he went on. "It was stated from Winnipeg that permission had been asked from the International

Hawker and Grieve Were Picked Up By a Tramp Steamer

THEIR MACHINE STOPPED 1,100 MILES OUT FROM NEWFOUNDLAND AND 800 MILES FROM IRISH COAST.

A BIG WELCOME

HAWKER WIRES DAILY MAIL REASON MACHINE STOPPED.

Associated Press:

LONDON, May 25. — Hawker has sent the following message from the Revenge to the Daily Mail:

"My machine stopped owing to the water filter in the feed pipe from the radiator to the water pump being blocked with refuse, such as solder and the like shaking loose in the radiator.

"It was no fault of the Rolls-Royce motor, which ran absolutely perfect from start to finish, even when all the water had boiled away.

"We had no trouble in landing on the sea, where we were picked up by the tramp ship Mary, after being in the water for ninety minutes. We leave Thurso at 2.00 p.m. Monday, arriving in London Tuesday evening."

MISSING SIX DAYS.

LONDON, May 25.—Missing for six days and virtually given up for lost, Harry G. Hawker and his navigator, Lieut.-Commander MacKenzie Grieve, the British airmen who essayed a flight from St. John's, Newfoundland, across the Atlantic Ocean, without protection against disaster, save what their frail airplane afforded, are safe to-night aboard a British warship off the Orkneys. To-morrow they will reach the mainland and will proceed to London, where they will be acclaimed as men returned to life.

Some 1,100 miles out from Newfoundland and 800 from the Irish coast, on Monday, May 19, the love aviators, making the best of an engine which was failing to function properly, were forced to alight on the water. The little Danish steamer Mary, bound from New Orleans and Norfolk for Aarhuus, Denmark, picked the wayfarers up and continued on her northward voyage.

Lacking a wireless outfit, the captain of the steamer was obliged to withhold the good tidings of the rescue until he was opposite Butt of Lewis, where the information was signalled by means of flags that Hawker and Grieve were aboard his ship.

Immediately word was flashed to the British Admiralty, which sent out destroyers to overtake the Danish vessel and obtain absolute confirmation. This was done, and one of the destroyers took the airmen off, and later transferred them to the flagship Revenge.

(United Press.)

LONDON, May 25. — Harry Hawker and Mackenzie Grieve set foot on British soil to-day, nearly a week after they had left Newfoundland in a Sopwith airplane on their attempted transatlantic flight to Ireland.

The aviators, who are the greatest national heroes of the moment, landed at Thurso, Scotland, from the British destroyer, Revenge. The Revenge took the men from the Danish tramp steamer Mary, which picked them up in mid-ocean early last Monday, after they had been forced to descend into the sea.

Hawker and Grieve were scheduled to start this afternoon from Thurso for London, where judging from all indications, they will be given a royal welcome to-morrow. Britain has been jubilating ever since the news spread like wildfire over the land that Hawker and Grieve had been saved.

Grieve immediately upon landing, sent the following message to his parents, "Safe, will wire later."

News Confirmed.

When news of the rescue was first received, the Sopwith Airplane Company telegraphed Thurso for confirmation. Later it was confirmed by an airplane courier. "We had given him up for lost," declared Mrs. Grieve, when she heard the news of her husband's rescue. She was too overcome to say more. Grieve's native town, Froxford ,took on a carnival appearance. As the news spread, there was great enthusiasm throughout Britain. There were remarkable able scenes in the streets, in concert halls and in moving picture theatres when the announcement of the rescue was made. Crowds cheered and tossed hats in the air. The town was beflagged as it has not been since the war. At the church the evening service was one of thanksgiving. "For this is my son, who was dead and is alive again—who was lost and is found," was the text of Rev. T. J. Wood. There were special prayers and psalms of thanksgiving, and the Doxology, "Praise God from whom all Blessings Flow," was sung. The rescue was announced from many other pulpits.

Bad Weather is Delaying Flight

(United Press.)

AUSTRIA'S FORCES REDUCED TO 15,000

ALL WAR SUPPLIES TO BE SURRENDERED AND MILITARY PRODUCTION ABOLISHED.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, May 26.—It was announced that the treaty to be presented to Austria would be considered at a plenary session next Tuesday, and would be laid before the Austrian delegation, probably on Wednesday.

The Council of Four considered the military terms as framed by Marshal Foch, Commander-in-Chief of the Allied armies; General Diaz, Supreme Commander of the Italian army, and other military leaders. Austria's formidable army of upward of a million men, which was second only to that of Germany, is reduced by the treaty to 15,000 men; virtually all military supplies would be surrendered or destroyed and further military production abolished.

The naval terms are similarly sweeping, all warships being surrendered and Austria's position as a naval power terminated.

WORLD HAPPENINGS

Canadian Press:

LONDON, May 25. — There was great rejoicing throughout the British Empire to-day at the news of Hawker and Grieve being rescued, especially at the homes of these intrepid aviators. They were landed at the Orkney Islands to-day, and will be ferried to Scotland this afternoon.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

DISCUSS QUESTION OF BOMBING GERMAN CITIES SHOULD HUNS REFUSE TO SIGN.

"GRAVE DANGER"

(Canadian Press.)

BERNE, May 26.—Germany should refuse to sign the military and economic terms of the peace treaty which are not acceptable, according to a statement made by Gen. Count Montgelas, one of the German delegates at Versailles. He says that the military terms do not allow Germany a sufficient number of troops to maintain order. Recent events in Berlin and Munich are being cited as a proof of this statement. General Montgelas says that the professional army is in grave danger from the democratic viewpoint. He adds that acceptance of the economic clauses would condemn Germag working men to slavery.

Information has been received from an unimpeachable source that counter proposals to be made by Germany to the peace conference will declare in favour of military disarmament, saying that Germany is ready to reduce her forces to three hundred and fifty thousand within two months after the conclusion of peace. It will be declared that in spite of internal disorders and the necessity for defending her frontiers, Germany thus agrees to disarm ahead of all the other powers.

Bomb Cities.

(United Press.)

PARIS, May 26.— The question of bombing German cities, including Berlin, as part of the military programme to be followed in case the Germans refuse to sign the treaty, was understood to-day to have been discussed by General Robertson of the British army and Gen. Liggett, of the American army.

Recognize Powers.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 26.—The Council of Four of the Peace Conference has decided conditionally to recognize the anti-Bolshevik governments of Admiral Kolchak and General Denikine, according to Reuter's Agency here. The conditions for recognition are that regarding the future of Russia, these governments agree to convoke and accept the verdict of a genuine constituent assembly, likewise that the League of Nations covenant and its consequences as affecting boundaries of the former empire be accepted. The constituent assembly is to determine future form of government for Russia.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, May 26.— Credentials of Austrian peace delegation of St. Germain-En-Laye have been approved by the Credential Commission of the Peace Congress and Austrian delegates have sent their first note to the Allied and Associated Powers dealing with the treaties terms. LIKE A PAGE FROM FICTION.

The story of the rescue of Harry Hawker and his companion, Commodore Mackenzie Grieve, in mid-ocean, reads like a page from fiction. Missing for six days and given up for lost by the world, the two gallant flyers are now on board the British battleship "Revenge," speeding on their way to England. The rescue of the two by the little Danish steamer, "Mary," was a piece of luck of the kind that one usually finds only in a novel. Having travelled 1120 miles of the perilous journey over the Atlantic, Hawker and his navigator were forced to alight in the sea owing to difficulty with the machinery of their plane. By the mysterious workings of Providence it so happened that a little steamer travelling only nine knots an hour, which was limping along on the long voyage from New Orleans to Denmark, happened to be near the spot, and ninety minutes after they plunged into the sea the two were picked up. The "Mary" had no wireless, and so the world mourned the death of the two daring aviators, while they were safe and well.

The people of Peterboro, like residents of the British Empire everywhere, are rejoicing in the news that Hawker and Grieve have been saved. The news spread like wildfire through the city last night, and there was general rejoicing.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

In a bulletin issued by the Deputy Minister of Highways, which concludes with the plea, "Do your part in making Ontario noted for good and careful driving," special emphasis is placed on the warning, "Do not drive with glaring headlights." It is necessary that this admonition should be given all the publicity possible, for in spite of the regulations, a large number of motorists continue to disregard the danger of accidents and to use headlights that are blinding in their effect upon the drivers of cars approaching from an opposite direction. Any person who has done any motoring at night on the roads in this district can testify that this regulation is being neglected by careless motorists and there has been a number of narrow escapes from accidents as a result of the glare from headlights. Some of the roads are dangerous enough in themselves without the added menace of a driver being temporarily deprived of the use of his eyes at a moment when he is passing another car in a bad section of road. Car owners who persist in driving with these bright headlights are a source of danger that should be eliminated from our roads. They certainly do not show the consideration and regard for the convenience and safety of others that should form the basis of use of the public highways.

WELCOME HOME, 21ST.

Citizens of Peterborough will generally regret the fact that owing to the unexpected arrival in the city yesterday morning of the greater part of the Peterborough men of the 21st Battalion, it was impossible to tender them a reception such as had been planned and hoped for. The returned men, it was thought, would not reach Peterborough from Kingston until this morning, but just as they had often taken the enemy off his guard over there by a quick movement, the local members of the 21st surprised those who had arranged a proper reception for them, by unexpectedly arriving home on a freight traid.

The men were doubtless so glad to get home and meet their loved ones again after their long absence that they did not mind the fact that there was no demonstration on their arrival. After all, the family re-union is the greatest feature of the home-coming, and the men of the 21st will understand that the people of Peterborough wanted the chance to do honour to to them and through them to the gallant fighting unit of which they formed a part. They should know, too, that their fellow citizens are proud of their exploits with the Eastern Ontario battalion and are glad to heartily welcome them back to the city in which they enlisted and to whom they have brought honour and fame by their deeds of valour and soldier-like behaviour.

COMMERCIAL FLYING.

The fact that an aviator using an aeroplane for commercial purposes and carrying passengers at so much per flight was a holiday visitor to Peterborough has prompted some inquiry as to whether or not there is any government control over such enterprises. In the case of of steamers or motor boats which are used to carry paid passengers, there is a system of government licenses and inspection, and boats and crews have to come up to a certain standard before they are permitted to engage in business. If such regulations are needed in the case of steamers there would seem to be some supervision necessary over the use of aeroplanes to carry passengers—the element of danger being so much greater in the latter case. Here on Saturday was witnessed the spectacle of an aviator whose qualifications as a flyer were unknown to practically every one in Peterborough, and about the staunchness of whose aeroplane nothing was known, engaged in the by no means safe enterprise of carrying people through the air at ten dollars a flight. It is probable that this means of making money will be very popular in Canada where there are so many trained flyers as a result of the war and it would seem that in order to protect the public the business will have to be regulated and as far as possible safeguarded. If aeroplanes are to be allowed to be used in this way the government will have to exercise some jurisdiction over the business; it is dangerous enough when the most careful precautions are taken, and to permit any one who thinks he is qualified to fly, to engage in aerial transportation appears to be an effective way of promoting a series of fatalities.

The flying man who was here on Saturday apparently was a clever and careful air pilot. He know the intricacies of his business, his flights were successfully carried out, and this article is by no means intended as a reflection upon his qualifications. The point, however, is that others less skillful may possibly desire to engage in the same business, and the public is entitled to protection.

THE LEAGUE AT WORK

The League of Nations has begun to function. Although it has not yet received the formal ratification of the Governments of its signatory nations, British, French, Italian, Greek and United States warships, anchored outside Smyrna with their gun-muzzles pointing inward, are the first demonstration of the League's power.

This region where three continents meet has for centuries been the center of feuds and factions and Constantinople, Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia and Armenia each present a difficult problem for solution by the League. The demonstration of force by the League is no mere showy display of power for the Turks have excused their recent atrocities on the ground that they feared that the Vilayet of Aidin of which Smyrna is the centre would be awarded to Greece.

In spite of the fact that there is an economic preponderance of Greeks in respect to both trade and agriculture in western Asia Minor the Allied Nations have not considered the Greek race to be sufficiently firmly established in that region to warrant the application of the principle of nationality apart from the protecting wing of the League of Nations. Greece as mandatary of the new territory will have excellent opportunities of proving that she is strong enough to hold and develop the country and by wise and judicious rule to demonstrate to the Allies her fitness to have this littoral, in which her people predominate, annexed as part of the Greater Greece of which Premier Venizelos dreamed and of which the Greek people were so nearly cheated, by the treachery and disloyalty to national aims of the kaiser's puppet.

The eyes of the world will anxiously look for the development of the experiment which the League has undertaken and watch Greece which now has the consciousness that it has an opportunity to recreate the glory of the past. A new Greece resting on the broad basis of racial solidarity and national ambition has become a practical possibility.—Montreal Star.

THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY.

In approving of the principle of "the reduction of the hours of labor to the lowest practical point and the greatest degree of leisure for all," the Anglican synod of Niagara has given expression to what is probably the feeling of the majority of people in this country who are familiar with industrial conditions. In many of our urban industries eight hours is long enough for any man or woman to work out of the twenty-four. And there is reason to believe that in many cases eight-hour labor is more efficient than ten-hour or even nine-hour labor.

But not in all cases. And it has yet to be demonstrated that the product of eight hours of labor is as great as that of ten or nine hours of labor, although this has been claimed. It is generally admitted that the industry in which the eight-hour rule is observed and which has to compete with industries in which the workers stay on the job nine or ten hours, is under a handicap. This fact is what makes so many employers disinclined to grant the eight-hour concession. They would be willing to grant it if it were made general—if their competitors were to adopt it as well as they. For it must be remembered that the eight-hour day does not mean merely that workmen shall work 8 hours a day; it means also that when it is necessary for them to work longer (as it often is) they must be paid time and a half for all time over 8 hours. Under the nine or ten hour rule there is little or no over-time; under the eight-hour rule overtime is common. That is what makes the eight-hour day add so much to the cost of production.

To force the eight-hour day upon some manufacturers while others, their competitors, are permitted to exact nine or ten hours of work a day from their employers, is scarcely just. And that is why there should be such action by the Dominion government as will tend to make the eight-hour rule generally observed throughout the Dominion. At least the Government should enforce the eight-hour rule in all government contracts.

But, to be quite sure, the observance of the rule should be even more general than that. It must be not only Dominion-wide, but wide enough to include all manufacturing countries. For the products of Canadian factories enter into competition with the products of factories in other countries. The competition may be either in the domestic market or in neutral markets; but in either or both the products of eight-hour labor (which is dear labor) are handicapped when exposed to competition with the products of nine or ten hour labor, which is cheaper labor.

This is the consideration which prompted the statesmen who drafted the constitution of the League of Nations to arrange, so far as possible, for the introduction of the eight-hour day as the standard work day in all the nations entering the league.

We do not say that agitation for the eight-hour day in Canada should be delayed until the rule is made universal. That would be both foolish and unnecessary. But it is well to look at the difficulties as well as the advantages of their eight hour rule, and realize that its introduction and observance is not so easy and simple a matter at it may appear.—Hamilton Herald.

CONCEDE 48 HOUR WEEK IN TORONTO

Canadian Press:

TORONTO, May 26.—The probability of a general strike in Toronto was greatly lessened to-day by the announcement made this afternoon that the employers of the metal trades had conceded a forty-eight hour week, without deduction from present pay, double pay for overtime and a recognition of the principle of collective bargaining. The strikers are asking for a forty-four hour week, but it is thought that they may accept the compromise this afternoon and avoid an appeal to other trades unions for a general strike, which question is to be voted on to-night.

HOW WAR HAS CHANGED THE LANGUAGE OF THE ENGLISH GIRL

STRAIN OF FOUR YEARS OF TENSION IS REFLECTED IN THE LANGUAGE USED—QUITE A CHANGE FROM WHAT WAS THE PROPER THING IN VICTORIAN DAYS.

SAFETY VALVES OPENED

LONDON.—"Oh, hell! Let's walk down the blasted stairs. I hate to be jammed in those beastly lifts!"

The voice was refined—unlike the language—and my curiosity being aroused I cautiously, and I must confess sympathetically, followed the speaker, who, with a girl companion, was just ahead of me. But worse was to follow. The motion of tripping down countless steps to the underground train evidently loosened the pins which secured the lady's hat, for, with a furious grab at the offending article, she exclaimed:

"Confound this blighted hat. I can't make the cursed thing sit on my head any old way."

"It is rather a beast, dear. Where did you get it from?" This in would-be soothing accents from her companion.

"It came from that putrid little milliner in Maddox Street, damn her. It's the last time I shall patronize her blasted shop. It makes me positively sick when I think of the money I've blued on her models. And then not to be able to wear the rotten things!" came the reply in a voice vibrant with resentment.

Thus the modern miss in conversation, which in its series of explosions brings to mind the jerky progress of a motor bike similarly propelled along its way. Nerves that have been overstrained by war work are, to indulge in a mixture of metaphors, letting off steam in a picturesqueness of language which compares instructively with the "prunes and prisms" style of conversation in vogue in the days of Jane Austen, when the mincing method of diction was supposedly indicative of the mental and spiritual refinement lying behind.

HOW CONVERSATION CHANGED.

Those were days when language, in the words of the epigrammist, was regarded by the "genteel" as a means wherewith to conceal our thoughts. Today it is unblushingly emblematic of the turbulence within.

Time was when masculine blasphemy discreetly veiled itself before feminine audiences. The man about town cultivated two entirely different languages—one for the club, the other for drawing-room use. But the maid of the moment knows no such nicety. Her Restoration-Rabelaisian language is moderated for no one, except on occasions for the parlour-maid, whom she suspects of Nonconformist scruples, and who might possibly "give notice" were her ears assailed by terms too picturesque in her estimation.

For the conversation anent the hat from Maddox Street is naturally but a diluted sample, watered down in consideration of a possible censorship, and consequently by no means of the strength current in small circles.

And thus to the departing guest:

"Well, so long, Freddie! Be sure not to forget to ask Pat to send along that pattern of the camiknockers, and thank her for lending me the design of the chemise. It's winkle. Tell her if she doesn't let me have the pattern at once I shall be in an awful hole, for the beastly laundry has simply torn all my 'undies' to shreds, and I positively haven't a set to my name."

Then off goes Freddie, quite unmoved by revelations as to feminine underwear, for did not all the women of his acquaintance spend their mornings on the beach last summer unblushingly fashioning lingerie, and even on occasions inviting his advice as to motifs and edgings? Hands that were formerly busy with crochet now make camisoles in their spare moments and fingers that at one time were knitting for the troops are now as openly concerned with silken knickers. There is a delightful lack of "gene" in feminine quarters.

And why not? The old Victoria habit of drawing veils over things of perfect innocence and in seeing wrong where wrong never existed was pernicious in its exclusion of light and air from matters of every-day politics in the social realm. There is plenty of light and air abroad nowadays.

The only trouble is that in obtaining ventilation we do not infrequently produce a decided draught. In fact, in abjuring the Jane Austen note, we seem to be in danger of running to the other extreme and of out-Zolaing Zola.

MASSACRE IN VIENNA.

VIENNA, May 23.—The Bolsheviks are executing many persons in Vienna. The French colonial troops are expected to move on the city.

THE THRIFT HABIT.

The ways of economy will apparently die hard. A few weeks ago a lady entered a suburban laundry office and asked very earnestly for the return of the cord with which her last consignment of washing had been secured. The amazed office girl's conciliatory remark that the request was rather impossible roused the good lady's indignation. "But I must have it," she insisted. "I use it to tie my curtains back with."

MUSIC AT THE SUMMER HOME

The summer cottage is lacking some essential if no music is available. The Victrola is the ideal musical instrument for this purpose, it comes in so many styles and sizes and it can be played by anyone. Before making your plans why not call at Heintzman Hall, George and Hunter streets, see the different instruments (sold on easy terms) and hear a few good records.

A FLAT OR AN APARTMENT.

Considering how many people live in that way a useful thing in pointing out that, whoever thinks it more dignified, and more the "proper thing," to say that he lives in an "apartment" rather than a "flat" is making a mistake. "Flat" is not a new word. It still means, after a long period of usage, a "suite of rooms forming a complete residence on one floor." If the flat-dweller prefers the possibly more elegant-seeming word "apartment," he must use it in the plural. The man who speaks of living in an "apartment" says literally that he lives in one room.

New Giant C.P.R. Locomotive

Ten of the largest locomotives ever built for use on Canadian railways have been under construction for some time at the C.P.R. Angus Shops in Montreal, and one of these, No. 5302, was inspected the other day by President E. W. Beatty, and Vice-president Grant Hall. These locomotives are of the heavy Mikado type and are intended for freight service, being designed and built under the direct supervision of Mr. W. H. Winterrowd, the Chief Mechanical Engineer.

The weight of the engine and tender in working condition is 580,000 lbs., the engine alone weighing 323,000 lbs. The diameter of the driving wheels is 63 inches. The cylinders are 25½ inches in diameter by 32-inch stroke, which with 200-lbs. boiler pressure makes these locomotives capable of exerting a maximum tractive effort of 56,000 lbs. The diameter of the boiler is 80 inches at the front end and 90 inches at the back end. The fire box is 96 inches wide and 120 inches long, and the grates are moved by steam grate shakers.

The cab is of the vestibule type, which is the C.P.R. standard, and every effort has been made to make the accommodations for the enginemen as comfortable as possible. One side of the cab is fitted with a clothes locker 14 inches by 20 inches wide, in which clothes can be hung and lunch pails carried.

The tender has a capacity for 12 tons of coal and 8,000 Imperial gallons of water.

COTTON TABLE COVERS.

The woman of moderate means will do well to content herself with cotton tablecloths, napkins, and towels. A very good quality cotton damask tablecloth now costs what one of medium good linen cost before the war, but just now it is better value to buy a good cotton cloth than one of very cheap linen.

JAPANESE COUNCIL DECIDES TO GRANT MANY REFORMS IN COREA

Will Institute Revision of the Organic System of the Present Government.

TOKYO.—The Privy Council met under the Presidency of the Emperor and decided upon a partial revision of the organic system of the Corean Government.

Corean affairs have come into prominence recently because of the outbreak of the independence movement. The movement began on March 14 and led to serious riots and other disorder. The Japanese Embassy in Washington on April 24 said that 332 persons had been killed and more than seven hundred wounded. Corean independence leaders have claimed that several thousand were killed.

The movement reached its climax on April 4 when a provisional Corean government was named. Early this week a petition was presented to the peace conference asking for the recognition of an independent Corea and the removal of the country from Japanese control.

Katsuo Usami, chief of the Home Affairs Department of the Corean Government, in an interview on April 1 said that Japan was preparing to institute reforms when the Corean uprisings began. He declared that the Japanese government was seeking to abolish discrimination against the Coreans but that all the bars could not be let down at once.

CZECHOSLOVAK NEWSPAPERMEN TO STUDY AMERICAN DEMOCRACY

Charles Pelant, Publisher of Venkor, Warns His Countrymen to Shun Bolshevist Preachings.

A warning to their countrymen against the insidious dangers of Bolshevism, which they characterize as "a German means for the destruction of hostile nations," is the message of a mission of Szecho-slovak newspapermen which has arrived in New York for a brief visit to America.

The party, which includes Chas. Pelant, publisher of the newspaper Venkov, at Prague; Vincent Corvinka and Gustav Sulje, is at the Hotel Netherland. The object of the visit to America is to gain enough knowledge of this country to present America to the new republic of Czechoslovakia.

"Our mission has several aspects," said Mr. Pelant. "First, we have come to greet and to thank sincerely this great and mighty country for all she has done for us and for Europe in general. Without America we would have been dead, in the literal, not symbolical, sense of the word. The Huns purposed to exterminate us completely from the surface of the earth because we constitute a thorn in the side of Germany. Our geographical position bears witness to that.

"We also came to thank our countrymen in America for the work they have done for the cause of liberation and for the successful culmination of the war.

"We carry also to America an energetic warning against Bolshevism. It does not exist in Czecho-slovakia, but there is always the danger that some of our countrymen might become intoxicated with the German Marxistic doctrines, such as the dictatorship of the proletariat or the government of only one labour class. Nothing could be a greater menace to our national honour and to our credit, both moral and commercial, in the eyes of the rest of the world. It should be unnecessary to explain to all of our countrymen that Bolshevism is a German means for the destruction of hostile nations.

"As journalists we desire to study the splendid improvements in America. We want to study your newspapers and take back to our homes modern ideas in journalism. We want our country, the youngest daughter of America, to go in her footsteps, even to the extent that Americans visiting us in the future may feel themselves perfectly at home. We want to see the splendid Anglo-Saxon civilization placed in our schools as a model. We want the German language displaced by the English."

The question of food relief for Czecho-slovakia also is being considered by the mission. Mr. Pelant said that during the years of the war the speaking or writing of English in the Central Empires was made an offence punishable by severe penalties. The mission is visiting cities containing colonies of Czecho-slovaks and conferences are being held daily on matters pertaining to their errand. Charles Pergler, High Commissioner of the Czecho-slovak nation, also is in New York, having arrived at the Vanderbilt Hotel.

HAWKER AND GRIEVE WERE PICKED UP BY A TRAMP STEAMER

gram of congratulation from the King and Queen.

"Sunday is my lucky day," Mrs. Hawker declared, as the crowd gathered around her house. She was almost unable to talk at first but later recovered her self-possession sufficiently to say a few words to the newspapermen. "I said on Saturday, we'd have good news on Sunday — I just felt it. This is the luckiest Sunday of all. I don't know my husband's intentions but I would not be surprised if he tries the flight again. A failure like this won't stop him—it will only make him the more determined. If he does try again, he'll get across the next time. I've had a presentiment that I would see my husband again, and have always been confident. Although everybody condoled with me I am overjoyed. I'm too overcome to say more."

Outside of the house a notice was posted. "Mr. Hawker has been found." It was this that brought the news to Surbiton and started the eager crowds shouldering and pressing close around the doorsteps of the famous airman.

According to the despatches received here from Thurso that village prepared to give Hawker and Grieve a big popular demonstration when they started for London.

"The courage of Hawker and Grieve places them in the first rank of the pioneers of the air," declared General Seely, of the air ministry. "I can hardly give expression to my rejoicing that their gallant attempt to cross the Atlantic, has not cost brave lives.

Clogged Feed Pipe.

"The distance covered shows that given fine weather, it will soon be possible to cross the ocean by airplane, but their experience proves the trip is still hazardous even for the most perfect aircraft. It is better to wait a little while and not take such big risks until better arrangements can be made."

The officials of the Admiralty believe that the clogged feed pipe that caused Hawker to descend within easy reach of the steamer Mary, which saved him, was a blessing in disguise. Had he continued on his voyage they pointed out he would have run into a hurricane, which probably would have dashed his machine into the sea far from aid. This storm would have been encountered by Hawker about two hours after he passed the spot where he came down.

"The Reason Why," one of Elinor Glyn's most successful works, is the latest Select Picture made by Clara Kimball Young and her own company; the scenario is by Mary Murillo and the direction by Robert G. Vignola. This feature will be the attraction here on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Keith Vaudeville, and first run pictures, at the Grand Theatre.

Yvonne Marinoff (Miss Young) is widowed by the sudden death of her husband, the prefect of police, at the hands of an infuriated mob; she escapes with her seven year old son, Mimo, in whom she is utterly wrapped up. That night the fleeing Yvonne comes upon a dead woman who is her exact prototype; on the dead body she finds a letter, addressed to Zara from her uncle, Francis Markrute, a London financier, asking her to come and live with him although he has never seen her.

Yvonne decides to impersonate Zara, comes to London, where she places Mimo under competent care, and goes to Markrute's home. He wants to have her marry Lord Tancred of Wrayth Hall, and is willing to dower her by lifting all the mortgages on his estate in addition to a handsome cash settlement. Before Tancred and Yvonne meet, each refuses to enter such a sordid arrangement, but it is a mutual case of love at first sight.

AEROPLANE FLIGHTS ATTRACTED CROWDS TO VETERANS' FIELD DAY

HORSE RACES AND ATHLETIC EVENTS PROVIDED AFTERNOON BILL, WITH FIREWORKS DISPLAY AT NIGHT —VICTORIA DAY FEATURE.

A RACE MISHAP

Despite the threatening skies and the weather man, a large crowd from Peterboro and vicinity attended the first Field Day of the local Great War Veterans' Association, held in the Exhibition Grounds both afternoon and evening of the 24th of May. As one entered the grounds booths of all sorts and descriptions met the gaze, while farther on the Boy Scout troops demonstrated to the onlookers just what the Scout movement stood for and the results attained. The Y.M.C.A. had their own section in front of the crowded grandstand, and with the parallel bars and also the horizontal bars, a first class exhibition of strength and skill was held. Several foot races were on the lists and Jack Porteous, who won the Junior Championship for athletes at the Collegiate Institute, usually managed to nose ahead in each of the events in which he was eligible.

The aeroplane driven by an ex-R.A.F. aviator, who flew from Toronto the same morning for the day, provided a few thrills for some of the young bloods who made the trip around the city via the aerial route. At least five flights were made during the day and the big crowd could be seen flocking to the south section of the grounds as the 'plane hove in sight preparatory to landing.

The main feature of the afternoon, an event which never seems to lose its popularity or prestige, was the horse racing. Altogether eight horses weighed in for the two races, and all eight were in for the big money until the end. It took six heats to decide the free for all race, and those who remained until the end met the G. W. V. A. band returning to their place in front of the grand stand for the evening performance. Mr. Harry Winch was the starter, and the scorer was Mr. J. Brooks. The track was in good shape and the 2.30 class race was run off in 2.32 time. In this race Maud Tariff, a new horse on the local track, owned by Mr. D. Fife of Keene, walked off with the second prize, while Birdie Wills, which has been seen here before, managed to earn first money. Its owner, J. Palmer, hails from Port Hope. Dan Direct, owned by Mr. Jones of this city, and Mona Hal ,owned by Mr. G. Caldwell, of Port Hope, were also entered. In the third heat of this race a slight accident occurred, when Mona Hal slewed from the ruts made in the track at the south side, where the motor cars enter the centre. The horse directly behind, Birdie Wilkes, driven by Mr. Benny Dunford, attempted to jump the ruts, but the hobbles held her back, and she went crash into Mona Hal sending the racing chariot almost over her head. Mr. Dunford jumped and rolled under the inside fence. It was found afterwards that his wrist was sprained, and Dr. Young and Dr. Edward Wood attended him.

The Second Race, a free-for-all, also had its thrills, and Little Wana, who won third money, won much approbation from the crowd. The horse was plucky throughout, despite her more experienced opponents. Jim Elliott, the winner of this event, was in a class by himself, and the result could hardly have been otherwise. Lady of the Lake, who won the $20 prize, figured in the first race on Saturday, and seemed to have difficulty to "bunch" at the start, and Starter Winch called them back no less than five times in the fourth heat.

The night performance went off without a hitch, and the band contributed a fine concert, both afternoon and evening. Charles Elliott, Karl Kirn, and Tom Pogue of the Y.M.C.A., performed some stunts before the grand stand on the parallel and horizontal bars. The fireworks, which concluded the performance were first class, and seemingly the "Vets" did not expend all their powder "over there."

MILITARY POLICE STORM CENTRE OF SEAFORD AFFAIR

Because a negro trooper refused to take his hands out of his pockets while on the streets when ordered to do so by the military police and was arrested, a mob gathered and set him free, which was the beginning of the recent riots at Seaford Camp among the Canadians, according to a letter received by Miss Sara Fowler, R.R. No. 9, Peterborough, from her brother, Pte. R. E. Fowler, who is at present in Seaforth Camp awaiting transportation home.

The Letter.

Seaford, Sussex, May 7, 1919.

Dear Sister,—I received a letter from you last night dated Easter Sunday. This is the first letter from you for a week now. I should have written on Sunday, but there was a very exciting time around the camp that evening which changed things somewhat. Saturday evening military police arrested a negro for refusing to take his hands out of his pockets on the street. Soon a mob gathered, broke in the clink and let darky out. Then they began to beat up the M.P.'s and pretty soon there was not an M.P. to be seen. A couple of them were pretty roughly handled and one is reported to have a leg and an arm broken. Anyhow they made themselves scarce, some of them catching the train for Lewes. That was about all that night, but the negro was arrested and put in the clink in the Engineers' camp on Sunday, so on Sunday night a mob gathered and freed him again and carried him shoulder-high down town. All the way the mob increased and there must have been a thousand present. In the town some of them began yelling, "Sixth Reserve next," so they started for here. On the way they had to pass through the First Reserve, the Machine Gun Depot and the General Depot. First they came to the 1st Reserve Canteen which they completely wrecked. Here they broke in the heads of several barrels of beer and what they couldn't drink they spilled all over the floor and out on the road. Next the Machine Gun canteen was attacked and the same tactics used. They stole candy, tobacco, pipes, cigarettes, canned goods and everything in the canteen. They picked up empty beer barrels and heaved them through the windows, tearing out sash and glass. These kegs are larger than the Canadian ones and hold 40 gallons and are made of oak. From there they went to another Machine Gun canteen, then to the General Depot canteen, each of which they wrecked and spilled the beer all over the floor. When the Colonel of the Reserve found that they were coming this way he secured as many men as could be found in the lines, and placed them on guard in front of the canteens and the officers' lines with rifles and bayonets fixed. There was a single line, shoulder to shoulder, about five or six hundred yards long in front of the two canteens. Our officers told us not to be afraid but hold our lines. This was after dark and I was going to bed when the Sergeant-Major came round and told us to fall in. We were not long lined up when the mob came over the hill. Some of those in front yelled, "They have a picket out." It was quite foggy and we could see the shapes moving up the hill in the mist. I think there was very few of us who would have touched one of the rioters until they began to call us conscripts and the worst names you ever heard, which made the boys rather sore. A couple of them had flashlights and when they saw the bayonets they swore vengeance on us. They started to let the stones fly and quite a few of our fellows have sore heads and faces. Vincent Kelly was hit with a rock in the cheek, which raised quite a lump, and Cedric Speirs was hit with a stone on the nose and now he has quite a souvenir of the battle. The officers gave the command to advance a few paces and the mob were falling over each other trying to get away from us. Then they raided the Quartermaster's stores, but our fellows got there just as they were coming out with armfuls of clothing. Some of them got some hard knocks over the heads with our rifles and were shoved in the clink. In all 75 of the rioters were taken prisoners and some of the ringleaders were transferred to some prison in London. It was after midnight before the mob finally dispersed, and it was 2.30 before we were allowed to go to bed. On Monday we hardly did anything, because F company was on picket duty from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. We slept nearly all day yesterday. To-night F company is going on "down town picket" again. I don't know how long this state of affairs will last, but there is a whole company on picket every night, and one or two companies on down town picket. I tell you the stones were flying pretty fast that night, and one officer had some ribs broken, and another a crack in the stomach with a big stone. Any amount of the stones were as big as my fist and some bigger. Yesterday afternoon a staff officer came to the reserve and shot a long speel, saying that every one of us will be on our way home before the end of June. I hope it is true, and I rather think that we will be going by that time anyhow. All the passes this week were cancelled and now we are all C.B.'s as a result of the riot.

I see all the other boys from near home quite regular and all are feeling fine

Your loving brother,
R. G. FOWLER.

SUNDAY SERVICE AT MURRAY STREET

MUST NOT PROSTITUTE THE PULPIT FOR A CLASS.

O Zion, that bringest good tidings, get thee up in the high mountain; O Jerusalem that bringest good tidings, lift up thy voice with strength; lift it up be not afraid; say unto the cities of Judah, "Behold your God."

The ninth verse of the fortieth chapter of Isaih was the text chosen by the Rev. J. R. Webb at the evening service yesterday in Murray Street Baptist Church.

"All artificial means to bring Heaven upon earth are bound to fail unless the bearer finds the way into a high mountain," stated Mr. Webb. He spoke of different parties and cliques attempting to use the pulpit for their propaganda and also quoted Dr. Jowett the eminent London England Divine, who said he realized the grievances of the working man but that he had met some of the shallowest and meanest of men, members of the working class. Mr. Webb referred to one local working man who had a conference with him and went away satisfied seemingly, The next Sunday he sat in Mr. Webb's congregation and because he heard nothing but the Gospel, went home and cancelled all future engagements with Mr. Webb.

"We will not prostitute the pulpit for a class or deprave the pulpit and drag it down from its high mountain," said the minister.

"There are some also in the angelic garden who would have us come down from the high mountain. They cry to have all the churches to unite. Jesus did not tell us to unite. Is it right to unite for the sake of a mighty organization."

Salvation.

"Either salvation is given by Jesus Christ as an absolutely free gift independent of merit or demerit or we earn it by good things that we do or the bad things we leave out. Your being a better man (or woman) has nothing to do with your salvation. It is a gift. When you bring it down so that it can be purchased you bring it down from the high mountain. If we won salvation on our merits Jesus Christ would never have gone on the cross or the Gospel been written. He gives these things freely. This must be preached from the mountain tops and in spite of all the frivolity that gets mixed up in our church services it is the power of God and nothing else is."

The United Farmers Met in Millbrook

THE SPEAKERS INCLUDED MR. H. B. COWAN, OF PETERBORO.

The United Farmers of Cavan township and district held a meeting Friday evening in the Millbrook town hall. The speakers were Mr. H. B. Cowan of Peterboro, Mr. F. C. Sandy of Omemee and Warden A. J. Henderson. Mr. S. S. Staples, who occupied the chair also addressed the meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Melville Staples, Miss Lancashire and Miss Ella Elson were contributors to the musical programme. The speakers referred to the aims and objects of the organization and strongly emphasized the advantages of co-operation.

Music & Drama

"TURN TO THE RIGHT"

"Turn to the Right", a brilliant comedy drama which has been seen here before but nevertheless is regarded as a treat, played here twice on the holiday, afternoon and evening. It was especially interesting to movie fans because of the resemblance between winsome, Thelma White, who plays Betty Bascom in the play and Pearl White, the girl of action in screen serials. They are sisters. Miss Thelma herself has done much studio work just recently going on the legitimate stage. "Turn to the Right", was performed before the Duke of Devonshire in Ottawa last December before starting on its latest tour.

The story somewhat resembles that of "Within the Law" which also has been seen here, although it is undoubtedly superior to that popular play-house drama. It tells of a person being wrongly accused of theft and the ultimate clearing up of the alleged house theft in the last act.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

William H. Kibble's mammoth revival of that popular play "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was seen at the Grand Opera House, Friday evening, to a fair-sized audience. Old Uncle Tom was better than ever and the angelic form of little Eva, the huge mastiffs crossing the ice and the long snake whips contributed to the enjoyment of the juvenile audience.

"Tea for Three" will be seen at the Grand to-night.

by his friends enlisted for the war in July 1915 and has been all through the campaign principally in Belgium He returned home about three weeks ago having been one of the fortunate ones to pass through the terrible struggle without being seriously wounded. He brought with him many interesting souvenirs picked up on the battle field of Flanders, some of which have remarkable histories.

"Jack" before enlisting in the war had some previous experience in Mission work principally in Belfast, Ireland and on his arrival home accepted at once the first opening for work in this capacity. His friends in Peterbrough and elsewhere will wish him God Speed in his future labors.

headquarters at Cleveland and that failing such permission there would be a strike and a break with the International.."

"Is there anything in that?" asked the reporter.

"No, there is nothing in it. The trainmen have not considered the matter at all and in any case a break with the International is something which is quite unthinkable," was his reply.

"How could such a story get in circulation?" ask the reporter.

"I think Mr. Best in Winnipeg is probably responsible for it. He represents a certain section of the railway men's opinion in the west and the despatch which was sent out by Mr. Conklin was apparently given out by him. There is nothing in it and it is rather dangerous to make such an opinion at the present time," he replied.

Western Opinion.

"There was a big meeting in Toronto on Saturday of trainmen of the eastern railways and I was telephoned in connection with the report from Winnipeg and was asked to see that it was explained. A strike in sympathy is something which we do not approve of simply because it is not the way in which we conduct our business," he said.

"Is there any chance of transportation of the country being tied up in connection with the Winnipeg strikes?" asked the reporter.

"Speaking officially, I do not think that there is the slighest, for as I explained, that is not our method of dealing with labour problems. We are sympathetic with the objects, but we cannot help them in that way," he concluded.

(Canadian Press.)

REGINA, May 26.—Regina Trades and Labour Council meets to-night to take action on the Winnipeg strike situation. As this city is well organized it is anticipated a strike vote will be taken to-night.

No Change.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Man., May 26. — There was no announcement of a change this morning in the Winnipeg strike situation. Strike leaders have not changed their avowed attitude, in refusing to call off the sympathetic walk-out as a preliminary to the adjustment of Union demands. There is no confirmation here of reported projected strike of trainmen all over Canada, in sympathy with the strike. Strike leaders are encouraged this morning by the news that general strikes will start to-day and to-morrow in Edmonton, Calgary and Regina. It is understood, however, that in these cities police, firemen and other civic and federal employees will not go out.

Refutes Statement.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, Que., May 26.— An order for a general strike of railway men in Canada in sympathy with the Winnipeg strike must be issued by the executive now in Montreal in conference with the Canadian Railway Board of Adjustment, and no such order has yet been given, was the statement made by R. J. Tallon, President of No. 4 Division of Railway Shopmen this morning. In this statement President Tallon refutes the statement that sixty thousand railway men of Canada had decided to sever from International Unions and go on strike to-day in sympathy with general strike in Winnipeg.

MOTOR TROUBLES ADDED COLOUR TO HOLIDAY PLEASURE

If the story were told of how the holiday week end was spent a long chapter would be required to recount the experiences of those who put their trust in automobiles. The majority of the incidents were pleasant and uneventful enough, but many of them would contribute a dash of colour and humor that resulted from various combinations of motor trouble and bad roads. One of the cars that brought the ball team home from Oshawa spent nearly five hours in covering the last leg of their trip from Millbrook to Peterboro. A wrong turn somewhere near home diverted the car into unknown parts of Cavan township and eventually it sighted the lights of the city from a point north of Jackson Park.

"The Chaperon" party who provided the end of a perfect day for Norwood's holiday crowd came home in five cars some of which were on the road frm 12.30 a.m. until nearly 7 a.m. on Sunday. One of the cars exhausted its gasoline and stood helpless until a companion returned from the city after routing out the custodian of a gasoline tank and procuring a supply. Others wasted an hour or more helping each other out of the mud filled ruts.

The crowd that attended the dance at Chemong were held up by an automobile that chose the narrow trail in the swamp to break down, while a long string of motors purred and clamoured to get by. Practically every road sent in rural telephne calls for assistance at all hours of the day and night. The rain had worked up the road surface, especially in ruts, to sticky depths of mud, and the heavy traffic aggravated the hazzards. In some places a succession of cars floundered helplessly, hamstrung to the hubs, and many a farmer was called upon to render first aid. Such are reports from far and near Peterboro, and those who have spent long vigils waiting for help or something to turn up to start them homeward will console with those whose pleasures were heightened by untoward experiences they had hoped to avoid.

THE "STAR" ARRIVES

The oriole arrived with the blooming of the cherry trees this week. No adventuring pioneer is this restless fellow of brilliant plumage, unlike the bluebird who comes up from the south when the lingering chill of winter sharpens the April of winds. The bluebird is a symbol of happiness, a harbinger of all the cherished delights of Spring, although as in this season these may sometimes prove distressingly disappointing.

No, the oriole ushers in the summer, with the yellow bunting and the nighthawks, both of whom may be considered his companions in passage. In the feathered grand opera he is like the star for whom the stage must be all set and his entrance well timed and duly heralded. Then with the swelling crescendo of the punctual chorus this gaily apparelled personage flashes down to the front and if you haven't first seen him he announces his presence to you from the crabapple tree with his joyful snatch of song, a reedy flute warble of peculiar melody that fills the heart with that love of life Nature renews in the brightest days of May and June. The oriole is no singer. To make his theatric impression he needs the Maxfield Parrish setting of white blossoms, vivid greens and sparkling sunshine, and the harmonious accompaniment of the plain faced sparrows and other songsters whom Nature has endowed with vocal sweetness that relieves their drab raiment.

But this year's first performance was disappointing. Nearly forty days of rain had depressed the chorus.

Their spirit was dampened and their strings untuned and unresponsive. Besides, the lashing showers had beaten off the blossoms from the cherry trees, and the "atmosphere" was oppressive beyond the enlivening of the star's best efforts. The audience, too, was dull and inattentive, with thoughts far wandering upon more material things, and yearning too for inspiring sunlight too long obscured. But if unappreciated, and somewhat unwelcomed, the oriole quickly set about his predestined business. There was work to be done, and his insectiverous instincts directed him at once to an eager search among the apple trees, between times carolling a blithe greeting to the mate he met in his long migration.

After all, when that picture of his splendid entrance dissolves, you realize that the oriole has a serious task ahead of him. There is a home to build, and such a home, wonderfully woven and caught up to the slender branches of a drooping arm of an elm. There, pendulous and swaying with the breezes of late June and July his family will soon be calling hungrily tor the leaf-rollers for which he will forage industriously among the leaves, incidentally assuming his share of the warfare that preserves the trees from the larvae and insects that depend upon their foliage for existence in this strange world of enthralling mysteries.

MARY PICKFORD AT THE EMPIRE

"HOW COULD YOU JEAN?"—A FINE PICTURE ON TO-NIGHT AND TO-MORROW.

AN ABSORBING STORY.

The story of "How Could You, Jean?" deals with an aristocratic young girl, who, when her income ceases through unfortuitous circumstances, is obliged to work for a living. She shocks her friends when she acepts a position as cook in the house of a literary couple. Presently there appears the son of a grouchy millionaire, and won by her beauty he obtains employment in the same household as a servant in order that he might woo the girl of his heart. There are many interesting moments, including a man chase, a barn fire and other incidents, all of which have their thrill and heart appeal, especially when this camouflaging couple ultimately find their proper stations in life and come to a realization of their mutual life. This is an unusually fine picture, in which "Our Mary" is seen at her best.

Mr. Hughson Johnstone Leaves for Winnipeg

Will Enter Head Office of Monarch Life Assurance Company.

Mr. Hughson Johnston, who came to Peterborough five years ago from Toronto, and is the district manager of the Monarch Life Assurance Co., is moving to Winnipeg at the request of the company, to enter the head office.

Mr. Johnston since coming to Peterborough, has been very successful in the several business activities in which he has been engaged. He was the first representative of the Monarch Life in Peterborough and it is due no doubt to the success he has made of the company's business here that has earned his promotion to Winnipeg.

Mr. Johnston will retain his Peterborough office and will leave in about two weeks with his wife and family for the west. During their residence here they have made a great many friends who will wish them continued success in their new home.

THE BOY SCOUTS IN PETERBORO

TWO DANCES OVER THE WEEK-END.

The two dances over the holiday were successful in every detail. The Peter Robinson Chapter, I.O.D.E. held a successful dance in the Chemong Pavilion Saturday night, and a large number from Peterborough attended. The G.W.V.A. dance, held in the new club-rooms on Murray Street, was a decided success, and a record crowd was present. The music was especially fine, and dancing continued until 2 o'clock in the morning.

CAR TURNED TURTLE NEAR SCOTT'S CORNER.

Four young men, while in charge of a large touring car, met with a serious accident yesterday afternoon about five o'clock near Scott's Corners on the Toronto Gravel Road. They were headed west, when a flock of sheep appeared in the road directly ahead of them. The big car turned out, but when they attempted to regain the crown of the road again the turn was too sharp, and the big car turned turtle.

Luckily only one of the young men was hurt, his arm being scraped and bruised.

A Peterborough motorist brought the young men back to the city.

THE GOWNS IN "BILLETED" MARGARET ANGLIN'S COMEDY TRIUMPH

The frocks worn by Margaret Anglin and Phyllis Birkett in the love-comedy "Billeted," which Miss Anglin will present at The Grand Opera House to-morrow night, attracted a great deal of attention during the runs of the play in New York and Chicago. They were designed and made at the studio of Balcom, the famous Fifth Avenue, New York modiste.

In the first act Miss Anglin wears a pale yellow Georgette made with a panel of heavy lace to match the dress. There is a short apron of the lace falling beneath the long waist, which crosses in surplice fashion and is hip length. The hat is large with crush crown, rather pinched in at the sides of palest pink crepe, with a narrow ribbon of the same tone at its base. In one scene she also wears a knitting apron made of white silk flowered in pink and ruffled with creamy lace. In this act Miss Birkett is in khaki breeches, and a loose blouse belted with a white leather belt. She wears spiral puttees, a Windsor tie of old blue, and a tan of burnt straw with a tassel of blue, a very picturesque and thoroughly workable costume.

Act two finds Miss Anglin in a floating negligee of misty grey chiffon with a train. The back is composed of a back panel of the chiffon over blue and two floating panels falling from the shoulders and caught together at the knee for a space of a few inches. The fronts crossing at the side are caught in at the waist by a turquoise oval surrounded with diamonds. Miss Birkett wears a morning frock of crepe meteor, in a delicate peach shade in this act. The edge of the skirt is a geometric design and the waistline is defined by a series of shirrings and a girdle.

In the third act both women are in evening gowns. Miss Anglin in a light orchid satin veiled with self-color chiffon and spangled also in the same color. A drapery is drawn around the left side. The upper arms are veiled half way to the elbow with a self-olored maline, the points at either side weighted with small tassels.

The other gown is a wonderful shade of old blue silk poplin. It has a decided bustle under which is a band of pink roses. The skirt is finished with a four inch band of blue spangles, and an ornament of these at the front of the square decollette and a single pink rose at the left of the girdle. A petticoat of lace shows under the blue to the depth of four inches. The shoulders are veiled with blue maline in exactly the same arrangement as used in Miss Anglin's gown. The frock is delightfully youthful and quite simple enough to justify itself in these days of so-called simplicity.

Petes Beaten in Oshawa in Central Ontario League Game

LOCAL OUTFIT AWAY BELOW THEIR USUAL FORM AND RECEIVE BAD TRIMMING ON THE HOLIDAY —WET DIAMOND SPOILED WHAT PROMISED TO BE A GOOD GAME.

THE NEW LEAGUE OPENS

The Peterborough Central Ontario League Club spent Victoria Day motoring to and from Oshawa. In between times they tarried in Oshawa long enough to lose the opening League fixture, being beaten by 12 runs to 3 after a game that was featured by all varieties of baseball. The Peterborough team got off on the wrong foot, and at the end of the fourth innings the Lakeshore crew were leading by 9 to 0; it was a battle from then on, but the damage was done. The Petes got a lot of bad baseball out of their system in those first four innings when practically the whole outfit were miles below their usual form and committed nearly all the crimes in the baseball calendar.

However, many of the errors made were excusable under the circumstances. A downpour of rain that lasted for three-quarters of an hour and delayed the starting of the game until after four o'clock, left the grass diamond as greasy as a butcher's apron on Saturday night. The footing was treacherous and the balls became so wet that water spurted from them when they were hit. The conditions were entirely favourable to missing the ball and wild throws, and the Petes had not as good luck as the homesters in handling the slippery pill.

Kirn twirled the whole game for the Petes. It took him three or four innings to get loosened up after the long motor trip and the equally long delay before the game, and he was hit pretty freely in the early stages, while his team-mates gave him very indifferent support. He tightened up after the fourth innings and held the Oshawa gang in check, retiring the side on strikes in the sixth. The handicap was too great, however, and the best the Petes could do was to scord run for run with the winners for the balance of the game.

Patton, who did the gunning for Oshawa, proved a clever box artist, with a fair curve and plenty of speed, and he held the Peterborough gang to five singles, one of which was registered by Manager Solomon, who went in as a pinch hitter in the ninth and cracked one to left field. The Oshawa team took to the heavy going much better than the visitors, and turned in some snappy fielding behind their twirler, Jacobi starring with a beautiful running catch of a bunt fly from Sheehy's bat, while a lightning fast double play Thompson to Schultz to Jacobi was another feature. Peterborough's best fielding play was contributed by Long, who pulled down a high throw from Holyman with his gloved hand in big league style.

The game was crowded with appropriate ceremonies in spite of the rain. Mayor Salter of Oshawa pitched the first ball, with Mr. Gay, the oldest ball player in Oshawa as catcher and the president of the Oshawa Club endeavouring to hit. Another feature was the presence of the 19th Battalion, whose train was held up at Oshawa for a couple of hours en route to Toronto. The soldier boys marched to the ball ground and saw the opening of the game.

The Petes looked like scoring in the first when Cherrett walked and stole second. McCarney beat out a bunt, but Cherratt was out at the plate when he tried to score on the play. McCarney died stealing. Heenan drew a pass and stole second, but was left when Hagerman rolled to the pitcher.

For Oshawa Rowden was thrown out by Holyman and McCombe fanned. Jacobi walked and stole second. Thompson laid down a bunt which he beat out. Soden threw wild to first and Jacobi registered while the batter went to second. He was out stealing third, Soden to Holyman.

In the second for the Petes Long singled to centre and went to second on Patton's bad throw to catch him off the bag. Jacobi came in fast and nailed Sheehy's bunt fly when the latter tried to sacrifice. Holyman hit to Thompson, who threw him out at first and Schultz's quick peg nailed Long at third.

For Oshawa Schultz tripled to deep right and scored when Holyman let Dobson's grounder get away, the runner going to second. Cherrett threw Fair out, Hall died on a grass cutter to Holyman, and McCarney nabbed Patton's fly.

The Petes went out in order in the third, but Oshawa counted three. Rowden reached second when Heenan dropped his fly after a run. McCombe bunted to Kirn, who threw to third too late to get Rowden. The latter came home on Jacobi's sacrifice. Thompson walked. Schultz poked one between Cherrett and Holyman, and when no one covered third for Heenan's throw, McCombe and Thompson scored. Thompson flied out to Heenan. Fair walked but Holyman threw out Hall.

Peterborough were blanked in the fourth, but the winners came back with four. Singles by Patton, Rowden, McCombe, Schultz, and Dobson, Thompson's hit by pitcher, an infield out and Soden's bad throw to third did the damage.

In the fifth for Oshawa, Patton was safe when McCarney dropped his fly and Rowden got a life on Cherrett's fumble. McCombe rolled to Hagerman. Jacobi hit to Kirn, who made a nice one-handed stop and threw Patton out at the plate. Rowden scored on a double steal with Jacobi. Thompson fanned.

The Petes got their first score in the sixth. Cherrett beat out a hunt to start with, and went to second on Hall's bad throw. McCarney bunted a foul fly to Hall in trying to sacrifice. Cherrett stole third and scored when Heenan singled on a line to centre. Hagerman died on a pass to Hall and Long grounded out.

Oshawa did not score, Kirn fanning Schultz, Dobson and Hall.

There was nothing doing for the Petes in the seventh, but Oshawa scored two. Patton singled to centre and stole second. Cherrett threw out Rowden. McCombe fanned, but Jacobi doubled to right, scoring Patton, and came home on Thompson's single. Thompson died stealing Soden to Hagerman.

Peterborough got the pair back in the eighth when errors by Jacobi and Schultz, Heenan's sacrifice hit, and Hagerman's infield out allowed Cherrett and McCarney to score. Oshawa did not register.

Manager Solomon brought up all his reserves in the ninth. Head batted for Sheehy and was thrown out by Patton. Solomon batting for Holyman singled to left. Murray ran for Solomon and worked his way round to third as Soden was striking out. Wade batted for Kirn and fanned, Murray trying to steal home on the last strike.

SEMI-READY TALK:

"Just twenty-one years ago this month saw the first Semi-ready store in Canada.

"Shoe merchants helped to make it successful, for they argued that it was as easy to make good clothes to fit every height and width of man as it was to make good shoes for every length and width of foot.

"Just as easy to use the best cloth as it was to use the best leathers.

"Seven distinct physique types and 14 variations in girth and stature and poise—it was worked out on mathematical and physiological lines.

PACKERS BEAT VETERANS IN CITY LEAGUE BATTLE

Matthews-Blackwell won their City League fixture with the Great War Veterans on Friday night by scoring four runs in the first innings, the run-getting being made possible by errors after the side should have retired. As the Packers finally won by 5 runs to 1, the Veterans' loose work in the opening session was decidedly costly.

It was a great battle after that first innings, a pitching duel between Frost for Matthews-Blackwell and Johnston for the Veterans, and both sides were blanked for the next five innings, each pushing a counter over in the seventh—the final innings. Frost showed a nice curve ball that bothered the soldier boys, and he kept their five singles well scattered. The youngster is a most promising pitcher. Len Johnston, who twirled for the Vets., did not issue a complimentary, and although found for nine hits, he was decidedly unlucky to have had five runs scored against him.

The fielding features were a running catch by Stan. Wade, a nice grab of a long fly by Hargrove, who fell as he nailed the ball but hung on to the sphere, and a fast double play started by Hagerman, which killed off an incipient Veteran rally.

The first was the big innings. The Packers went to bat first and Johnston struck out Butcher and Shaughnessy. With two gone, Lowe was safe on Alan Wade's miss of his grounder. Hagerman singled to right, Lowe going to third. Jackson, after Lebarr had missed his foul fly, singled to left centre and Lowe scored. Morrow threw wide to first on Cunningham's roller, and Hagerman and Jackson came home. Holyman doubled to left, scoring Jackson, and when Deannard threw high to the plate the batter went to third. Lefave ended the innings with a tap to Johnston.

There was no further scoring until the seventh innings. In the Packers' half Frost singled to right and was forced at second on Butcher's grounder to Wade. Butcher stole second. Hargrove made a great catch of Shaughnessy's fly. Butcher scored on Lowe's scratch single to short. Anderson slipping in the mud as he went to field the ball. Hagerman rolled to Morrow for the third out.

For the Veterans, A. Wade was thrown out by Frost. Johnston beat out a roller along the third base line, but was out stealing, Lefave to Holyman. Deannard was hit, and stole second and third, scoring when Lebarr singled to centre. Lefave threw out Lebarr at second when he tried to steal, and the game was over.

GOOD GAMES SCHEDULED IN THE CITY BALL LEAGUE

There is plenty of baseball in sight for Peterborough fans this week if the weather man sends along a good brand of weather. The first home game in the Central Ontario League will be played on Saturday, when Cobourg will meet the Petes here. In the meantime there are three City League fixtures.

To-night the Orientals and De Laval will play their postponed game. It promises to be a lively battle. De Laval has a strengthened line-up and are out to beat Manager Solomon's outfit, especially in view of the facts that Kirn pitched at Oshawa on Saturday and is due to work against Matthews-Blackwell to-morrow night. McNeeley will do the slab work for the Orientals, while Prest or Galbraith is slated to work for De Laval. The game is called for 6.45 o'clock.

Manager Solomon's team are getting lots of work, for they are scheduled to play again to-morrow night with Matthews-Blackwell as their opponents. This is a game the fans have been looking forward to, as there is keen rivalry between the two teams. Either Frost or Huycke will pitch for the Packers, while Kirn will be on the rubber for the Orientals.

Golf Club Played Fast Tennis Games

The first tennis match of the present season—in fact, of several seasons—was played on Saturday afternoon on the Golf Club courts, the contestants being Lakefield and the Peterborough Golf and Country Club. The local players proved too strong for the Lakefield racquet wielders, and all the events were won by the Golf Club representatives. The matches throughout were fought to a finish, however, and nothing daunted by the outcome, Lakefield has issued a challenge for a return match in Lakefield. The detail results were as follow:

Singles: F. C. Weber won from Mr. Tanner, 7-5, 6-2. F. Bowness and old won from Dr. Smith, 6-4, 6-3.

Doubles: F. D. Kerr and G. O. Cameron won from Dr. Smith and Mr. Tanner, 75, 6-2. F. Bowness and G. R. Langley won from O. A. Langley and Mr. Steer, 6-0, 6-3.

Mr. Will Andrews, of Toronto, spent the holiday at home.

SALVATION ARMY OUTING A SUCCESS

The Salvation Army excursion to Rice Lake on Victoria Day was the first general trip of the steamer Stoney Lake this season. The outing was enjoyed by a large crowd, to whom the river trip was a delightful moving picture of green banks and woods and water plant.

The water is unusually high, and in many places the bays and creeks are inundated over large areas.

During the day the band played at its best, the sports at Hiawatha entertained the young folks, and the picnic baskets were attacked with a zest of no ordinary food. The excursionists arrived home at 6 o'clock.

LOT OF FIREWORKS SOLD IN THE CITY

An article which appeared in the Examiner on Friday in regard to the sale of fireworks in Peterborough was rather misleading inasmuch as it indicated a small sale. On the other hand, Mr. L. Lebarr, Charlotte Street, who had the largest stock that has ever been in the city for some time, reports that he not only sold his usual holiday supply, but also the fireworks that he was keeping in reserve for the celebration attendant upon the signing of Peace.

ANSWER TO QUERRIES OF BUSY WOMEN

A wet umbrella or raincoat should never be left resting against the telephone cord because it causes a short circuit and can quickly put the telephone out of order. The same applies to wet mops, floor cloths, etc.

The "joke cheer envelope" is one that contains good jokes you have clipped from the newspapers and magazines. When someone you know is sick and needs amusement you can make this your gift.

Lemon juice will remove stains from the hands and finger nails. Rub it on after finishing the kitchen work.

A shampoo can be made at home by shaving a cake of castile soap into a powder and boiling it in a pint of soft water. Put this jelly into a bottle and sprinkle a few drops of your favourite perfume in it.

A kitchen sewing case makes a "different" gift for the engaged girl's kitchen shower. It is made of bright cretonne and fitted up with coarse thread for basting poultry, etc.

To properly grate a lemon turn it around and around as you go, as this takes the yellow surface off evenly. You do not make inroads into the heavy white part. This is important because the yellow part contains the flavour. Begin at one end in grating the lemon.

A little lemon juice springled over banana or apple in fruit salad will keep the fruit from darkening before it is served.

If you cover button molds with soft flannel before you put on silk or other fine material, they will look better and wear longer.

If you tin or copper boiler is rusty, moisten a cloth with kerosene and rub it over the outside when the boiler it hot.

When making chocolate or cocoa, try beating it with an egg beater just before it comes to a boil. This will remove any tiny flecks of chocolate and render it delightfully smooth.

Melted paraffin will close a leak in the ice box lining.

TO BE THREATENED WITH ARREST IS NO NEW EXPERIENCE FOR THE PETERBORO PUBLIC SCHOOL NURSE

MISS MAYE JORY FOLLOWS UP HER MORNINGS WORK AT THE SCHOOL WITH A VISIT TO THE PARENTS HOME IN THE AFTERNOON—CONSIDERABLE TACT IS REQUIRED FOR THE WORK.

To be threatened with arrest is no new experience for the school nurse. Miss Maye Jory, who on her daily rounds comes in touch with the class of people who are never wrong and whose children are "just as clean as anyone else's". One irate parent recently went so far as to tell her "if she said again his children's heads were unclean", he would 'pull a gun on her the first dark night he met her.'

Undismayed by the dark threats the nurse pursues her daily duties; following up her morning's work of examining the children in the schools and spends the afternoon in making visits to the children who have either been sent home by her for physical disabilities or looking up the children reported by the teacher as absent for any period of time.

Mumps Prevalent.

At the present time mumps are prevalent in all districts and most of the visits to absent scholars lately have revealed children in different stages of the disease, "with the doctors orders to stay out for three weeks more."

The present day visits are not brought with the difficulties met in the pioneer stages of school nursing. In those days the school nurse frequently met with a door slammed in her face and an injunction "to mind her own business." Latterly, however, when the parents found the law backed up the nurse and that she was much more of a friend than an enemy Miss Jory has found it a comparatively easy matter to gain admission almost anywhere.

Tact Required

The highest degree of tact is required in handling most of the parents. To go in and boldly accuse a parent of allowing filthy children to attend school would prove disastrous to the cause. Consequently the nurse enters a home on a friendly footing and gradually leads up to the condition requiring correction and is in most cases assured that the steps she advises will be immediately taken. To this way hundreds formerly infested with vermin of all kinds have been cleaned as the parnts have learned from the nurse's kindly advice how to proceed and that if they don't proceed the child will be returned from school labeled unclean. Through persuasion and reasoning many and many a parent has taken children with neglected teeth and other disabilities to doctors and with a little sacrifice on the parents part, the children's future health and comfort has been assured.

Advice Solicited.

In her afternoon rounds visiting the homes ten is the average number of calls made by Miss Jory and the area covered often mounts up to three miles as most of the homes lie beyond the street car line. Her advice is solicited not only for every member of the family. Frequently she comes in touch with destitute cases, which she reports to the proper authorities as suitable candidates for rounds led her into a little home where six children, the oldest a boy of about thirteen, mothered a little family of five under the supervision of grandma aged 85. The father a semi invalid spends his time mostly in the hospital and when out feverishly endeavouring to provide a suitable home for his motherless little ones.

Miss Jory said that she notices the greatest improvement in the homes she has visited brought about by the simple education of the parents in how to be clean.

Peasants Refuse to Resume Work

Quit Work and Flock to Cities, Leaving America to Feed World.

One of the striking features of the after-war disorganization in the countries of Central Europe is the disinclination of the peasants to return to their agricultural pursuits, and the herding of millions of the inhabitants in the cities, where there is even less food and less chance for the poor to get it than in the country. This extraordinary and generally unexpected situation, like cholera, reduced the normal purchasing power of Europe, feeding herself next winter, and gives assurances that every pound of food America can produce this year will be needed by the world, and that prices will not be materially lower than they have been if they do not advance on some staples. Added to European disorganization comes a great reduction in India's food output and the fact that much of Australia's great share of wheat, on which so much was counted, will be unfit for shipment.

When the armistice was signed it was thought that the armies would be demobilized, and that the people of Germany, Austria-Hungary, and the other countries of Central Europe would return in large numbers and take up work on the land. There was every reason to believe that the peasants would cultivate the soil and produce a large share of the needed food for this coming year. In this respect there has been great disappointment. Due to the unsettled conditions and unstable Government, the peploe have been slow to take up any regular occupation. In some districts, where there have been many large land holdings, the people are demanding that these be broken up into smaller tracts and distributed. Many thousands of peasants are leaving the mountain country, where they have been producing live stock, and are coming down into the valley, where they hope to get a share of the rich agricultural lands. The peasants on these lands are slow to plant and cultivate, fearing they may lose their labour and their crops if the land is given to others.

The result of this disturbance is that food production will be materially decreased. In other territory, due to a lack of transportation and seed, crop production will be very much reduced. Conditions everywhere are such that there is little hope for normal production. With the disturbance in the country, it is found that the people are flocking to the cities. In 1914 the city of Budapest had a population of about 800,000, while the population to-day is more than 2,000,000. The city of Vienna in the past few months has increased in population more than 1,000,000. During normal times the city of Vienna received 900,000 liters of milk daily. At this time this has been reduced to 90,000 liters of milk, which is given by cards only to babies and invalids. The American flour which has reached Germany has been sold in half-pound lots for 2.14 marks. This would be at the rate of about 52 cents a pound. Other foodstuffs are selling at unusually high prices, all of which indicates that the supply of food is far from meeting the demand.

The expected surplus in India and Australia has been much reduced. Instead of India, having 200,000,000 bushels of wheat for export that country must receive a large amount to fight off famine. A part of the Australian surplus was lost as a result of mould, rodents and general deterioration.

In view of all these facts, D. J. Christie, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, speaking for the Department has called upon American farmers to keep up their record production of recent war years, not only as a humane contribution to the welfare of mankind, but as good business.

Hawker and Grieve Rescued By a Danish Steamer 1,100 Miles Out

CHANGES IN FEDERAL CABINET ARE RUMOURED—BORDEN ARRIVES IN CANADA—ULTIMATUM PRESENTED TO STRIKERS BY MAYOR OF WINNIPEG—SUNDAY AND SATURDAY EVENING DESPATCHES.

Monday Morning Bulletin:

HAWKER RESCUED BY SHIP.

LONDON, May 26. — Hawker and Grieve were eleven hundred miles out when their engine failed to work. They alighted safely and were in the water for an hour and a half before being picked up by a Danish steamer, the "Mary," who landed them at Thurso, Scotland. They will arrive in London on Tuesday evening, on the British flagship, "Revenge."

HALIFAX, May 26. — Sir Robert Borden arrived here yesterday, and left immediately for Ottawa, but declined the reception to be tendered him on account of pressing business.

OTTAWA, May 26. — There are rumours here of changes in the Cabinet. It is said it is possible that the Premier and Sir Thomas White may resign.

STEAMER STRUCK ICEBERG.

ST. JOHN'S, May 26. — The Str. "Cassandra" struck an iceberg, one hundred and sixty miles from Cape Race. She returned to St. John's for repairs. There were 337 passengers on board.

WINNIPEG STRIKE SITUATION

WINNIPEG, May 26. — Mayor Gray has called a meeting for to-day. The Federal, Provincial and civic employees will be given until noon to-day to return to work. If they do not accept the places are to be declared vacant.

AUSTRIAN TREATY.

LONDON, May 25.—(Via Paris.) — The Council of Four yesterday continued its consideration of the economic clause of the Austrian peace treaty, calling in experts for consultation. A despatch adds that the treaty will be considered at a plenary session on Tuesday and will be laid before the Austrian delegation, probably on Wednesday.

WINNIPEG, May 24. — The discussion between the citizens and the Union committees failed to bring about a settlement. Mayor Gray closed the meeting with the remark, "If it is your wish that nothing further be done regarding conciliation then hop to it—I will see that law and order are maintained." R. B. Russell, one of the leaders of the strike committee, said, that rather than see the Winnipeg strike fail, twenty-six Canadian cities are ready to declare a general walk out.

MORE NOTES FROM HUNS.

PARIS, May 24. — The German delegates handed in two more notes to the Secretary of the peace conference this morning.

Peterboro Jail Population Is Exclusively Masculine

THE LOCAL BASTILE WOULD OFFER NO MEANS OF EASY ESCAPE TO A MAN OF FRANK M'CULLOUGH'S TYPE—HOW THE PRISONERS ARE FED.

INMATES LOSE THEIR APPETITES

Either the morals of the female element of Peterborough's population are improving or the customary offenders are becoming more cautious, judging from the tenantry at the jail, which for the past three months has been exclusively masculine.

At present the eighteen cells are only half filled by nine offenders, including defaulters and breakers of the Ontario Temperance Act and one forger. They are a peaceable lot, the prisoners, and never make any attempt to break away from present quarters. Any such attempt would avail little as the jail is well guarded. Inside of the section used for the cells and the entrance to which is fortified by a heavy iron door and an iron studded oak door, the cells ranged in a row, have each their own doors of one inch iron bars. Even if escape should be made from these cells the prisoner would find himself confronted by a second set of inch iron bars before making daylight. Here he would be unable to make any such sensational escape as Frank McCullough made from the Toronto jail, as instead of landing on top of a wall he would find a smooth stone wall almost eighteen feet high to scale and no available help to get out.

The Meals.

The meals at the gaol are prepared by the prisoners themselves, under the supervision of the turnkey and gaoler. These are plain and wholesome and run on the ration principle. For breakfast each man is allowed one pint of gruel, one-half pound of bread and one-half pint of tea or coffee. At dinner every other day's allowance of meat is six ounces without bone and one-half pound of potatoes, and the same amount of bread. Soup is a daily allowance. Supper is the same as breakfast.

Mr. H. Nesbit said to-day that when the prisoners have been in gaol for any time they fall off in their appetites and are unable to eat anything like the allowance made.

Few Attempts.

In two years no escape has been made from the gaol and no attempt other than from some of the old men to wander off has been made since. The last successful attempt was made by a prisoner whose sentence had almost expired. While working in the kitchen where a plumber was mending pipes, he seised the opportunity lent by a carelessly left saw and sawed his way to liberty. He was subsequently accidentally killed by a train in Toronto a few days later.

TO CHANGE PLANES IN AIR

Thrilling Experiments to Be Made At Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 23.—Experiments to prove the feasibility of changing from plane to plane in mid-air as a means of expediting aerial mail deliveries, in saving passengers from disabled ships of the air, or cutting down flight time in cross-country contests, will be conducted at the Atlantic City airport on Friday and Saturday afternoon of this week under the direction of a notable committee of aeronautic authorities.

Lieutenant Omer Locqlear, former army flyer, the only man who has thus far been able to make a leap from plane to plane in midair, will give several demonstrations of the aerial skip-stop on both afternoons with a specially selected crew which he will bring with him. They will stage several other thrillers in the way aerial acrobatics to prove how easy it is for a man properly trained and qualified as a pilot to climb all over his airship to make repairs while it is in full wing, when he has a second man to relieve him at the wheel.

LINK WITH THE PAST.

J. E. Johnston, of Tweed, made rather a unique find the other morning. He had cut down an old dead apple tree and was sawing it up for wood, when he came across a shoe for an ox, right in the centre of the trunk. Likely it had been placed there in days gone by and the tree had grown over it. It was similar to a horse shoe or is made in two parts, one for each hoof, and the back of the shoe is very broad.—Kingston Standard.

WILL JUDGMENT GO BY DEFAULT?

(BY JAS. G. GUISE-BAGLEY)

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have been wondering why some of the prohibitionists do not make some attempt to answer Mr. Burnham's letters on the subject.

The public read these letters, and because there is no reply to them, people are beginning to think Mr. Burnham is right, and that there is no satisfactory reply to be made. In other words, judgment against the prohibitionist goes by default. Is that what is intended?

The letter from Mr. Burnham in Wednesday's "Examiner" should either settle the question or call forth an answer. Those who will not accept the teaching of Christianity on the subject (which is conclusively against prohibition) must accept the scientific statement of Dr. A. B. Macallum when he tells us that by the laws of God alcohol is created spontaneously by Nature, which is God's law and cannot be interfered with even by the best of us. God created alcohol makes it all the time, and the prohibitionist cannot prevent Him from doing so. But the prohibitionist regards alcohol as an evil, and therein contradicts God, Who pronounced everything He had made as "very good." Those who deny God and condemn His works as evil Mr. Burnham calls atheists, to the casual observer, as these men refrain from attempting an answer, they may fairly be taken to admit the accusation. One thing is very certain, if the Son of God were to attend a marriage feast in Peterborough and made and provided drinks for the guests as He did in Canan He would be hauled up before the magistrate, and fined or imprisoned. They would crucify Him to-day just as willingly as the Pharisees of A.D. 33 would, and they want to crucify His followers, and the followers of the Holy Apostle Paul, who said, "Be not drunk with wine wherein is excess" and "Let your moderation be known unto all men" and again, "Every creature of God is good."

LINKS ARMS.

Mr. Burnham draws attention to the fact that the prohibitionist links arms with the bootlegger, because extremes meet in everything in the world; it was ever so! before prohibition came in, the teetotaller rejoiced to see a man reeling on the street, because it gave him an argument, and never would he lift a finger to help the administration of the law as it stood because if that law had been properly enforced such arguments would never have been on the streets.

It is a fortunate thing we are living in the 20th century, for if these had been times like those of the Spanish Inquisition, many a good citizen would have been burnt at the stake for not holding the opinion that Christ was a criminal in making and supplying liquor at the marriage feast. Least any should argue that the wine supplied by Our Lord was non-alcoholic, I will here say that no person has any right to guess anything so grotesque. The Master of the feast pronounced it the best he had tasted that day, and there is no doubt he was a connoisseur and would never have approved of the wishy washy stuff they want us to drink as a "substitute" to-day!

The Dominion Alliance want to prevent a fair vote of the people on this subject. They cannot prevent the vote being taken, but if they can formulate any additional questions why do they not do so?

Will judgment go by default?

Yours, etc.,
JAS. G. GUISE-BAGLEY.

HANNA LEFT A LEGACY TO SON KILLED IN WAR

Entire Estate of $1,798,000 Left to Members of the Deceased's Family

SARNIA, May 23.—The will of the late Hon. W. J. Hanna, former Provincial Secretary of Ontario, disposes of an estate of $1,798,000 to members of his own immediate family. The will was drawn on February 7th, 1918, at Toronto, a few days prior to Mr. Hanna's departure for the South, and it is believed that he executed it simply as a precautionary measure without any expectation that it would represent his final disposition of his estate. Mr. Hanna made payment of the sum of $10,000 to his son, Lieut. W. Neil Hanna, R.A.F., a first claim on his estate. The boy, however, was killed in action in Italy. The amount was the son's share in the estate of his grandfather, of which the Hon. W. J. Hanna was the executor.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"Yes. And would you mind telling us something of your plans? Shall you continue to live in Elsinore?"

"I shall go far away, to Europe, if possible. I suppose I shall return in time. Of course" (in hasty afterthought) "I should not be contented for very long without my friends; they have grown to be doubly valuable—and valued—during this long term of incarceration. But I must travel for a while."

"That is quite natural. How normal you are, dear Mrs. Balfame!" It was Miss Lauretta Lea who spoke up with enthusiasm. "You are just a sweet, serene, normal woman who couldn't commit a violent act if you tried. Be sure the public shall see you as you are. I don't wonder your friends adore you. Don't mind being stared at. The more people that see you, the more friends you will have."

Her eyes moved to Rush, and she was rewarded by a smile that expressed relief. She was a very experienced reporter and knew exactly how he felt.

"And believe me," she said as they drooped down the stairs, having passed before the Balfame throne and received a limp handshake of dismissal, "that poor man's worried half to death. He'll get about as much help from her on the stand as he would from a tired codfish. But she really is a divinely sweet woman and lovely to look at, and so I'll sob over her for all I'm worth and 'seclude' from the cynical and the sentimental that she has distilled crystal in her veins."

"Did you ever know such a perfectly rotten interview!" Miss Austin was scowling fiercely. "The men did a thousand times better because they took her by surprise, but even they cursed her. I figure out she has made up her Friday Club mind to look the marble goddess minus every female instinct, including a natural desire to shoot a brute of a husband. But I wish she had brain enough to put it over with some pep. She was afraid to be dramatic,—or couldn't be,—and so she was trying to be literary—"

"I don't agree with you!" And arguing and scolding, they wended their disapproving way over to the Dobton Inn and sat them down at tables to make the most of their bare material.

"No censorship needed here," Miss Austin growled. "She froze my very imagination."

CHAPTER XXVIII

Rush walked up and down the room for a few moments in silence. Mrs. Balfame sat back and folded her hands. She was haunted by a vague sense of inefficiency, of having not quite risen to the occasion, but she felt there could be no doubt that she not only had impressed the reporters as an innocent woman but as a perfect lady. The rest didn't matter.

"Are you really not a bit nervous?" demanded Rush, swinging on his heel and confronting her.

"I will not permit myself to be. And except that I hate publicity, I really do not dread the trial. It means the beginning of the end of this detestable prison life. I want to be out and free. A week in a courtroom is not too heavy a price to pay."

"Have you ever been to a murder trial?"

"Of course not. Such a thing would never have occurred to me."

Rush sighed. She had no imagination. But as her counsel he reminded himself that he should be grateful for the lack; he wanted no scenes, either in the courtroom or here in the imminent hours. But he would have welcomed a little more feminine shrinking, appeal to his superior strength. Even when he had worshipped her from afar, she had never moved him so powerfully as on the day of her arrest when she had flung herself over the table in an abandonment of despair as complete as the most exacting male could wish. That incident had long since taken on the shifting outlines of a dream. If she had felt any tremours since then she had concealed them from him.

"Tell me," he asked almost wistfully, "are you not terribly frightened at times? You are alone here so much. And it has been an experience to try even a strong man's nerves."

"Women nowadays really have better nerves than men. We not only lead a far fuller and more varied life than our predecessors, but you men work at such a terrific strain that it is a wonder you retain any control of your nerves at all. I will admit that I did have attacks of fear at first. It was all so strange and odd. But I got over them. You can get used to anything, I guess. And I have a strong will. I just made myself think about something else. This war has been a godsend. Have you noticed my new maps? I've really read about twenty war books besides all the editorials, and they have given me a distaste for lighter reading, and really developed my—my—intellect. That seems such a big word. And then I've knitted dozens of things for the children and soldiers, and felt as if I were of some use for the first time in my life."

She glanced at him shyly, as he stared through the bars of one of the windows. The suppressions of a lifetime made it impossible to betray any depth of feeling save under terrible stress. She was ashamed of her breakdown before him on the day of her arrest, but she was conscious of the wish that she were able to infuse her cool even tones with warmth to make them tremulous at the right moment: but if she attempted to betray something of her newer self even in her eyes, self-consciousness overcame her and she dropped the lids almost in a panic.

Sh wondered if love broke down those cliffs of ice that seemed to encompass a new-born soul. Or was it merely that the other members of her personal company mature, jealous, self-insufficient, resented the intrusion of this shrinking alien? They had got on quite well without it: they felt no yearning for possible complications, readjustments. With all their quiet force they discouraged the stranger. Before any of the supreme experiences, including love they might be routed, the new force might spring up in an instant like a flower from the magic soils of India—but not while the conventions bulwarked them. Their sum was Mrs Balfame of Elsinore, and not for a moment did they permit themselves to forget it.

Moreover, it was quite true that she had conquered her first apprehensions and welcomed the trial as the initial step toward freedom. Her poise had always been remarkable: the result in part of a self-centred life and a will driven relentlessly in a narrow groove. More than ever was she determined to sit through those long days in the courtroom with the cold aloofness of the unfortunate women of history. The very ascents she had made of secret and solitary heights alone would have restored her poise, for she felt on far more friendly terms with herself than when living with a wretch she loathed, and dreaming of no higher altitudes than complete success in Elsinore. But she wished for the first time that she were younger woman, or had made those ascents many years ago; she would have liked to reveal herself spontaneously to his interesting young man who was so deeply in love with her.

Suddenly she wondered if he were so ardently in love with her as in that brief period when they had talked of themselves. Not loving him in return, she had been content with lip-service, the sure knowledge that all his fine abilities were at work upon the obstacles to her freedom; and she would have been deeply annoyed if he had broken the pact made on the day of her arrest and reiterated his devotion and his hopes.

But significant happenings—omissions—a certain flatness. . . . She turned her head sharply and looked at him. He was still staring moodily through the bars.

If far too diffident to show the best that was in her, she found it comparatively simple to practice the feminine art of angling, albeit with a somewhat heavy hand.

She asked softly: "Don't you think I did the wise thing to tell them I intend to travel as soon as I was acquitted? It surely would be in better taste than to settle down here—in that house!"

"Did you mean it? The intention would make a good impression on the public, certainly."

"Why, of course I meant it. I am not a good hand at saying things merely for effect."

"Where shall you go? Europe is rather impossible."

"Oh, not altogether. There is always Italy. And there is no danger from Zeppelins in the interior of Great Britain. And there is Spain—"

"I think Europe a very good place for women to keep away from until the war is over. Any of the nations may become involved at any minute—ourselves, for that matter. Better follow the advice of advertisers and see America first."

"Yes, I could visit the Expositions in California, and camp for a while in Glacier Park, and there are the Yellowstone and Grand Canon—but all that would only consume a few months—and then there is this winter to think of. What I feel I should do is to stay away for a year, at least—"

"You could live very pleasantly in Southern California."

"I should be very conspicuous in those small fashionable settlements. The case has been telegraphed all over the country, and I have seen dreadful pictures of myself in several Western papers."

"Well, you might live quietly in New York until the war is over. There is no better place to hide—if you avoid the restaurants and theatres. And after all, even a cause célèbre is quickly forgotten if there is no aftermath. But I certainly advise against even sailing for Europe until peace is declared. There is always the danger of mines and too enthusiastic submarines."

She turned quite cold and stared at her hands. They were well-shaped but large, and they looked like blocks of white marble on her black gown. He was still at the window, and his tone was listless. She had a curious sense of panic in the region of her heart. But instantly she curled her lip with defiant scorn. Was she the woman to fancy herself in love with a man the moment she seemed to be in danger of losing him? Besides, no doubt, the poor man was tired, and too absorbed in the case to have any room in him for the moods of the lover. Only a foolish impulsive woman would in conditions like the present try to rouse a dormant passion. When she was free, and he as well, his heart would automatically take precedence once more and he would plead ardently for the privilege of marrying her. That was quite in order.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Saved on the Gallows

By LOUISE H. CUMMINGS

Famous in English history is that Duke of Gloucester who murdered his two nephews in the Tower of London, one of whom was the rightful heir to the throne, and made himself king of England in the prince's stead.

At that time there lived in England Robert Percy, a young man of the most admirable qualities. It was some time before the secret of the murder of the young princes began to leak out, and when it did there were few mutterings on the part of the people. Percy, who was familiar with the king's treachery, was more loud spoken than others, and Richard, aware of the young man's influence with the nobles and fearing that he would bring about a revolt, ordered his arrest on a charge of high treason.

On the day that Percy was conducted along a street leading to the Tower, surrounded by men at arms, the curbs were lined with sympathizers, who breathed prayers that he might escape the danger threatening him and muttered maledictions on the head of the tyrant.

At an upper window stood Lady Gwendolen Bickford, a younger daughter of the Earl of Clarendon. She looked down on young Percy, walking erect between his guards, his bearing indicating that he was ready and willing to lay down his life in contending against crime. Every one believed that he was going to his death. His manly beauty, his noble bearing and the crown of martyrdom rendered him an object of pity to all. But to Lady Gwendolen he was more than this. Within those few minutes during which he was passing her heart left her bosom and settled upon him. Percy, happening to look in her direction, saw the lovelight in her eyes, and his head was lightened.

Richard, fearing to order Percy to execution without a trial lest it excite the people to revolt, directed attorneys to prepare a case against him. Persons were bribed to swear that he had been heard advocating the king's assassination and placing the Duke of Richmond on the throne. Lady Gwendolen, hearing of this, begged her father to induce lawyers to defend the accused. The earl not only knew that the case was hopeless, but did not dare to oppose the king; consequently he refused to have anything to do with it.

One day Lady Gwendolen went to that quarter of London given over to lawyers and found Roger Moore, an old attorney who had served her father, and consulted him as to what might be done to save young Percy. After listening to what the girl had to say he replied that Percy's case was hopeless because the king had decreed that he should die. "He will surely be convicted," said the old man. "After his conviction there is but one way by which he may legally escape the gallows. But should he go free under the statute the king would doubtless find some other way to get rid of him."

Lady Gwendolen asked the attorney to what law he referred, and he replied that it was a decree of King Edward IV., naming a condition on which a man about to be hanged should go free. As soon as the girl heard the condition her face lighted with hope. To fulfill it was possible, but would it avail in the end?

Percy was convicted of high treason against the king and sentenced to be hanged and quartered on a certain date. At the time an army was gathering under the Duke of Richmond to depose the king, and Richard was gathering his forces to meet it. There had been a former attempt to put the duke on the throne in the king's place, but Richard was so bold and energetic as he was wicked and had defeated all attempts against his authority.

There was no one he feared to leave in his rear so much as Robert Percy, and when he had made all preparations to march against his opponents he delayed a day to make sure that this dangerous enemy was dead.

The day before the one set for the execution Lady Gwendolen Bickford was clothed with Roger Moore, and on the following morning, when the crowd went to Tyburn to witness the hanging, these two were of the number, and when the prisoner arrived they occupied seats near the scaffold. When all was ready and the condemned man was about to be swung off Roger Moore arose and said:

"Mr. Sheriff, as counsel for the prisoner I claim his body under an edict of King Edward IV., who decreed that whenever a man is convicted of crime and is about to be hanged, if there be a woman willing to marry him, he shall go free. This woman beside me is willing and ready to marry the prisoner."

This speech naturally disconcerted the sheriff, who had never heard of the statute. The judge who had condemned the prisoner was present at the hanging, and the matter was referred to him. He at once confirmed Roger Moore's statement, whereupon Percy was unbound, the black cap taken from his head, and he looked down upon the upturned face of Lady Gwendolen Bickford.

The king waited till the hour for the execution, then, supposing Percy to be dead, galloped off to Bosworth field, where a few days later he was defeated and killed. Robert Percy was in Richmond's army, and Richmond becoming king ennobled him, thus giving him equal rank with the girl who had saved his life by marrying him.

"Made in Germany."

A correspondent just back from The Hague tells me, says a writer in Westminster (England) Gazette, that an exhibition has just been held there of work done in Germany by our men who have been transferred to Holland. The prisoners have evidently shown wonderful ingenuity in gathering materials for their handiwork. A colonel, who exhibited a series of books tastefully bound in blue and white, had obtained his binding materials from cardboard packages in his parcels. There was a considerable show of knitted goods, for which the wool was secured by "pulling down" old socks. Another curious exhibit was a tiny model of a motor chassis, made from meat tins, door hinges, and such things, of which the rubber tires were made from the handle of a tennis racket. Even German bread had been pressed into service, as a pair of carved and painted sabots was produced from a loaf. It is to be hoped that London will soon have an opportunity of seeing this evidence of the resource and courage with which our men have faced the terrible captivity.

Old Emblem Is White Hart.

The white hart is a very old emblem. Diomedes consecrated to Diana a white hart which, after a thousand years, was killed by Agathocles, king of Sicily. Pliny records that Alexander caught a white stag and placed a collar of gold about its neck; then this was done by Julius Caesar, and was handed down from hero to hero, with the usual changes in story to prevent anachronisms. There was once a white hart caught in Windsor forest, one elsewhere in England, one in France and two in Germany, the last of which was killed by Charlemagne. Then after three centuries, Richard Coeur de Lion slew it, the whole story being inscribed in stone on the walls of the cathedral of Lubec.

GUM DECAY CAUSES TOOTH DECAY

Healthy teeth need healthy gums to hug them. Else they will loosen in Pyorrhea. Tiny openings will come in the gums to act as the gateways of disease germs, which infect the joints or tonsils, or cause other ailments.

Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No mere toothpaste does. Are your gums tender, gums? Are they bleeding gums? If so, you are certain to have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people who are over forty have it.

To you we earnestly recommend Forhan's. It preserves the gums which hold the teeth secure.

Brush your teeth with it. Forhan's cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

VARIETY IN THE NEWEST MODES

The Cape With Tailored Frock a Favourite.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The everlasting monotony of the limited wardrobe may be relieved if care is taken with its selection and the greatest variety chosen. The spring offers a wide option and there is no reason why any woman can not dress in good taste and still have variety.

For instance, if she can afford only two frocks, she may make a selection of two absolutely different types each of which in itself is becoming and suits her particular type. With a slight change frequently, of collars and cuffs and various little details, the irksome sameness which would ordinarily result from the constant wearing of but two frocks is avoided.

SPECIAL ATTENTION TO HATS.

Besides these detailed changes of the actual frock, one should purchase attractive strings of beads and other pretty decorations which sometimes give the costume that "new look." Attention to gloves and spats is necessary, and above all, the hat must be a studied effect.

WHERE TUCKS ARE FAVOURITES.

The trimming, colour and texture are but secondary considerations and mere corollaries to the big important factors of shape, fit and line. Gone are days when women will go into the shops and buy a hat that fits the headline wretchedly just because the other features attract her. Women now are realizing that the smariness of the hat and the degree of becomingness all depends on the constructive lines of the hat. The faults of the construction can not be covered with feats of the trimmer. If the foundation is not there, any attempt to hide its defects will be useless. So it behooves the woman to make her selection with all attention focused on the line and fit. The effect from the side and also from the back should be carefully studied, for what a calamity to see, as we often do, a stunning hat from the front but quite a hopeless creation from the sides and back.

CAPES POPULAR FOR MORNING, AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

Perhaps the cape is going to fool the designers, who predicted that it would be merely a fad and not be accepted permanently, for from all indications the American woman has accepted the cape and, whats more, intends to keep it. This is due probably to the variety of styles that are presented for the cape.

Beat the eggs and add to dry ingredients, then add the boiling water a little at a time while stirring. Beat hard, pour in buttered pan and bake.

Chocolate Loaf Cake.

Melt two squares chocolate with half tablespoon shortening over hot water. While chocolate and shortening are melting, mix together the following: One cup sugar, one egg, one teaspoon vanilla. Dissolve one teaspoon soda in one cup sour milk; add one-half the milk to the egg and sugar, then add one cup flour, then the melted chocolate, and lastly the rest of the milk. Beat hard and bake rather slowly at first.

Orange Cookies.

Cream one-half cup of butter, add one cup sugar, grated rind of one orange, one egg, one-quarter cup of orange juice, two cups flour, and four teaspoons baking powder. Roll and cut, dust with granulated sugar, and bake. These should be eaten at once as they soon dry.

Apple Sauce Cake.

Cream together one cup of sugar and half cup shortening, add half teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, and a little nutmeg and salt. Dissolve one teaspoon soda in a bit of warm water and stir it into one cup sour apple sauce, letting it foam over the ingredients in the bowl. Beat all together and add one and three-quarter cups flour.

LABOURER IN LIMOUSINE.

There is a strange scene enacted every week day morning when one of the labourers in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, starts for his $3.50 a day job. A limousine with a chauffeur at the wheel rolls up to a house in one of the prosperous residential sections of the borough, and a well dressed man descends the steps and enters the car. Shortly after the car halts at one of the entrances to the Park, and from it emerges an ordinary park labourer. All day long he toils. At 5.30 p.m. he knocks off work and goes to the entrance where the limousine awaits him. And when it stops at the door it started from in the morning, the trim, well dressed man gets out. The man is a Brooklyn millionaire who, having tried for years to be cured of rheumatism and sciatica, finally discovered that a spade and hoe were better than medicines. Farm life was out of the question owing to city interests, but on walking through the park one day the great idea came to him. None of his work-mates knows his secret. He is just one of the gang, and he draws his three-fifty per.

CURED OF DYSPEPSIA BY USING BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

The symptoms of dyspepsia are so numerous and diversified in different individuals that probably no description could exactly represent them as they occur in any given case, but a few of the most prominent are a rising and souring of food, pain, flatulence and distention of the abdomen a sensation of discomfort after every meal, which is sometimes followed by sickness and vomiting.

To get rid of dyspepsia a careful arrangement of the diet is necessary and due time must be given for the digestion of the meal.

You will find that Burdock Blood Bitters will help with this digestion. It does this by toning up the stomach in such a way that the dyspepsia soon disappears.

Mr. Robt. Baldwin, Winnifred Alta., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters for curing dyspepsia, of which I have been a sufferer for years. I have tried a good many doctors and proprietary medicines, so one day I thought I would try something different. I got a bottle of B. B. B. from our local store, as it was about the only remedy he kept, and I can certainly say that I was more than pleased with the results, as I got better right away. I will always recommend it to other sufferers."

Stale Bread and Milk Good Food for Chicks

After They Are About Two Weeks Old They Can Be Given This Diet.

Many will receive baby chicks from a distance and they should be careful in their treatment of them. The box should be opened in a warm room and as they are taken from the box each bill should be dipped in lukewarm water. If the chicks are inclined to drink they may be allowed two or three swallows more, but no not allow them to drink much.

Should Be Fed Little

They will be pretty hungry and should be fed about as soon as they arrive. They may be given their first feed, and if they are received in the afternoon this one feed will be all they require until morning, so they should be placed in the brooder and kept warm. Feed little and often for the first three days, by which time they may be given chick feed in their ration. The greatest trouble with those receiving day-old chicks is that they feed them too much at first, which causes many to die.

Need Clean Grains

Feed your chicks on good, clean, freshly cracked grain chick food. Avoid chick feed that has been carried in stock a long time and is now stale, mouldy or musty. Don't use a chick feed that is dusty or contains weed seeds. Test your chick feed by placing it in trays and noticing what the chicks won't eat.

Scrap may be added to home-made chick feed that is to be used quickly, but not in a commercial chick food that has to be held for some time before using as cracked grains absorb fat from the fat and it soon becomes rancid.

After your chicks are from ten to twelve days old feed them once or twice a day all they will eat of thoroughly moistened stale bread and sour milk or buttermilk. Sour milk is not very expensive. Don't switch from sweet to sour milk or vice versa, for it will cause you a lot of trouble if you do. Sour milk is best and enough should be used so that the bread will be just crumbly.

LIEUT. DONNELLY THRILLS CITIZENS BY AERIAL FLIGHTS

WESTERN AVIATOR HAS MANY MANY FRIENDS IN PETERBORO.

(Calgary Herald.)

Thousands of Calgarians stood spellbound on Thursday afternoon while Leiut. Frank Donnelly, official pilot of the "Webber Aero Service," made two perfect loop-the-loops and a number of skew rolls and dives directly over the Hudson's Bay stores.

The roar of the powerful engine in the distance was the first intimation that the citizens received of the oncoming flying machine, and a few minutes later the plane took shape in the distafice, resembling greatly a huge silver bird as the misty sun shone upon the flying wires and stays of the machine and glanced off the big, powerful wings.

60 Miles an Hour.

At a speed of nearly 60 miles per hour the aviator flew high over the Hudson's Bay building, leaving in his wake a stream of posters, the first message the people of Calgary ever received from an airplane. After a ten-minute exhibition of straight flying, the aviator decided to give the people an insight of some of the stunts that a would-be aviator has to do before he is considered a qualified flyer; and as a start, he made a complete loop-the-loop, the first complete one ever seen in this city.

From an onlooker's point of view, the plane seemed to stop dead in mid-air and then turned a complete somersault. The audience held their breath as the dauntless aviator righted his machine, flipped the rudder twice, and then slowly rolled the machine over on to its side. The aviator repeated this performance twice to the great delight of the assembled people.

After flying for over an hour, Lieut. Donnelly headed for Bowness Park and home, and the plane disappeared in the distance, one spectator remarked that if any branch of the Army deserves medals the Royal Air Force did.

The majority of the business offices and stores in the city suspended operations for some minutes so that their employees could get a glance at the performance, and windows of the downtown business blocks were black with human beings, each one straining to get a glimpse of the daring airman.

All Craned Their Necks.

In addition to the crowds in the streets, hundreds of people journeyed up to the roof of the Hudson's Bay Company building, and nearby blocks, and from these points watched the show.

On a number of the streamers which were thrown out by the aviator, the initials of the advertising manager of the Hudson's Bay Company are penciled, and if sent to the office of the manager, they will be exchanged for $100.

Several of the war savings stamp stickers are also penciled, and if they are presented at the local headquarters of the National War Savings Stamps Committee, they will be exchanged for $4.00 worth of thrift stamps.

Lieut. Donnelly has many friends in Peterborough, who will read with interest the above exploit.

WILLIAMSON SAYS HE WAS SURPRISED

HAD ALMOST LOST HOPE, BUT TANLAC RELIEVES TROUBLES IN A SHORT TIME.

"I have never been so surprised over anything as I have over the results of Tanlac in my case," said Williamson, a well-known brick mason living at 1115 St. Clarens avenue, Toronto recently.

"My kidneys have been bothering me for four or five years," he continued, "but during the past year other ailments set in and kept me feeling miserable nearly all the time I had terrible pains across my back, especially when I stooped over and tried to lift anything, then rheumatism settled in my right leg and at times I simpy suffered torture from it. The pain was so sharp and cutting at times I would almost drop in my tracks. My appetite want square back on me and nothing I wuld eat tasted right. I was very nervous, could hardly sleep. I would just roll from one side of the bed to the other and many a night I have not closed my eyes for sleep at all. I just had that dejected worn-out feeling, had no energy and didn't care for anything and certainly felt awful.

"I had been reading about Tanlac but I had tried so many things that did me no good that I was skeptical and had no faith in anything. In fact, I was depressed and discouraged and felt that nothing could help me. But one day a friend of mine said, "Why don't you try Tanlac, I have taken it and it surely did do me good." "So with that I began taking Tanlac and improving every day. I have now taken four bottles, the rheumatism never troubles me at all and my kidneys are in fine shape. My appetite is fine and everything I eat tastes good and agrees with me. My nerves are strong and steady now, I sleep like a log and all my tired, depressed feelings are gone I now have my former strength and energy and feel like myself again. Tanlac hs certainly been a great thing for me and I can't praise it too highly."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowlers' Corners by W. A. Hunter in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

A Convention

The Sunday School Workers are hoping for a large attendance at both afternoon and evening sessions of the Convention to be held in Cottesloe on Friday afternoon, May 23rd. The Cottesloe ladies are providing a lunch for those who would like to remain between sessions. Miss M. Taggart, superintendent for Ontario, of the Teen Age Girls' Department, will give an address at each session. There will also be a question drawer and an open discussion on Sunday School work. This is considered advisable, rather than having addresses by local people.

Monday, or later, if they find it more convenient, the Institute has promised to help the School Fair and needs funds to do so, also for other work.

EXPERT SEES HIGH MEAT PRICES FOR MANY YEARS

PITTSBURG, PA. — Declaring that it would be many years before the prices of live stock would reach the low level of before the war, W. B. Tagg, of Omaha, Neb., president of the National Live Stock Exchange, told the delegates to the exchange's thirty-first annual convention, which opened here that government ownership of packing houses and stock yards, "would be a serious handicap to the business."

The country needs more business and less agitation, more study and less talk," Mr. Tagg declared speaking of industrial unrest.

CANADA'S RAILWAY GIANT

A handsome tribute to Lord Shaughnessy was paid by the C.P.R. shareholders at the annual meeting today. Mr. Huntly R. Drummond moved the following resolutions:

Resolved:—That there be inscribed in the record of this meeting an expression of the appreciation of the shareholders of the great service rendered to the Company and to the Dominion of Canada by the Rt. Hon. Lord Shaughnessy who has recently retired from the Presidency and assumed the Chairmanship of the Company.

The outstanding position held by the Canadian Pacific Railway not only in the markets of the world but also in the respect and affection of the Canadian people provides the greatest of all tributes to the genius with which Lord Shaughnessy has directed the affairs of the Company, but the shareholders cannot let this occasion pass without the further tribute of their thanks for the services he has rendered during the thirty-six years with which he has been associated with this enterprise.

Through Lord Shaughnessy's financial skill and executive ability, an immense transportation system has been built up and consolidated with such efficiency and economy that the Canadian people have enjoyed efficient service at moderate rates, have seen their resources developed beyond all expectation and have been encouraged during normal years by a steady flow of immigration, while the financial returns of the Company itself have amply justified the confidence placed by investors in Canadian industry and management.

It is particularly gratifying to the shareholders that under Lord Shaughnessy's Presidency the Canadian Pacific Railway Company should not only have rendered such signal services to the cause of the Allies during the recent Great War, but should also have maintained its efficiency and financial standing in the face of the difficult conditions created by that war. The shareholders consider it due largely to his far-sighted policy that under such circumstances the Canadian Pacific Railway Company should not only have required no assistance from the Canadian Government but should actually from its reserves have been able to provide substantial aid to that Government in maintaining the high standard of Canadian credit.

The shareholders deeply appreciate and honour the spirit of self-sacrifice with which Lord Shaughnessy maintained the arduous duties of the Presidency during the anxious years of the war in spite of physical disabilities. They rejoice that these disabilities have been ameliorated and that with renewed vision he can once more enjoy the beauties of that Canadian landscape which the Canadian Pacific Railway has made accessible to the world.

When the prospect of peace enabled him to hand over the more active duties of the Presidency with clear conscience to a younger man, it was with genuine pleasure that the shareholders heard of Lord Shaughnessy's decision to remain as Chairman of the Company, not only because they realized that the Company would thereby continue to have the benefit of his counsel and advice, but also because they are proud to retain as their titular head one who is held in such universal honour.

The shareholders trust that the indomitable spirit which has been so characteristic of Lord Shaughnessy's whole splendid career will be rewarded with many years yet to come of health, prosperity and happiness.

Moved by:
Huntly R. Drummond.
Seconded by:
Colin Campbell.

Lord Shaughnessy replied:

I appreciate most heartily and thank you, Mr. President and fellow shareholders, for the complimentary remarks referring to myself in the President's address and in the Resolution adopted by the meeting. I would be lacking in candour if I failed to admit great pride in the progress of the Company during my Presidency and in its present splendid position physically and financially, and equal pride in the faith and confidence of the shareholders who, with marvellous unanimity responded to calls for new capital by subscribing for additional issues of stock, even on occasions when in deference to popular clamour the issue price was less favourable to the subscribers than it might properly have been. My predecessors, Lord Mount Stephen and Sir William Van Horne, who carried the responsibilities of the Chief Executive through the periods of construction and the first few years of operation, had a most difficult task as is well-known to our senior colleagues on the Board of Directors, Mr. Angus, Sir Edmund Osler and Mr. Matthews, but it was my good fortune to become President just when the tide was turning and when Canada was coming into her own.

The expansion in the country's business and the consequent increase of traffic compelled capital expenditure on a large scale to furnish improved transportation facilities presently required and to anticipate the future, and the money for these purposes was provided year by year from 1906 to the outbreak of war.

The policy of your Directors was bold and forward.

There was never any hesitation, and looking back over that period they are justified in the conviction that few, if any mistakes were made, and that conviction is, I am sure, shared by the great body of the Canadian people and of the Company's shareholders.

It was fortunate indeed that when the time arrived to transfer the responsibilities of Chief Executive to younger and more vigorous shoulders your Directors had available for the post a man so capable, so energetic, so conscientious and so well versed in matters relating to the Company's policy as the new President, Mr. Beatty. I shall not hark back at him such compliments as he paid me in great profusion, but I may be permitted to say that he enjoys the complete confidence and respect of the Directors and of the Canadian people. The shareholders' interests could not be in safer hands.

After so many years of business and personal association it was somewhat of a wrench to my fellow-Directors as it was to me to alter our relations by permitting me to retire from the Presidency, but they felt as I did, and as I hope you feel, that it was best for the future of the Company.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

GERMANY'S COUNTER PROPOSAL WILL BE COMPLETED TO-NIGHT --A SHARP DIVISION.

THE LAST WORD

NEW YORK, May 27.—The Associated Press this morning issued the following:

Germany's counter proposal to the peace terms of the Allies will be completed by to-night and will be presented to the peace conference by Count Von Brockdorff Rantzau, chief of the German peace mission to-morrow, according to Paris advices. It is expected that the reply of enemy representatives will be very elaborate and voluminous. The fact that the peace conference has been informed by the German delegation that no further extension of time is to be asked would seem to indicate that the documents to be turned over to-morrow will be Germany's last word before taking definite attitude towards the terms of peace. Despatches seem to reflect a sharp division of sentiment among the Germans as to whether the treaty should be signed.

Safeguards Provided.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, May 27.— Safeguards against religious discriminations in the new States created as a result of the great war, have been decided upon by the Paris peace conference.

Condemned to Death.

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, May 27.—German Austria is condemned to death if she is not permitted to join Germany, Dr. Karl Seitz, President, declared in a statement to-day. The President said he was inclined to suppose that the Germans would not sign the peace treaty unless the Allies showed sympathetic understanding of their real conditions.

Hawker's Personal Narrative of His Transatlantic Flight

PASSED THROUGH NEWFOUNDLAND'S FOG BANKS, AND EVENTUALLY, WHILE FLYING WELL ABOVE THE CLOUDS AT A HEIGHT OF 15,000 FEET, FLEW INTO A HEAVY STORM WITH RAIN SQUALLS— WIFE NEVER LOST FAITH THAT HUSBAND WAS ALIVE.

LONDON, May 27.—The Daily Mail prints a despatch from Thurso, Scotland, giving the simple narrative of Harry G. Hawker, the British aviator, regarding the unsuccessful attempt to fly across the Atlantic made by himself and Lieut.-Commander McKenzie Grieve.

"We had very difficult ground to rise from on the other side," said Hawker. "To rise at all we had to run diagonally across the course.

"Once we got away, we climbed well, but about ten minutes up, we passed from firm, clear weather, into Newfoundland fog banks. We got well over these, however, and of course, at once lost sight of the sea.

"The sky was quite clear for the first four hours, when the visibility became very bad. Heavy cloud banks were encountered, and eventually we flew into a heavy storm with rain squalls.

"At this time we were flying well above the clouds at a height of about 15,000 feet."

"About five and one-half hours out owing to the choking of the filter, the temperature of the water cooling, our engines started to rise, but after coming down several thousand feet we overcame this difficulty. Everything went well for another few hours, when once again the circulation system became choked and the temperature of the water rose to the boiling point.

Reached Fateful Decision.

"We of course realized that until the pipe was cleared we could not rise much higher without using a lot of motor pwer. When we were about twelve and one-half hours in our way the circulation system was still giving us trouble, and we realized that we could not go on using up our motor power.

"Then it was that we reached the first fateful decision to play for safety. We changed our course and began flying diagonally across the main shipping route for about two and a half hours, when, to our great relief, we sighted a Danish steamer, which proved to be the tramp Mary.

"We sent up our very light distress signals. These were answered promptly, and then we flew about two miles and landed in the water ahead of the steamer."

"The sea was excceedingly rough, and despite the utmost efforts of the Danish crew it was ninety minutes befor they succeeded in taking us off. It was only at great risk to them selves, in fact, that they eventually succeeded in launching a small boat, owing to the heavy gale from the northeast which was raging.

"It was found impossible to salve the machine, which, however, most probably, is still afloat somewhere in mid-Atlantic.

"Altogether before being picked up we had been fourteen and a half hours out from Newfoundland, and we were picked up at 8:30 a.m. Green wich time.

His wife, Nursing Sister Bell, matron of the Queen's Military Hospital, Kingston, left to-day to meet him in Montreal.

Lt.-Col. Smith, a nephew of the Misses Denne, who also went over with the 4th Battalion, and was also decorated by the King, returned on the Cedric. Lt.-Col. Smith was attached to the Engineers.

THE INSTALLATION HAS COMMENCED

The Examiner has commenced the installation of its new press room equipment, which was the cause of the late delivery of the paper last evening. Since the paper was issued Friday it was necessary to move the press that is now printing the paper to make room for the new one, the erection of which will be commenced immediately.

We do not expect a great deal more difficulty until the new equipment is in shape to take care of all our press-room needs.

LABOURERS ARE PREPARING FOR A GENERAL STRIKE

It was reported to-day that all the labourers in Peterborough will join in a sympathetic strike this week in support of the city's employees who have been out for some weeks, unless the Council at a special meeting to-morrow night grants the strikers' demands. Last night the Labourers' Union packed the Labour Hall at a special meeting, at which it was stated the question of assisting the city labourers was thoroughly discussed. In the morning Ald. McIntyre and Ald. Morrison met the men, and last night Ald. Garside and Mr. Jos. Crowe were among the speakers, the former assuring the men of his co-operation in securing their demand when it is re-opened by the Council.

Plans are under way, it was learned, for a big labour demonstration at the City Hall to-morrow night. The men were informed that a special meeting would be called, and they intend to make full use of it in impressing upon the Council their support of the city's labourers.

It was further stated that the Council's response will largely determine the Union's decision regarding a sympathetic strike of all the labourers in the city.

MAY FESTIVAL OF SONG AND DANCE

The members of the Women Teachers' Guild are to be congratulated on inaugurating this season the May Festival of song and dance, which is to be given in the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall on Friday and Saturday evenings, May 30th and 31st. A festival of this nature is one of the annual events of many other leading cities, and it is the aim of the Guild to arrange an entertainment which will compare favourably with that of any other city.

The citizens should take advantage of this treat, not only on account of the enjoyment to be derived, but also because they will have an opportunity of seeing the results of the children's training in music. Few of us perhaps realize the excellent work in this line which is being carried on by our teachers in the Public schools under the able direction of Miss Rannie, the musical supervisor. Attractive drills and dances by the girls of the Collegiate Institute and the girls and boys of the Public schools will be a charming feature of the programme, and altogether a most delightful evening is promised.

WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE AND MRS. NELLIE McCLUNG.

The executive of the Women Voters' League wishes to call the attention of the members of the League to Mrs. McClung's lecture on Thursday evening, in St. Pauls' church.

Mrs. McClung gave this lecture on "Woman's Part in Reconstruction," under the auspices of the Ontario Woman Citizens' Association in Ottawa last week, and was enthusiastically received.

This lecturer is an authority on the matters that are of vital interest to the Women Voters' League of Peterboro, so the executive of this League has decided to postpone the meeting planned for Tuesday of this week and to request the members to attend this important lecture instead on Thursday evening, May 29th.

Government Employees to Be Permanently Discharged and Their Positions Filled

HARRY HAWKER GIVEN ROUSING RECEPTION ON HIS WAY TO LONDON

(Special to the Examiner.)

LONDON, May 27.—Harry Hawker and MacKenzie Grieve are progressing toward London to-day, cheered all along the route like conquering heroes. When their train pulled into Inverness, they were greeted by Provost Macdonald. "I'm glad you have lived to fly again," he said. "I hope that after a needed rest you'll win the prize."

"This welcome is most embarrassing," replied Hawker. "The risk was not so great as people thought. It was a perfectly straightforward attempt to fly over, not a do-or-die enterprise."

After having been entertained at dinner by the Provost, Hawker appeared on the balcony of the hotel and thanked the crowd, which blocked the street, calling for him.

The crowds at Edinburgh, where Hawker arrived this morning, were even more insistent. When Hawker left the train he was seized, elevated to the shoulders of a cluster of men, and borne in triumph through the streets to his hotel, while people struggled on all sides to shake his hand.

NAVAL SEAPLANE STARTED TO-DAY

DESTROYERS REPORT PERFECT WEATHER FOR LAST LAP OF JOURNEY.

(By W. R. Hargraves.)

PONTA DEL GADA, Azores, May 27.—The N.C. 4 took the air, bound for Lisbon, at 10.20 a.m. Greenwich time, to-day, Lieut. Commander Read and her original crew were in the great seaplane's cockpit when she began the final leg of her flight to the European mainland. A tremendous cheer went up from the crowds on the shore when the N.C. 4 taxied to the jumpoff and left the water. Guns boomed on shore and bells were rung in the little Portuguese town. Weather conditions were excellent. The sky was cloud-flecked and a favourable breeze prevailed. Reports from destroyers stationed between Ponta Del Gada and Lisbon indicated perfect weather conditions all along the route. The start was made after Read and his crew had carefully overhauled the engine for more than an hour.

Passed Fourth Station.

11 O'clock Despatch.

Commander Read passed the fourth station ship at 12.54 G.M.T. (8.45 a.m.) Washington time, according to later word to the Navy Department. Station ship No. 4 is over 200 miles out.

SITUATION UNSETTLED

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, May 27.—This afternoon the question of a general strike to-morrow in Toronto seems to hinge on the granting of a forty-four hour week to the striking workers. Employers have offered to grant a 46 hour week of metal trades. Mayor Church and Sir Wm. Hearst, Premier of Ontario, are making every effort to-day to bring about an agreement. Mayor Church has wired to Sir Robert Borden asking if the Ottawa government is considering legislaiton for the whole of Canada on this question of hour of labour as a national policy. The Mayor asks that prompt action be taken to relieve the crisis in Toronto.

JAMES DOIG DIED IN LINDSAY HOSPITAL

James Doig, formerly of Peterborough, died last night at the Ross Memoral Hospital, Lindsay. He had been living at Bobcaygeon for some time from which place he was removed to Lindsay for treatment. The cause of his death was not stated in the briet message received here this afternoon. Messers. Fred and Herb Doig of this city, are brothers. The deceased was about 50 years old.

EFFORT TO AVOID GENERAL STRIKE.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, May 27. — Efforts are being made to-day by all the authorities to avoid a general strike of 44 out of 71 labor unions who at midnight voted for a general strike on Wednesday morning in this city.

Many of the bigger unions have not expressed their opinion on the matter yet.

NEW STREET CARS ONE-MAN TYPE

MOTORMAN MAY ALSO ACT AS CONDUCTOR IF MANAGEMENT SO DECIDES.

Peterboro's two new street cars have arrived at the C.P.R. yards and were delivered to the local management to-day. They are of the one-man type by which each of them can be operated by the motorman who also performs the duties of conductor. This system may not be employed for there is also provision for the usual staff of two men. These cars are modernly equipped with air-brakes and the pay-as-you-enter equipment.

Some of the employees are skeptical of the practicability of the one-man arrangments on short runs and even suggest that the company are prohibited by law from adopting the one man system.

The new cars are commodious and attractive and will be a valuable acquisition to the Peterboro service. It is likely that as soon as they are put into service, the management will take advantage of the agreement with the City Council by which a slight increase in fares was provided for. The yellow tickets of six for twenty-five cents, it is understood, will be accepted only as working-men's tickets during the specified hours in the morning at noon and also at night, and the blue tickets now sold at twenty-five for one dollar will be increased in price to five cents straight.

The cars were both closely wrapped in canvas, but some of the men managed to satisfy their curiosity by squeezing through the folds and examining the interiors. With the exception of the one-man idea they were greatly impressed by these additions to the rolling stock which will soon require adequate accommodation at the King street barn.

PETROGRAD SOVIET IS OVERTHROWN

Chinese, Finns and Letts Hold City.

LONDON, May 27.—A News Agency despatch from Viberg, sent by way of Stockholm, reported to-day that Chinese, Letts and Finnish Reds held Petrograd and have overthrown the Soviet government. A heavy bombardment from the sea was reported, apparently directed at Petrograd and Kronstadt, 20 miles west of that city.

POSTAL WORKERS REMAIN OUT CONTRARY TO OATH OF OFFICE— EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO OPERATE STREET CARS IN WINNIPEG.

STRIKE SPREADS

Postmaster Edgar, of Peterborough, has received the following instructions from the Postal Department:

"Stop all mail for Calgary until further notice."

(Copyright, 1919, by J. J. Conklin.)

NOYES, Minn., May 27.—The lines tightened yesterday considerably in the general strike. Postmaster R. C. McIntyre stated last night he had a staff of 600 sorting letters in the post office, all there was room for. Telephone operators did not go back to work, ignoring the ultimatum of the government. Switch boards are fairly well manned in the central part of the city by workers procured by the Citizens' committee. Rumors were rife. The statement that the trainmen are going out never dies, but is repeated at every turn. Long distance service in Manitoba telephones is completely disorganized.. All operators in groups of two and three all over the province left their exchanges. No one has yet been secured to take their places and the farmers are very much incensed at the government for leaving them in this isolated way. Stores are not doing much business and counters in many of the largest storgs have a greatly depleted staff. Delivery rigs are also few in number and driven by boys. The entire city is completely at sea as to the situation.

Times Are Serious.

Confident predictions that the strike would die yesterday show the exact opposite. As one paper said today, "Times are troublous and every man's nerves are unstrung. The cost of living has made it difficult for all of us to live in any comfort. We are like a man suffering from persistent gnawing pain from which he can find no relief. The tried old family physician tells him quite frankly that "dope" will do him no good, that only time and patience can effect a cure, that he must grin and bear it and await a return to normal conditions."

"Higher wages have proven ineffective," Mayor Gray said. "I have said before and I now repeat that every business in the city should be opened up and carried on as usual. If carrying on of business should result in interference, proper protection is available and will be given. The police force is still on duty and while it is there it is absolutely to be presumed that the police are true to their oath and will preserve law and order. If they don't do so, well it is time to take proper steps when they don't."

At a mass meeting in Victoria park yesterday before an audience of 8,000 strikers, L. Pickup, postal workers' representative on the Central Strike committee, announced that striking Government employes are standing together and ignored the command to return to their duties. The announcement was greeted with a tremendous outburst of cheering that was heard for half a mile.

Will Dismiss Strikers.

Senator Robertson, Minister of Labour, stated yesterday afternoon that as the postal workers were out contrary to provisions of their oath, he

THE CANADIAN CLUB

There should be a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Canadian Club of Peterborough, which is announced for to-morrow (Wednesday) evening in the Public Library, when reports will be received and officers elected. The Canadian Club should have a most successful season next winter. During the war the activities of the organization were suspended, but at the beginning of last winter the club was reorganised, and several interesting meetings were held, featured by addresses from Hon. Dr. Cody, Ontario Minister of Education, and Senator Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labour. Plans for the year will be discussed, it is expected, at to-morrow night's meeting, and it is hoped to be able to arrange for a most entertaining series of addresses. The Canadian Club offers a unique opportunity of hearing well-known Canadians, it being possible to bring to Peterborough public speakers whom it would be difficult to secure under other circumstances, and if the Club is supported by the citizens generally as it deserves, there should be a splendid list of addresses available for next winter. A good attendance to-morrow night will be a sign that the work of the Canadian Club is appreciated.

SYMPATHETIC STRIKES.

If the Winnipeg strike has demonstrated anything, it has revealed the folly of permitting public utilities and municipal service employees to be organised in such a manner that they can strike in sympathy with other workers, and throw upon thousands of citizens who are not connected in any way with the matter under dispute, inconvenience and loss. Men who are engaged to protect the public, notably firemen and policemen, are justified in organising to further their own cause and to take advantage of the principle of collective bargaining, but when they place themselves in a position which leads them to desert their duties to support out of sympathy some movement in the starting of which they have nothing to do, it is high time that they should be made to understand that public sympathy is not behind such actions, and that the cause which they are trying to assist is being injured rather than helped by tactics such as these. The fact that Federal, Provincial and civic authorities in Winnipeg have joined forces to lay down an ultimatum to their employees to return to work or be permanently dismissed from their positions reflects the pressure of public opinion. The great mass of the people cannot see any justification for the tying up of public utilities because there is a quarrel between a small group of employers on the one hand and their employees on the other. They will heartily agree with the statement of Mayor Gray of Winnipeg that sympathetic strikes in the police and fire departments and all public services must be abandoned for all time.

THE CALGARY PLAN.

The secretary-treasurer of the Calgary branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, in sending a copy of "The Canadian Nation," explaining the war gratuity plan inaugurated by the Calgary G.W.V.A., asks The Examiner to publicly support the measure. The proposal calls for a gratuity of $2000 for every Canadian soldier who fought in France, $1500 for those who went overseas, and $1000 to each member of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who served in Canada. The Great War Veterans of Ontario in annual convention, pronounced against the Calgary proposal by a vote that was over three to one against the plan, and as far as The Examiner is concerned, the verdict of the Ontario branch is distinctly their own. Whatever may be thought of the proposal to pay a large cash bonus to the men who actually fought in France, there does not seem any justification for any such gratuity to the majority of the men who served in Canada. If the Calgary system were to be adopted, it would mean that a man who enlisted here, say, in the Army Service Corps, and was discharged after three or four weeks' service at Barriefield, or some other camp, would be entitled to $1000. That is only one ridiculous feature about the proposed bonus plan — others will readily suggest themselves to those who give the matter a moment's consideration. That, if possible something should be done for the veteran, to reimburse him for his underpaid services, is a principle that is endorsed by many people in Canada, but the Calgary scheme does not meet the situation.

MATRIMONY AND WAR-MAIDS.

Mrs. Pankhurst bewails the fact that because of war's casualties several million young women of the United Kingdom are doomed to spinsterhood. As her letter on the subject appears in a number of Canadian journals, we take it Mrs. Pankhurst is dropping a not too gentle hint to the youth of this land. However, Canadians are already doing a bit more than their "bit," as any troop train from the coast will show, and as a host of Canadian girls will heatedly assert, to remedy this lamentable situation by rescuing English, Scotch and Irish girls from a dolorous fate.

But why should Mrs. Pankhurst speak pityingly of these "unfortunates," using tones of commiseration? Why should it be assumed that these millions of young women have been made permanently unhappy by the prospect of being barred from matrimony? Perhaps we are taking too much for granted in this matter. The war has produced a man-type of spinster in England, self-reliant, resourceful young women, who, through the emergency of the hour have discovered they possess initiative and executive ability equal to that of their brothers. It has introduced them to the fascinating activities of commerce, industry and profession with returns that make them independent of male assistance. A ballot on the subject might show that a tremendous number of these women would not sacrifice their new freedom in order to marry unless they could have the man of their choice. For them, to wed a "meal ticket" is no longer a necessity; they carry a better one in their capacity to hold responsible jobs. And the daily occupation that is congenial and pays well makes an excellent palliative for heart ache should such find room to intrude.

Mrs. Pankhurst might discover by close investigation that these millions whose "dismal future" wrings her heart are facing their appalling destiny in an amazingly cheerful and businesslike manner. From the way the average young woman has faced the test of the war years, whether she has won for herself a position of independence or not, it is a safe prediction that she is not going to gloom her way into a decline or furnish material for the morgue, as masculine vanity might imagine, because her chances of mending some man's socks and tending his furnace have faded to the vanishing point.—London Advertiser.

would fulfill the terms of the ultimatum of last Friday. The men not at work now will be permanently discharged and their positions filled At the strikers' meetings the word passed around that arrangements had been made to pull out on strike the workers of many other Canadian cities in sympathy with Winnipeg and appeals were made to "stand pat." Telephone operators did not report for duty although a few are getting back to the switchboards. Evidence submitted to Attorney-General Johnson by Mayor Gray and City Solicitor Hunt, which placed the city on record as requiring prosecution of a number of well known strike leaders under federal law, has not yet been acted upon, but there are strong rumours of legal action coming from another source and that Rev. Wm. Ivens is contemplated as one of the objects of it. Rev. Walter M. Loucks, in his sermon at All Saints' church on Sunday made the statement that railway men would be out on strike if the general strike were not settled by midnight.

On Monday, the Winnipeg Telegram had the following editorial in its second issue since the strike:

The Editorial.

"Ultimatum handed out by the Federal Ministers to postal employees is the only course that could have been taken on behalf of the government of Canada by its responsible ministers. That ultimatum is also a week late, but is better late than never. Under no circumstances should transport and delivery of His Majesty's mails been allowed to be subject to interference for any longer than was necessary to find men to do the work and means of protection for them in the course of duty. That such interference should have been permitted to take place and that the post office department should have remained inactive for days has created an impression of incapacity which will be difficult to remove even by such decided action as the declaration of the ministers now in Winnipeg.

It is also stated that General Ketchen's plans are to surround the Labour temple, seize incriminating documents and arrest all who resist. This military move it figures out, will block the strike and clear up the situation. Telegraph operators requested by Senator Robertson to meet him, ignored the invitation. Legislation promised by Robertson will ensure collective bargaining all over Canada, the Citizens' committee reported. The City Council at noon yesterday instructed the City Health Officer to clear out the two weeks' accumulation of garbage from blocks, but not from houses. He was ordered to secure the necessary help.

Winnipeg may have a street car service in operation to-day, Mayor Gray announced. Efforts are being made to start the utility with cars manned by volunteers. If the service is resumed, declared the Mayor, "adequate protection will be furnished if such is necessary." The effort to re-establish street transportation is but one step in the direction of placing all city utilities on a normal operating basis. The City Council is considering the advisability of taking whatever action is required in order to achieve this end. At a meeting of the Telegraphers' Union, after considerable discussion it was decided that they do not return to work.

Strike Spreading.

(Canadian Press.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 27. — General strike, in progress more than a week in Winnipeg, is spreading during the last twenty-four hours to Calgary and Edmonton ,Alberta, Regina, Sask., and several small districts. it seemed today is about to sweep into British Columbia. Last night it was announced from Victoria that the Trades Council had decided to call for a strike vote in sympathy with Winnipeg strikers, the results to be in by Sunday night.

Situation in Calgary.

(Canadian Press.)

CALGARY, Alta., May 27.— Only fifteen hundred workers were said to have answered the general strike call here yesterday. They are men representing the postal workers, Dominion Express employees, flour and cereal employees, and the Canadian Pacific Railway men at Ogden shops and roundhouse. By a vote of 119 to 88 the street railway men refused to quit work. Other unions which have signified their intention of remaining at work are railway clerks, bakers, city hall employees, teamsters, outside civic employes and barbers. As Calgary is the distributing centre for the whole of the province in the matter of remittances for relatives of soldiers, is said that thousands of checks will be held up by the strike of the postal employes.

Eyesight and Foresight

Big corporations, foresighted managers, all concern themselves with the condition of eyesight of those they employ.

Experience has taught them that efficiency in work can only be expected from those whose sight is normal.

ARE YOU GETTING AHEAD?

The young men or the young women who are trying to get ahead and win a position of trust and responsibility, should not allow themselves to be handicapped by deficient eyesight or eyes that won't stand the strain of hard work.

Even persons of mature years should be careful that their eyes do not cost them their positions.

"If you are foresighted, you will allow us to look after your eyesight. We know how."

ETHEL BARRYMORE,
In R. C. Carton's Brilliant Comedy, "The Off Chance," Grand One Night Only, Thursday, June 5th.

COMING ATTRACTIONS AT THE GRAND

Margaret Anglin, in a merry English love-comedy, entitled "Billeted," will be the attraction at the Grand to-night. In this delightful comedy of manners, Miss Anglin displays a very different phase of her genius from that brought forward in her portrayals of the heroines of Shakespeare's comedies and the tragedies of the Greek masters. Her role in "Billeted" reveals her as a comedienne of rare accomplishments. The one word for the comedy is "smart." It is in three acts, and the dialogue is a rapid-fire of epigrams, the delivery of which Miss Anglin has long proved herself an incomparable mistress, as shown in her memorable performance of "Lady Windermere's Fan," "A Woman of No Importance," and "Green Stockings." The comedy is artistically staged and Miss Anglin is supported by her original New York Company, which also appeared with her during her recent long engagements in Chicago and Boston.

Margaret Anglin, who ranks among the foremost stars on the American stage, will come to the Grand to-night in her greatest comedy success, "Billeted," which is described as a merry military love-comedy, with the record of a year's run in the Royalty Theatre, London; and in which Miss Anglin played a three months' season in New York, and a long engagement in Chicago and Boston.

ERNIE MARKS STOCK CO.

In pursuance of his established policy to give playgoers of this city the very best of the latest releases for stock of many of past season's biggest New York hits, the Ernie Marks Stock Company will present for positively the first time at the Grand, on Wednesday, matinee and evening, a comedy of refreshing originality and charm, abounding in rich humour and strong characterisation. There is good sense in it, and it will be so presented as to be one of the most enjoyable treats this very popular company have to offer. It has scored one of the biggest laughing hits of any play produced on the American stage this season. With Mr. Ernie Marks, an irresistible comedian, genuinely bright and amusing, and a splendid stock cast in support, there will be plenty of action and many laughs.

The same success that has greeted the efforts of Miss Kittie Marks everywhere, marks her appearance in this, and she plays a role well suited this brilliant little star, scoring a great personal success.

The Ernie Marks Stock Co. is well and favourably known, and always play to a large and appreciative audience. All the latest popular music, clever vaudeville and pretty costumes, catchy songs, and lively dancing, no waits between acts.

KEITH VAUDEVILLE AND FIRST RUN PICTURE STARS AT THE GRAND.

Clara Kimball Young adds another to her long list of noteworthy artistic characterisations by her portrayal of Yvonne Marinoff, the heroine of "The Reason Why," Elinor Glyn's famous work, in which this successful star will appear at the Grand Theatre on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. This is her latest Select Picture, adapted by Mary Murillo and directed by Robert G. Vignola.

"The Reason Why" is the story of a Russian refugee who masquerades as Zara, niece of Francis Markrute, comes to his home and marries Lord Tancred, a scion of the English nobility with all its highest ideals. After a long series of misadventures, she finally makes full confession to her supposed uncle and to her husband regarding her origin and her young son by her former marriage to a Russian prefect of police, whom an infuriated mob had murdered for his cruelty. Tancred is stunned, but only for a moment; overwhelmed with forgiveness, he avows his undying love.

ETHEL BARRYMORE IN "THE OFF CHANCE."

Making her first appearance in this city, Ethel Barrymore is to be seen at the Grand Opera House for one performance only, Thursday evening, June 5th, in R. C. Carton's delightful comedy "The Off Chance." The announcement is a most welcome one for this most beloved of American actresses has a devoted following here. She comes under the most auspicious circumstances, since this is the first tour of the American cities in two years, and since her vehicle is the comedy in which she appeared before enormous audiences for many months last season at the Empire Theatre, in New York. When the Charles Frohman Company arranged Miss Barrymore's present tour, which promises to be little less than a series of triumphal ovations in each city, it was quickly agreed that of the entire repertoire in which she was seen during her whole season engagement in New York last year, "The Off Chance" was the vehicle in which her admirers would like best to see her. R. C. Carton will be happily recalled as the author of "Lord and Lady Algy," "Wheels within Wheels," "Liberty Hall," and numerous other comedies with which his fame has been identified in England and America alike.

The company surrounding Miss Barrymore is one containing many distinguished and popular players. Important roles are interpreted by Eva Le Gallienne, Edward Emery, Marcelle Roussillon, William Boyd, Anita Rothe, Joseph Brennan, Cecilia Radcliffe, Harry Plimmer, Mary Balfour, Harry Ashford, T. Wigney Percyval, C. MacLean Savage, John M. Troughton, and F. C. Butler. The Charles Frohman Company, needless to say, has produced Mr. Carton's comedy with all the splendid care and exquisite good taste characteristic of Charles Frohman's presentations.

Specks Floating Before His Eyes

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything turns black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you may rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of a medicine that will clear away all the waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent as well as cure all the troubles arising from this accumulated mass which has collected in the system.

Keep the bowels open by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no liver trouble of any kind. They will clear away all the waste and effete matter which has collected and make the liver active and working properly.

Mr. John R. Morrison, Grand River Falls, N.S., writes: "Several months ago I was troubled with a sour stomach, and had specks floating before my eyes. I took five vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which cured and cleaned my blood before any length of time. I told my friends about it and they got some, and they, too, find themselves different since they took them. I recommend your pills very highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BOARD OF TRADE ACTIVITIES

(CONTRIBUTED)

Mr P. P. Westbye, mechanical engineer and managing director of the Wm. Hamilton Company, recently invented a remarkable machine for taking the bark off pulpwood logs, which attracted unusual notice among the pulp and paper makers of the United States, and an order for two "barkers" was placed with Mr. Westbye's company, as the company is in possession of the patents conceded to be the most up-to-date on the market to-day. This machine is rapidly replacing the older systems whereby the bark was pealed from the logs by means of knives.

Just when the order was to be filled a local strike occurred, and the company was forced to get the work done in the United States.

Peterborough is proud of Mr. Westbye as one of its citizens, and it is regrettable that the work had to go out of the city. It means a great loss to Peterborough, workmen and citizens generally — about fourteen thousand dollars' loss in labour alone.

Another instance occurred within this present week. A Canadian company let a contract for certain machines, and the Wm. Hamilton Company secured the work. Certain parts are new work in Canada. The company figures that to have the work done in the United States, where the chain and castings have formerly been made, and to have it laid down, duty paid, in Peterborough, can be done at a smaller cost than to have the chain and castings made in Peterborough, without the added cost of a new machine.

Surely a better understanding of fundamental things would be more advantageous to Peterborough and its workers.

The Board of Trade has been asked through the local press to announce that at the British Industries Fair, 1920, manufacturing firms whose principal works and head offices are in Canada and who are not controlled by foreign interests, will be eligible as exhibitors.

The Board is in receipt of memoranda concerning this fair, which may be seen on application at the Board of Trade Rooms.

COMPETITION FOR A WAR PICTURE

Contest is being Handled by the Woolworth Company.

Enthusiastic interest is being displayed by the school children of the city in the competiiton through Thrift Stamps for the splendid picture of the Review of the British Fleet in Quebec in 1918, and with their customary patriotism the Woolworth management is handling the entire competition, having built a special booth and engaged a special clerk to explain the contest and handle the votes. In the contest the holder of every Thrift Stamp is entitled to one vote for every stamp. Each vote is registered opposite the school to which the voter desires the picture to go and at the close of the competition the results will be reckoned up and the splendid picture, three by seven feet in size, be formally presented.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

WANTS CITY TO ASSUME WAGE EXTRAS IN BRIDGE CONTRACT

ENGINEERING AND CONTRACTING COMPANY INTIMATE THAT LABOURERS AND CARPENTERS MAY DEMAND MORE THAN THE 40c AND 60c THE CONTRACTOR HAD EXPECTED.

The Canadian Engineering and Contracting Company, whose tender for the construction of the Hunter street bridge has been recommended to the Council by the Board of Works, intimated to the Special Bridge committee this morning in a conference, at which the agreement was reviewed, that they would expect the city to pay any wage surplus that might accumulate in the event of the labourers and carpenters demanding more than 40c. and 60c. rates. The contracting company, Mr. Paulen said, had contemplated in their estimates wages of 40c. an hour to labourers and 60c. for carpenters, but it was admitted this morning that when the work was commenced labour might not be procurable at these figures.

The company desires that any such excess of their figures for wages should not be assessed to their profits charge of $28,000, but should be paid by the city. This question was referred to City Solicitor Widdifield and Mr. Frank Barber.

Another point discussed was the provision of heavy equipment such as pile-drivers, etc. The company contended that this should be furnished by the city, but members of the committee assert that they had always understood that the heavy apparatus was to be provided by the contractor.

The City Engineer will report back on these questions.

Met Quaker Oats Officials.

The committee also visited the Quaker Oats plant, where they were met by Mr. Robert Stuart, of Chicago, Mr. Cormack, the local superintendent, and Mr. George Macdonald. The question under discussion was the platform which has been proposed for erection from the bridge level, affording entry into the factory instead of the ramp on Hunter street descending to the yards. The company recently requested the Council to permit them to present their request in this matter, favouring the platform instead of the ramp. Some members of the Council have opposed this substitution, and others are advocating it. A decision is expected to be arrived at to-night.

APPEARED BEFORE THE COMMISSION

TORONTO, May 27.—That there is a higher standard of intelligence among workers in Canada than ever before, and that while they are studying economics and other great problems of the day, employers remain in ignorance of big world movements. This was the statement made by Reverend Thomas, Field Secretary of the Army and Navy Board of the Methodist Church before the Industrial Commission this morning. Thomas wanted provision for interchange of thought and believed the tension would be greatly relieved by a conference between employers and workmen. Profits should not be driving power, he said. Regarding prohibition Thomas said it had not been so successful in altering social life of the wealthy people as it had that of the workers. James Simpson, the well known labour man, advocated the adoption of a by-law for a forty-four hour week.

FIRE IN BASEMENT OF GEORGE STREET STORE.

A small fire was caused at the dry goods store of Mr. Ben. Chesler, George Street, to-day at 12.12, when a cigarette or cigar was dropped through a hole made in the floor for a stove pipe. A large amount of rubbish in the basement caught fire, but the speedy work of the firemen prevented the flames from spreading to the building.

"JACK" HERON GETS A GOOD SEND-OFF

This afternoon "Jack" Heron left on the C. P. R. for his mission field in the West, with the hearthy good wishes of relatives and friends. He will stop off at Winnipeg for a short visit with the Rev. Mr. Keith, his former pastor, before the war.

"Jack" was the recipient of some tokens of esteem last night, when the young men of Knox Church A. S. K., Bible Class, presented him with a splendid club bag and a brush set. The presentation was preceded by a farewell address couched in appropriate words of parting, and signed on behalf of the class by Mr. A. McKenzie, teacher, and S. B. Cunningham, President. "Jack" was so much taken by the kindly remembrances of his friends that he was unable to give expressios to his feelings for a time.
